Don't make the mistake of judging the tea taste of your customers by the colored and sweeping claims of imitators of

JAPAN TEAS

Don't assume that because certain teas look like Japan Teas that they have their wonderful natural flavor, aroma, richness, healthful and invigorating properties. You may paint the rose, but it is after all only a dead thing.

Buy and insist upon getting

JAPAN TEAS

1906 PACK

Our 1906 pack Fruits, Vegetables and Meats will be, as usual, of the very best quality.

Our factories are now being overhauled, and the newest machinery is being installed where necessary.

We have now over thirty of the most modern-equipped factories in the world.

Our factories being situated in the midst of the Fruit and Vegetable Farms of Canada, ensures goods being packed when at their best.

Our processors have had over a quarter of a century's experience in canning and preserving.

Quality and Cleanliness is the policy rigidly enforced at each of our thirty factories.

Our 1906 pack will be the best ever packed anywhere. We guarantee the quality of all our goods.

Remember the brands, viz.: "Canada First," "Auto," "Little Chief," "Log Cabin," "Horseshoe," "Lynnvalley," "Maple Leaf," "Kent," "Lion," "Thistle," "Grand River" "Jubilee," "White Rose," "Deer," "Globe," etc.

If you want pleased customers stick to our brands exclusively.

CANADIAN CANNERS, Limited

CEYLON GREENS

The past ten years has been the decade of Ceylon Blacks. In that time the Black Teas of Ceylon have swept all competitors from off the Canadian market. There is no competitor within hailing distance.

The next decade belongs to the Ceylon Green Teas. There is no doubt about it. Merit will tell, and merit and up-to-date methods rest with the Ceylon Tea Growers.

As the Canadian Black Tea drinkers received with enthusiasm the delicious black teas of Ceylon so the Canadians who prefer the green flavor are showing every evidence of receiving the Ceylon Greens.

The grocer who is looking to the future will make Ceylon Greens the leaders in his Green Tea stocks. It will pay now. It will pay even more abundantly in the future.

CEYLON GREENS CEYLON BLACKS

Are the Teas of the present and of the future

THE OLD HOMESTEAD FLAVOR

You know how delicious were the fruits and vegetables you used to get on the old homestead. They were delicious, because they were fresh from the garden and still retained all their natural deliciousness.

You have wished many a time that you could taste their like again. Well, you can. You will find that Old Homestead Brand canned goods retain the fresh flavor in a remarkable manner.

Try Them for Yourself and you will be convinced of the soundness of our claims. We can make these assertions because we have the goods to back up our statements.

There is no shadow of doubt about it, Old Homestead canned fruits and vegetables are the best line of canned goods that can be bought anywhere.

If you supply your customers with the Old Homestead Brand, you will delight them. They will want nothing else. They will want only one thing, and that is more.

Send in for a trial order and you will wear the smile that goes with a fat bank book.

"BE ABREAST OF THE AGE"

"Don't be a Fossil." It doesn't pay. The world is moving pretty fast now-a-days; modern ideas in trade and commerce must prevail. Never mind the past—It's gone. Tallow candles used to be "the light of other days," but who would tolerate them now?

The same with Japan Teas. So long as they stood alone, the people had no choice in the matter, but their relentless rival, "Salada" Natural Green Tea, has taught the trade and the public a lesson in "Tea Quality" and now Japans are on the down grade, to stay down; and this is their just deserts.

Salada Green Teas are sold in sealed packets only, same form, style and prices as the famous Black Teas of "Salada" brand.

Wholesale terms and samples from "Salada" Toronto or Montreal.

"THE FAIRBANK PLAN"

LOOK INTO IT

and see just what "The Fairbank Plan" is. While we spend hundreds of thousands of dollars every year advertising the six great Fairbank specialties:

Gold Dust Washing Powder
Fairy Soap, Copco Soap
Fairbank's Glycerine-Tar Soap
Fairbank's Scouring Soap
Fairbank's Sanitary Soap

and educating the public regarding them; and while we intend to continue doing this, we realize fully that advertising alone has not accomplished the splendid results we have enjoyed in the sale of these goods, but that "the man behind the counter" has been an important factor in extending and increasing our trade. It was the realization of this fact that gave birth to "The Fairbank Plan," as a method of rewarding the retail clerks for their earnest co-operation in selling these goods and, consequently, a portion of our immense advertising appropriation is now set aside for the recognition of the dealer and his clerks.

"The Fairbank Plan" is an absolutely fair method of rewarding the clerk in direct proportion to the interest displayed in pushing the six specialties, as each package of these goods is couponed in such a manner that the coupon can be easily removed before the goods pass into the hands of the consumer. For these coupons we offer many valuable articles.

If you will send for an illustrated premium list of "The Fairbank Plan" it will convince you that this is no cheap trading-stamp scheme.

A Two Cent Mistake

Don't amount to much in any business, but the striking point is that a clerk is just as liable to make a mistake of $2.00 as he is of two cents, and a few mistakes like this would pay for enough of Allison's Coupon Books to last a year or more. With these books mistakes are impossible.

IF A MAN WANTS CREDIT

for $10, give him a $10 Allison Coupon Book, charge him with $10, and there you are. No trouble at all. If he buys a plug of tobacco for ten cents, just tear off a ten-cent coupon—that's all. And so on for all his purchases up to limit of the book. NO PASS BOOK. NO WRITING. NO TIME LOST. NO KICKING There are other Coupon Books, of course, but why not have the best? TRADE AND ITS ORGANIZATIONS

Credit Men's Convention at Baltimore—$1,000,000,000 of capital—An Influential Gathering—Interesting Address on Merchants' Associations, Their Use and Benefits.

Five hundred members of the National Association of Credit Men out of a total of 7,590, gathered in Baltimore, June 13, 14 and 15, at their 11th annual convention. They represented capital investment of $1,000,000,000. They are the men who decide for their firms the extent of, if any, credit a customer is to have. The membership increased 1,511 during the year. The subjects they discussed related principally to legislation looking to the prevention of fraud, organization and co-operative methods of furnishing information.

What They Have Done.

President O. G. Fessenden, New York, in his annual address, said :

"Since the associations of credit men have come into existence results have been accomplished in many directions. Closer relations have been effected between the wholesaler and his customers, and a mutual confidence, a most valuable asset, has been established. You and I know the conditions which existed prior to the formation of our organization. Many of the business houses had no real system of credits. Information when most needed by a credit man from his fellow credit man was slow in coming, and when received was often useless.

"A distrust, based on lack of acquaintance, or a fear of each other, existed in the minds of many of the credit men of the country. How great the difficulty of getting creditors to act in concert in a case of fraudulent failure those of us who unfortunately were interested know full well. The cases of creditors combining to help an honest but unfortunate debtor to get upon his feet were few and far between. The great merit of adjustment bureaus was not generally recognized. The laws of many of the states in matters pertaining to creditor and debtor were unjust to both and a constant source of delay and loss. The conditions mentioned are but a few of those which confronted the credit man in 1896. Our work is by no means finished."

Mercantile Organization.

Most interesting, however, to readers of The Canadian Grocer, were some sections of an address by C. F. Shoemaker, Philadelphia, on mercantile organization. He said in part :

"Your associates may compare samples of fabrics and finished goods, of crude articles and refined products, but you men are judges of brains. When an applicant for credit presents himself, you not only inquire as to his financial position and his habits, but you likewise take thorough judgment as to his mental ability, and it is this feature, quite as much as the others, that I have mentioned, which helps to produce your final judgment as to his worth.

"Mercantile associations may be broadly divided into three different classes :

"The first class comprises organizations which are distinctly local and the scope of whose work is limited almost entirely to the immediate field of their operations. Some of these, like the boards of trade in some of the larger cities, have been in existence for nearly 100 years, and derive their claim for existence chiefly upon their extreme respectability and the memories of their achievements in the past. Others, composed of bright, progressive, up-to-date business men, are to-day actively engaged in thoroughly sifting every question which arises as to the welfare of their respective communities and stand as factors which must be counted within the promotion of honest and judicious government and in keeping their respective cities in the front rank.

"The second class consists of associations which comprise, we will say, a large part, generally more than the majority, of the houses representing some special line of business, either wholesale or retail, and generally covering the entire country in their scope.

"The third class, to which our association belongs, comprises those which are formed from many localities and from different lines of business, for some specific purpose, to combat some particular grievance, or to reform some particular line of abuses.

A Surprising Number.

"It will, no doubt, be surprising to some of you to know the extent to which this tendency to organize has grown. From the best authorities at my command I am informed that there are now between 2,000 and 2,500 mercantile associations existent in this country, and one of the most recent movements in this direction has been the formation of a national association of presidents and secretaries of national associations, this being intended to act as a sort of clearing house for their entire constituencies.

In the Olden Days.

"It is difficult for one in these days to conceive the atmosphere of isolation in which the merchant of former days existed. My own early business education was received in a large house, the head of which was a man of great ability, keen, far-sighted, decisive, and prompt in action. He was in every respect a typical merchant, and I have never seen his equal, and yet, in the entire 20 years during which my engagement with this house continued, I never knew him to enter the place of business of a fellow merchant in his line, and in turn his competitors held themselves as far aloof from him as he did from them. This utter change in mercantile spirit constitutes one of the remarkable features of the present age. The merchants and manufacturers of to-day cheerfully give to their associations and competitors a volume of information which all the detective force in the United States multiplied 10 times over, and with all the money which it could spend, could not secure, if it were not voluntarily given.

Source of Profits.

"Another result of the work of mercantile organizations is the charge that is sometimes made that this spirit of co-operation leads to increased profits, and excessive prices to the ultimate buyer. This I deny. Competition to-day is more active, keen-eyed and alert than ever before, but it finds its best returns in improved service and ingenuity of methods. Whatever increase of profit may be reached is the result of more skillful handling, and the abolishing of unnecessary trade machinery. In my opinion, there never was a time when merchandizing, and, in fact, all kinds of business, was handled as expeditiously and as cheaply as it is to-day.

"Another thing which mercantile organizations may possibly bring in their train is—collision with the law. The central thought which should constantly animate all those connected with them is, that in a legal sense, mercantile bodies of this kind are not units of themselves, but only aggregations of individuals. Members of mercantile associations must not, and should not, enter into binding agreements to do certain things. The province of the association is, by careful investigation, to ascertain what lines of action are likely to be most beneficial, and to recommend its members to pursue such a course.

"Each member must retain his individuality, and if he considers it his best business policy to pursue a certain business course, he should do so because he, himself, considers that it will advance his individual interest, and not from any sense of coercion. The American public of to-day is exceedingly distrustful of combinations, trusts, and all sorts of alliances. This feeling some years ago found vent in the passage of what is popularly known as the 'Sherman Anti-Trust Bill.' "

HALF HOLIDAY IN CALGARY.

During July and August all the retail stores in Calgary will be closed on Wednesday afternoons. An energetic committee has been hard at work for the last three or four weeks securing the signatures of Calgary merchants to a petition for a Wednesday half holiday. The necessary percentage has been secured and a by-law goes into effect during July and August, closing every retail store on Wednesday afternoons. Calgary clerks have worked hard for this and they were given very effective support by the Calgary papers.

THE HALIFAX MODEL

How Business and Civics Co-operate in the Nova Scotia Capital—Some Good Work Done by the Joint Committee.

(Special Correspondence of Canadian Grocer.)

The Joint Commercial Committee of the City of Halifax was inaugurated in 1888, and the success that has attended its efforts has been most gratifying. This committee is composed of representatives of the Halifax City Council and the Board of Trade, the appointments from each body being made annually. The present committee is composed of Mayor Robert T. MacIlreith and Aldermen I. B. Shaffner, J. A. Johnson, J. B. Douglas, and A. A. Hayward. The board of trade members are the president, A. M. Bell, J. E. DeWolf, Geo. S. Campbell, George E. Faulkner, W. J. Clayton, and J. P. Cox. All of the above with the exception of the mayor and Alderman Johnson are prominent business men, and have large interests at stake in the city. Mayor MacIlreith is a lawyer and Alderman Johnson is the resident manager of the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York.

The committee was formed with the object of furthering the interests of the city and the port generally. The meetings are held at the call of the chairman whenever matters of importance are to be considered. In the majority of cases the meetings are private, the joint committee considering matters much on the same lines as a board of bank directors. No publicity whatever is given to the matters deliberated upon, until such time as they are in proper shape.

As an instance of how the committee works I may state that some time ago the merchants of this city wanted a flour shed on the waterfront for the storage of flour on its arrival at the terminal by train, no suitable building being available for the purpose. The matter was placed before the committee, the latter viewed the proposition favorably, and representations were made to the Department of Railways, with the result that a site is now about being selected for the building, and its erection in all probability will be commenced in the immediate future.

The terminal facilities of the port generally have been improved as the result of the work of this committee, and the freight rates granted to Halifax compare favorably with other ports, the committee keeping a close tab on the changes. The committee has been agitating for years the establishment of a fast Atlantic steamship service from Britain to Canada, a service equal to the best to American ports.

Much of the success of the work of the committee depends on the mayor, who is the chairman and in most cases the matters that are considered in committee are left in his hands to have them brought before the proper authorities.

Mayor MacIlreith, though quite a young man, is most active, and he is deeply interested in all civic affairs, of which he has a thorough grasp, being a member of the city council for three years before being appointed chief magistrate.

Through his activity the police force of the city has practically been remodelled, all the elderly men superannuated and the force brought up to a high standard. Mounted officers now patrol the outskirts of the city, and the men of the force have been fitted out with the latest uniforms, and they all wear gloves now. Many at the outset thought this modernizing of the force was too far advanced for a city the size of Halifax, but they have since fallen in with the idea, as the change is altogether for the better. The force has been fashioned as nearly as possible after the "Broadway Squad" in New York. Civic improvement is on the tapis everywhere in Halifax just now. Paint is being applied freely on scores of buildings, old fences in the residential districts are giving way to pretty lawns, and the principal business streets are being paved at a cost of $200,000.

NEW WINNIPEG WAREHOUSE.

A new six storey warehouse is rapidly being completed for Herbert Radford in the heart of the Winnipeg wholesale district. Warehouse accommodation in a central location in Winnipeg is very hard to get and Mr. Radford is building for investment purposes, intending to sell or rent when the structure is completed.

The new warehouse is within a block of the city hall and in the centre of the wholesale grocery and hardware district. In the immediate vicinity are the warehouses of Foley, Lock & Larson, Marshall Wells Co., Merrick, Anderson Co., G. F. Stephen & Co., Codville-Georgeson Co., Pilkington Bros., J. H. Ashdown Hardware Co., Alex. Macdonald Co., McClary Mfg. Co., and many other leading wholesale firms that might be mentioned.

The warehouse is to be completed by August 1 and as it is on a corner with light on three sides and a spur track, there is little doubt that it will soon be the home of one or two good wholesale firms. Like most Winnipeg warehouses, it is solid mill construction, built to last for a century.

EFFECTIVE ADVERTISING

The lifeless grocery ad is too often seen in Canadian newspapers. By lifeless is meant that class of retail advertising which will (apart from name and address) answer for any grocery store.

Some retailers assume that because they are selling certain branded goods, nothing more is needed than the mere mention of names and prices.

While this may justly be assumed in particular instances, in other instances such an assumption is erroneous because the goods not being advertised are sold to the dealer largely on past reputation.

When the advertising on certain articles is "cut down," obviously the grocer must begin little talks of his own to keep alive the enthusiasm, or put his attention on some other line.

The grocer must do this for the reason that manufacturers are now placing competitive lines on the market and advertising them solely to get to-day's business. Such manufacturers are not bothering about the goods selling three years hence. They intend to have new lines by that time.

So a grocer's ads should, as far as possible, tend to bring the grocer himself prominently before the people, that his description of goods will carry more weight.

In retail advertising the people generally heed or disregard what is said in proportion as they know the grocer, not the goods.

Are you trying to run against the popular tide of advertising? Are you treating lightly the arguments of the town newspaperman? Have you sized up the situation and made your decision final?

GOLDMONTE'S GOLDEN RULE GROCERY,
Snelgrove St.

HIGGINS & STAFFORD, Proprietors

An Ad. Design for Transient Trade.

Where a grocer depends on transient trade, advertising is as necessary as quick service. Where a grocer has a "round," advertising is not as necessary as in the first instance, still even in such cases it has its mission.

The transient trade man must always be in the limelight, as it were. There must always be something attractive about his store.

While the grocer with a round looks to have a steadfast trade he must constantly be making additions to offset losses due to customers moving away, or changing allegiance because "some friend has opened a store," etc.

Two totally different styles of advertising are required for the two different styles of doing business. The transient customer will be caught on what is advertised for the time being, the regular customer will be led to buy on the presentation of the case in general and then continue to patronize on good evidence that the presentation was not ephemeral.

There are a number of guaranteed articles on the market that have no particular sale in this country simply because the grocer believes he could not sell them and so will not stock up.

A manufacturers' agent, speaking to the writer the other day, said he had just come from a big grocery store and had failed to persuade the manager to take up this proposition:

He would ship ten cases of an A1 line of English goods at a special price and on the understanding that the lot could be shipped back at invoice price if they didn't sell.

The manager said he wouldn't take the goods as a gift because he couldn't give them away and therefore they would only be using up store space.

The big store, like countless stores throughout the country, had voluntarily tied itself up to another article that had been boomed for three or four decades.

The agent says the grocers claim the people will not take any other line but the one they sell. Only a small number, however, have made or are willing to make a test.

Are you running your store on a prejudice of this kind? Are you refusing to stock up guaranteed articles simply because other lines had the market first and seem to enjoy a preponderance of popularity?

A grocer cannot risk much on an order wherein the seller ships at his own expense and will re-ship at his own expense and refund the purchase money if the goods do not sell.

Tell salesmen of new but reliable goods to advertise and sample liberally and then you will give them a trial.

A. A. B.

HINTS.

Watch the wholesalers' and manufacturers' ads. week in and week out. They give you many timely points for your own ads.

Never mind competitor's successes—i.e., don't let him think you mind them. Keep your eye on his ways and tell your clerks to do the same.

When you have billheads, envelopes, etc., have them printed in a manner becoming your store. Good stationery is a good advertisement.

Once and awhile take a peek at the advertising you did six months previously. Sometimes past work suggests new ideas.

Keep in close touch with some of the big city papers and see what new goods are being advertised.

Have enough system to be able to say your place is run methodically.

THE TRAVELER'S LETTER.

The hotel 'bus from the midnight train
Brought only one passenger through the rain;
A commercial tourist weary and sad,
For trade had been dull and collections bad.

Not a single order was on his book;
The disgust he felt was shown in his look.
With a careless hand he wrote his name
On the page of a book unknown to fame.

The drowsy night clerk all signatures scanned,
Then a letter placed in the drummer's hand;
See how he starts, what a smile of delight
Comes over his face at the welcome sight.

Open the envelope is quickly torn,
And over his face so weary and worn
Now flits like sunbeams after a storm
Smiles of joy as the message takes form.

Thus clouds of despair that will often appear
To the traveling man sometimes in the year,
Are quickly dispelled by such simple means
As one friendly letter—how queer it seems.

So wives, sweethearts, brothers and chums,
If you know where we'll be when Sunday comes.
Write us if your time will permit,
Draw on us at sight and our thanks we'll remit.

IDEAS FOR THE INDUSTRIOUS

THE WAY TO BUY FREEDOM.

By Arthur Brisbane.

In the days of slavery an unusually intelligent negro would be permitted to buy his freedom. The master realized that the slave, working free, with some incentive, would produce much more than under compulsion, and he would arrange to sell the slave his own time for so much per day, or sell him the right to buy his freedom absolutely.

What would you think of a negro who in those days would have refused the chance of freedom?

You would say that the man was made to be a slave, and he ought to be a slave.

But do you realize that when you fail to save money you are refusing a chance to buy your freedom?

Are you a free man when you don't know where the money will come from to take care of your family or yourself the week after next?

Are you a free man when you don't own a foot of the surface of this earth, which men buy and sell to each other?

Are you a free man if you haven't accumulated and saved that which makes you independent of other men?

Do you imagine that having your body owned by a man is so very different from having your time and your future owned?

Make up your mind that you will start in to buy your freedom.

We would not suggest to any man that he should free himself from wage dependence in order to be idle. If we believed that a man would accumulate money enough to let him do nothing—and then do nothing—we should much prefer he never might save money. Every man should work, and want to work, as long as there is strength and energy in him.

But it is also true that every man should be in a position to do the best work that offers. He ought to be in a position to seize a good opportunity. He should be in such a position that if duty told him to he could devote himself to the welfare of others, to working for his fellow-men, instead of working for ever for his breakfast, luncheon, dinner and bed.

Money is crystalized labor. The money that you have saved up is all that you have to show materially for the efforts of your past life.

What has become of the money—little or much—that you have received in the past?

It has gone into your stomach, in pleasure, in clothes, unless you have it to show now. Of course, if you have really spent it as you got it for a family that needed every shilling, all honor to you.

But how many men and women can truthfully say that? How many can deny that if they had the will power they could save something and still do their duty?

Remember that this resolution to save means not only the accumulation of money, but the formation and strengthening of character.

Nine times out of ten the man who begins to save stops some kind of foolishness. Economy means giving up something, and the wise man usually manages to give up that which is bad for him. When you begin to save you begin, as a rule, to sleep longer, to drink and smoke less, to waste less time among unprofitable friends.

The saving of money not only means independence in the future, but it means better use of time in the present.

STOREKEEPING AS A CAREER.

Technically, the terms storekeeper and merchant are analogous, but commercially and practically speaking they are different. In trade the wholesaler and great retailer commonly are known as merchants, while the owner or keeper of a retail store of moderate size, located either in the large city, in the small city, or in the country town or village, commonly is known and classified as a storekeeper. Perhaps the best definition of storekeeper is "small retail merchant."

There are few callings more certain than that of the storekeeper, says the New England Grocer. If he understands the fundamental principles of business, he is certain of a livelihood and is reasonably exempt from failure, provided he is satisfied with a moderate income and does not overspread in business or in living. Most of the storekeeping failures are due to marked inability, extravagance, carelessness, inattention or an attempt to do a larger business than the field warrants. Almost any boy of average ability and good habits who is willing to work and is reasonably cautious can become a successful storekeeper.

The Best Fitted Boy.

The boy best fitted to be a good storekeeper shows, even at an early age, a natural trading propensity. The sharp boy is likely to fail. No matter how much dishonesty pays, or seems to pay, in general business, it is essential that the storekeeper be honest. The customer he makes to-day is a customer he has to-morrow. The bulk of his trade is permanent and not transient. Sharp practice of any kind, although it may pay under certain large city conditions, is sure to be fatal to the success of local storekeeping. The storekeeper comes in direct contact with most of his customers. He knows them socially as well as in a business way. His personality counts as much as does his store. He is part of the goods he sells, and he must keep himself, as well as his goods, in good condition.

Be a Good Citizen.

A common school education is essential, and the boy should graduate from a high school, if possible. A college education will do no harm. Such training is likely to do him lasting good, but it hardly can be considered necessary. The world never forgets the good citizen. The world immediately forgets the man of money only. Go through our "Who's Who in America," and other books of men of mark, and not one-tenth of one per cent. of those registered as worthy of having their names printed there are men who are known for their money.

Storekeeping should be encouraged. We need more small stores and fewer big ones. We need more men in business for themselves and masters of themselves. We need fewer salaried men and wage-earners and more men who, although at the head of their business, do part of the direct work themselves. I would advise every boy, whether he be of the city or of the country, who does not have a pronounced love and a recognizable ability for some professional calling, seriously to consider becoming a storekeeper and adding himself to the ranks of common responsibility.

YOU MUST "GRIP" THE DAY'S WORK.

Two dangers threaten every executive. He can get so far away from the blood and bones of his business that he loses his grip on the day's work. Or he can hug petty routine, department matters, so tight that the big needs and opportunities romp by unobserved. The sheriff's flag marks the end of both courses. The way of success lies between.

Clamp down the line between oversight of your business and too close attention to details. Get the work done, but keep time to think and plan.

Every department of your factory or store needs you six days a week, says System. Not your bodily presence so much as your personality—the conviction that the slightest slump in sales, output, quality of product will bring the chief pounding down to find the sticking point and fix the blame.

The only way to hold this belief in you at its legitimate work of earning profits is to keep in touch—to know your business.

You cannot do this by looking over your balance sheet once a month at a weathered-oak desk in the front office. You want detailed, bed-rock facts and first-hand news of what is happening at your lathes, your counters, your shipping room—down on the firing line where profit and loss never quit quarreling.

PRACTICAL PHILOSOPHY.

When the outlook is not good, try the uplook.

Have the courage to appear poor and you disarm poverty of its sharpest sting.

If a man expects and believes great things of himself, it makes no odds where you put him.

The man who has lived longest is not the man who has counted most years, but he who has enjoyed life most.

If a man were to place himself in an attitude to bear manfully the greatest evil that could be inflicted on him, he would suddenly find that there was no evil to bear.

TOO TRUTHFUL.

Yeast—He says he believes there are as big fish in the sea as ever were caught.

Crimsonbeak—It's evident he's no fisherman.

FRUIT CROP REPORT.

Outlook not so Favorable for Apples —Plums Poor—Cherries Good— Few Peaches.

APPLES.—As was to be expected the reports for the month of June on apples are not quite so favorable. There are many reports of serious droppings, and the general tone of the reports would place the crop at not more than medium. In forming an estimate of the crop the classification of apples into Early, Fall and Winter should be kept in mind inasmuch as the three classes may have an entirely different value.

In Western Ontario early apples are reported almost a full crop, the Fall and Winter apples a medium crop, Baldwins and Spies light. If, however, the season should prove a warm one the whole of the apples in this district will be classed by apple buyers as early shipping stock.

In the southern peninsula early apples are almost a full crop, the Fall apples less and the Winter apples only a medium crop.

In the district east of Toronto 21 per cent. of the correspondents reported the crop light, 53 per cent. medium and 27 per cent a full crop.

Reports from the Annapolis and Cornwallis Valleys, District 6, indicate a crop above medium but not quite a full crop. The tent caterpillar, the bud moth and canker worm have all been particularly severe, and it is not improbable that the codling moth will appear later. Summer and Fall apples will be slightly above a medium crop. Gravensteins have set very heavily. Nova Scotia Kings and Russets have also set well. The Baldwins in Nova Scotia will be light.

The British Columbia crop of apples will be about the same as last year.

PEARS—The prospects for pears have deteriorated during the month. In Western Ontario and the southern peninsula, producing the largest commercial crop, Kieffers are reported a full crop, Bartletts a medium crop with many failures, Clapp's Favorite, Anjou, Bosc and similar varieties, less than medium. This condition will also hold good for British Columbia.

PLUMS—Plums are almost a failure, no large section reporting even a medium crop. The American varieties are producing best; the Japanese varieties are almost a total failure.

PEACHES.—Correspondents report 17 per cent. of the crop of early peaches a failure, 17 per cent. light, 35 per cent. medium and 31 per cent. a full crop; late peaches, 12 per cent. of the crop is a failure, 21 per cent. light, 43 per cent. medium and 24 per cent. a full crop. There will probably be some shortage of good canning peaches.

CHERRIES.—Cherries are everywhere being marketed a large crop, of good quality and freer from insects than usual.

GRAPES.—Grapes are reported in good condition almost equal to last year.

SMALL FRUITS. — The strawberry crop is maintaining the conditions reported last month. Prices are 10 per cent. higher than last year.

The estimate for raspberries is about the same as for strawberries.

FOREIGN COUNTRIES.—The continental apple and pear crop is reported medium to good. The prospects for the English apple and plum and pear crop have fallen off seriously, and if this is confirmed by next month's reports market conditions will be materially changed for early and Fall apples.

RETAIL GROCERS HOLD MEETING.

The Retail Grocers' Association held a meeting in their rooms, 270 St. Catherine street east, Montreal, on Thursday evening, June 28. There was a good attendance, some thirty or forty members being present. P. Daoust, president of the association, occupied the chair. Only two matters were dealt with during the course of the meeting. These were the picnic, which is to be held July 18, and the matter of the delegation going to Ottawa to interview the Government.

Several of the picnic committee chairmen made reports as to the work which the respective committees had accomplished. A. Laniel, chairman of the games committee, stated that the programme of sports was completed. It is an interesting one, there being no less than twenty-two events. Mr. Laniel stated also that the grounds were in excellent condition. A Sarazin, chairman of the dance committee, has completed arrangements for this part of the day's pleasure. An efficient orchestra has been provided for the occasion. The prize committee, of which M. De Repentigny is chairman, reported satisfactory progress, some $500 worth of prizes having already been obtained. J. A. Beaudry, chairman of the railway committee, has, as usual, arranged this part of the programme satisfactorily. The excursion will leave the G. T. R. Bonaventure depot at 9 a.m., July 18.

Several short addresses were made regarding article 520 of the Criminal Code in reference to which a delegation consisting of some fifty members is now in Ottawa.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND EGGS.

Just at present Prince Edward Island eggs are rather an important factor in the Montreal egg market. These eggs have a great deal to do with the maintenance of fairly level prices. But for them, egg arrivals from the west would keep the prices up pretty well. As it is, the Prince Edward Island eggs counterbalance the western and keep the market more or less steady. Shipments of P.E.I. eggs are received in Montreal every other week. Most arrivals come by boat, the rail shipments being of little consequence. The eggs are picked up at various points in Prince Edward Island, there being no fixed loading place. It is almost impossible to determine just how many cases of these eggs are disposed of in Montreal during the Summer, since figures are no two years the same. Beginning towards the middle of May, however, the eggs continue to pour into Montreal till the Fall. They are not, as a rule, fit for anything but immediate disposal. They are rarely candled. They are, nine times out of ten, sold as straights, owing partly to the fact that they become heated during the time they lie in the boat. The price they command is anywhere from half a cent to a cent less than the figure obtainable for the western eggs. Their quality does not come up to that of the western. For the purpose for which they are used, however, they are quite satisfactory, and they fill an important place in the egg trade of Montreal.

CURRANTS NOT CURRANTS.

Dried currants are not currants, says the Commercial Tribune, of Minneapolis, in a short story as told by the learned grocer. They do not grow as our native currants do, on bushes, but are in reality a small grape, called corinths, but the term corinth was years ago corrupted into currant. The domestic currant might be dried till the crack of doom without getting any nearer the conditions of the Grecian currants than it is at present. The corinths grow in bunches about the size of a stem of red currants, and are so full of sugar that when they are picked and dried they run together in lumps, which take a lot of work to separate.

CHANGE OF TRAVELERS.

W. S. Fair, who was on the traveling staff of James Turner & Co., Calgary, during 1905, and on the traveling staff of James Turner & Co., Hamilton, for the earlier months of this year, has decided to return to the Calgary house. His place is being taken by J. D. Walker who has been covering Parry Sound, Nipissing and Algoma districts for many years, for groceries, and who has been at headquarters getting acquainted with the stock and thoroughly posting himself. Mr. Walker left on the first of the month and will cover the ground north and west of Emsdale.

CANNING COMPANY'S MEETING

At a meeting of the shareholders of the Tilbury Canning Co., the following directors were elected: W. J. Moffatt, W. C. Crawford, J. S. Richardson, J. A. Tremblay and J. A. McGregor. E. R. Dromgole and H. J. Callwood were elected auditors. The directors elected the following officers: President, W. J. Moffatt; first vice-president, J. S. Richardson; second vice-president, J. A. Tremblay; third vice-president, J. A. McGregor; secretary-treasurer, W. C. Crawford. A call of 25 per cent. on the subscribed stock was ordered.

COW TESTING ASSOCIATION.

The cows in the Princeton, Ont., test are making a steady improvement, the average yield being 10 lbs. of butter fat higher than in April. These tests are being conducted to demonstrate what results can be obtained by making a study of what can be done in the way of care and feeding to increase the production of milk and butter fat. Eighty-five cows were tested, the average yield being 816 pounds of milk, containing 28.5 pounds of fat.

CONDENSED MILK FOR B. W. I.

Edgar Tripp, commercial agent at Port of Spain, Trinidad, states that last year the value of condensed milk imported from Canada amounted to £826 as against nothing two years ago. As the annual consumption amounts to about £25,000 there is still room for great growth in Canadian exports of this commodity.

NO MORE NETS.

The Government of Quebec have prohibited the issuing of netting licenses in their inland lakes. Fish in these waters have become very scarce and the step has been taken none too soon.

A PLACE TO GROW.

"A perusal of the customs returns of Newfoundland for the year ended 30th June, 1905," says E. D. Arnaud, commercial agent in Newfoundland, in the Weekly Report, "reveals the fact that there are still several items on the list of imports, in which Canada does not figure as prominently as it should, and might do, if Canadian exporters gave a little more attention to the requirements of this market.

"While it is quite true that the imports from Canada have doubled in volume during a period, in which those from Great Britain have remained about stationary and goods from the United States have fallen off 50 per cent., which is a very satisfactory position from the Canadian standpoint, there seems to be no good reason why it should not be still further improved upon.

"It is mainly a question of price and quality of goods offered, and that if Canadian exporters can do at least as well as their competitors abroad in these respects, they will have very little difficulty in still further increasing their sales in this colony.

"In recent years there has been such an improvement in the means of transportation by railway and coastal steamers, as well as in direct communication with Canadian ports, that the reason why trade was so largely directed into other channels, has disappeared to a considerable extent, and at the present time every facility is given by the granting of through bills of lading by the Reid Newfoundland system to reach the most distant outports of the colony."

Mr. Arnaud furnishes a list of thirty-four articles in which he thinks Canada should do better, judging by the value of importations from the United Kingdom, Canada and the United States. Here are a few of the figures: Glassware, U. K., $14,448; Canada, $7,342; U. S., $12,291. Groceries, U. K., $68,-434; Canada, $24,829; U. S., $50,515. Jam, U. K., $7,105; Canada, $59; U. S., $50. Canned meats, U. K., $1,380; Canada, $245; U. S., $25,265. Bacon and hams, U. K., $4,256; Canada, $1,-444; U. S., $16,166. Beef, U. K., nothing; Canada, $20,343; U. S., $220,-280. Pork, U. K., $1,082; Canada, $44,397; U. S., $305,701. Soap, U. K., $21,286; Canada, $3,650; U. S., $5,703. Sugar, U. K., $29,711; Canada, $3,766; U. S., $94,871. Lard, U. K., nothing; Canada, $1,126; U. S., $42,914.

AN AGGRESSIVE ASSOCIATION.

A most interesting mercantile organization is the Merchants' Association of New York, the president of which is Clarence Whitman, and the first and second vice-presidents Gustav H. Schwab and Henry T. Towne, the latter being president of the Yale & Towne Manufacturing Co., New York.

The objects of the association are of a varied character, as is shown by Bulletin No. 21, issued on June 25, giving a summary of recent work done by the executive committee whose names are given above. Matters before Congress, the State Legislature and the New York local government are considered by the association and where necessary expert engineers, etc., are employed to investigate problems before recommendations are made to the lawmakers. The questions dealt with in Bulletin No. 21 comprise (1) waste and leakage of water and its prevention, (2) amendments to Customs Administrative Act, (3) registration of trade marks in Cuba, (4) regulation of consular fees, (5) regulation of express and sleeping car companies by Interstate Commerce Act, (6) relief of San Francisco, $185,358 being sent, (7) preservation of Niagara Falls, (8) ship subsidy, (9) laws delay and condemnation proceedings, (10) compulsory metric system bill, (11) fire insurance, (12) pocket guide to New York for distribution to visiting merchants, (13) illegal structures on docks, (14) elevated loop to connect bridges, (15) local taxation of consigned goods, (16) postal notes of small denominations, (17) street signs, (18) list of legislation supported and opposed, (19) consular reform, (20) New York bay pollution, (21) reduced railway fares to encourage buyers to visit New York, (22) change in rates on public vehicles.

The wide scope of the association's work is well illustrated by the varied character of the subjects enumerated and the value to the community of such a public spirited body is incalculable. The boards of trade in Canadian towns and cities do good work within their own spheres of influence, but they might well emulate the New York association in its enterprise and breadth of action.

U. S. ANTI-TRUST LAW.

The wave of prosecutions against Canadian manufacturers and wholesalers who have banded together in associations for trade protection in order to overcome the evils of excessive competition has not been without its counterpart in the United States, where similar prosecutions have occurred. The lesson to be drawn from the experience there is that anti-trust laws cannot be looked upon as a remedy, as the trust magnates have shrewd lawyers to look after their interests and when legislation is directed against them they turn the laws into boomerangs by the insertion of cunningly arranged phrases. The Iron Trade Review, of Cleveland, draws attention to this in the following interesting article:

"The present activity of the Department of Justice in proceeding against so-called monopolistic combinations is of more than passing interest to the iron and steel trade, for if the line of action now being followed prevails, not a price control association will be safe from attack. The department has brought action against a number of unincorporated trade associations, notably the National Association of Retail Druggists, having for a purpose the control of ruinous competition by means of selling price agreements. The question at issue is whether any group of individuals in the same branch of trade can legally agree upon a price for which a given commodity is to be sold.

"If the principles enunciated in several judicial decisions of the past two years are to prevail, the business of the country will be shaken to its foundations, for there is scarcely a branch of trade which is not governed by a price agreement of some sort. The theory of the law as interpreted seems to be that anything that tends to limit competition is evil, but business men believe that extreme competition has ceased to be beneficial and are everywhere seeking means to curb its ruinous effects. This is evident on all sides. Not only have we 'official' prices for some products, but every town and village in the country has one or more associations of merchants, the sole object of which is to maintain a fair price. Sometimes the agreement is definite and fortified by penalties, sometimes there is only a vague understanding. According to recent interpretations of the law, it makes no difference how definite and how binding the agreement happens to be; so long as there is an understanding, collusion is charged and assumed.

"The border line of conspiracy in controlling prices has never been determined. The law encourages certain forms of monopoly and punishes others. If a manufacturer of a machine costing $50 chooses to sell his product for $500, he can do so with impunity. But if two or more manufacturers of similar machines agree orally or in writing that they will not sell their competing product for less than a determined price, they become subject to legal proceedings. The question of fair profit or the actual cost to the consumer does not seem to enter into consideration at all.

"Trade associations are a part of modern business. To proceed upon the assumption that they are in principle all bad because they ameliorate some of the worst evils of competition can not fail to have an injurious effect. It has been proved again and again that to allow the competitive struggle with all its scientific destructive weapons to run its ruinous course inevitably brings hardship to the consumer, as well as to the small producer. Price control associations are not confined to this country. In at least one European state they are encouraged and regulated by law.

"It is only by means of trade agreements that the small independent producer can survive in the same field with his powerful rival, and it is a strange commentary upon our system of legislation by popular demand that the very law which was enacted for the purpose of curbing the huge combinations that threatened to crush individual effort is now found to apply only to those whom it was intended to protect."

MANUFACTURERS GETTING TOGETHER.

What should lead to one of the greatest industrial organizations in the world was commenced by the combined Boards of Trade of Niagara Falls, Ont., and Niagara Falls, N.Y., when they recently invited representatives of the manufacturing interests from Canada and the United States to meet and visit the various works on both sides. It is proposed to make this an annual affair, but in which the manufacturers as a whole will be in closer connection. With an annual meeting of this kind where the manufacturers of the two great countries are brought in close contact, questions of mutual and reciprocal interests should be discussed. Matters of tariff and questions concerning methods and materials of manufacture could be brought up and agreements arrived at as to most advantageous methods for the industries of both countries. With the manufacturers of the two countries in unison on certain points the respective Governments could hardly fail to listen favorably to petitions from them, provided they were in harmony with the interests of the masses. Now that the matter has been fairly launched it should not be allowed to drop, and those who took the initial steps should see to it that a great organization is effected having for its object the discussion of broad industrial problems, conducted after the same manner as the great engineering societies.

GIVING CREDIT.

The trend of the times is towards a cash system of doing business, not only between the wholesaler and the retailer, but between the retailer and his customer. Between the latter, however, there is not the definite state of trade existing that there is between the former, although there appears to be no logical reason why such a condition of affairs should not sooner or later be evolved.

A cash basis of selling is the ideal of the retail merchant, but it is not always workable, and particularly is this the case where local competitors make a practice of giving credit. But if a man finds it impracticable to sell for cash there is no reason why he cannot establish a credit system for those who are good customers and must have time, by having stated periods, either weekly or monthly, when accounts must be settled, after which date interest would be charged the same as by a bank. It is unreasonable that a merchant should pay interest to a banker on money to buy merchandise that he sells without either interest or security. The only reason that can be given is that custom has established such methods, and its dictum is considered final, but the man who breaks away from these usages and strikes out on the stipulated time payment plan will find that his anxieties and losses caused by long-time accounts will be almost eliminated.

There might be at first some trouble arise from adopting such a credit system, and even the loss of a customer or two, but as it is the slow-pay man whom the time payment plan is designed to reach, is it not just as well to lose his trade at the outset as to eventually lose it through necessary dunning? If he pays his bills regularly the weekly or monthly plan will be no hardship upon him, but if he is one of the slow pays the sooner he gets into line or drops out the better.

There seemingly must be some credit system, and the man who gives credit must do so under some hard and fast rule, otherwise the constant leaks will largely offset the profit he makes.

EARLY CLOSING.

The hot weather is upon us, and the time for early closing. In many towns there is no arrangement between storekeepers as to what hour shall be observed as the closing hour, each man keeping open as long as he likes, and often longer than he likes, because the other fellows do it. It is a pity that such is the case, but it need not be if an arrangement is made and observed.

Nine times out of ten the other fellow is quite willing to close at a reasonable time, say half-past six, or seven, if he is approached on the subject. Of course there might be one or two who will keep open until all hours of the night to catch the stray shillings, but the after hours trade is desultory, and it is questionable if the business done in this way ever hurt the man who closed up at a reasonable hour.

There is no time better than the present to start an early closing propaganda, which could well be continued after the Summer has gone. Life is short, and time is fleeting, and an hour or two of healthy recreation in God's out-of-doors gives one a zest to return to his work next day, and a vigor to carry him through the Winter months when he is prone to remain indoors. It is safe to say that, looking back at the end of the year, no loss to business will be seen from closing at a reasonable hour, and those who were in the habit of night purchasing will be educated up to buying during the day.

TESTING COWS.

Dairy tests carried on under the supervision of Ontario dairy associations show the good work that these bodies are doing to improve this department of the farm. Some tests showed, as a result of better feeding and care, double the production of butter fat and milk. Other tests showed equally encouraging results; but one of the most practical results has been the education that breed without performance is of little avail. While pure bred stock will of course always give the best returns, there are a good many animals that have the breeding only. What a cow will produce must henceforth be of equal importance with its pedigree.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

QUEBEC MARKETS.

FLUCTUATIONS—

Fish—Revised.

Tomatoes—Decline 10c.

Montreal, July 5, 1906.

Very good trade has been transacted during the week and jobbers state that business is fully up to that of last year in volume. The grocery market presents very little that is new. Trade is in a good healthy condition, but there is nothing worthy of special mention. Tomatoes have declined, as it was prophesied they would in The Grocer a couple of weeks ago. No information regarding the new crops is yet to hand, but it is thought that corn will be higher this year. Other canned goods lines are expected to be about the same in price as last year. The sugar market at present is interesting. An advance is expected any day. Orders for sugar have been good throughout the week. Tea is practically unchanged since last week. Reports from Japan are to the effect that prices are advancing. Molasses presents no new feature, except perhaps the fact that there is some price-cutting going on in Montreal. The trade is not affected, however. Dried fruits remain unchanged. Valencia raisins continue very scarce. Coffee and spices are unchanged. Tapioca is almost out of the market so scarce is it. Rice is moving rather freely. Evaporated apples are still high and scarce. Other lines are normal.

CANNED GOODS—Since last report there has been a decline of ten cents in the price of tomatoes. Dealers are now asking $1.20 per dozen. This decline, mentioned as probable in The Grocer some two weeks ago, has been caused by the desire of holders to dispose of such stock as they held before new crop shipments began to arrive. No quotations have yet been received for the coming season. It is not thought, however, that there will be many changes in prices. Peas are considered as certain to be advanced, since the price last year was too low. Other lines of canned goods are expected to be about the same. Present business is about steady.

SUGAR—Prices have been well maintained since last week, but conditions considered, it is not improbable that there will shortly be an advance. The idea is scouted in some quarters, but the trade generally expects an advance of ten cents. Summer business is picking up every day. Some considerable business for early fruits has already been done. The trade is in a healthy condition all around.

TEA—There has been practically no change in the tea situation since last week. A good sorting business is being done with the retailers. Advices received from Japan are to the effect that prices are steadily maintained and inclined to be higher. As yet there is no news of the second crop, which is of much interest to Canadian buyers, but reports are expected any day. No new Japan fannings or siftings are obtainable locally. The Chinese evidently have got in on the ground floor and are doubtless buying up pretty well everything in this line at present. Indians and Ceylons are unchanged.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES—Molasses remains almost without feature. In Montreal there has, of late, been some little cutting in prices, but the market has not been materially affected. There is very little molasses changing hands except that which has been contracted for.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS—There is really nothing new in the dried fruit market this week. Business is reported as being fair. Valencia raisins are still high and scarce. Prunes continue firm. Toronto, July 5.

A good condition of trade is reported by wholesalers this week. There are no price changes of any moment, but in sugar there is a much firmer tone, and dealers are looking for an advance shortly. California dried fruits are becoming scarcer and some lines—apricots and peaches—are entirely off the market, while all other lines are decidedly firm in price. By the time the new crop is ready to pack it is likely that the market will be bare. The quality of tea coming from India and Ceylon is not very good, except in the high grades which are firm in tone, other grades not bringing a high price.

CANNED GOODS—There is nothing new in canned goods. Green fruits are largely taking their place and the consumptive demand is not large, but stocks are not heavy and prices on this account are firm. Eastern reports speak of a drop in tomatoes but Toronto wholesalers are finding the usual sales at the same prices. Salmon are firm at the recent advance, and in active demand. Canned meats are quiet.

SUGAR—The sugar market is decidedly firm and an advance is not at all improbable sometime during the next few days. Reports from the primary markets show considerable strength in raws with little offering, which conditions are being reflected on the local market. There is a good consumptive demand for refined sugar now that the fruit preserving season is on, which also contributes to the firm conditions prevailing.

COFFEE—Coffee contracts at Brazil are being made at much higher figure than for many weeks past and the market generally shows a sustained firmness. The crop is not so heavy as last year's, and stocks are also lighter than they were at this season of 1905. European markets are firmer with higher prices ruling. Local price conditions are unchanged.

TEA—Trade in tea has been quiet and no outstanding features are reported. India and Ceylon teas are not of the best quality in the lower grades, and consequently are not bringing a high price, but the best grades are quite up to the standard and firm in price at the recent advance of from ½d. to 1d.

MOLASSES AND SYRUPS—The molasses market is irregular, although for some time past a firm feeling has been felt. Most of the supplies at the primary markets have been cleaned out. Corn syrup remains steady and featureless.

DRIED FRUITS — California dried fruits are becoming scarcer. Apricots and peaches are entirely off the market and prunes will shortly follow suit. Until the new pack begins to come in, the market will show a scantiness in many lines. Valencia raisin crop reports are much less favorable than they were a couple of weeks ago, and prospects now are for a short crop, but of good quality. Advices from Smyrna say that the crop will be considerably less than the average. Last year the yield was 50,000 tons, but the estimates for this year place the crop at from 32,000 to 35,000 tons. Turkish figs were last year the heaviest crop ever reported, but the indications are for a much smaller crop this year, and prices will no doubt rule slightly higher than they did last season. The outlook is for a good quality.

N. B. MARKETS.

St. John, N.B., July 3, 1906.

Business is good. There is a generally healthful tone. The past week has been somewhat broken because of the holiday, the more as it directly followed the Saturday half holiday. It meant busy times, particularly for the banks. A holiday for the wholesaler means two very busy days. In markets, while there is little change values are generally very firm, particularly in heavy lines. There is great activity in certain quarters, relating to our coming exhibition. It is usually a success and from the present outlook this will be the best we have ever had. Western people looking for business in these provinces, particularly manufacturers, should not neglect this, the very best opportunity possible to advertise their lines. Beside the advertisement a friendly feeling of great value is created toward those houses who help to make the show a success.

RICE.—Shipments of new rice have been much delayed and buyers are much annoyed.

OIL.—At no season of the year are there lighter shipments in burning oil than at present. Booking for Fall is being actively pushed. Prices quite firm. Lubricating oils have good demand. In paint oils, prices unchanged. Season is getting late. In cod oil there are improved receipts.

SALT.—In Liverpool coarse salt there is an active demand at full prices. At this season there are regular arrivals. In fine salt there is a fair business.

CANNED GOODS.—In canned goods orders for Fall are being generally placed at open prices. Those canners who are outside usually quote rather under the Consolidated. While No. 2 group goods are chiefly used there is quite a large sale for some of the No. 1 brand. In spot stocks prices are firm, particularly tomatoes, strawberries, peaches, gallon apples and salmon. Oysters are higher and not freely offered. Domestic fish unchanged.

GREEN FRUIT.—In oranges full prices rule. There is quite a trade in California Valencias. Lemons are high and there is a good sale. In bananas, just a good steady supply. For best goods prices hold firm. Pines and melons have a fair sale. Ontario strawberries are now being freely received. Prices rather lower. Rhubarb is still offered and while low is quite firm. Peaches, plums and apricots are being sold, but it is early for these lines.

DRIED FRUIT.—Spot stocks of raisins, particularly seeded, are light. Prices firmer. In prunes full prices rule. For future prunes market is quite easy. For raisins, while prices of California goods are below present figures, there has been no change since first quoted. Peaches and apricots opened high and have advanced quickly. New Valencias for September early shipment are quoted rather above last season's price. Malaga layer raisins, dates, peels and figs are all higher than last year. Evaporated apples very high.

SUGAR.—While price is unchanged market is very firm. There have been quite free arrivals of Scotch granulated.

MOLASSES.—There have been further arrivals of both Porto Rico and Barbadoes molasses. A good stock held, particularly of fancy Barbadoes. Prices are firm.

FISH.—Catch of salmon is good and fairly good prices obtained. These fish are all sold fresh. Dry codfish are hardly as firm, prices still quite high. Pickled herring, though in light demand, bring high prices. Smoked herring are dull.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL.—Flour is no higher; fair, steady business. Feed held firm. In oatmeal price is quite high; there is a light sale. Cornmeal holds firm. Beans quiet. Barley and peas quiet.

An example of the work which the association is attempting to do for its members is afforded by the following self-explanatory correspondence referring to a stock food company which persists in selling direct to the consumer as well as to the dealer:

Arnaud, April 28, 1906.

W. A. Coulson, Esq.,
Secy. R. M. A. of W. C.
Winnipeg.

Dear Sir: I beg to report that the ——— Co. have shipped from Winnipeg yesterday four pails and a box of stock food to one of our customers, Mr. J. Black,

I understand these people are in the habit of selling direct to farmers as their name was mentioned by other members at our last annual meeting. The merchants here are carrying these goods in stock and therefore there is no need of them shipping direct to farmers.

Yours truly,
W. LEDOUX,
Secy. local committee.

Upon receipt of this complaint from Arnaud section, Mr. Coulson wrote the Winnipeg office of this stock food company as follows:

Winnipeg, May 4, 1906.

The —— —— Co.,
Winnipeg.

Dear Sirs: We are advised that on April 27 one J. Black, a farmer residing outside of Arnaud, Man., received from your Winnipeg office four pails and a box of stock food. Now, the merchants in this town are carrying these goods in stock and we do not see the necessity of your shipping direct to farmers. If it is your intention to continue this, kindly advise me.

We do not think it fair to our merchants, especially when they stock the goods, that you forward direct to the consumer.

Yours truly,
W. A. COULSON,
Secretary.

To this letter Mr. Coulson received two replies, one from the Winnipeg agents of the stock food concern in question and one from the head office of the company in Toronto. The letter from the Winnipeg agents was as follows:

Winnipeg, Man., May 7, 1906.

W. A. Coulson, Esq.,
53 Scott Block,
Main street, Winnipeg.

Dear Sir:—We have your letter of the 4th inst. addressed to —— ——, Winnipeg, regarding their shipping goods to a party outside of Arnaud, while dealers have ——— goods on their hands.

I am sending your letter to head office but we think your informant is a little previous in reporting the —— —— to your association. We were informed that they reported the firm of —— —— as agents. —— —— are simply distributing agents at present. However, there is an understanding between the —— —— company and their dealers whereby the company can solicit orders from farmers or allow the dealers a percentage of the profits. The goods are sold at retail prices to farmers.

Just at present we forget the party's name who wrote you, but we wrote him explaining the matter and told him that if he had consulted the —— —— company direct, that the matter would have been explained to his entire satisfaction.

—— —— expect to get control of these goods for Manitoba and the territories and we expect to sell to only the one dealer in each town; it is certainly not our intention to sell to everyone.

We think you had better write the —— —— company at Toronto if you want any further information regarding the goods shipped to Arnaud and we think you will find their way of doing business is a help to the dealers instead of an injury.

Yours very truly,

This letter showed a desire to explain and the company's side of the dispute was presented. The letter from the head office was not so satisfactory.

Toronto, May 11, 1906.

W. A. Coulson, Esq.,
Care the Retail Merchants' Assn.
Winnipeg, Man.

Dear Sir:— Your favor of the 4th inst. to hand with reference to our shipping goods direct to parties in your vicinity. In reply beg to state that we do not see that this can in any way interfere with the Retail Merchants' Association as we have nothing whatever to do with this association.

Trusting that this explanation will be satisfactory, we are:

Very truly yours,

—— —— Co.

To this letter Mr. Coulson replied as follows:

Winnipeg, May 23, 1906.

—— —— Co.,
Toronto, Ont.

Dear Sirs: Replying to yours of May 11, you could not possibly have read my complaint aright. The question at issue is this: Do you think it fair that your travelers should sell direct to the consumer where the merchant of the town is carrying a stock of your goods? We feel that it is not fair for you to stock up a merchant, or merchants, in each town and then sell direct to the consumer without putting the orders through the merchants of the town. It will only mean, if this is continued, that it will be necessary for you to do one thing or the other, sell direct to the consumer or only to the merchants.

Yours truly,
W. A. COULSON,
Secretary.

A month has elapsed since Mr. Coulson wrote this last letter, but no reply has been received from the firm in question. It will accordingly be necessary to bring the matter to the attention of the association at the semi-annual meeting on the 26th and 27th of the month. The correspondence indicates that the dealers have a real grievance against the firm in question.

On Wednesday evening of last week there was an enthusiastic meeting of Winnipeg grocers in the association offices in the Scott building. On the hottest night of the year it was scarcely to be expected that any very large proportion of the 72 grocers in the city who are members of the association would be present, and the attendance was, under the circumstances, very encouraging indeed. Among those present were the following: R. Templeton, J. A. Parks, H. Slasor (representing G. B. Andrews), W. J. Kennedy, J. J. Jackson, J. Bloomfield, S. Ling, M. Chariton, John A. Gustafson, Wm. Mahoney, John Dyke, A. F. Heather, J. R. Van Norman, C. A. Cowherd, G. J. Caswell, Secretary W. A. Coulson, and F. R. Munro, of The Canadian Grocer.

Officers Elected.

As the permanent organization of a Winnipeg section had been decided on at a previous meeting the first business was the election of officers. Secretary Coulson and The Canadian Grocer representative acted as scrutineers and the election resulted as follows:

President—R. Templeton.
First vice-president—E. B. Nixon.
Second vice-president—Wm. McLean.
Secretary—J. Treleaven.
Treasurer—J. A. Parks.

General Business.

The secretary supplied each member present with a list of delinquent debtors reported by the various stores in the city and explained that this list was compiled from information supplied by grocers, butchers and hardwaremen. Collection forms would be furnished all members who made application for them. There were already some 72 members in the Winnipeg grocers' section and he hoped very soon to see every grocery store in the city in line.

On taking the chair after his election, Mr. Templeton in a few well chosen words expressed his appreciation of the honor done him and urged all present to work for the association. He had been in business in Winnipeg for 20 years and he thought he knew something of the grievances of the city trade.

A membership committee was then appointed to superintend the organization in the different wards: Ward 1, S. Ling; Ward 2, J. J. Jackson; Ward 3, J. Bloomfield; Ward 4, John Dyke; Ward 5, J. A. Gustafson; Ward 6, S. Elliott.

The president and vice-president were appointed as a committee to join with committees from other branches of the trade in the city in asking the board of health to provide for the removal of garbage from stores the same as from private residences.

On motion of Messrs. Ling and Dyke it was decided to hold regular meetings on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month.

The complaint was made that wholesale produce houses are selling to consumers and there was some discussion of the subject. Action was, however, deferred until next meeting.

MANITOBA MARKETS

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday, July 5, 1906.)

MARKET NOTES—

Apricots—Opening price new stock 22c., choice.

Valencia raisins—Prices revised.

Evaporated apples— Advancing 1-2c. per lb.

Dried apples—Advanced 1-4c. per lb.

Tapioca—Advancing.

Clover Leaf salmon—Advanced.

All departments of the wholesale grocery trade showed marked acticity. Dealers at many points where railroad construction is in progress are calling for large supplies for their transient railway trade. Crop reports continue most optimistic in tone and with all prospects pointing to another prosperous year, the trade are buying freely.

Sugar is reported very firm with all indications pointing to an early advance. Buying has been very active during the last fortnight in anticipation of an advance. New apricots will be on the market in a month's time or less and opening prices are very high. The old stock in California is now completely exhausted.

CANNED GOODS—Clover Leaf salmon has been advanced for present delivery and revised prices will be noted below. Jobbers and commission men expect that salmon will command higher prices when new fish is on the market. New lobsters are on the market and are selling at prices quoted below. Clark's pork and beans has been advanced. We quote:

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS

Halifax, N.S., July 3, 1906.

Shipments of American strawberries to Halifax are about over, and the Canadian berries are now coming on the market, some Ontario fruit being received here this week. They are quoted at 9c. per box by the crate. The first Nova Scotia berries have also arrived and are quoted at 10c.

All dried fruits on this market are becoming rather scarce, especially prunes, and prices show a strong tendency to increase. Only small stocks of Valencia raisins and evaporated apples are held here. There is a good demand for all canned goods, and some jobbers report heavy sales of apples, those packed in the Maritime Provinces being preferred. Oranges are also scarce and high, Jamaicas being quoted at $9, which is a record price for the fruit in these parts. Valencias and navels are quoted at $5.50, and Mediterranean at $5. Lemons are unusually scarce, and good stock is hard to obtain. They are quoted at $5.50 and $6. The market is well supplied with bananas at present, the steamer Boston from the West Indies having landed 1,400 bunches, which bring from $1 to $2 per bunch. New potatoes (American) are quoted at $4.25 per barrel.

EGGS—The receipts of Nova Scotia eggs fell off this week considerably and some jobbers found difficulty in securing sufficient to supply their customers. They are still quoted at 16 and 17 cents. There is quite a lot of island eggs on the market for which 16c. is asked. It is reported here that there is a good demand for eggs on the island, and keen competition among the buyers, 15c. f.o.b. being quoted at Charlottetown.

BUTTER—The price of butter shows no change, notwithstanding the fact that the receipts are increasing. There is a good supply of small tubs of fresh made butter coming on the market, for which there is a good demand. Creamery boxes are quoted here at 21 to 22 cents, and small tubs at 22 to 23. Large tubs range from 19 to 20. Rolls sell slowly at 18 and 19 cents. Several cargoes of molasses have arrived here recently, and the vessels are now discharging. The market is firm. Quotations are: Fancy Trinidad, 39c.; fancy Porto Rico, 37c. to 38c.; extra choice Porto Rico, 37c.; choice Trinidad, 35c. to 36c.; fancy Barbadoes, 30c. to 32c.; Barbadoes, 29c.

FISH—Since last report several thousand barrels of mackerel were taken along the coast, and the price has dropped. Large dry cod, ex-store, are quoted at $7.75, and medium at $7.25. No. 1 July herring are quoted at $4.25 to $4.50, and mackerel No. 2 large at $9.50. There are no fat Nos. 1 or 2 on the market.

WHY DO GREEKS CONTROL THE FRUIT TRADE IN OUR LARGE CITIES?

This is a question which often comes to the mind of the fruit merchant and grocer in large centres, but it is also a question which they never satisfactorily answer for themselves. In Montreal there is a striking example of the retail fruit trade controlled by Greeks. There are practically no Canadian fruit stores. There are, to be sure, perhaps half a dozen stores owned by Canadians, but they are not in the race with the Greeks.

The question asked above is one which naturally occurs to any observant person who is interested in the commercial development of Canada.

Besides this, it is a question which it will pay the fruit merchant and the grocer to study in order that they may, by the example of the Greeks, bring their fruit department up to such a standard as to compete successfully with these people. We speak of grocers also because the fruit department of the grocery store requires much attention; it is a department which cannot be neglected in any way. The public are becoming educated, very slowly perhaps, to buy as much of their fruit as possible from their grocer. Therefore it is up to the grocer to see that his fruit department is up to the standard of other stores in town.

Six or eight years ago, even less, a Grecian fruit store was as novel a sight as is an airship in a country town today. How comes it that the Greeks control the retail fruit trade in some of our larger cities to-day? Is it because Canadian fruit merchants are "slow," or because they are not well up in the art of salesmanship? What is the reason, anyway? There are many reasons. Chief among them is, perhaps, that the Greeks are after the business. This does not mean that Canadian retail fruit dealers are not anxious to do all they can. But the Greeks manage some way or other to get more work into their days, and in the end achieve more success than do the Canadians.

Take display, for instance. The Greeks are very adept in this art. They know how to most effectively put their goods before the public. But this is going forward a little too rapidly—it would be well to begin at the beginning.

In the first place the Greek fruit stores, in Montreal for instance, are away ahead of those conducted by others. The premises are not used by the Greek until they are almost entirely renovated. Their idea is to make the store large, airy, bright and cheerful, and perfectly clean. Their stores are apparently always newly painted. The windows are always clean; the fixtures inside look as if they had been purchased but yesterday; in fact, everything is new and up-to-date, in appearance at least, which is a great consideration in the fruit business. The public will buy every time from a merchant in a store of this description, in preference to a dealer occupying a dark, cheerless place of business.

Then in buying their stock the Greeks are very careful to obtain only first-class fruit. They take great trouble to see that the quality is excellent, and make it their endeavor to keep it so until the fruit is sold. They buy at a reasonable figure and consequently are able to sell with fair profit at a decent price and they give the customer the very best value for his money. They keep their fruit on display in such a way as to literally tempt the money out of the buyers' pocket. The apples are kept polished; the best oranges are the ones used in the window; choice bananas, large, luscious, and perfectly ripe, are shown with the price plainly marked, and the result is that people buy without thinking.

Another feature about the Greek stores is the help. There is never any tedious "waiting to be served." A person may obtain just what is wanted the moment he enters the store. This is an important point.

These are a few points observed by Grecian store owners which contribute largely to their success. The Greeks deserve credit for the way they have succeeded in the business. Coming into the country less than ten years ago they now control the trade in more than one of our large cities. This is indeed hustling. But it is up to the Canadian fruit merchants to regain their former ascendancy in the fruit trade. It depends entirely upon themselves whether or not they are to succeed, and they may profitably take a few pointers from the Greeks towards this end.

PRICES KEEP STRENGTHENING.

Prices for live hogs in the country continue to be kept high, so high in fact that it is difficult to get a satisfactory export market for them. As high as $7.40 to $7.50 is being paid f.o.b. country points, and on top of that there is another 50c. to land them in Toronto. Packers are compelled by the competitive system of buying to pay prices at which it is most difficult to make a profit in England, and of course the Canadian market also has to keep adding a cent now and again to keep up with the rise. The incoming shipments at present are not large. Each month finds it more difficult to get anywhere near what might be called a fair sized shipment, and compared with a year ago the falling off is very noticeable. This week's arrivals, on account of the holiday, will be still smaller.

Amendment to Quebec Law Which Lets Our Travelers in.

The secretary of the Commercial Travelers' Association of Canada has received information through the Treasury Department, Provincial Legislature, Quebec, that a clause has been inserted amending Act 5, E.D.W. VII., cap. 14, to read as follows:

"However, no such commercial traveler from any other province in Canada which authorizes commercial travelers from this province to do business in such province without a license shall be obliged to take out a license under this article."

Under this amendment commercial travelers from Ontario are not required to take out a commercial traveler's license in the Province of Quebec.

INTERNATIONAL FISHERIES COMMISSION.

The fisheries commission who will discuss Pacific sockeye protection have found it impossible to meet the State of Washington commissioners at as early a date as was at first hoped for. Many of the gentlemen sitting on the commission in Washington are engaged in the salmon fishing industry and cannot leave during the season. The Canadian commissioners also hope to devote a considerable part of the season to personal inspection of the fishing grounds, so that in all probability the International conference will not be held till September or October.

ALL FOR CANADA.

A report received at the Trade and Commerce Department from Mr. Edgar Tripp, representative in Trinidad, contains a practical certificate for the preference which Canada gives to the products of the British West Indies. CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

Prices paid for cheese at late country markets seem almost like madness to the older and conservative members of the trade, yet, as a prominent member of one of our important country boards remarked a few days ago, it is not the countrymen that are putting prices up, it is the buyers, and this is very true. The competition of the buyers, too eager to secure the goods, is the cause of present abnormal prices of cheese.

Of course if the Montreal houses were unable to dispose of their purchases they would not be so eager to buy at country points. There is therefore a reason for the existing condition and the most plausible one seems to be that the goods are really wanted in British markets. It may be that there are "short sales" to be filled, or it may be that the consumptive demand is in excess of supplies; at any rate, the goods are being shipped out as fast as they are received here and there seems to be absolutely no accumulation of stocks on this side of the Atlantic.

Receipts in Montreal last week were 106,345 boxes of cheese and 32,502 packages of butter against 104,066 boxes of cheese and 35,955 packages of butter for the same week of last year, or a total since May 1 of 545,134 boxes of cheese and 175,198 packages of butter, as compared with 523,276 boxes of cheese and 194,003 packages of butter for the corresponding period of last year.

Exports last week were 98,079 boxes of cheese and 14,782 packages of butter against 100,554 boxes of cheese and 40,004 packages of butter for the same week last year, or a total since May 1 of 540,934 boxes of cheese and 79,902 packages of butter as compared with 491,885 boxes of cheese and 104,036 packages of butter for the corresponding period of last year.

The above figures clearly demonstrate that cheese is the better paying product of the milk this year. We have an increase in the receipts of cheese of about 32,000 boxes since May 1 and a decrease of about 19,000 packages of butter. This might almost be considered a "bull" argument, as it means a less production of milk.

It seems to be only the Brockville section that reports a much larger make of cheese this year, and this is used as a "bear" argument, but other sections do not report much of an increase, which may be due to the backwardness of the season, but we are inclined to think that the yield of milk is short of last year's yield and there will be no surplus.

Of course there seems to be a larger make of cheese and a lighter make of butter, but as cheese is wanted in Great Britain and butter is only of a secondary consideration, it is well that our farmers do pay more attention to the making of cheese, as it is certainly so far the better paying product.

But what is to be the future? This is all important. Nobody has sufficient confidence in present values to hold goods for a rise in prices. This means a "hand to mouth" trade and should supplies become heavier than the real consumptive demand, prices would have to decline.

Butter prices have been somewhat easier of late, but we are still above a general export basis. This market is ruled more by European continental supplies. In other words, if Siberia and other countries furnish large supplies at lower prices, we cannot sell our Canadian product at high prices. At present our prices seem too high for the general British markets, and while the goods continue to be shipped out, it is an open question whether this business is done at a profit or not. We are inclined to think that it is a non-paying business so far this season.

OUR LONDON LETTER.

During the past two or three weeks the produce trade here in London—and indeed throughout Britain—has remained without any outstanding features.

The market for continental bacon is gathering strength for the leaner selections, but for the fatter selections the demand is not good. Canadian bacon is not, however, selling very well in London, heavy weights being particularly slow. Of course, this is not really the best selling market for Canadian bacon, Wales being a far better one. If Canadian shippers would give more attention to individual demand by attending to their methods of cutting up, and would endeavor to use less borax, much improvement could be made.

The butter market is in a satisfactory condition. A steady demand, with supplies inclining to the light side, has kept things going. For really best grades sellers have found a quick market. Supplies to hand from Australia have been larger than might have been expected at this time of the year. "Choicest" parcels are making 98s., 100s., with occasionally 102s. Danish butter, although some 8s. higher, moves somewhat slowly. The advance in the Copenhagen quotation of a further 1s. hardly seems warranted. Supplies of best quality New Zealand butter are almost entirely cleared out, but the inferior grades sell well at from 98s. downwards. There is some Canadian butter in the market, but not much, and prices ruling are 100s. to 104s. Before long it will be possible to gauge the quality of regular shipments from the Dominion. With the splendid storage accommodation here in London and the continual improvements in methods in Canada a very choice butter is expected by importers. It may rightly be doubted, however, whether any improvement at all can be made over some of last season's shipments. By the way, the select committee on butter adulteration is still sitting in the House of Commons. Until this matter is settled satisfactorily, Canadian butter will be eagerly sought by the by no means small body of manipulators and fakers for adulteration purposes. Canadians are warned, however, not to make their butter more moist on this account, for any such proceedings will undoubtedly prove most harmful to their general reputation. No advice could have been more out of place and thoughtless than that offered to Canadian makers by one who ought to have known better, that they should turn out a moister butter. After all, it may confidently be expected that, before very long, legislation will be introduced by the English Parliament, making adulteration of butter beyond a certain point an offence to be severely dealt with. In the meanwhile the reputation of Canadian butter must occasionally suffer through the evil practices of others.

The tone of the cheese market is steady. Demand is good and supplies from Canada have come to hand in considerable quantities just at a moment when stocks in warehouse were getting low. Something like 30,000 boxes have been received within the last seven days, and, after the week's deliveries, about 24,000 boxes remain in warehouse. Quotations over the cable from Canada are firm, and buyers are somewhat doubtful as to their next move. Meanwhile, spot quotations remain at 56s., 57s. for white, and 56s. for colored.

It has been suggested that the "tinned meat scare," which has gripped the public right thoroughly over here, has had something to do with the increased public demand for cheese. It is difficult to know how far it is true, but it certainly is a fact that even the humblest classes are fighting very shy of American tinned goods. There is just a whisper about that some English brokers are playing with the labels on their stocks of canned goods from the States. This may well be expected.

TALLOW AND FATS WANTED.

One of our correspondents in Great Britain writes to say that he would like to correspond with a few Canadian exporters of tallow, bone grease and other animal fats. If any of our readers are interested in export trade in these lines, they will find this a good opportunity for extending their trade in a good section of the north of England. Particulars will be given by mail if requested.

PROVISION AND DAIRY MARKETS.

MONTREAL.

PROVISIONS—There is a good business being transacted in hams at present. Prices have been advanced slightly since last quotations. Pork quotations, too, are also higher. There has been a decline of one cent in breakfast bacon. Hogs are now more plentiful, and as a result prices are lower. Lard is moving freely at unchanged prices.

BUTTER—The market this week is very dull, and with stocks accumulating there are prospects of lower prices. The demand from the U. K. is practically nil, other butters, principally Irish, having the preference over Canadian butter at the prices we have been asking. The market will have to decline in sympath with a weaker English market, and to get trade on a good export basis, prices should decline at least one cent. Shipments are much lighter than last year, being only 14,782 boxes, against 40,004 the same week last year.

Choicest creamery	0 21	0 21½
Medium creamery	0 20	0 20½

CHEESE—There has been another advance since last report, on very active buying, but which, in the opinion of the majority of the trade, has been caused by the "shorts" covering up their sales made earlier in the season. Prices are extremely high for this time of year, but while a big decline is not expected prices cannot go much higher than they are to-day. Shipments continue heavy, being almost equal to receipts.

EGGS—The egg market at present is steady. Owing to the very hot weather we have been having, the demand for eggs has not been so large as it otherwise might have been. Prices, however, have been very well maintained. Dealers are asking 16c. to 16½c. for straight gathered. There is a good demand for select candled at 19c. to 19½c.

TORONTO.

PROVISIONS—A more than ordinary demand for cured meats, hams, etc., is the order this week. For outings, lunches, and so forth a good consumptive demand exists for this class of food, and the tendency is to firm up prices. The only change, however, is in short cut, which now brings $23.50 per barrel straight. Beef and mutton are the same, but Spring lamb is easier, the best bringing 17 cents per pound.

STILL IN BUSINESS.

J. Y. Griffin & Co., Winnipeg, inform the trade that there is no truth in the rumor that they had gone or were going out of the produce business. "This is an important branch of our business," said Mr. Aldrich, general manager, "and I cannot understand how such a report could have gained circulation."

COLD STORAGE PLANT.

George Moore & Co., Galt, Ont., have just installed a refrigerator plant large enough to accommodate three million eggs, the temperature of which will be around freezing point. There are two departments, one less cold than the other, into which the eggs are placed preparatory to being stored in the other department, which is ice cold. There is also accommodation for six carloads of cheese and 50,000 pounds of butter. The cooling of the rooms is done by artificial means, air ducts circulating the air among the iron tubes filled with a solution of chloride of calcium, which is kept cold by having its source in a tank of crushed ice.

Hardy & Buchanan, grocers, Winnipeg, have disposed of their Notre Dame street store to J. Gillis.

COLD AIR PIPED FROM WELLS.

Cold air for keeping the houses cool and preserving butter, eggs, meat, etc., is supplied by the wells at Thompson Falls, Mont. The wells are about 60 feet deep and are fed through a gravel formation by the mountain streams. A current of cold air rises from them continually. To use the air the wells are closely covered and tapped with large pipes a few feet below the ground; by this means a temperature of 55 degrees is maintained in public buildings and dwelling houses. For cold storage purposes a house is built directly over the well.

REVIEW OF THE TEA SEASON.

Smaller Crop but Better Quality—Weather Very Unusual.

Indian Planting and Gardening, of Calcutta, May 12, says of the tea season:

The year 1906 has been an abnormal one in every way so far. Weather conditions all over India have been of a character for which we cannot find a parallel in the past. In the tea districts of Northeast India the record so far has been one of storms, heavy rainfall, accompanied by destructive hail, and low temperatures. These conditions do not make for bumper out-turns. Indeed, all advices so far point to considerable damage to leaf, and general backwardness in manufacture, so that we may look forward to a late season. Last year climatic conditions were also unfavorable for heavy cropping, and when the figures of export were finally made up for the season now closed, it was found that the actual total crop, as it passed through Calcutta and Chittagong, amounted to 203 million pounds, compared with 205 million pounds in 1904-05. So that there was after all only a shortage of two million pounds. It was confidently anticipated that last season's output would be at least five million pounds below that of the preceding season. Last year also manufacture was retarded by unusual cold in the early part of the season; but this year these unfavorable conditions set in much later; and at the present moment when the whole of Bengal and the regions to the west, north and south of it are suffering from severe drought and phenomenally high temperatures, Assam is receiving an undue share of moisture and cold. In the Duars, and also in the Teral and Darjeeling districts, there has been something like a drought; but in other respects manufacture is going on fairly. It is too early yet to forecast, but musters that are coming forward indicate that quality generally is well up to standard, and the course of the market is likely to be very much on the same lines as that of last year's at the beginning of the season.

The average of all teas sold in Calcutta last year was 5 annas 5 pies per pound, which was one pie above that of the preceding season. Indeed, the most striking feature of the past season was the brisk demand for all teas of good and medium grades, at the expense of the common kinds; this is perhaps evidence of the public taste being educated for tea of better quality. The inducement to sacrifice quality to quantity, resulting in inflated prices for low grade teas, will now be checked. The quality of the tea sold on the Calcutta market in the past season was well up to standard; specially in the teas from Assam, which have not only been well above the average, but it is generally held that they have been the best for many years past. Darjeeling teas have also been well above the average, and many gardens realized long prices. The Duars also sent in some very good teas, while Cachar and Sylhet have contributed throughout the season teas of useful character. The majority of the Autumn musters were somewhat disappointing, the Duars alone being the exception.

The manufacture of green teas during the past season remained more or less stationary, bonus having been paid on only one and a half million pounds. The usual reason for such a state of affairs is that the quality is not up to the required standard while style and finish have not been such as to create a demand for such teas. Concerns that have been able to manufacture tea with good make, finish, and having a clear pale liquor, have realized good prices; while those of indifferent make have been difficult to move.

Wheat and Oats Both Easier—Trade Quiet—Not Enough Wheat in Country to Make Much Difference—Largest Crop on Record.

Both Manitoba and Ontario wheat are again weaker this week, a cent being the decline on the former and about two cents on the latter. The present conditions cannot, however, be considered as indicative of anything particular as the quantity of wheat stored in the country is not large enough to be a factor in trade. Canadian markets follow Chicago quotations pretty closely and are governed by them rather than local conditions.

The estimated crop for Manitoba this year is 97,000,000 bushels, an amount equal to the entire Canadian wheat crop in any year since 1902. With the Manitoba crop at these figures and the other provinces the same the total crop in the Dominion would be 160,000,000 bushels, or an increase over last year of nearly one-half.

Flour and oatmeal are easier, but there is no marked, if any, decline, and so far our prices are as before, although it is possible that before our next publication they shall have felt the weakening prices.

LARGE ORDER OF PACKAGES.

A Rochester firm has just received from the Egg-O-See Cereal Company an order for cardboard packages that is believed to be the largest order of its kind ever placed. The order calls for a hundred million cartons, green cardboard packages in which the cereal is sold.

The Stecher Company has been getting out 20,000,000 of these cartons a year for this concern. The latest order will fill over 450 freight cars. The cartons are made for one-half a cent each, the whole order amounting to $50,000. The price has formerly been three-fourths of a cent, but a reduction was made on account of the size of the order.

DEATH OF HENRY D. PERKY.

News comes from Glencoe, Maryland, of the death there of Henry D. Perky. Deceased was the founder of the shredded whole wheat food industry, and promoted the Natural Food Co., which has an immense factory at Niagara Falls, N.Y., and the Canadian Shredded Wheat Co., which has its factory in Niagara Falls, Ont. Mr. Perky was 62 years of age.

MONTREAL.

GRAIN.—The feature of the grain market this week is the decline in oats. Dealers are now quoting half a cent lower, owing to the increased receipts through boat arrivals from the west. Otherwise the market is unchanged.

FLOUR—Although an advance was expected in some quarters, to date the market remains unchanged as to prices. The state of the wheat market has been such as to keep prices stationary. Good demand locally is reported. There has been much inquiry from the other side and numbers of shipments have been made.

HAY—Hay locally is still very firm. Farmers are bringing in their stocks more freely. Export trade is very good. The market in the United Kingdom is weak, stocks arriving freely, and dealers allowing the shipments to accumulate. The latest quotation from Liverpool is 64 c.i.f.

GRAIN—Grain continues to ease off as the season advances, and the visible supply shows good. There is, however, little doing at present, and any small movements cannot be taken as a criterion of what the markets will be when the 1906 crop begins to move. Manitoba wheat Nos. 1, 2 and 3 Northern are a cent lower than our last quotations, and Ontario wheat about two cents lower on all grades. Goose wheat is quoted nominally at 75c., but there is nothing doing in it. Oats are weaker and the prices we quote now may decline shortly. At present, though, they are the ruling quotations.

THE CANNING INDUSTRY.

Present Selling System and Over-Production

To the Editor Canadian Grocer:

The Niagara Peninsula, comprising upwards of two hundred square miles, cultivated as it is to-day for fruits and vegetables, may well be called the Garden of Canada. It is now generally admitted that the Winter has not done any damage to the fruit in this section, and with a continuance of such weather as we are now having there is ample promise of a bountiful harvest.

In the matter of the four staple lines of vegetables grown for the canning factories — tomatoes, corn, peas and beans—all have made a good start and, under a largely increased acreage, give promise of being the largest crop on record.

In justice to the associated canners, as they get the credit of making the prices, it is only fair to say that it is a mistaken idea that they have unduly advanced the price to the consumer. During the last three years the cost of raw material has advanced 25 per cent., and supplies 50 per cent. The packing case which was 7c. is now 12c.; solder, which was 10c., is now 22c.; cans, which were $12.50, are now $18. This is in addition to scarcity and high price of labor. The quality of the goods has been much improved by the introduction of modern labor-saving machinery, and greater care is exercised in the manipulation of the raw product in placing it in the can the same day as taken from the field.

The development of the canned goods industry in this section has been most marked, and has surpassed the expectations of many of the older packers. In 1892 there were but two factories in this district, one at St. Catharines and one at Grimsby, and both of small capacity. This year there will be in operation eleven large institutions, all of which will pack tomatoes and will consume in the aggregate upwards of eight hundred thousand bushels, or nearly as much as was packed in all Canada fifteen years ago.

It looks now as if the canning industry stands in danger of being overdone by the establishment of new factories. Loss in capital will soon follow overproduction.

How long the consolidated canners will adhere to their present mode of selling is best known to themselves. It looks as if it was more conducive to the interest of the jobber than it is to that

SHREDDED WHEAT TALK

By AN UP-TO-DATE GROCER

Shredded Whole Wheat is the one staple cereal food better known than all the others.

You can grind up any old thing and call it a "breakfast food," but you can't make Shredded Whole Wheat that way.

It keeps better than any other cereal. It is not "treated" or "flavored" with anything and hence does not deteriorate.

It is ready-cooked and ready-to-serve, requiring only a slight warming in the oven to restore crispness.

It is economical. Contains more nutriment than meat or eggs and costs much less.

The shredding process makes it the most easily digested of al the cereal foods.

It is good for any meal any day in any season in any climate.

It has larger culinary uses than any other cereal food. Hundreds of dainty and palatable dishes may be made with it.

It is the purest and cleanest cereal food, made in the cleanest and finest industrial building in the world.

is superior to any similar food. The maple flavor appeals to the palate of child or adult. The crispy flakes add a spice to eating never found in mushy porridge. And this "spice" adds health.

of the canner. It takes from the canner his independence, as it deprives him of a free and open market where he can sell to every individual in the trade who is able to pay the price. The price should not only be regulated by supply and demand, but also by the quality of the article, and the confidence which the public have in the brand. It is claimed that the present form of selling firms takes from the factory its identity and individuality—the two most important requisites in holding and sustaining a sound reputation.

CANADIAN CONDENSED MILK.

Edgar Tripp, Canadian commercial agent at Port of Spain, Trinidad, writes to the Weekly Report: "Some time ago I drew attention to the absence of Canadian brands of condensed milk. This deficiency is being remedied quickly. Two years ago there was not a tin imported. Last year the value was £826, but as the total consumption is about £25,000 in value, there is still room for more Canadian."

He expects to be back again at his desk in a very short time.

OTTAWA CONVENTION.

Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, Ontario Section.

The convention of retail merchants of Ontario called for at Ottawa, July 2, 3 and 4, was opened in the capital at 10 o'clock Tuesday. Delegates were present from various towns and cities and though the attendance at the opening was small a larger number were expected and registered at the council chamber of the city hall on Wednesday.

The morning session was devoted to registration and the meeting of the executive to prepare the work of the convention. Rev. A. L. Geen, president, occupied the chair with the following assisting officers: First vice-president, H. C. Ellis, Ottawa; second vice-president, B. W. Zieman, Preston; treasurer, F. C. Higgins, Toronto; secretary, E. M. Trowern, Toronto.

An address of welcome was delivered by Mayor Ellis, as were also interesting and similar addresses by Mr. D. Murphy, president of the board of trade, and Mr. H. Watters, president of the local branch of the association. A goodly number of Ottawa retail merchants, members of the local branch, were present.

An interesting session is likely to be the result, as a number of very important resolutions were presented by the executive. A fuller reference to these will be presented in our next issue.

At 7.30 Tuesday evening the entertainment committee took the visiting delegates for a trolley ride to Britannia-on-the-Bay, steamer across to Lake Duschene to Aylmer on the Quebec side of the Ottawa River. The efforts of the local committee to entertain the delegates were highly appreciated.

Improvement in Shipping—Butter and Cheese Exports Small—Sailing Day for Mail Steamers Decided Upon,

There has been considerable improvement in the shipping during the past week or ten days. Demand from the other side for the various lines for export has helped a great deal to bring this about. Trade with other countries, too, has been better, and outgoing boats for other than British ports have carried good cargoes of Canadian products in most cases.

Butter exports might be much better than they are at present, although they are a little better than last week. Export shipments recently have been small. Conditions considered, however, this is not remarkable, as the high prices in Canada prevent export trade, since English importers will not pay such a figure as is demanded.

To a great extent this applies to the cheese situation also, but nevertheless cheese has been moving out much more freely than butter.

Meats are picking up and several good round lots have been sent out of the country.

Flour is another interesting line at present. Good shipments have been made recently by the large milling companies. One Montreal firm the beginning of this week made a large shipment to South Africa. Considerable flour has already been shipped to South African ports, and there is a probability of continued activity in this direction during the shipping season. The milling companies are doing all that is possible to develop this trade.

The rates this week are changed in two instances. Flour to Bristol is now ten cents per hundred pounds. Apples to London are quoted higher.

Manchester Commerce, Furness, Withy & Co., agents, sailed for Manchester with a general cargo on June 29.

The Yanariva is in port from the Barbadoes with a cargo of molasses and sugar.

The sailing day for mail steamers seems to have been decided upon, as the new folder of the C.P.R. Atlantic lines gives Thursday as the sailing day for the Empress of Ireland and the Empress of Britain from Liverpool and Quebec.

The Kensington, of the Dominion line, left for Liverpool June 29 with a general cargo.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Tenders are being called for the sale of the assets of the Dominion Packing Co., Charlottetown, P.E.I.

The Liebig's Extract of Meat Co. last year declared dividends aggregating 21½ per cent. More stock is to be issued.

C. B. Julius, general merchant, of Gimli, Man., has transferred his business to 646 Notre Dame avenue, Winnipeg.

Newman Bros., grocers, of Castleton, Ont., have dissolved partnership. Richard Newman will continue the business.

The MacLaren Imperial Cheese Co. have been appointed by W. Meyer & Co., Patras, Greece, dried fruit merchants, their agents in Canada.

Todd Bros., of Barrie, butchers and grocers, are clearing out their entire stock of groceries with a view to devoting their whole attention to the butcher and meat business.

Charles Denne, grocer, of Newmarket, added crockery to his stock and enlarged his store some months ago, but now finds it necessary to make a further increase to his store, which will make it 24 by 110 feet. Mr. Denne is a thorough business man.

B. B. Gunn, M.P., Seaforth, Ont., has sold his general store business to Williams & Purcell. Mr. Williams was in business in Dublin, Ont., and Mr. Purcell was manager for Mr. Gunn. The combination is a strong one and will assure a continuance of the business in the progressive spirit that has characterized it heretofore.

P. Anderson, one of the oldest grocers of Guelph, Ont., told a traveler this week that business was first-class, and the traveler telling The Grocer added: "He's really deserving of all the trade he gets because of his strict attention to business. He has one of the nicest, cleanest and best kept groceries in Canada and that's saying a good deal."

R. A. Smith, one of Newmarket's leading grocers, has purchased a store opposite his present premises which he is enlarging and fitting up. His new store will be 108x26 feet, and will have a metallic ceiling and all conveniences and modern fixtures, including Walker bins. Mr. Smith will have two flats 26x108 feet and one flat 26x66 feet, which when completed will be one of the largest stores outside of the cities. He expects to move in in about two weeks.

B. Thompson, of the Snelgrove Waddington Co.'s grocery department, Fort William, after spending five weeks at his former home in Fergus, Ont., has returned to his post.

DIXI H. ROSS & CO'S STORE.

The accompanying cut shows the delicatessen department of Dixi H. Ross & Company's store, Victoria, B.C. Ross & Company have a store which it is a pleasure to visit, and make a particular feature of roast meats, chicken, boiled ham, salads, jellies, etc. As can be seen, the delicatessen department presents a cleanly appearance and is withal conveniently arranged for the customer to choose and the clerk to serve. The cooking and preparing of the meats shown is all done in Ross & Company's own kitchen, on the premises, so that the present Chicago packing house scandal should only make more popular this branch of their trade.

The cut is fairly clear and needs no description with the exception of the two sides, which are a little dim. On the right is a display table for fish and oysters, and on the extreme left is an egg case. There is a wide passage-way around the central stand on which there is an assortment of sauces, condiments and specially prepared food for immediate use.

NEW GROCERY WAREHOUSE.

Geo. E. Bristol, of the Hamilton wholesale grocery firm of Lucas, Steele & Bristol, who has taken over the business from the Canada Grocers, Limited, has secured a large block of land east of the G.T.R. station in that city as a site for a big new warehouse.

ICE MEN TO THE COOLER.

Five ice men prominent in social and business circles in Toledo, Ohio, have been sentenced to $5,000 and one year in the workhouse at hard labor for combining to restrain trade. Under the pretext that the ice supply was much smaller than in recent years, these dealers combined and advanced the price from 50 to 100 per cent. If they would escape any part of it they must pay back to customers all overcharges and must agree to sell ice at the price prior to forming the combination.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Everything up to the Season—Old Vegetables Going off the Market—Raspberries and Red Currants in.

The past hot days with their occasional showers have been conducive to the growth and ripening of a good class of fruit. Nothing can be said to be backward or retarded just at present, in fact some lines are ahead of the season. New harvest apples are in and raspberries and currants have also found the market. Cuban pines are off the market, but Floridas are coming in in good shape. Old potatoes are gradually going off the market and new ones are cheapening in price. Vegetables all have felt the advance of the season and daily the prices are becoming easier.

The fish market is quiet. No changes in prices are recorded and only the usual steady business is being done.

Atlantic Fish Companies Take Over Whitman & Son.

The Atlantic Fish Companies have purchased a controlling interest in the fish business of A. N. Whitman & Son, Canso, N.S., and have organized a new concern to be known as the Whitman Fish Co., which will continue the business carried on by Whitman & Son during the past. The fresh fish branch of the business will be made a specialty of and with the facilities now possessed by the company for obtaining cod, haddock, halibut, mackerel and salmon, and transporting the same in cold storage to all parts of Canada, there is no doubt but that a large development in the newly acquired business will be experienced. The Atlantic Fish Companies are an organization that have the production, packing and distribution of fresh, canned and smoked fish down to a perfect system, the result of which is seen in their rapidly increasing trade. The businesses now operated and controlled by the large company now are Lewis, Anderson & Co., West India exporters, Lunenburg, N.S.; Hirtle, Rafuse & Co., vessel outfitters, Lunenburg, N.S.; Black Bros. & Co., fresh, smoked and pickled fish, Canso, N.S.; Whitman Fish Co., fresh, smoked and pickled fish, Canso, N. S., and Evitt's Fish Stand, frozen and pickled herring, Bay of Islands, Newfoundland.

MONTREAL MARKETS.

GREEN FRUITS—Trade generally is very good this week. Oranges are in fair demand around $5.50 a box. Lemons selling from $3.50 to $4 are also in good demand. Peaches and plums are quoted this week. At these figures there is considerable business passing. Apricots at $2.25 are enjoying rather good sale. Cherries are too high to command much business, but the select trade considers $1 to $1.50 per basket a good price for the present.

VEGETABLES—Are moving freely at present. The weather lately has been conducive to good business, and dealers report a very good general trade. The end of last week was a particularly busy time for dealers owing to the holiday on Monday. Cucumbers are selling freely from 40c. to 50c. a dozen. New potatoes are in very good demand also at prices quoted. Some Montreal potatoes are offered for sale at $1.20 per box. New turnips are now quoted from 60c. to 75c. a dozen, and at these figures considerable business is being transacted.

FISH—This week there has been a general tendency on the part of prices towards an advance. Gaspe and Restigouche salmon are not so plentiful as they have been, and prices this week are up one cent. Dore is now quoted at 10c., while grass pike has been advanced to 7c. Halibut continues to arrive in good quantities, and finds ready sale at figures quoted. All lake fish is becoming scarce, as is usual during the very hot weather. New skinless cod is now arriving, but continues rather scarce. Prices on boneless cod and boneless fish have been advanced. Labrador salmon in barrels is now selling at $13, while the B. C. salmon in barrels brings $12.50.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

GREEN FRUIT—This week has been the best yet in strawberries. They have about reached their zenith of quality and size, but prices still keep up well, this week's prices being quite as high as last week's. Red currants are on the market in small quantities and selling at $1. The quality is good for the early season. Raspberries bring 20c. a box and are being readily bought up. Some new harvest apples are in. They are not particularly good looking but are held at $2.50 per bushel. Contaloupes are down to $6 per case, and California fruit is arriving steadily. Canadian cherries are well on the market now and selling from 75c. upwards.

VEGETABLES—Old potatoes are almost off the market now and what are left are up a little higher in price. New potatoes continue to come down and are being bought this week at $3.50 per barrel. New Ontario cabbage are selling for 60c. per dozen and are quite up to the season's standard. Parsnips and old turnips are off, but new turnips are coming in more, 50c. per dozen being about the price for good ones. Cauliflower are daily becoming better, but the price remains about the same. Tomatoes are also increasing in size and appearance and bring the same price as last week.

BISCUITS AND CONFECTIONERY

TREND IN CANDY MAKING.

Everywhere candy factories are decreasing in number, says a writer in Workers' Magazine, but increasing enormously in size, number of employes, and in both volume and value of output. In Chicago about sixty establishments have a capital investment of $2,500,000, using annually over $4,000,000 worth of sugar, glucose, and "other" stuff, and producing over $7,500,000 worth of candy.

The "candy kitchen," like the "candy pulling" party, has gone or is going, and barring the beloved fudge, candy is to-day almost as much a factory product as gloves and shoes.

With a decrease of 20 per cent. in the number of establishments the capital invested in the business has increased 60 per cent., the volume of candy, measured in pounds, has trebled, and the wholesale value at the factories has doubled within the last few years.

The largest factory in Chicago is an immense building on the north side. One hundred barrels of sugar, 25,000 pounds of glucose, and fifty tons of coal are brought to its alley doors every day in the busy season and ten carloads of candy are shipped away in a week.

Glucose a Slandered Article.

Glucose enters largely into the composition of this sort of candy, and I was assured by the manager that glucose is more slandered than a candidate for Congress ; that it is a perfectly pure and entirely wholesome and nutritious substance. In this factory it is pumped from the basement through pipes which run all around the building. The glucose and sugar are mixed in their proper proportions and boiled in great copper vats. An iron arrangement, something like the stirrer in an ice cream freezer, turns automatically and stirs the candy. Formerly, in the good old days of hand labor, this was done by hand and the men often got terribly burned.

When it is cooked to its required consistency the syrup is poured out and cooled, ready to be molded. The molds are made by filling trays about two feet wide and four feet long with cornstarch, and putting them under a press, which forms them into any desired shape. A machine fills them with the jelly paste and they are sent to the dry room until they harden.

They then are dumped, starch and all, into a machine called a "starch buck," which brushes the starch from the candy, sending it cleaned through the chute, and the cornstarch through another to be sent back and used again.

HOW NUTMEGS GROW.

The nutmeg is the seed kernel of the nutmeg tree, which grows in the Malay Archipelago, and is known to botanists as the myristica fragrans. This tree, which is from twenty to thirty feet in height at maturity, resembles the pear tree in the shape of its leaves and fruit. Its flowers are like those of the lily of the valley and exceedingly fragrant.

The fruit is about the size of the peach and is edible. It breaks open in halves when ripe and exposes the seed, partially enveloped by a bright scarlet covering or arillus, which, when dried turns yellowish brown and is called mace. The seed proper has a thin shell and the kernel at first is smooth, but becomes wrinkled in drying.

The nutmeg tree begins bearing about eight years after planting the seed, and continues to yield for seventy-five years. The average product per tree is about five pounds of nutmegs and one and a half pounds of mace.

While, like many tropical trees, the nutmeg has ripe fruit upon it at all seasons, there are three principal periods of harvesting, viz.: July, when the fruit is most abundant though it yields thin mace; November, when, the mace is thicker, though the nutmegs are smaller; and March, when both nutmegs and mace reach the greatest perfection, though as this season is dry the production is not great.

After nutmegs are gathered and stripped of their outer coverings, they are placed upon gratings over a slow fire and dried at a low heat (not over 140 deg. Fah.) until the kernel rattles freely in the shell— an operation which takes about two months. The shells are then covered with lime to render them safe from the attacks of insects, as well as to destroy their power of germinating. They are then packed for export in tight casks, which have been thoroughly soaked and coated on the inside with lime wash.

BRANDON HALF HOLIDAY.

A grocery clerk in Brandon, Man., writes this paper as follows :

Brandon, June 29, 1906.

The Canadian Grocer,
Winnipeg, Man.

Dear Sirs :— Every grocery store in the City of Brandon will close every Thursday at 12.30 o'clock during July and August. There are 21 in all and every merchant signed for it with pleasure. We had the half holiday last year and it was most successful.

My reason for writing you this is that if you publish it I am sure it might help to get other towns and cities to do the same thing. It was the Brandon clerks who were instrumental in getting the stores to close. Every line of business will join in the holiday—such as dry goods, boots and shoes, jewelers, etc.

CANADA THE BEST YET.

Dr. Hucho, representative of the agricultural department of the German Government, now in Canada, was in Toronto last week and in an interview said he had traveled over the western part of Ontario and planned to go over all the agricultural territory of Canada.

"Canada is by far the best agricultural country I have yet visited," said he, "and I've traveled over a good portion of the globe."

The doctor intimated that his reports to the German Government would indirectly affect immigration to this country.

"Twenty years ago it was the United States that attracted us," he said. "Now it is Canada."

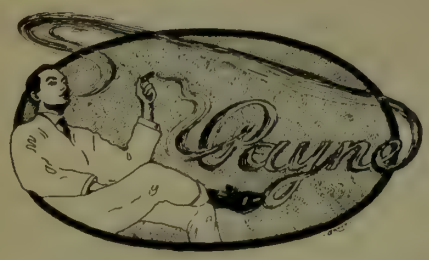
Don't Be One of Those Who Will Write For The "500" After The Offer is Called Off.



READ EVERY WORD CONCERNING THE "500" OFFER

You see, this "500 assortment" opportunity won't last forever.

I am simply making the offer (for a limited time) so that no grocer can complain about not getting a chance to try my cigars.

I feel sure that when I send "500" to a merchant, it will not be long before I am sending "1,000" to the same man PEBBLE and PHARAOH quality is bound to be found out.

And just this very month a lot of new cigar accounts can be opened by you.

Tuckett Truths

THE FIRST LOT

The tobacco manufacturer must know the smoker's taste or he cannot satisfy the smoker's palate.

T. & B. is an honestly made tobacco.

Smokers are easily won by winning ways.

The 10c. package of T. & B. sells awfully fast.

The arrangement of tobacco in the case goes a long way towards Saleville.

You'll notice T. & B. in nearly every grocery store.

The Canadian is as good a "piper" as the Scotchman.

A western grocer is building an addition to his store out of profits made on T. & B.

TOBACCO AND CIGARS

The American Department of Agriculture in its forecast of the 1906 tobacco crop states that owing to unfavorable weather during May, throughout a large part of the tobacco-growing area of the States, the prospects are not of the best. Later on, however, if the weather conditions improve, the outlook will be better.

Cigar tobacco in New England, New York and Pennsylvania shows an increased acreage, but the plants have been damaged by frosts, and are small and late in being transplanted owing to unfavorable weather. In Wisconsin the same conditions prevail in a lesser degree. Georgia and Florida are showing up better, both in acreage and condition of plants.

Chewing and smoking tobacco shows an increased acreage in the Burley district, and in Kentucky and Tennessee, but owing to cold weather early in the season and dry weather later, the present prospects are not good. Virginia and the Carolinas are also in need of rain and suffering from a scarcity of labor. Maryland and Eastern Ohio are much in the same condition.

The Mexico crop will be about 25,000 pounds for 1906, but the indications are that the quality will not be of a high standard.

CANADIAN TOBACCO CROP.

Prospects Good—Acreage will be About a Third Larger than Last Year.

Blenheim—We have had good season for setting the young plants and everyone has been able to set out all the plants they desired. The cut worms are doing some damage, but on the whole the stand in this section is the best for years.

Chatham— Everything looks flourishing. The increase in this section over last year will be about 50 per cent. The early set crops show a good stand.

Cedar Springs—Tobacco all in, stands are generally good. There will probably be about a 30 per cent. increase in this vicinity.

Harrow—The crop is now virtually all planted and we had good rains during the setting season. The usual large crop has been set here and with good seasons from now on we confidently look for the best crop ever harvested.

Cottam—Tobacco has been set all over this section and the stand is a very good one. The prospect for a good crop up here is the best we ever had.

Kingsville— The bulk of the crop has been set around here and the stand is fairly good. A full crop has been prepared for, perhaps the largest we have ever had. Plants have been scarce and ready sale has been found at $1.25 per thousand.

Leamington—The 1906 crop has been set. The recent rains have made it an ideal time to give the plants a good start and they are looking bright and nice. We recently saw one 12-acre field in which some plants would measure 10 to 12 inches across. The crop is about one week earlier than last year and the outlook is very promising.

GROWING MORE TOBACCO.

Correspondents of the Ontario Department of Agriculture in the current crop bulletin are credited thus :

Colchester N., Essex : Tobacco is being raised more extensively. This comes in contact with corn growing, and the latter gets somewhat neglected in consequence. In some instances an acre of tobacco has realized $200, although with many others it proves more or less of a failure.

Pelee Island, Essex : The growing of tobacco is taking the place of wheat and corn.

Harwich, Kent : The acreage of beans promises, as usual, to be large, but that in tobacco will probably be double that of last year.

A NOVEL TOBACCO FLOWER.

One of the flower novelties of the past year which was successfully grown in Ontario by many experts is a tobacco plant which produces scarlet flowers, "Nicotina sanderae." The plant was originated by crossing two South American plants, one of which had white and the other red flowers. The result was a flower varying from light pink to the deepest red. Planted in the foreground of a border of more familiar nicotina affinis, which has white, star shaped flowers of a wonderfully sweet fragrance at twilight, a combination of color most striking is produced.

This plant appears to bear flowers all Summer and with ordinary care should succeed under a great number of conditions. It has been successfully tested in Germany and the United States and has done well in sunlight and partial shade.

TOBACCO WAREHOUSE ROBBED.

W. B. Reid & Co.'s tobacco warehouse, Toronto, was robbed on July 3rd and goods worth $50 taken. Two men have been arrested with some of the goods on them.

SHOULD INTEREST YOU

The following article taken from the Strathroy Despatch of July 4th, should interest you and your customers :

A few days ago we were invited by the management of the Strathroy Canning Co. to visit their plant and comment as we saw fit upon the conditions existing there. Yesterday afternoon we accepted the invitation, and were shown over the premises by the Secretary, A. Leitch. The Company was not apprised of our visit, and we saw nothing outside of the daily routine.

We first entered the department devoted to threshing peas, or in factory circles, known as "vining." Three up-to-date machines are employed in this work, the result of their operation at times more than supplying the factory proper with needed produce. In this building is also situated a carrier extending the entire length of the spacious building. This is a new innovation, and permits of the continuous intake of peas being conducted to any part of the building at a moment's notice.

At this early stage we were impressed by the efforts of all concerned to adhere to the motto adopted by the Company,—"Cleanliness."

The recent exposure of the canned meat methods in the United States, and the subsequent investigation by the Government, has, we are pleased to state, no bearing whatever upon the output of Factory No. 21 of the Canadian Canners, Limited. Whatever the conditions may be in the United States, the Canned Goods packed at Strathroy are perfectly clean and wholesome, and are packed under the most rigid sanitary conditions. In support of this contention the Company invites inspection of their plant at any hour of the day by any person interested, or authorized to make an investigation of any nature.

Leaving the viner, the peas are conducted by the process of machinery along a lengthy table, where any particles of refuse, such as portions of vine or other nature is carefully removed. The peas then enter a washer, where they are carefully cleansed of the smaller particles of objectionable matter not detected by the eye.

It is worthy of note that during the journey of the peas from the viner to the shipping department, they are not touched or tampered with by human hands.

Being thoroughly cleansed the peas are ready for cooking, and are conducted to a room devoted to that purpose. In this, as in all other departments, the utmost cleanliness prevails, the purest of water only being used. They are then put through a spacious cooler, after which they are placed in cans by a filler, a new machine recently installed. The cans are then carried along to the capper, and carefully sealed, guaranteed at this final stage of the process to contain nothing but the purest and most wholesome product.

The floors at the factory are kept most scrupulously clean, and a department is set aside for the convenience of employees who desire to "wash up" upon changing from one run to another. An abundance of clean towels is always at hand for this purpose.

In conclusion, we might say that, by personal inspection, we discovered that the cleanlinss of the factory itself, and the employees, is the most important thing insisted upon, and, so far as we could see, the business is maintained upon conditions to which the most zealous sanitary inspector could take no objection. You are invited to call at the factory and inspect the plant.

The remarks as above are equally applicable to each of our thirty odd factories. In ordering canned goods it will pay you to stick to brands as follows, viz :

"Canada First," "Little Chief," "Log Cabin," "Horseshoe," "Kent," "Auto," "Lynnvalley," "Maple Leaf," "Lion," "Thistle," "Grand River," "White Rose," etc.

"QUALITY and CLEANLINESS," our Motto

Yours respectfully,

CANADIAN CANNERS, Limited

Easy, VERY Easy

To account for the success of Red Rose Tea is easy, very easy.

FIRST.—The tea is good and has always been good, honest value—better than most people have been accustomed to.

SECOND.—The retail grocers and their clerks have always taken the most friendly interest in Red Rose Tea—perhaps because I have the most cordial, friendly feeling toward them, and am always glad of an opportunity to express it.

What rubbish to talk of "forcing a merchant to sell your goods." The merchant that can be forced is not worthy of the name. His influence with his customers is greater than that of any advertising—but the right kind of advertising will help the friendly merchant and clerk toward greater success.

This is where Red Rose Tea and Red Rose advertising come in. They help the merchant increase his business.

If you are not handling this tea will you write me a friendly note of inquiry?

Increase Your Canned Goods Trade

You can do it to the extent of 25 or 30% very easily this season, and at the same time ntrench yourself more firmly in the confidence of your customers.

How To Do It

It is not difficult. We have done it many times over. The wholesalers and retailers who handle our goods have done it.

THE SECRET OF IT—Selling a line of Canned Goods far superior to any other on the market, a line of goods you can and do recommend unreservedly and which you push vigorously. That line of goods is of course The Old Homestead Brand.

Dress your windows with Old Homestead

Place Old Homestead conspicuously on your shelves

Tell your customers the merits of Old Homestead

Show the handsome Old Homestead Labels

You will be surprised how your canned goods sales will increase. You will be gratified with the way your customers will praise the goods. You will reap a handsome profit on increased sales.

Don't accept any other brand. Insist on having Old Homestead or write direct to

CANADA'S PRIDE

SEASON 1906

We have now fully equipped our factory with all latest machinery, making it modern and up-to-date and will pack a full line of FRUITS and VEGETABLES. We are situated in one of the best districts for producing a fine flavor, which was fully demonstrated by our pack of last year.

We would specially call your attention to our system of naming the different grades of peas, as on the label of each can is shown the exact size of the contents; the different grades being known as Nos. 1, 2, 3, which assures the consumers of getting exactly, what they are buying, instead of the great variety of names now employed, which no one understands. We respectfully ask that you give our goods a trial and allow the consumer to be the judge, ASSURING you we will pack, only, a HIGH-GRADE QUALITY, which will create a demand. Remember the brand "Canada's Pride," the best yet.

"BULK VERSUS PACKET"

The close companionship of such regulation and yet undesirable neighbors in a store as Fish, Cheese, Meats, Fruits, Vegetables and other self-assertive articles cannot impair the freshness and aroma of "SALADA" Ceylon Teas, which are preserved and sold only in airtight sealed packets.

This is a vast deal more than can be claimed for bulk teas, which are forever "going off" in flavor and deteriorating in value. "NO DENYING THIS FACT."

"SALADA" Green Teas are putting Japans just where "SALADA" Black Teas have put China Congous—"Out of Business."

Windsor Table Salt

You must look into the by-ways and hedges of the past for convincing proof that "quality" tells in the long run—there are financial wrecks there without number. And the figure of the grocer who was tempted to buy doubtful goods for a little saving on price looms up like a lighthouse in a dense fog. It pays to buy standard goods like

Pure, White, Crystaline

Windsor Table Salt, because it is all salt every single time. No impurity in it, because it is sifted, not ground. No "caking," because every drop of moisture is dried out of it. Remember the wrecks of the past when tempted to buy salt said to be "just as good as Windsor."

Safety is the First Consideration.

Some manufacturers of stove polish try to induce you to sell an inferior article—often a highly inflammable, dangerous and explosive polish, which is liable to severely burn your customers, possibly horribly disfigure them, and perhaps burn them to death. These deaths and accidents from explosive stove polishes are not rare by any means, as we can prove to any one from the news colums of the daily papers.

Remember that RISING SUN Stove Polish and SUN PASTE Stove Polish both give you a good margin of profit and are absolutely safe in the hands of the user. You can carry them in your stock with safety. Insurance companies are liable to object to paying losses in stores where inflammable goods are kept on the shelves without permits.

CEYLON
TEA
BLACK AND GREEN

My friend you will easily remember the early battle of Ceylon Tea for recognition on the Canadian market. It is not so long ago and our competitors made noise enough, to make it impossible to forget. You can't blame them. They were hard hit.

The fertile young island of Ceylon had every requisite for growing tea of the finest quality. British enterprize and cleaniness "made" these teas so well and at such excellent values that

RETAIL MERCHANTS' CONVENTION

Meeting of Ontario Provincial Section at Ottawa—Programme of Business and Pleasure—Complaint Against Telephone Companies—Resolutions Submitted—Freight Rates and Mail Order Business Discussed—Promise of Government Redress - A Fling at Trade Papers.

The convention of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, Ontario Provincial Section held at Ottawa on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, July 3, 4 and 5, and reference to which was made in our issue of the 6th inst., was a most successful assembly. Delegates from all parts of the province signed the register, and although the first days' proceedings was attended by but a small number, the arrivals on Wednesday made up a very representative body of retailers.

The program arranged for the convention was as follows :

Tuesday morning, July 3, 10 o'clock—Receiving of delegates at the City Hall and arranging business program.

Afternoon 2 o'clock—Opening of session by President A. L. Geen, Belleville ; address of welcome, Mayor Ellis; address, D. Murphy, president board of trade; address, Hy. Watters, president local branch; general business.

Evening, 7.30 o'clock — from Post Office — Trip to Britannia-on-the-Bay, Aylmer and Lake Descheme.

Wednesday morning, July 4, 10 o'clock —Tally-ho and cab drive from city hall to the driveways and experimental farm.

Afternoon, 2 o'clock—General business.

Evening, 8 o'clock—General business.

Thursday morning, July 5, 10 o'clock —Interview Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Afternoon, 2 o'clock—Pleasure trip to Rockliffe Park, rifle ranges and royal shanty. Music and refreshments.

President's Address.

President A. L. Geen, Belleville, occupied the chair and in his address referred to the splendid growth of the association during the past year, the number of branches in Ontario having grown from 65 to 130, and the increase in Manitoba and Quebec also was most encouraging, due to the excellent work by the general and provincial secretaries and their enthusiastic organizers. The association was still young and it behooved them to go carefully in touching questions of import to the trade—there were many weak spots that good counsel would no doubt strengthen. Unity of purpose was the guiding star of its members, for in unity there was strength, and in time the affairs of the association would be placed on a sound and solid basis. He thanked Mayor Ellis for his pleasant words of welcome, also the Ottawa branch for the entertaining programme provided, and no doubt all delegates would enjoy themselves thoroughly.

Henry Watters' Address.

Henry Watters, president of the Ottawa branch, in apt words and hearty manner referred to the bill of entertainment provided for visitors, and endorsed Mayor Ellis' welcome. He referred to the Criminal Code, certain clauses of which were to be brought to the attention of the Premier, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and the Cabinet, as being inimical to the best interests of the retail trade of Canada, and he urged united action towards securing justice and equality.

Wholesale in Preston.

B. W. Ziemann, Preston, Ont., referred to a wholesale grocery house in Western Ontario which was undertaking to start a retail business in his town, where goods would be sold at wholesale prices to bring the retailers to terms. The grievance on the part of the wholesale firm was that the retailers would not buy from it because it sold at wholesale prices to hotels, boarding houses, etc.

Telephone Companies.

The demands of the Bell Telephone Company were discussed. Delegates complained of the poor service in some cities, and of the merchants being compelled to pay for the telephones six months in advance.

Addresses were delivered by Messrs. F. W. Forde, chairman of the Ottawa Grocers' Association ; G. W. Shouldis, chairman of the Master Bakers' Association of Canada ; A. J. Warnock, H. Mockler of Durham ; A. J. Kerr, of Elora, and R. J. Crowder, of Wingham.

H. C. Ellis, President Ontario Section Retail Merchants' Association.

Resolutions.

The following resolutions were proposed and committees appointed for bringing in reports on same. These resolutions were ultimately passed after some strong discussions. As will be noticed, some of the resolutions are of a character which many members deemed outside of the province of the association to touch, and considerable discussion resulted before the same were put through :

"That whereas communications have been received requesting our association to co-operate with all other business associations to settle all questions of international dispute by arbitration, that this association deems it advisable to unite our efforts with the other business bodies as being in the best interests of commerce.

"That whereas a resolution has been forwarded to this board asking us to take up the question of freight rates regarding the transportation of sugar and determine if the freight rates are equitably applied between the various cities and towns of this province, that the chairman appoint a committee to examine into and deal with the matter.

"That whereas a large number of manufacturers place in and upon packages of goods coupons and presents for the purpose of encouraging the sale of their wares, this association request the Manufacturers' Association to take some action towards securing legislation that will stop the sale of goods placed upon the market by such unfair means, and that we pledge our support to the securing of such legislation.

"That the executive of this association be instructed to watch the Dominion legislation now in progress re co-operative associations and take what action they deem advisable to safeguard the interests of retail merchants.

"Whereas great inroads are being made into the retail trade throughout the province by mail order concerns, therefore be it resolved, that the executive committee of the Ontario provincial board take the matter into consideration with a view to finding some remedy.

"That whereas some discussion has arisen through the columns of a few trade journals criticizing the manner in which our association is organized, we believe the criticism is unfair and not in the best interests of the retail trade of the Dominion, and this association again affirms the general plan of the organization as being in the best interests of the retail trade.

"That it is the opinion of this convention that some action should be taken to regulate the manner in which telephone companies conduct their business with retail merchants, and we advise that the executive officers deal with the matter.

"That it is the opinion of this convention that it should be made compulsory that all claims for loss sustained on goods going by express or freight be adjusted within thirty days from the date of claim, and that the matter be referred to the Dominion board to be dealt with.

"That it is the opinion of this convention that each local branch should adopt what plan it considers best suited to its needs to provide for the protection of its members from bad pays.

"That this convention considers that it would be more convenient and advantageous if the Municipal Act were amended so that municipal elections would take place on the first of February or the first of March instead of on New Year's Day as at present.

"That whereas a considerable quantity of gold and silver goods are being placed on the market and misrepresented as to quality, this convention strongly urges the passage of the bill now before the Dominion Parliament respecting the proper marking of all gold and silver goods.

"That whereas the present criminal law discriminates against retail and wholesale merchants, and allows labor unions to do what we are not allowed to do, this convention strongly urges the Dominion board of our association to make every effort to have the law changed.

"That whereas the Postmasters' Association of Canada applied to the Dominion Government to give them the right to sell to mail order concerns lists of names of those persons living in their neighborhoods, and whereas the executive of this association protested to the Dominion Government through the Dominion board against the granting of this request and thus prevented it being done, this convention fully endorses the action of the Dominion officers of the association."

Committees on Resolutions.

The committees on these resolutions consisted of :

General business—F. Darnley, A. J. Warnock, A. J. Kerr, C. J. Provost, R. J. Crowder.

Provincial affairs—M. Moyer, H. H. Mackler, Henry Watters, B. W. Ziemann.

Dominion affairs—F. W. Forde, J. A. McManus, H. C. Ellis and G. W. Shouldis.

Secretary's Report.

E. M. Trowern, general secretary, read his report at the meeting on Wednesday, and same was the most satisfactory in the ten years' history of the association. There were now 135 branches and 2,555 members, not including Toronto, in Ontario alone. The Northwest Association had grown to a marvellous extent, and the Quebec division had grown similarly.

He referred to the amendment which had been made to the Transient Traders' Act. The Act as it now stands is very satisfactory, any by-laws can be passed by city, town, township or village councils to prevent transient traders of all kinds from selling without a license. He fully outlined the amendments and pointed out what had been gained.

The association had considered the proposal to form a fire insurance fund of its own, but had decided that it would be better to insure in an outside well managed and strong company.

It opposed the motion brought up in the Legislature by which the business tax at present in force would be charged to a personal tax on all the merchants' stock whether paid for or not. The motion was not pressed.

At the recent session of the Legislature a bill was brought up to prevent merchants from having signs projecting on the street, and even signs on the buildings. The association aided in having this bill defeated.

Outside Retailing.

E. R. Fisher of Ottawa spoke of men who came into that city from Toronto, take orders for all kinds of clothing, pay no taxes, and are under no expense except hotel expenses. He maintained that this should be stopped.

Mr. Ziemann spoke along similar lines. In the small cities agents came in from larger cities and took orders. In large cities agents come in from London and Glasgow.

Can Protect Themselves.

Mr. Trowern said that the law regarding transient traders, just passed by the Provincial House, would cover that. A by-law can now be passed by the city council preventing this practice.

Treasurer's Report.

F. C. Higgins, treasurer, brought in his report, as follows :

Membership fees collected by Mr. Eadie, organizer, were $2,600; fees collected by Mr. Brubacher, $2,500; fees collected by Toronto branch, $744. Total receipts, $5,844.

The expenses were : For Mr. Eadie's salary and expenses, $1,305; for Mr. Brubacher's salary and expenses, $1,250 ; and for expenses in Toronto branch, $367; refund to branches, $1,277.07; head office expenses, $1,644.50. There was no balance and no obligations. There had been no special calls on the merchants. The report was only for 11 months and therefore the receipts were much less than they otherwise would have been.

No Auditing.

The treasurer's report, while in the main satisfactory, led to some criticism on part of the members. It appears that no proper audit had been made, the expenses of the various organizers having been vouched for by themselves. This did not appear to be on business lines, and Messrs. Forde, of Ottawa, and C. W. Kelly, of Guelph, in referring to this procedure, considered that as this was a business association it should be conducted on business lines. A result of the discussion was the appointment, under motion of H. C. Ellis and R. H. Crowder, of a special finance committee, consisting of Messrs. Higgins, Kelly, Forde, Crowder and Secretary Trowern.

F. W. Forde, Chairman Entertainment Committee.

Entertainment Appreciated.

"The delegates of the convention wish to place on record the high appreciation of the way in which the Ottawa branch has entertained them."

Mr. Ziemann, in moving this resolution, said that it was impossible for the delegates to express adequate thanks for the magnificent reception given them by the Ottawa branch.

Mr. Moyer, of Toronto, said that he had not at all expected such a lavish entertainment. It should be told throughout the province. It was a remarkable reception.

The resolution was carried with three hearty cheers and singing of "They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

"I wish to join with the mover and seconder of this resolution in expressing thanks at the unbounded generosity shown in this entertainment. We expected a good deal from Ottawa, but the entertainment has far exceeded all our expectations," said Retiring President Geen.

Mr. Forde in receiving the resolution said he thought there was no better way of advertising a city than by using the delegates well. H. C. Ellis spoke along similar lines.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the retiring president, A. L. Geen, of Belleville.

A vote of thanks was tendered the press of Ottawa for the very full and correct reports given.

A vote of thanks was also tendered the mayor, council and chief of fire brigade far the use of hall, and the turnout of the brigade.

Mr. Eadie, Mr. Impey and M. Brubacher, organizers, were similarly honored.

Address of E. D. Smith, M.P.

E. D. Smith, M. P. for Wentworth, addressed the convention on the subject of "Pure Food," and his remarks were of value to members, as he explained the features of adulteration condemned by the Pure Food Act. The Act, he said, to prevent adulteration is fairly strong. If a food be adulterated it has to be labeled that it is a compound. Yet, he said, the word compound did not convey the impression that ought to be conveyed. He was in favor of the articles used in the manufacture of the goods being named on the label. He claimed that the jam furnished to the soldiers in camp is specified to be pure jam, yet if the records are looked up it will be found that no pure jam had been purchased.

Sugar Freight Rates.

Considerable discussion came up over the freight rates on sugar. The complaint came from Port Hope, where it is claimed that the "equalized" rate of freight from Montreal is 15c. per cwt. to Port Hope, in car lots, while the rate from Montreal to Toronto is only 3c.

A resolution regarding this was left to a committee to be appointed.

Manufacturers' Prices.

The resolution against the manufacturers placing prizes, coupons and other enticements in packages of their goods was discussed. A cereal manufacturer, it was claimed, placed painted dolls, painted toys with hair and other adornment in the cereal without wrapping them up, and therefore injured the cereals. The association was strongly opposed to business being done in this way.

Mr. Trowern said he believed that if the retailers took action the manufacturers would move in the desired direction. He said that the retailers did not wish to appear to be making demands. They stood in the same position regarding the amendment of the criminal code. It was decided to authorize the executive to discuss the question with the manufacturers.

The resolution calling attention to the effort to have a bill put through Parliament to authorize the formation of co-operative associations in this country was left to the executive to watch the advances and inquire into the plans of the promoters.

Mail Order Business.

The resolution pointing out the inroads being made on the retail trade by the mail order concerns brought forth the argument that the mail order business should be taxed, as these firms sold over the country where they paid no taxes and competed against merchants who paid heavy taxes. The order business was like the peddling trade and should be likewise taxed. The resolution was left to the provincial executive.

Trade Journals.

The criticisms of some trade journals in which they advised other associations to be formed separate from the general association brought forth much discussion. The speakers severely criticized the statements of these journals.

"You can't place your hand on a trade journal that ever helped an organization," said Mr. Trowern. "The history of every trade journal has been downward. I don't condemn the trade journals, we should take them, but let them keep their fingers out of the organization work. Association work is difficult enough without having journals, trade journals, putting difficulties in our way."

A resolution was passed confirming the general plan of the organization of the association as being in the best interests of the retail trade.

The resolution on trade journals was one that provoked considerable discussion, and many members felt that this was a question in which the association was not interested, or, if interested, it should be in support of trade journals, and the secretary himself advised members to subscribe to same. What he condemned was the apparent interest of certain trade journals, notably The Canadian Grocer, and Hardware and Metal, in advocating the formation of trade associations separate from the general retail merchants' association.

It was whispered by several members that if that was the rule desired by the association it would be as well for the Retail Merchants' Association to stop printing a trade journal, not one cent of revenue from which was recorded in the treasurer's report

It is no Help.

It was felt by a number of the delegates that the Retail Merchants' Journal was rather a hindrance than otherwise. As the representative from Wingham expressed it, they had forty-six members in that branch, and not a member, nor he, as president, had received a copy in four months. Others spoke of similar cases.

Good Trade Papers.

W. H. Seyler, of the MacLean Publishing Co., publishers of The Canadian Grocer and Hardware and Metal, who was present, was accorded the privilege of a few remarks, and in plain words clearly demonstrated that nothing that had ever appeared in the columns of these papers could be deliberately construed as being inimical to the good objects of legislation and improvement of trade conditions attempted by the retailers. Rather could it be said that it is now, and always has been, the policy of these papers, and all other genuine trade papers, to improve the conditions of the individual branches constituting the general body of retailers. No body of varied trades was stronger than its weakest link, and by strengthening the separate links the Retail Merchants' Association could only gain benefit. Criticism of any organization was the right and duty of every journal and, as Mr. Impey, Toronto, expressed it, "Surely the Retail Merchants' Association in its conduct of affairs should not consider itself above criticism—rather should it invite it." Neither the MacLean Publishing Co. nor any other legitimate trade journal would forego its rights to criticize, and, if necessary, condemn anything not considered in the best interests of individual branches of trade, or trade generally.

Resolution Not Well Received.

After Mr. Trowern, the secretary, had explained, according to his light, the intent of the editorial in The Canadian Grocer of June 29th, "Grocers Should Organize," and intimated that not a member of the staff of the MacLean Publishing Co. had any knowledge of trade from actual experience, or ever sold a dollar's worth of goods, etc., the resolution passed, many members refraining from voting, knowing, as they did, that the member of the MacLean Co. present had sold over a million dollars' worth of groceries, and had a trade experience compared to which the mover's was a peanut stand affair. As admitted to the reporter by a number of the most prominent members of the association at the close of the session, the resolution was considered by them as one that should not have been forced through.

Election of Officers..

The election of officers for the ensuing year was held and resulted as follows:

H. C. Ellis, of Ottawa, former first vice-president, was unanimously elected president of the Provincial Retail Merchants' Association.

First vice-president, B. W. Ziemann, Preston.

Second vice-president, F. C. Higgins, Toronto.

Treasurer, M. Moyer, Toronto.

Provincial secretary, E. M. Trowern, Toronto.

Auditor, C. W. Kelly, Guelph.

Decision as to the next place of meeting will be left in the hands of the executive. The time was also left with that body.

Interviews Government.

At ten o'clock, July 5th, the members of the association marched in a body to the Parliament Buildings, where they were joined by the Montreal delegates, who had come over by special train to the number of 120. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Premier; Hon. A. B. Aylesworth, Minister of Justice, and Hon. Wm. Patterson, Minister of Customs, received the delegation in the Railway Committee Room. A. L. Geen, president; E. M. Trowern, general secretary; J. A. Beaudry, secretary for the Province of Quebec, and Henry Watters, president of the Ottawa branch, addressed the Government on section 520 of the Criminal Code. The anomalous position in which merchants are placed by certain clauses in this section (which is reproduced herewith) was very clearly set forth by the different speakers, that of Mr. Trowern being particularly lucid and emphatic. Several questions were asked by the Premier and his colleagues, and the Premier, in dismissing the delegation, agreed to give the matter the closest consideration by himself and the Hon. Minister of Justice. It was too late now to promise immediate action, as the House was in its closing days, but he would arrange for a further consideration with the committee of the association shortly after the prorogation of the House. It is expected that an interesting and fuller explanation will be made by the committee appointed to this meeting.

Section 520 of Criminal Code, with Desired Amendments.

The words in black are the amendments desired.

"520. Every one is guilty of an indictable offence and liable to a penalty not exceeding four thousand dollars and not less than two hundred dollars, or two years' imprisonment, or if a corporation, is liable to a penalty not exceeding ten thousand dollars and not less than one thousand dollars who unlawfully conspires, combines, agrees or arranges with any other person, or with any railway, steamship, steamboat, or transportation company.

"(a) To unduly limit the facilities for transporting, producing, manufacturing, supplying, storing or dealing in any article or commodity which may be a subject of trade or commerce, or

"(b) To unduly restrain or injure trade or commerce in relation to any such article or commodity; or

"(c) To unduly prevent, limit or lessen the manufacture or production of any such article or commodity, or to unreasonably enhance the prices thereof; or

"(d) To unduly prevent or lessen competition in the production, manufacture, purchase, barter, sale, transportation or supply of any such article or commodity, or in the price of insurance upon persons or property.

"2. Nothing in this section shall be construed to apply to combinations of workmen or employes, for their own reasonable protection as such workmen or employes or to wholesale or retail merchants for their own reasonable protection as such wholesale and retail merchants.

No prosecution shall be commenced under the above section 520, without the fiat of the Attorney General for the province in which the charge is laid.

Closing Session.

After a brief closing session of the association in the council chamber of the city hall, the members agreed to meet for a trolley ride to the Rideau rifle ranges and the Royal Shanty. At two o'clock trolleys were taken to the shanty, where a splendid repast had been prepared by the local committee and speeches and music were indulged in for a few hours. The local committee were thanked most cordially for the magnificent manner in which they had provided for the entertainment of the delegates.

Convention Echoes.

President-elect H. C. Ellis deservedly received the congratulations of the members. He is one of Ottawa's brightest grocers and a hard worker in grocery trade matters, and his work in the Retail Merchants' Association is of the best.

That moonlight ride from lovely Britannia-on-the-Bay to Aylmer was most enjoyable. A pleasant surprise was tendered the delegates when the steamer passed Mr. C. J. Provost's, treasurer of the Ottawa Grocers' Association, Summer residence, in the shape of a display of fireworks. This little attention was much appreciated.

President F. W. Forde, of the Retail Grocers' Association, was here, there and everywhere, looking after the comforts and enjoyment of the delegates. Where there is work (or fighting) to do there you will find Fred Forde.

George Shouldis, president Bakers' Association of Ottawa, was a host in entertaining and his genial smile and friendly voice were a thing to remember. What a team Forde, Shouldis, Warnock, Provost and Brennan make for organization and entertainment!

M. Moyer, Toronto, was the Solon of the convention, while that magnificent Teuton, Ziemann, from Preston, rolled out the Queen's English in tones that caused attention and commendation. Big in frame and big in ideas, Ziemann is a card to draw to.

That German trio with its songs of the fatherland was an entertaining feature of the Aylmer trolley ride.

Ottawa as a convention city leaves little to be desired. Its beautiful location, splendid drives and considerate council make for a good time for all.

GREEK FRUIT SELLERS IN CANADA.

Editor Canadian Grocer:

Dear Sir:—I am interested in an article on page 36 of your last issue relating to the Greeks handling fruits in Canadian cities.

For several years I have been watching these sons of Hellas in various towns and cities in the States, but your publication is the first so far as I know to raise the question as to why the Greeks have been so phenomenally successful in this business in such a short space of time.

Coming into this country with little or no knowledge of our language or customs they appear to forge ahead, and while their successes are not astounding as compared with trust operations these days, still the main point is, as you show, they succeed.

I hardly believe it would be exaggerating to say that 75 per cent. of the Greeks coming to this country engage in the fruit business. There must be some reason for this that will, in some way, account for their success. In the first place, I think they follow the business because it is almost second nature with them, coming as they do from a semi-tropical country that has always been famous for its fruits. To my mind it is doubtful if they would make as great headway in handling some other line, as hardware, for instance. The fact that they know how to display their line to best advantage means quite a good deal, and the Greek has an artistic temperament par excellence. I am sometimes struck with the great care they exercise in keeping their corner stands; very few small merchants scrutinize detail so closely as the Greeks. Not only must all decayed or imperfect fruits be separated from the best, but the tiers must be dusted and the fruits wiped at regular intervals. Too frequently the average American seems to consider such slavery to detail as being cranky and unnecessary.

Another thing I have noticed is that the Greek is usually satisfied so far with being a retailer. His mind apparently stops short of the various ramifications involved in the wholesale game handling either deciduous or citrus fruits, but I am led to consider if the Greek who succeeds in a retail way will not eventually become a wholesaler, and by continuing the process indefinitely dominate the fruit business entirely. They are a factor to be reckoned with in retailing, and when we consider they have only been a few years in this country we may form some idea as to what they will do in the future if they keep up their past and present stride.

The height of Greek culture, as we see it in this country, is "Ten centa fiva banan at dees peanutta stan." Their capital is usually small and their operations restricted, I grant, but I am reminded that many of the largest clothing and other establishments now in this country owned and operated by Hebrews had an equally obscure origin, probably in a peddler's wagon or in an insignificant corner store in a small village.

I maintain that you have raised a very live question in your valuable magazine when you ask if the retail fruit business is to be controlled by the Greek merchants, or if it shall be regained by the retail grocer who has lost it, temporarily at least, and we regret to admit, to a shrewder competitor. I incline to the opinion that any drastic legislation in this country tending to eliminate the fruit stands, peddlers, hucksters, etc., would be a real menace to the fruit and produce interests, but I am at a loss to understand why more native born Americans have not engaged in the business, unless it is because the Greeks and Italians owing to their familiarity and long experience with fruits, etc., do not entitle them to be classed as superior fruit men. It can hardly be denied that these latter people sell a large amount of stuff that would be next to impossible to dispose of otherwise and that a large percentage of their business is handled on a very small margin. But the tendency of all modern business, I believe, is to extend the output and work on a closer margin of profit. Small profits will, therefore, have little or no effect on their future successes so long as they keep growing in the business. I am informed by a leading Greek here who has made a phenomenal success, and who by the way is already in the wholesale class handling fruits, that in 1885, the year in which he came to Chicago, there were 45 Greeks in the local colony. Now there are 10,000 and they all seem to be making money and are mostly engaged in the fruit business. I incline to the belief that the percentage of increase among the Greeks here has been about the same as in other cities in the States.

While it is purely in the realm of the academic to estimate what changes will be wrought in the next sixteen years, I think it fair to assume that we shall see some startling developments in the fruit business at the hands of our Hellenic friends, whose nostrils were perhaps filled in childhood with the soft odors from vine-clad hills, and who perhaps plucked fruits and flowers from Hymetus before they could master alpha, beta, gama. But let's be fair to the Greeks and give them credit for being intelligent and industrious; they are perhaps entitled to their success. Trade may be cajoled for a day, but the real master of commerce sooner or later finds his own, and maybe the Greek is a better master of fruits than we. Anyway, he bids fair to teach us a lesson in business as his forefathers did so many years ago in art, war and philosophy.

Yours very truly,
W. T. SEIBELS.

SPLENDID CROP PROSPECTS.

The prosperity of Canada being directly dependent upon her agricultural industry, it is gratifying that reports received from authoritative sources find the crop prospect very satisfactory. Interest in this regard turns primarily to the west, with each year a greater field to be reckoned on. Thousands of acres of rich prairie are being broken by the settler every day, and next season will add their quota to swell the immense grain product. Last year's yield, considered by the acre or as a whole, was wonderful, and if Nature is propitious the crop now in the ground will, by reason of increased acreage, far surpass it. What the influx of people will be during the present Summer it is difficult to estimate, but it will constitute another movement of the entering wedge that is to bring this fair Dominion a population of fifty millions in a few decades, and raise Canada's standard to a high place among the nations of the world.

All this means an agreeable situation to the merchant, providing always that he temper the modus operandi of his business with the precautionary measures suggested by the conditions surrounding him. He may accept the feeling of optimism with which the whole west effervesces, but he must introduce qualifications for present protection before figuring far into the future. He has been, and is, playing an important part in the upbuilding of that vast country in a way that is not necessarily coincident to the ordinary process of trading. He has exerted one of the most powerful influences that have been directed to placing the settler on a good footing, and putting the greatest acreage in seed as soon as possible. To those farmers who have shown the proper industrious disposition he has extended the most liberal credit, thereby permitting the use of an enormous capital in acquiring land and improving it that would otherwise have been held back for current expenses. It is the first year or so, while he gets no returns from the soil, that the settler feels most keenly. The merchant has tided him over that period safely, with the assurance that the first crop—which is generally calculated to set the owner on firm ground, with something to spare—would be followed by a settlement. This policy has been of inestimable benefit, especially to the homesteader, whose capital is small, and who, until the required duties are performed, has no freehold property to secure his paper.

Of course the merchant could not be so indulgent without the aid of the wholesale houses, and with long credit extended all round, the value of accounts outstanding at one time has been enormous. Naturally, harvest should see the books balanced up, but collections in the past have not been satisfactory. The farmer very often succumbed to the land fever—knowing that this is the last Great West, and that prices would never be so low again—and invested money that should have been devoted to settling his bills. Land greed is a hard thing to fight off, and in a new, rich country it is rampant. The screws had to be tightened up a little by the merchant, and now collections are better. They should continue to improve, particularly in those districts where more than one crop has been marketed. The temptation to buy while prices are advancing is great, but the farmer should square his accounts first. He must be urged to do so by every reasonable means. In the districts where prosperity has made its appearance — and in the west it often does very quickly — cash business should be encouraged as far as possible.

The merchant is now buying Fall stock. If the crop comes up to expectations business conditions will be good; if not, the times are likely to be pretty hard. It is not our wish to hold a pair of blue glasses to the merchant's eyes, but merely to emphasize the need that he has for caution. The outlook just now is splendid, and we pray that the brightest hopes may materialize. At the same time, let the possibilities exert their proper moderating influence.

Editor CANADIAN GROCER:

THE VALUE OF CREDIT.

When a man's credit is gone he has little left that is of any commercial value. Experience he may have, and social position, but without the standing which stamps him as a man who will meet his obligations, it is a bootless task for him to try to carry on a successful business.

A banker's confidence in the man to whom he lends money is based upon the experience, the application and the character of the man. And character plays no small part in the essential elements considered. But it is not enough simply to be honest. Many a man is honest and nothing more. He must be able to accomplish things, for without this he cannot be considered a good risk.

There is no royal road to credit: its building is the work of years. It is one of the most precious things in a man's business career, and should be guarded zealously and, above all, it should not be dishonestly take advantage of when once established. In every deal, credit plays its part with cash. If it were not so there would be little chance of a man with limited means rising above his present station in life, and only those who were fortunate in already having money could do business to advantage. The security of the largest business houses in the land today was founded upon their credit — their ability to make good—quite as much as upon the amount of their worldly possessions.

RAILROAD DISCRIMINATION.

The average shipper has long since ceased to evince marked surprise at anything a railroad may do or charge. The workings of the railroad mind are past finding out, or even the elucidation of an A. G. Blair. Still the shipper occasionally runs across such a flagrant example of wrong-headedness as to excite his interest if not his surprise.

Such a case was recently brought to the notice of The Canadian Grocer. A large shipper has been accustomed to send quantities of crockery from Hamilton to St. John, N.B., paying 62 cents per hundred pounds. A short time ago he had occasion to send a shipment of the same class of goods to Hamilton, Bermuda, and on his freight bill discovered that the railroad's charge to St. John was 29½ cents, because the goods were going through to Hamilton, Bermuda.

By a little calculation it was seen that he could ship his crockery through St. John a thousand miles out into the Atlantic to Bermuda and back again to St. John for less money than if they were shipped no farther than St. John in the first place. This is charging what the traffic will bear with a vengeance.

THE PURE FOOD BILL.

The Pure Food Bill which has just passed into law in the United States is severe in its penalties. The penalty for the first offence is a fine not to exceed $500, or a year's imprisonment for any person who manufactures, sells or offers for sale any article of food, drugs, medicine or liquor which is adulterated, misbranded, or which contains any poisonous or deleterious substance. But although this law seems to cover the ground completely, it has no care for anyone but a citizen of the United States. The importation of adulterated food is prohibited, and the importers are liable to a fine of from $200 to $300 with imprisonment, but such is not the case with the preparation of foods for other countries. It is expressly provided that goods for export shall not be deemed to be adulterated or misbranded when no substance is used in their composition which conflicts with the laws of the foreign country for which it is intended. Thus, for good Americans a special brand of meat must be prepared, but for Britishers, Canadians, and all other foreigners, anything that can be unloaded upon them may be used.

It is assumed, no doubt, that others know enough to protect themselves, but in view of the odium which now surrounds the product of American packing houses, it is only reasonable to think that everything possible should be done to re-establish or re-create the standing American meat once had.

Considering the whole question, the packers have got off easily. There are to be sufficient and suitable inspectors appointed to see that all places where food is prepared are fit for such work, and that no diseased animal or deleterious matter is used in the food, but it is the Government, and not the packers, who have to pay for the inspection. Nor do they have to affix the date of packing on the cans. It was held that goods once packed do not deteriorate with time, but while this may be true, it is doubtful if the public will feel quite like believing it.

EXPORT TRADE INCREASING.

Trade returns for May and June recently obtained from the Montreal Board of Trade give silent but eloquent testimony of the development of our export trade. While every line has not shown an increase, taken as a whole export shipments for the first two months of the season have been ahead of the shipments for the same period last year. As an instance, wheat exports for May and June, 1906, were over double those of these two months in 1905. On the other hand, butter exported was some thirteen hundred odd packages under last year's figures for this period. The flour trade has developed wonderfully, and shipments show an increase of over one hundred and twenty-four thousand barrels. The lard trade has grown very much also. Meat shipments have not been large, in fact there has been a decrease, but as a good deal of the meat shipped through Montreal comes from the States, this is not to be wondered at considering the recent exposures in Chicago. Cheese exported was much ahead of last year. Other lines which are important in export circles showed corresponding increases or decreases, as the case might be, but generally the former by a good large margin.

SUGAR PRICES COMPARED.

It is interesting to note the action of the sugar market as regards prices, this year as compared to last, from January to June inclusive.

The market opened the year 1905 at $5.45. By the end of January the price had advanced to $5.75. February 9 saw a decline of ten cents. From that date the price declined, ten cents at a time, until it stood June 27 at $5.

The price quoted the beginning of 1906 was very much lower than that demanded in 1905. January 1 $4.30 was the price asked. Up to June the market fluctuated considerably, advancing one week and declining another. February 9 $1 was asked. Between that time and the end of June the price fluctuated more or less, at the latter time the price quoted being $4.20.

The figures below show how the market acted :

TO PREVENT FRUIT DECAYING

What it is and How to Prevent it—Formalin as a Preventive—Will Keep a Week Longer.

The treating of ripe fruit for preservation has always been a subject of great interest. The following particulars of experiments at the Kew Laboratory, London, England, cannot fail to be instructive to both grower and dealer: it is well known that the rotting or fermentation of ripe fruit was proved by Pasteur to be due to the presence of living organisms—fungi and bacteria on the surface.

From this starting point it was inferred that if these organisms could be destroyed the period during which such fruit could be kept in a perfect condition, could be considerably prolonged; and a series of experiments conducted in the Jodrell laboratory at Kew proved the inference to be correct.

The fruits experimented upon, were ripe cherries, gooseberries, grapes, pears, and strawberries. The fruit was not selected but purchased from shops, or in some instances from vendors in the streets.

The Time Result.

The following shows the number of days during which the fruit after special treatment, remained perfectly sound, after a similar quantity of untreated fruit from the same lot had become mouldy or decayed: Cherries, 7 days; gooseberries, 7 days; grapes, 4 days; pears, 10 days; strawberries, 4 days.

The above applies in all cases to fruit that was perfectly ripe when experimented upon, but it was ascertained that if fruit is treated before it is quite ripe it is equally well preserved, and the normal course of ripening and the flavor are not in any way interfered with, as is the case where fruit is kept for some time in a refrigerator.

The Importance of the Subject.

This fact suggests that the method of fruit preservation described here, although valuable in extending the duration of home-grown fruit in good condition, will eventually prove to be of the greatest importance in enabling our markets to be stocked with many delicious kinds of tropical fruits, which under present conditions never reach us. A careful examination of ripe fruit from the West Indies, intended for exhibition at the Crystal Palace in connection with the Colonial Produce Exhibition, showed very clearly that the decay of such fruit as mangoes during the voyage, was due entirely to mouldiness and fermentation set up by fungi and bacteria that were present on the surface of the fruit before shipment and not to an inherent tendency to decay or to become over-ripe on the part of the fruit.

What Decay Really is.

It is common knowledge that the decay of ripe fruit originates from bruises or wounds on the surface, and thence rapidly spreads both internally and over the surface. Unfortunately it is not so generally known, although equally true, that the decay of the bruised or wounded part is entirely due to the presence of the germs of fungi or bacteria, which develop rapidly, feeding on the sugar or other substances liberated from the bruised tissue. Fermentation and decay follow and quickly spread from one fruit to another.

Use to Prevent Decay.

Similar treatment might be applied with advantage to certain tropical fruits that do reach us in fairly good condition, as bananas, where too frequently the unsightly and injurious blackened "skin," caused by an external fungus, could be easily prevented. Apples, pears, oranges, lemons, etc., would also repay similar treatment.

What is the Best Method.

The method of treatment described below is very simple, inexpensive, and perfectly free from danger.

In the case of fruits where every part is eaten, as strawberries, etc., the fruit should be immersed for ten minutes in cold water containing 3 per cent. of commercial formalin (= 40 per cent. of formaldehyde). On removal immerse the fruit for five minutes in cold water, and afterwards place it on wire-netting or some similarly open material to drain and dry.

When the fruit has a rind or "skin" that is not eaten, the immersion in water after treatment in the formalin solution can be omitted with advantage.

Formalin Top.

Various other preservatives were tested, but when the whole of the requisite points—efficiency, ease of aplication, cheapness and absolute freedom from danger arising from its use—were taken into consideration, formalin stood first.

WHAT IS GRAPE FRUIT?

There is little doubt that much confusion exists as to what is really grape fruit as distinct from the allied citrus fruits passing under such names as pumelow (invariably spelled pomelo in the United States), shaddock, forbidden fruit, paradise fruit, and others. These fruits are all, or nearly all, larger than the largest orange, and they are uniformly of a pale-yellow color. In texture the rind may be smooth or even polished. It is seldom rough, nearly always firm and not very thick. The pulp is pale-yellow or greenish-white, sometimes pink or crimson. The juice bags of the pulp are more distinct than in the orange; very juicy, somewhat sweetish, with a distinct, but agreeable, bitter flavor. In shape these fruits vary a good deal. Some are quite globular, others somewhat flattened at the top and tapering below, forming a pear-shaped body.

Shaddocks or Pumelows.

These fruits have been ranged under the giant citrus (Citrus decumana). This is supposed to be a native of the islands of the Pacific. It was introduced into the West Indies from China about 150 years ago by Captain Shaddock, in compliment to whom, since that time, the fruit has always been known in this part of the world as shaddock. The term shaddock may be correctly applied to any of the larger members of the giant citrus. The word pumelow, so widely used in India and Ceylon, is supposed to be a contraction of pomum melo, the melon apple.

All the larger fruited sorts may, then, be called either shaddocks or pumelows: these are merely the western and eastern names for the same thing and are perfectly interchangeable. There are two well-marked varieties one being globose, with the flesh of a pale pink color, and the other pear-shaped, usually with a deep pink or crimson pulp.

The Forbidden Fruit.

As regards the small fruited sorts, these, according to Dr. James Macfadyen, the author of the Flora of Jamaica, may be either globose, when they are called forbidden fruit, or pear-shaped, when grape fruit (so called because the fruits grow in clusters like a bunch of grapes) is the older name. The name forbidden fruit (from a fancied connection with the Garden of Eden) is tolerably old in the West Indies.

The True Grape Fruit.

As usually happens, when a name has become familiar in commerce, it is eventually applied in a much wider sense than the original one. Thus, the term grape fruit has become so general that any moderately large fruit, provided the skin is pale yellow, thin, and smooth, and the pulp of a delicate flavor, is designated by it. The fruit commonly called grape fruit in New York is really the forbidden fruit of the West Indies. The true grape fruit is pear-shaped, and, according to Macfadyen, when obtainable at its best, is preferable to the forbidden fruit. The latter are in great demand, and they are regarded as the most refreshing and wholesome of any of the citrus family.

The grape fruit is not a shaddock nor a pumelow. It is quite a distinct fruit and possesses exceptional merits. It is in great demand in America chiefly because it has been so highly recommended by the medical faculty for its valuable dietetic and tonic qualities. It is also very refreshing and is regarded as a specific for dyspepsia.

Inferior Fruits.

There are, doubtless, many inferior sorts of grape fruit. In fact, in the West Indies, the plants have been allowed to run almost wild. No care has been taken to select the best varieties, or to bud or graft them, so as to keep them uniformly, at a high standard. There is no need to grow the thick-skinned and bitter sorts, and those with a dry, cottony pulp, while there are varieties, both of the apple-shaped and pear-shaped fruits, with a silky skin, full of juice, and of a most delightful flavor, with just enough bitter to give a piquancy and suggest its valuable tonic qualities.

THEY WILL TRY AGAIN.

The Keystone Sugar Company will again appeal to the citizens of Chatham to vote on a by-law to establish a sugar refinery at that place. It is said that the proposition will be put in a different form this time, and that it will appeal more favorably to the electors. The vote will be taken on July 20.

A PARKDALE GROCERY.

The two cuts shown this week are of the interior of George Riley's grocery store at 1476 Queen street west, Toronto. As will be seen all the wall space is utilized and counters run on three sides of the store. One view shows the general layout and the other shows the left wall, more in detail. The stock is easily gotten at—a good feature—and is so arranged as to give a clean and symmetrical effect. It is a good point to have the stock well exhibited. It is a constant reminder to the purchaser of articles wanted that might otherwise be forgotten, as well as having a suggestive merit. Note the silent salesman. It is safe to say these cases soon pay for themselves. Mr. Riley has been in business only five years, but already has made a creditable showing.

THE QUAKER BRAND CANNED GOODS

We have been agents for this brand of Canned Goods since the factory was first established and they have given us perfect satisfaction. They have also been particularly pleasing to our customers and the consumers of Canned Goods in New Brunswick. This was most emphatically confirmed during the recent strife among the handlers of Canned Goods, during the Fall and Winter of 1905. When all the wholesale dealers were cutting prices 15 to 25 per cent., in many instances away below the cost of production, our customers preferred to buy Quaker Canned Goods at a living margin of profit, knowing full well that their neighbors were paying exactly the same prices for the same brand of goods and that there would be no cutting of retail prices. This enabled us to handle fully 20 per cent. more goods during this season than any other previous year, without any complaint either from customer or consumer.

We shall continue to handle Quaker Brand Canned Goods during the season of 1906, and can assure our friends that the quality will be fully maintained and the prices will be as low as is consistent with the high quality of the goods and cost of production.

Thanking our friends for past favors and trusting to receive your continued support, we remain, etc.

QUAKER CANNED GOODS

The above goods are now pretty well known to the trade, so that it does not require much talk on our part to make them sell; in fact, we are usually oversold. Still we believe it does not come amiss to take an occasional page in The Grocer, particularly at this season, to let our friends know that the Quaker, while usually a peaceful citizen, is always in the ring when it comes to a fight for trade. Perhaps the best advertisement for these goods is to call attention to the pages in this edition of The Grocer as to what our friends say in the matter. These people have been handling Quaker goods for years, and we think the trade will listen to their statements as more in the line of disinterested statements than anything we might say. If we had time, space and inclination, we could publish quires of the same kind of talk from consumers. In fact, if continuous praise of the Quaker, which we are receiving almost hourly from a thousand and one sources, had the usual effect, we would have to buy a new hat every day in the year.

THE PACKERS OF QUAKER CANNED GOODS

QUAKER SUGAR and CREAM CORN

The above is a line that we have been packing for two years, and we have never made a customer for it that we have not been able to retain. The raw material is grown from select Maine seed, where they grow and pack corn that sells for just double the ordinary corn packed throughout the United States. While this is the case in regard to the quality of Sugar and Cream Corn, we are not looking for any fancy price for it. It can be retailed at all points in Ontario at 10c. This will be the established price whether there is a scarcity or a large pack. We believe at this price it is the best value in canned corn on the market. This is our one specialty, and we will stake our reputation on it. We know that all that is required is for it to become known to secure an enormous sale. While the outside of a package doesn't cut much figure unless the inside is all right, we believe when you have a combination composed of the highest quality inside the package and a handsome light-tinted embossed label on the outside, the two combined make a package that won't lie around on grocers' shelves long enough for defacement.

THE QUAKER'S PROVERBIAL HONESTY NOBLY SUSTAINED.

The Bay of Quinte district is as widely famous for the quality and flavor of the Fruits and Vegetables grown in its peaceful valleys, as the Quaker is noted for his proverbial honesty.

When the Quakers established their canneries in the heart of this famous fruit and vegetable producing area and equipped it with the most modern canning plant in the Dominion, the grocery world assumed a sceptical attitude toward the company who were venturesome enough to enter what they considered a field already over-worked.

The success of Quaker canned goods was almost immediate, the bright, attractive labels compelling attention and the genuine goodness of the contents establishing a standard which has become the envy of competing packers and the delight of the numberless consumers who look for the Quaker label when they buy canned goods.

We are pleased to be able to inform our numerous friends in the Northwest THAT WE WILL, AS IN THE PAST, CONTROL QUAKER GOODS FROM WINNIPEG TO THE ROCKY MOUNTAINS. Anticipating the increased demand, we have ordered more generously than ever this year.

MONTREAL GROCERY CLERKS' PICNIC

Some four hundred persons attended the seventh annual picnic of the Montreal Grocery Clerks' Association, which was held in Newport, Vt., July 4. Unfavorable weather conditions, particularly in the morning when the excursionists left the city, prevented the turning out of a larger number of people. However, the association covered all expenses and still had a goodly sum on the right side of the ledger. When the excursionists left the Windsor station at 8 a.m. it was raining heavily. It was still raining when the train pulled into Newport, but the sun came out about two o'clock and the balance of the day was an ideal one, except for the wet ground.

Credit must be given the officers of the association for choosing such a delightful spot in which to hold their picnic. Newport, situated on the shores of pretty Lake Memphremagog and surrounded by the many hills of Vermont, would be hard to equal in natural beauty.

Owing to the satisfactory manner in which all arrangements were attended to by the officers, everything went off without a hitch, although on account of the day being an American holiday, it was rather difficult to obtain dinner for all without some considerable trouble.

However, this problem was soon solved, and then the excursionists wended their way to the Memphremagog Driving Park, where the programme of sports was carried out very successfully. There were twenty-six events, all of which were keenly contested. Two of the numbers, the string swallowing contest and the soda biscuit competition created considerable amusement for the onlookers. Following is the programme of sports and the winners of the different events :

Tug of war between citizens of Montreal and citizens of Newport — Won by citizens of Newport.

Several retail grocers, members of the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association, were present. The traveling fraternity was also very well represented.

After dinner the president of the association, Mr. Lacroix, gave a short address, speaking of the growth of the association since its founding by the present treasurer, Mr. J. B. E. Poirier. P. Daoust, president of the Grocers' Association, also said a few words. Further addresses had to be dispensed with owing to the shortness of the time at the disposal of all.

The excursionists entrained for Montreal at 7 p.m., arriving there about 11.30 p.m.

Notes.

J. B. E. Poirier, founder and treasurer of the association, made many new friends among those who took part in the excursion by his unfailing courtesy and his desire to please everybody.

G. Lacroix, president, and B. Guenette, secretary of the association, were both very much in demand throughout the day and were kept busy looking after the welfare of the excursionists, which they did in a very satisfactory manner.

Walter C. Gaden, of Red Rose tea fame, was on hand. Both going and coming on the train the chorus of one of the Red Rose tea songs was heard quite frequently. The clerks seemed to be familiar with the refrain.

EXPORT TRADE INCREASING.

Trade returns for the two months, May and June, giving figures on the export trade through the Port of Montreal, are very satisfactory. They show that, although some lines show a decrease in the amount of merchandise shipped, speaking generally, the tendency has been towards increased shipments. Wheat shipments, for instance, are over double those for the same period in 1905. Flour shipments show a tremendous increase over last year. Cheese shipments are over 43,000 boxes ahead of May and June, 1905. In butter exported there has been a slight decrease, which, considering conditions, is only natural. Over 7,000 more packages of lard were shipped than during these two months in last year. A considerable decrease, 8,790 packages, is noticeable in meats, hams and bacon. This may be due to the recent Chicago exposures, or to some other cause. Canadian packers state that they do not find any decrease in their export business. Considerable American canned meats, etc., are shipped via Montreal, however, and it may be that the decrease is in these.

The table hereunder will give some idea of the trade during May and June this year as compared with the same period last year:

GROCERY STORE BURGLARIZED.

The grocery store of A. Legault, corner of Ontario and Orleans street, Montreal, was robbed one night last week. Mr. and Mrs. Legault upon returning home on the evening in question, were surprised to find that their store had been entered from the rear. The till was forced open and the money extracted therefrom, while liquor and tobacco to the value of $30 was also stolen.

EFFECTIVE ADVERTISING

McKENNA'S AD.

McKenna, of Charlottetown, P.E.I., always has good newspaper ads.

The "canned goods" specimen illustrated on this page measures up pretty well to what a retail grocer's advertisement ought to be.

Notice the number of "our's" and "we's"—placing the emphasis on McKenna more than on the goods sold in his store.

Notice how in almost every sentence you feel that somebody is personally addressing you.

McKenna's ad is worthy of being kept as a pattern.

A CORRECTION.

In last week's page the explanatory lines below specimen ads should have been transposed.

CIGAR ADVERTISING.

If there is one line of goods that pretty nearly everybody in our town sells it's cigars. I guess it's so in every town. That being the case it will please a good many dealers to know how to make a little more money out of these goods.

We sell cigars, but for a long time they didn't earn their salt. They are making money now and I think it's the advertising that has done it. Advertising will do about anything, I believe.

We used to sell cigars just as most of the rest do. We had a show case full of them and a lighter on top of it and whenever any one asked for a cigar we sold them one. At that rate we sold as much as three dollars' worth of smokes some days. I'll bet the boss' nephew smoked up the profits on more than that himself. He used to help himself whenever he went to a meal.

Now it's all different, though.

I studied into the cigar business a little and saw that we were giving people a pretty poor value when they bought cigars. I didn't notice any one coming back and asking for more. That set me thinking.

I found a man who knew something about the cigar business and about the ways of taking care of cigars. I got a lot of pointers from him and some more from a traveling cigar salesman. I cleaned up the old case and put new price cards on all the cigars, made them with white ink on black cards, and marked all our five-cent straight cigars "six for a quarter." Then I got the boss to buy some good stock, some good "fives," "tens," and even better.

I didn't want to do any advertising until we had something that would stand advertising. Then I began to tell the smokers what we had for them.

I sent mailing cards to all the young fellows who buy good cigars, and made the reading something that they would not throw away without looking at it. I'd have the girl typewrite these cards between times. They were worded something like this, for instance:

"Dear Henry:—What have you been smoking lately? I did think that the cigars in this town were getting too bad for any use, but the other day I dropped into Smith's and say, they have begun over on their cigar trade. I got a quarter's worth of "Beavers," six for 25c., and they are great, the best "five" I ever smoked. Go in and tell them to give you one and charge it to me.

"Yours as ever,
"JACK."

This was the first card. Then a week or so later I sent out another to the same list and made it about like this:

"Dear Henry:—Jack told me to write and ask you whether you had tried the 'Beaver' cigar yet. He's just dotty about it himself and talks about nothing else when his friends drop in for a smoke. I am not much of a smoker myself and find it hard to get a cigar that I really enjoy, but I followed Jack's advice and the 'Beaver' is all to the good. We're thinking of a 'Beaver' club. Better get in line. Tell Joe about it, too.

"Yours as ever,
"BILL."

You get the idea? I carried on quite a follow-up system along this line, cutting off from the list any of the men whom I knew had been in and bought cigars. I had a little different and more diginified form card for older men, men who smoke good cigars but who might be offended by anything bordering on familiarity in the way of an ad. Then, too, I had a form still more familiar that I used on some of the sports. The plan is not expensive to carry out and is a sure help to the cigar trade. You can advertise cigars in a way that you could not advertise other goods, you know.

Canned Goods
The season hasn't advanced far enough to give you fresh vegetables and fruit.
OUR CANNED GOODS comes as near it as you could wish for. No need in having a bare table when you can get our TOMATOES, CORN, PEAS, WAX BEANS, PEACHES, PEARS, PINE APPLES, STRAWBERRIES, in SYRUP, etc.
We handle only the best brands put up by reliable packers—you can rely on them being pure and fresh. Call at our store and we will be pleased to show them to you.
McKenna's Grocery,
Phone { Down town store 228a. Up town store 228b.

In connection with this kind of advertising I got up some pretty nice windows, and cigars are goods that respond to a window trim right off.

One of the easiest and best windows I ever made up was one of a brand of cigars that we had just stocked pretty heavily. I built across one corner of the window a big brick chimney and and fireplace with a simple board mantel. the bricks weren't bricks but boxes of cigars, all of one brand with the label showing.

The whole thing made a design of regularity and symmetry, repeating the label. On the mantel I sat an open box of the cigars, also matches, an ash tray and a pipe or two. On the chimney above the mantel I put a fancy card advertising the cigars and in the fireplace put a lot of the boxes promiscuously with a card reading, "Good to burn. Costs a nickle to burn one."

Of course that left some window space to use in decorating with the cigars, or with any other brands that you want to put in, though as a rule a cigar window will pull harder if you make it all one brand. That makes it look as if you had something there that you pinned your faith to and were willing to recommend.

Put in plenty of good, catchy price and sign cards telling about the cigar and the stock it is made from. Before you go at the cigar advertising though, see that you have a first rate line of goods and know how to take proper care of them so that your customers will want to come back for more.—Brains.

E.A.B.

SAND WILL DO IT.

I observed a locomotive in the railroad yards one day,
It was waiting in the roundhouse where the locomotives stay;
It was panting for the journey, it was coaled and fully manned,
And it had a box the fireman was filling full of sand.

It appears that locomotives cannot always get a grip
On their slender iron pavement, 'cause the wheels are apt to slip;
And when they reach a slippery spot their tactics they command,
And to get a grip upon the rail they sprinkle it with sand.

It's about the way with travel along life's slippery track;
If your load is rather heavy, you're always slipping back.
So if a locomotive you completely understand,
You'll provide yourself in starting with a good supply of sand.

If your track is steep and hilly, and you have a heavy grade,
If those who've gone before you have the rails quite slippery made,
If you ever reach the summit of the upper tableland,
You'll find you'll have to do it with a liberal use of sand.

If you strike some frigid weather and discover, to your cost,
That you're liable to slip on a heavy coat of frost,
Then some prompt, decided action will be called into demand,
For you'll slip way to the bottom if you haven't any sand.

You can get to any station that is on life's schedule seen
If there's fire beneath the boiler of ambition's strong machine,
And you'll reach a place called Flushtown at a rate of speed that's grand
If for all the slippery places you've a good supply of SAND.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

QUEBEC MARKETS.

FLUCTUATIONS—
Fish—Revised.

Montreal, July 11, 1906.

Since last week there has been very little change in the grocery situation. Orders being received by jobbers would indicate the amount of business as being just about what is usual at this time of the year. Collections are not as good as they might be, and many wholesalers find difficulty in obtaining what have formerly been good accounts all along. This is not noticeable to a very great extent, but nevertheless in some cases this condition exists. The jobbing trade is interested greatly in the sugar situation at present. Business passing is very large. Many houses have bought enough, apparently, to last a month, only to repeat the order within a week or ten days. This is ascribed largely to the fact that the fruit season is now about commenced. Prices are steady. Canned goods present no new features. Dealers daily expect quotations on California canned goods. Tea continues very little changed. Advices from Japan do not bring any news of importance. Molasses is unchanged, very little business passing. There is nothing new in coffee, while the spice market is firm and strong. Foreign dried fruits are, speaking generally, in fair demand. Nuts of all kinds are advancing. Some new comb honey has been offered, but stocks are very limited so far. There is a report that the bean crop has been more or less injured. This will have some effect on the market this season.

CANNED GOODS—Canned goods are practically unchanged from last week. Business continues steady. Tomatoes are not in any more request than usual since the decline mentioned in our last report. Corn and peas are moving fairly well. Canned fruits are not as much in demand as they have been, due, no doubt, to the increasing arrivals of green fruits and berries. Dealers are daily expecting quotations on California canned goods. It is anticipated that apricots will be considerably higher than last year. Peaches will be higher probably, while cherries and pears will be either the same or lower.

SUGAR—Sugar at present is interesting. There has been a very large demand throughout the week, due doubtless to the fact that the fruit season is beginning. Many houses bought sufficient sugar, as they thought, to last a month, only to repeat the order within a week. Prices are firm. Despite the feeling last week, no advance has occurred.

TEA—Since our last report there has been practically no change in the tea situation. Business locally is about fair. Advices received from Japan state that the second crop teas are short, and not of particularly good quality. Medium grades Japans are strong and in good demand. In Montreal prices on new Japans are very well maintained. It is reported that the Americans are buying China greens evidently at a large advance over last year, something like 12 per cent.

SYRUP AND MOLASSES—Molasses continues rather quiet. Very little business is being done in any quarter. Orders placed with the jobbers are small, calling only for such quantity as is required for immediate consumption. Corn syrups are practically on the same footing as molasses, very few orders being placed beyond those made necessary by orders requiring to be filled at once.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS — Very fair business is passing in dried fruits. New crop figs are now being quoted to arrive. They are on about the same basis as last year. No quotations on Valencia raisins have yet been given out, but dealers anticipate higher prices.

Currants are firm at the primary market. There is a considerable quantity, something over two hundred tons, booked for Canada from Greece, which are expected to arrive the end of this month. Brazil nuts have been advanced. Shelled almonds show no change, but it is expected that they will be higher shortly. Another advance is expected in walnuts. Tarragona almonds are now quoted 13½c. Prunes are moving freely in some quarters. Many lines are being quoted which are not standard brands and the result to the trade is disastrous.

SPICES—Locally a firm and strong market prevails. Reports from New York state that the market there is steady in all lines. The demand for peppers is steadily increasing. Cloves are in good demand, and prices are likely to go very much higher. Whole nutmegs are quiet, while ground are in large demand and bring good prices.

BEANS—Reports are to hand stating that the crop of beans has been more or less seriously injured by insects, necessitating in many cases replanting. This will have the effect of doing away with all surplus stock, and no doubt the shortage will be felt all next season. Prices have not been changed since last quotations.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

FLUCTUATIONS :—
Jams—Advanced ¼c.
Tomatoes—Weaker.
Corn and Peas—Very firm and scarce.

Business generally is good, although feeling the easing off consequent on the holidays and hot weather. Sugar continues firm ; in fact an advance was expected before this by many. But while local prices are firm and refiners are compelled by the consumptive demand to keep up large stocks, the firm feeling has been offset somewhat by an easier market on raws during the past week.

Canned goods, with the exception of tomatoes, are firming up. Tomatoes are easier, and some shading is being done on lists. It is understood stocks are larger in these goods than in other lines.

CANNED GOODS—Peas and corn are firming up considerably, and those who are holding any stocks are fortunate, for there will not be more than enough to go over. Tomatoes are weaker, and now that the new crop is in sight there have been some pretty low quotations made on them, although prices are nominally the same. Stocks generally will be pretty well cleaned up before the new pack comes in, as they are light now. Salmon canners feel that canning will be costly this year on account of the scarcity of labor and advance in the prices of fish, tin and solder. The sockeye salmon run has commenced, and on the 10th sockeye nets were allowed to be used. So far the run is good, but it is early yet to give any definite idea of the volume this year.

SUGAR—There is no change in sugars although daily an advance was expected. The demand is becoming very heavy as the preserving season comes in, and refiners are compelled to carry heavy stocks. Were it not that raw sugars had eased off a little there is no doubt that an advance would have been made. As it is, the market continues firm, and an advance is even yet not improbable.

COFFEE — The coffee market is steadier this week and prices generally have undergone a decline. There have been further reports of small beans, but the new crop already seen is of good quality, soft and ripe. The world's visible supply at the beginning of the new crop year is 9,636,563 bags, or a decrease during the past season of 1,628,000 bags. The world's consumption of coffee during the year just closed, as shown by the seaport deliveries, has increased by about 579,000 bags, the figures being 16,742,000 bags last year, as compared with 16,163,000 bags the year before. The culture of the last crop is figured in detail by a well-known Havre operator as follows, the quantities being given in bags : Rio, 3,244,000; Santos, 6,983,000; Victoria, 401,000; Bahia, 216,000; total Brazil, 10,844,000; other kinds, 3,948,000; total all kinds, 14,792,000.

TEA — Teas have been quiet all through June. In Indian teas good liquoring kinds are firmer, but the common sorts show a continued weakness. China teas are bringing full price. The quality, generally, is good, but the crop will be short.

DRIED FRUITS—The outlook for the new Californian crops are causing more speculation than the present holdings, which are small. Turkish figs and Valencia raisin reports show a marked crop decrease, but both speak of a good quality of fruits. The indications are that all Old World fruits will bring good prices this year.

B. C. MARKETS.

Vancouver, B.C., July 6, 1906.

The most interesting fishing season in the world, the run of sockeye salmon on the Fraser River, is on. The fish are not to be caught in the regular sockeye salmon net until July 10, when the season fixed by the Fisheries Department begins, but the fishermen fishing for Spring salmon have caught quite a few sockeyes, and as the latter are as a rule much smaller than Spring, the larger ones only are being caught, as the mesh of the Spring salmon is so much larger than the sockeye net.

Of course it is too early to say what the run will be, though it is not expected to be large, this being one of the three "off" years in the mystic cycle of four. Up the coast the run has been on and reports indicate that results there will be fairly good. The run of Spring salmon, which was rather disappointing, last week took on quite a spurt. At the mouth of the Fraser River half a ton of fish to the boat was the high catch, while 1,300, 1,400 and 1,500 lbs. per boat were frequent results. As the fishermen have been receiving 5c. per lb. for Spring salmon these big catches netted a handsome sum for one day's haul.

Several Fraser River canneries have been packing Spring salmon and the cold storage plants at New Westminster and Vancouver have been freezing all they could handle. Two of the canneries have begun to pack sockeyes, so many having been received.

Summer commodity rates having been declared by the steamer lines and the White Pass Railway Company for shipments to Dawson, the northern traffic is beginning to assume active proportions, and for the next six or eight weeks the bulk of the next season's supplies will go forward.

Lack of water in the Yukon is reported as handicapping the clean-up on the creeks, which otherwise promised well.

Local health authorities are getting after a brand of condensed milk which has been in the market two or three years, though the factory at which it was made has been shut down for some time. Analyses made by Dr. Fagan, provincial health officer, proved that it was dangerous for food, and several hundred cases have been seized and condemned to be destroyed. Great danger of ptomaine poisoning from its use is alleged. Instances of bad effects from the use of this particular milk have been given locally. The merchants who have suffered loss through the seizure threaten the authorities with suit for damages.

Local market features are chiefly confined to the fruit section. The strawberry season, which has been fitful and unsatisfactory, is nearly over, and so far as the lower mainland is concerned has not yielded nearly as much as was expected early in the season. Up country, from the Nelson and Kootenay Lake district, large shipments of extra choice fruit have been made to the prairies, and good prices realized.

The raspberry season is following the strawberry and the crop is an enormous one, as it indeed always is. Local cherries are rapidly displacing those imported from California and from Oregon. Local stock is of very good quality, the price being quoted wholesale at 6c. to 8c. per lb., which is a little lower than other years.

Local apples, even choice varieties, are extremely scarce. The first California apples are on the market, but too green for anything but cooking.

In produce, butter is steady at 25c. for local fresh creamery and not enough for demand. Eastern butter is not much in evidence. Local fresh eggs are scarce. They bring 27c. to 28c. wholesale and despite this price, considerable quantities are brought from the eastern markets.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS

Halifax, N.S., July 10, 1906.

Business in all branches of the grocery trade is good, and from the present outlook it will continue so throughout the season. There is lots of work going on in the city, and the Works Department is paying out fortnightly $10,000 for labor. Prices generally are pretty steady.

BUTTER.—The pastures throughout the province are now at their best, and butter is coming in quite freely. The local supply is equal to the demand, and all the butter is of good quality. Prices are easing off some as the receipts increase. Pints are quoted at 21c. to 22c., small tubs 20c. to 21c. and large tubs about 19c.

BEEF AND POULTRY.—Good beef is quoted at 8½c. to 9c., mutton 7c. to 9c., lambs from $2 to $3 each, and veal 5c. to 6c. Fowls are 60c. to 80c., and chickens 75c. The latter are very small, but the demand for them is good. Turkeys, last year's birds, are quoted at 16c.

VEGETABLES.—New American potatoes are now quoted at about $1.25 per bushel. Nova Scotia and New Brunswick potatoes are about done on this market, but lots of island stock can still be had. They are quoted at 45c. and 50c. per bushel. The commission houses here are now handling a considerable quantity of small American vegetables, such as carrots, beets, turnips, etc., which retail at about 8c. per bunch.

STRAWBERRIES.—With the favorable weather this week, large quantities of Nova Scotia berries have reached the market. All the berries thus far marketed have been of excellent quality, large and well ripened. An average of from 150 to 200 crates have arrived each day for local consumption. They are quoted at 12 cents per box wholesale and retail at 15c. From now on it is expected that the receipts will double the figures above mentioned, and a substantial decrease in the price is looked for.

SUGAR AND MOLASSES. — Prices of sugar and molasses are steady and both are in good demand. The steamer Korona, which arrived here a few days ago from Demerara and the West Indies, landed 14,373 bags of sugar from Demerara, and from Barbadoes 124 puncheons of molasses, 100 barrels, 700 hogsheads and 3,000 bags of sugar, and from St. Kitts 2,568 bags and 62 barrels of sugar. The total weight of the cargo landed was 2,500 tons.

GROCERS' EXCURSION.

Quite a large number went over from Toronto to Niagara Falls Wednesday last, on the grocers' and fruit dealers' excursion. The weather was pleasant and a good day was spent.

BACK TO FIRST LOVE.

Thomas T. Cartwright has again entered the service of E. W. Gillett Co., Limited, after five years spent in the retail business in St. John's, Nfld., and will represent his old house in the "Old Colony."

It is 12 years since Mr. Cartwright began to sell Royal Yeast Cakes in Newfoundland, and his friends say that if there is a man, woman, child or dog on the island who does not know the genial Tom he must be a new arrival.

A traveler in Newfoundland travels in state, the only means of communication with the outports being by schooner chartered specially for the purpose.

Mr. Cartwright succeeds Mr. Gilman, who shortly after his arrival on the island was threatened with pneumonia and had to return.

Mr. Cartwright spent the past week in Toronto, and as much of it as could be spared from business in Mr. Dobie's splendid new motor car.

EBY, BLAIN CO'S NEW SIGN.

The Eby, Blain Co. are putting up a large electric sign about 80 feet above the ground level, looking over Toronto bay, which will be visible at a distance of fifteen miles. The letters will be 15 feet in height by 8 feet in width, and it is said by the British American Sign Co., who are doing the work, to be the largest sign of its kind in the world. There are over 1,000 lights in the sign and about 15 miles of wire will be required in the connections. The mechanism is so arranged that the wording of the sign can be changed from time to time, and any desired group of letters used. It will be operated by an electric flasher specially constructed, and it is expected that everything will be in operation in two or three days.

FOR SALE BECAUSE OF ILLNESS.

This business consists of a good stock of new goods, vermicelli, macaroni, etc., French beans, French peas, chocolate, cocoanut, olive oil, mushrooms, sardines, castile soap, wines, liquors, book accounts, good will and store fittings.

The whole stock is worth about $25,000.

Apply to No. 60 Notre Dame street east, Montreal. Room 1.

MARKET NOTES—

Jams and marmalades—A general advance.

Matches—Another advance of about 5 per cent.

For the midsummer season trade is very active and one large house reports difficulty in arranging holidays for its staff because of the unusual rush for this season of the year. Values are steady in most lines.

N. B. MARKETS.

St. John fN.B., July 10.

Tourist travel has now set in and the city is full of strangers, chiefly Americans. In business, while there is nothing of particular interest, markets are firm and a general good demand rules Owing to some competition rather lower prices are being quoted on hops. In rice firm values rule. Stocks are light, new rice having been much delayed in arriving. In spice, cream of tartar is still low. Cloves are firm, and rather higher. Ginger is high, particularly Jamaica. Pepper unchanged.

OIL.—Burning oil prices are unchanged. Fall business has been largely book-

RELABELLING CANADIAN HAMS

Canadian Product Called "English" and Re-shipped—Also Done in Other Canadian Goods—Can Hold its Own Against All.

Speaking of the market for hog products in the island of Jamaica, G. Eustace Burke, Canadian commercial agent there, says :

"I have to report that all lines in the above are ruling high both of United States and English manufacture. Of course in the case of the countries referred to, the raw material must also have advanced in Canada. But at least in hams and bacon varieties I cannot again too strongly emphasize my convictions that the Canadian product ought to hold its own against all comers.

"It would hardly be convenient to give names and addresses, but I am credibly informed that large quantities of hams and bacon find sale in this island as 'English' products from well known English exporting provision houses, when as a fact the sources of origin are well known to be Montreal and Toronto packers, the respective goods being merely canvassed and re-labelled in England for shipment hence.

"There is no doubt in my mind that even at a slightly enhanced price Canadian cured small sized hams, 7 to 12 pounds, and breakfast bacon slips, as also Wiltshire cut lean bacon (all bagged) could replace the United States article, of which the brand of Ferris & Co. enjoys an enviable demand."

The Canadian Grocer took the trouble to take the matter up with some of the large packers to ascertain if such had been brought to their knowledge. The Ingersoll Packing Company says : "We do not know whether Canadian hams are being branded as stated, but we are sending your letter to our London house and have asked them to reply to it. We will let you know their answer." F. W. Fearman & Co. say : "It is quite possible that Canadian hams and bacon are being prepared in England and re-shipped to the West Indies. This has been done to Canadian goods before, which have also been shipped to France, and it is quite likely that it is being done." Park, Blackwell Co. "were not aware that Canadian goods were being sold through English houses and re-labelled English product, but if it is true it only shows the good name Canadian bacon is getting when it is being marketed as the product of England, as it has always been believed heretofore that there was nothing so good as that manufactured in England." The Wm. Davies Company and others say that not a large quantity of Canadian hams go to Great Britain, but that it is quite possible that Wiltshire bacon is being cut up and shipped abroad from the Old Country.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN.

The remarkable advance in prices of cheese keeps merrily on, and the most surprising feature in this respect is that the British importers continue to send their orders over the cable, reluctantly following our advance, but they have to buy the goods for some reason or other, and, finding that they cannot obtain them at any lower prices, they buy them at current market quotations.

Now, this is all very fine, but from the farmer in Canada to the consumer in Great Britain, everybody acknowledges that current prices are too high for this season of the year, and everybody is anxious to dispose of his goods as quickly as possible. Of course the farmer is reaping the benefit. He gets abnormally high prices for his milk, the Montreal merchants buy the cheese at high prices under keen competition, then the importer in Great Britain gets his offers from the Montreal exporters, and, needing the goods to supply his customers, he buys them. When the balance sheet is drawn, it is found that the farmer has got the money, and the middlemen have either not made any money or they have actually done the business at a loss. This great business, amounting to many millions of dollars annually, does not seem to be conducted on sound business principles, and "pity 'tis, 'tis true."

The receipts in Montreal last week were 106,863 boxes of cheese and 29,324 packages of butter, against 106,202 boxes of cheese and 43,476 packages of butter for the same week of last year, or a total since May 1 of 651,997 boxes of cheese and 204,522 packages of butter, as compared with 629,478 boxes of cheese and 237,479 packages of butter for the corresponding period of last year.

The shipments were, last week : 108,681 boxes of cheese and 18,222 packages of butter, against 94,959 boxes of cheese and 35,573 packages of butter for the same week of last year, or a total since May 1 of 649,615 boxes of cheese and 98,124 packages of butter, as compared with 586,844 boxes of cheese and 139,609 packages of butter for the corresponding period of last year.

These figures show an increase in the receipts of cheese of 22,519 boxes, and an increase in the shipments of cheese of 62,771 boxes, and, further, a decrease in the receipts of butter of 32,957 packages, with a decrease in the exports of Butter of 41,485 packages.

The object lesson is, naturally, first, a larger make of cheese and a smaller make of butter; second, a smaller stock of cheese and a larger stock of butter in Montreal; third, a less production of milk. The first two arguments are accounted for by the relatively higher prices of cheese against butter, and the third is owing to the condition of the season.

At the present writing we are confronted with abnormally high prices for cheese, but, whatever the reason may be and surely there is a reason for it, the goods are in demand, and there is absolutely no accumulation anywhere as far as we can see. It may be possible that the retailers in Great Britain are being stocked up with June-made cheese which, of course, does not figure in the stocks at distributing points, but it is also possible that the goods go into actual coosumption more on account of the existing canned meats scare. However, whatever the reason may be for the current high prices, nobody on either side of the Atlantic has the courage to put away any cheese for the future. It is believed that British houses have contracted large quantities of June cheese to their customers. They have certainly tried to cover their "shorts" here, and we understand they are heavy losers this year, as there are not many Montreal houses sold "short," and it may make a difference in the demand when these "short sales" are filled, but, meanwhile, the statistical position is very strong.

OUR LONDON LETTER.

By Our Own Correspondent.

Business in the produce markets here has been on a satisfactory basis throughout the week, although, this being the half-year and consequently the season for stocktaking, the amount of business transacted has not been out of the ordinary.

The general tone of the butter market has been one of some quietness, no change in quotations having occurred. Some 9,000 packages of Australian butter have been delivered, but there has been no rush of buyers, and the finest grades have only realized 98s. and 100s., with occasionally 102s. Finest parcels of unsalted make 104s. at best. New Zealand butter is scarce, not more than 6,000 boxes being received during the week. Choicest brands are, consequently, realizing good prices, there being little to be had under 105s. Lower grades make 100s. There is some Canadian butter on hand, offered at 102s. and 104s., but the season has not yet opened up and the trade is not just yet really interested in it. In the Manchester market, however, Canadian butter has sold quickly throughout the week, although in Liverpool, Irish creameries being easily obtainable, the demand for Canadian creameries is not great. Perhaps it would not be out of place here to warn shippers to see to their packing, particularly the grease-proof wrappers. Although there was a noticeable improvement last season over the previous one, still there were instances when Canadian butter was found to be spotted, a fact which was ascribed by some to the inferior grease-proof paper. It would be well, too, if more attention were given to the individual requirements of each market. In this connection the regular reports of the Canadian Commercial Agents may be studied with advantage, containing, as they do, pointers of real value.

The cheese market in London has been steady throughout the week, but, like the butter market, it has been characterized by no out-standing features. To all the markets large quantities of Canadian cheese have been delivered, not less than 52,500 boxes having come to London alone. In spite of these large supplies, however, a healthy tone prevails, and the consumptive demand appears to swell in proportion as larger quantities are on offer. Stocks at the depot are now about 30,000 boxes, which is only a few thousand boxes more than at the time of our last report. That the consumption should be so good has somewhat astonished certain individuals, who have always maintained that a prolonged period of hot weather, such as England has had during the past few weeks, tends to kill the consumptive demand for cheese. Sellers speak highly of the all-round quality of Canadian cheese, and complaints have been fewer this season than ever before. It is very evident that shippers are taking greater care, or else are becoming more familiar with the needs of buyers on this side. At the time of writing, cable quotations from Canada are very firm in tone, but with fair supplies in hand here buyers are not eager of acceptance, and apparently are waiting to see what change will occur. New Zealand cheese is scarce, and white is making 64s. Colored New Zealand, however, is not in demand, and holders find it difficult to effect a sale.

Canadian bacon is selling steadily, although the tendency is towards the dull side.

PROVISION AND DAIRY MARKETS.

MONTREAL.

PROVISIONS—There has been no change in provisions since last report. Business is moving fairly well in most lines. There is a very good demand for lard at figures quoted. Hams and bacon are selling steadily, although the prices are rather high. Pork is on the quiet side owing to high price and little demand.

BUTTER—There is a little better feeling in the market this week. Some English houses have been inquiring the last few days, but while some business has resulted, the market cannot be called active. It looks, however, as if the English market would be operating more freely in a week or so, and as a result prices locally are firmer.

CHEESE—Higher prices rule in the country again so that quotations have had to be marked up once more, Westerns now being as high as 12c. This extraordinary high price for June make has, no doubt, been mainly caused by the short sales both here and in England, and until these are supplied, prices will not decline. Shipments continue heavy, 108,000 boxes being shipped last week. As a consequence stocks in Montreal at present are not very large.

TORONTO.

PROVISIONS—A good demand with a firm market are still the conditions of the week's business. There seem to be no indications of any falling off in the prices of hog products so long as the present demand and scarcity of hogs continues.

BUTTER AT FAIRS.

The Government of Alberta will have tents at the Fall fairs containing a working dairy, where demonstrations on the cream separator, churning and working butter will be given. Other tents will show poultry fattening crates and other profitable appliances used in this business.

MORE COLD STORAGE.

James Alexander has under contemplation a large cold storage plant in Montreal that will be equal to any in size on the continent. It will be a public warehouse.

JUNE'S EXPORTS TO BRITAIN.

British imports from Canada for June were as follows: Cattle, 21,318, valued at £369,172; sheep and lambs, 1,450, valued at £2,177; bacon, 119,818 cwt., valued at £312,678; hams, 30,712 cwt., valued at £79,915; butter, 19,712 cwt., valued at £98,075; cheese, 198,257 cwt., valued at £565.542.

SOLD SHORT WEIGHT.

A merchant on the Bonsecours market, Montreal, E. Valiquette, was sentenced in the Recorder's Court to pay a fine of $10 and costs or go to prison for two months for selling butter 14 ounces to the pound.

NEW WAREHOUSE TO BE ERECTD.

A building permit for the erection of a butter and cheese warehouse was granted Lovell & Christmas, Montreal, on July 6. The new building is expected to cost $36,000.

PRICES STILL SOARING.

With bacon hogs bringing from $7.50 to $7.60 f.o.b. country points, it almost seems that the top price is reached, yet even at this figure there is but a small number of hogs coming into the packing houses. There is a scarcity of hogs all over the world. In Ireland disease has wiped out large herds of swine. In Denmark the same conditions prevail, and as Denmark raises the same class of hogs as are raised in Canada, the scarcity is all the more felt. Canada is producing only half the number of hogs she did two years ago, and until more farmers go into this business there can hardly be any lessening in price. Packers are not paying the present high prices because of the money they are making, but because they must take care of their trade, and as it will take a long time for the present supply to catch up to the demand it would not be surprising to see prices go still higher. At any rate the indications are that they will hold their own.

HOLBROOK'S ANNUAL MEETING.

At the annual meeting of Holbrook's, in London, Eng., a short time ago, Major Sir Carne Rasch, M.P., who presided in moving the adoption of the report and accounts, said trade might be considered on the whole satisfactory. Trade had been bad all over the country, and most companies had been either passing their dividend or paying a very reduced amount. In that company they had crept gradually up to the position they now occupied. Twenty years ago they paid a dividend of 2½ per cent., then they paid 6 per cent., then 10 per cent., then 15 per cent., and this year they recommended them to pay a dividend of 18 per cent., with a bonus of 2 per cent. on top of it. He did not think many companies could compare with them in profits which they recommended for division, or in the manner in which the trade had been carried on during the last twelve months.

He would like the shareholders to remember that their vinegar trade—and they were the largest vinegar makers in the United Kingdom—was the cow that gave the milk; and he hoped the shareholders would insist that whoever might compose the board in the future should see that the management of the company did not give the cold shoulder to the vinegar trade. That was the staple of the company, although, of course, they traded in paper—made paper bags—and in baking powders of every description, and they also made pickles and sauce.

A final dividend of 12 per cent. on the ordinary shares, making 18 per cent. for the year, and a bonus of 2 per cent. was declared, and Col. G. W. Wood and Mr. Ernest Callard were re-elected directors, Messrs. Smallfield, Rawlings & Co., auditors, and it was also agreed to increase the remuneration of the directors for the current and succeeding years by £500 per annum.

FLOUR AND CEREAL FOODS

Alberta's Good Crop—Spring Grains Now Doing Well—Big New Flour Mills for Calgary and Lumsden.

A bounteous harvest is the prospect from all parts of the west—greater than ever. There has been some damage to Spring wheat in Northern Alberta by cut worms, but not enough to affect the general yield of that section. Spring grains all over the province are doing well, although there have been reports that the weather has been too cold to push the grain forward. These reports came some days ago, however, and the weather has made great changes since then, so that a wonderful improvement is seen. Winter wheat looks well, and is good for a heavy yield, according to reports from Calgary by an expert from the Western Grain Growers' and Millers' Association. A larger area of Winter wheat is under cultivation, but the yield will be about the same in bushels as last year's, on account of losses in some sections from Winter killing.

FLOUR MILL FOR LUMSDEN.

Lumsden (Alta.) Council has accepted an offer from Ellison & Co. for the erection of a flour mill. The city gives a three-acre site, tax exemption for fifteen years, and a low water rate. The company agree to erect a 150 barrel flour mill before the end of next year, and contemplate increasing it to a 560 barrel capacity within five years, by which they will get additional concessions. The ratepayers will be asked to ratify the agreement shortly.

The Calgary Milling Co. have commenced work on their $100,000 flour mill. It will be 38 by 96 feet, five storeys high. It will be equipped for a 600-barrel daily capacity. Two 175 horse-power gas producers will supply the power.

HAY—There is very little change in the hay market. It is a shade weaker if anything. It is not that there is such a lot of hay offering locally, but more the fact that there is not much going forward, to which this weakness may be attributed.

The Old Country market has declined still further. Latest quotations received from Liverpool are 62-63 shillings c.i.f.

TORONTO.

GRAIN—Both wheat and oats show a further decline this week, but trading is small, and stocks in Ontario points very light. There can hardly be any movement expected for a few weeks yet, but big millers and estimators predict that the world's wheat crop this year will be much smaller than last years, despite the fact that the Canadian crop will be so heavy. This should make good prices again this Fall.

WOODENWARE

AGAIN PROVEN TO BE THE BEST CREAM TARTAR.

IT is with some feeling of satisfaction that the United States Trade Reports sees a vindication of former indorsements of worthy firms and meritorious articles. We have always given careful attention to inquiries received from readers, and to furnish them with reliable information on any desired subject free of charge. The Reports has the largest circulation of any trade journal of its class in the country, and no other publication could afford to maintain such a large staff of experienced reporters to make these expensive investigations in the interest of its readers.

About ten months or so ago we received inquiries in which we were asked to recommend the best Cream Tartar, and to state where the same could be obtained. We fully realized the importance of the subject and the confidence which would be reposed in our answer. We made a careful and thorough examination along this line, and as a result, found that Gillett's Cream Tartar, made by E. W. Gillett Co., Ltd., Toronto, Ont., and Chicago, Ill., was conceded to be the best, and we made editorial commendation accordingly.

Only recently we received many similar inquiries from other of our readers, and to verify the correctness of our former recommendation, we place the matter in the hands of other of our reporters and investigators, who knew nothing of our former indorsement, and, after the most exhaustive research, they also have reported in favor of the Cream Tartar made by the company named, which proves conclusively that their Cream Tartar is doubly worthy of adoption and use by all, and also that the trained reporters of the Reports never do anything by halves.

The Gillett Company is well known for business tact and enterprise, as well as sterling integrity. They owe the great success of their business to their prompt and careful attention to orders, courteous treatment to customers, and the perfect reliability of their products. By their honest endeavors to make nothing but the best, they have built up a reputation second to none in the world.

We strongly advise bakers, caterers, druggists and other users of the goods to insist on getting Gillett's Cream Tartar. It costs no more than the poor adulterated kind.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Too Much Rain in Some Sections—Potato Rot has Made its Appearance—American Vegetables Being Supplanted.

Black currants and blueberries are on the market this week. They are both up to the average marketed at this time of year, and are bringing from $1 up for the currants, and from $1.40 to $1.50 for the blueberries. The Canadian new potatoes coming in are much better than the stock being sent in from the States, and are in such good demand that they are soon taken off the market. American cabbage have about stopped coming in, the locally grown being sufficiently grown to take their place. In some parts of Eastern Ontario reports have come in that the heavy rains have put back root crops, and that a sign of rot is already visible in potatoes. Vegetables, generally, are looking well, and coming on the market quite freely.

DIRTY JAM PACKING.

The annual report of the inspector of factories and workshops in London, Eng., shows that the conditions there are quite as revolting as anything alleged of the Chicago meat packing revelations. The report on a typical jam factory is as follows: "The boiling room lay between the yard and the stable, and the horses reached the latter through the boiling room. The sanitary accommodation was hardly separated from the rooms where the fresh fruit and uncovered jam were kept and the floors were dirty and undrained."

Another factory inspector found jam pots being washed in "liquid like dark soup, which smelled abominably." The manager informed the inspector that the water was changed "about once a week." When fished out of these evil smelling tanks the pots were allowed to stand until dry, when they were considered to be ready to receive fresh installments of preserves.

EXTENSIVE FISH POACHING.

The New England Fish Co., with its Pacific centre in Vancouver, has lost the monopoly of the halibut fishery on this coast, which it enjoyed for many years.

Seattle and Tacoma fisherman have taken it away, and, according to Canadian officers of the Preventive Service, the Americans have done the trick with Canadian fish.

Captain Newcombe, of the Dominion gunboat Kestrel, which patrols the fishery grounds, says that it is conservatively estimated that 18,000 tons of halibut were caught on the halibut banks off the west coast of Vancouver Island, of which 4,000 tons went to the American company, that is licensed to ship from this port in bond to the Eastern States. The remainder was taken by Americans, and he claims that only 5,000 tons were legitimately caught outside the three-mile limits, the rest being secured by poachers in Canadian waters.

Captain Newcombe says the poaching was done upon so wholesale a scale and with such method that it was impossible for the single gunboat at present in commission on this coast to effectually protect Canadian waters and to make seizures with any chance of conviction except by some fortunate accident.

OUR FRUIT IN ENGLAND.

P. B. Ball, Canadian commercial agent at Birmingham, England, is taking a deal of interest in the fruit-shipping industry, and is doing his best to encourage it. He believes that much more trade in fruit might be done with Great Britain by this country than is done. He is delivering a number of addresses in and around Birmingham on this country, its resources and its products, both industrial and agricultural. He wants all the data he can get about the Niagara district, and says that he would like to obtain a series of photographs taken from the hills around Queenston, showing the fruit farms there, and following the river to its mouth. Shippers and manufacturers should do all they can to help Mr. Ball in the good work he is performing by sending him facts and such pictures as they have. Mr. Ball can be addressed 39 and 40 Central House, Christchurch Buildings, Birmingham.

CANNED AIR.

California air condensed into liquid state and packed for export is the latest product of the Golden State to appear upon the market. It is now possible to eat California oranges which have never left California air in their long journey across the continent.

A plant for the manufacture of liquid air and of oxygen has been erected in the City of Los Angeles, which is the only plant in the country manufacturing these products on a commercial scale with the exception of a New York plant whose output is confined to surgical and metallurgical uses.

Situated in the heart of a warm country, without natural ice and separated from markets by tremendous stretches of hot country, the question of refrigeration of fruit cars is one of the most important which the Californian has to consider.

If, as is hoped, the product of the Los Angeles factory can be used as a successful substitute for manufactured ice, the market is at hand and the new industry is ideally located. Fruit growers, car builders, merchants, shipping agents, and packers await with interest the extended trials which are now being instituted.—Technical World.

FEAR POTATO ROT.

Gardeners in some sections of eastern Ontario fear the constant rains will start the potato rot again, some evidence of which is now visible.

APPLE SHIPS.

Issacs & Sons, ship owners and apple buyers, London, Eng., will put on a special line of trans-Atlantic boats during the apple season to carry American and Canadian apples across. H. M. Issacs has been in Toronto for a few days making arrangements with the firm's agents there.

FRUIT SALE IN MONTREAL.

Monday of this week there was a fruit sale in Montreal. Five cars of Californian fruit were sold, good prices being secured. Plums brought from $1.40 to $2.20; peaches from $1.20 to $2; apricots, $2.25, and pears, half boxes, $2.25.

MONTREAL MARKETS.

GREEN FRUITS—Fruit generally is in very good demand at present. Dealers are doing a good business in most lines. Strawberries are becoming scarce, and it will be noticed that quotations are higher this week. Blueberries are now on the market, and very good fruit is offered at $3 per box of 22 quarts. Raspberries were offered for the first time this season, and brought from 18c. to 20c. As they become more plentiful, however, the price will decline.

VEGETABLES—Green vegetables are beginning to arrive more freely locally. Farmers are coming into the city every day with their offerings, and as a rule they have little trouble in disposing of their stock. Prices are well maintained. Montreal cabbage, or what is grown by farmers in the neighboring districts, is selling quite freely from 65c. to 70c. Cucumbers are moving well at 40c. to 50c. Considerable business is being done in tomatoes. These are now quoted from $3.50 to $4. Prices this week are practically unchanged.

Fresh halibut continues to arrive in good quantities. Lake trout and whitefish are plentiful, and good business is passing. Dore or

ONTARIO MARKETS.

GREEN FRUITS—A good class of fruit is coming in steadily, and as the season advances the prices come down—sometimes in jumps. Red currants are down to 85c., although some special baskets readily bring $1. Blueberries are on the market, but in very small quantities, and are quickly picked up at from $1.40 to $1.50 per basket. Black currants bring from $1 to $1.25. They are fairly good stock. Last year's apples are quite off the market now, but new ones are coming in slowly. Some early harvest apples are bringing $2.50 per bushel. In southern fruits, Mediterranean sweet oranges are practically done. A large quantity of Georgia melons are expected this week, and when they begin to come in quantity the present prices—40c. to 50c.—must take a drop.

VEGETABLES—Canadian new potatoes are beginning to come in fairly well, but the demand is so heavy for them that the market is constantly short. They are of good size, in fact better than the American potatoes that are coming over. In baskets they run at from 25c. to 35c., and in bushels $1.25. Cabbage, green peas, beans, lettuce, and all locally raised garden truck, are going down in price and up in quality. Cauliflowers are particularly fine, and are being sold for from $1.25 to $2 per dozen. Imported cabbage are falling off, good native grown taking their place. Onions are down to $1.50 per sack.

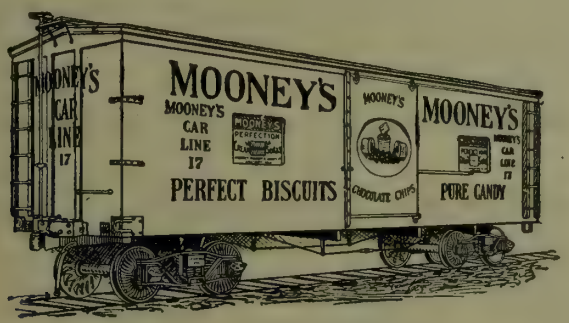
BISCUITS AND CONFECTIONERY

Light Lunches for Picnics—This is the Season to go After Trade—Attractive Display of Confectionery Brings Results.

Now is the time to display picnic goods and food for dainty hot weather lunches. Crackers and biscuits are an indispensable adjunct to the Summer outing and with the attractive cartons they come in, they make an artistic display. A great deal of the pleasure of picnics is lost by those whose lot it is to prepare the lunches, and when the sandwiches and lemonade have to be supplemented by other edibles to fill out the bill of fare, something already prepared in the way of biscuits and confectionery offers a tempting substitute for foods that have to be made up in the home. Price and descriptive tickets are a factor in attracting attention to such goods. A suggestion of this kind often makes a sale.

MOONEY'S SPECIAL CAR.

The accompanying cut shows one of the Mooney Biscuit Company's privately owned freight cars, mentioned in The Grocer some weeks ago. They make a striking advertisement and show the enterprise which characterizes this firm.



SMYRNA FIG INDUSTRY.

Upon request of a New York firm of importers, U. S. Consul Norton, of Smyrna, has furnished a report on the fig industry of Smyrna. He says :

The fig district is largely along the line of the Smyrna-Aidin railroad. Trees begin to bear in their sixth year and are in full vigor in the fifteenth year. The fruit ripens about the middle of August, when it is picked and dried in the open air for from three to six days. It is then packed in sacks of about 250 pounds each, two of which constitute a load for a camel, and transported to the nearest railroad station. Carts are not employed in this connection, as the fruit is liable to be damaged when the sacks are piled one on the other. The arrivals from the country are promptly bought up by the various great packing houses, who have each a large corps of employes, chiefly women and girls, for the operations of sorting, washing, drying and packing the fruit.

Skillful Sorting.

The sorting of the figs is carried out with great care. Color, but more especially size and thickness, or rather thinness, of skin, guide the classification. The inferior grades, the so-called "hordas," culls or refuse, are eliminated and sold for purposes of distillation. The better grades are prepared for export in various ways. The least expensive is packed in linen or other bags, and is used usually for the less valuable qualities. The finer grades are subjected to a certain manipulation before being tightly packed in boxes containing from 1 to 11 pounds. During the manipulation the workmen continually dip their fingers in sea water. As a result the fruit is better preserved and the sweetness is not diminished by long keeping. The term "macaroni figs" is applied to fruit which has been gently rolled between the palms of the hand, so as to resemble an elongated ellipsoid. "Loucoum figs" are prepared by pressing the fruit into a rectangular form, not dissimilar in size and appearance to the oriental confectionery well known under the name of "Turkish delight," or "loucoum."

The Choice Varieties.

The great majority of the choicer figs are packed in layers. The upper side is split and the fig is flattened out. This method allows expert manipulators to give a more presentable appearance to small figs than is possible in preparing "macaroni" or "loucoum" figs. The "macaroni" style of packing involves the least disturbance to the internal structure of the fruit. The "loucoum" style leaves it most nearly the original size, and is the best adapted for any subsequent manipulation by importers. The latter two methods are the most favorable for proper curing during transportation. Boxes of figs prepared by any of the three latter methods are usually exported in crates holding about 330 pounds.

Prices and Dealers.

During the past season (autumn of 1905) prices at Smyrna for the unsorted fruit arriving from the interior ranged from $2.80 to $10.50 per quintal of 125 pounds, according to source and quality. The quotations of the fruit packed for exportation during the same season were as follows, c.i.f. New York, per 112 pounds : Natural figs in bags, $2.25 to $3 ; same, extra quality, in linen bags, $3.75 to $5.25 ; figs in boxes, "Erbeilli" $6.25 to $12.50 ; "Aidin," $5.50 to $10.50 ; "Odemish," $5.25 to $10 ; "Sokia" and "Ayassolouk," $4.75 to $7. Variations in the quotations represent differing grades of size, thinness of skin, etc. The following extensive Smyrna dealers in figs are either American citi-

THE ALBERTA BISCUIT COMPANY.

The Alberta Biscuit Company has been organized at Calgary with a capital of $200,000. The following officers were elected: Vice-president, E. B. Johnston, Minneapolis; president, I. S. G. VanWart; treasurer, H. A. Perley; secretary, F. H. Brown; directors, Messrs VanWart, Perley, E. C. Perry, F. F. Higgs.

Tenders were opened and a contract entered into for the new building, which will cost with machinery complete $50,000. It is expected that the company will be doing business before October 1.

NEW PRESERVING INDUSTRY.

Wagstaffe Limited, whose incorporation was gazetted last week, is a new and interesting addition to the industries of Hamilton. James Wagstaffe, the head of the firm, was for 17 years in the jam and preserving business in England and with free sugar built up a very extensive establishment. When Joseph Chamberlain signed the sugar convention just after the Boer War Mr. Wagstaffe along with scores of other jam makers in England was hard hit and had to go out of business.

Coming to Canada, where he conceived there was a good opening for perfectly pure and high-class jams and preserves, he located in Hamilton last Fall and started in a small way as an experiment. His goods, a particularly fine line, met with such favor that he was encouraged to organize a company and secure larger premises. A fine, high, airy brick building was obtained on Vine street, 80x80, where new and improved machinery has been installed for all the processes of preserving and jam making.

A representative of The Grocer was an interested spectator while a lot of berries were preserved and was very favorably impressed with the process and results. Nothing is used but the fruit and pure cane sugar.

A full line of preserved fruits and jams will be put up, including fig and lemon jam. Sealed glass packages of pleasing design are used largely, while what tins are used are all lacquered inside so that there is no contact between the acid of the fruit and the tin surface.

Mr. Wagstaffe has associated with him his son, who is also thoroughly trained in the preserving business.

HUYLER'S OPENING.

On Saturday last Huyler's opened up their new confectionery store at 130 Yonge street, Toronto. A heavy stock of their own confections will be kept on hand, and serving refreshments will be a part of their business.

TOBACCO AND CIGARS

Only the Best Kept——Men Prefer to Buy Their Cigars and Tobacco from Grocer — Brings New Customers.

If a grocer handles cigars and tobacco he should handle the best. No stock, no matter what the line, should be kept because it is the custom to do so. There can be seen too often in the grocery a box or two of cigars, inferior stock to begin with, and literally in the sere and yellow leaf of age. If this department of the store is run down, the only thing that will build it up is the putting in of a stock, not necessarily large, but good, that will appeal to the trade. Pick a winner, with a small margin of profit, rather than an unpopular brand that can be bought at a low price. The majority of men would rather buy their cigars and tobacco in a grocer's store than in the billiard room or barber shop, and the reason they do not is that they get better goods from the man who makes tobacco a feature of his business, than from the man who carries an ill-kept stock. There is, too, a beneficial effect upon the general business from keeping a choice stock of tobacco. It brings a new class of trade, representatives or heads of families who are not regular customers, and in this way constitutes an advertisement that returns a profit at once.

CIGARETTES NOT DRUGGED.

Victor Williams, Toronto manager of the American Tobacco Company, states that the statement made by E. P. Gaston, of Chicago, before a committee of the British House of Lords that American cigarettes are drugged and manufactured under filthy conditions is absolutely false. Mr. Gaston in his remarks stated that the British public had more to fear from bad cigarettes than from bad meat.

TOBACCO STOCK AUCTIONED.

Philip Jamieson, Toronto, has purchased the entire wholesale stock of the tobacconist, John Ward, 37 Yonge street, at a rate on the dollar. The sale was by public auction, and prospective buyers were in attendance from Montreal to Winnipeg. Some idea of the magnitude of the stock may be gathered from the fact that the lot comprised altogether 138,715 cigars. In addition to the stock of cigars are some $2,000 worth of cigarettes, representing all makers, together with more than $5,000 worth of tobaccos.

JAPANESE TOBACCO.

Charles Edward Russell, in July Everybody's Magazine, tells of the growth of the tobacco and cigarette industry in Japan. Only a comparatively few years ago the Americans introduced their cigarettes into Japan and taught the Japs to want them. But by the time the American Tobacco Trust had invested $12,000,000 in Japan, the Japanese Government concluded that it would be a good business to engage in, and accordingly it went into it. An import duty of 250 per cent. was levied on cigarettes, and thereupon the American cigarettes disappeared quicker than their own smoke, and as a result the trust plants were bought up by the Japanese Government.

NEARLY THREE POUNDS EACH FOR CANADIANS.

Statistics state that Belgium consumes more tobacco per capita than any other nation in the world, using for each inhabitant six and a quarter pounds of the weed. The United States of America comes second with five and one-half pounds, Germany third with three and a half, Austria fourth with three, and Canada fifth with two and three-quarter pounds for every inhabitant.

PUFFS.

The International Cigarmakers' Union announce that the average length of life of union cigarmakers has increased over fifteen years since 1888, and the life of wives of these workers has ,fncreased eight years in that period. The percentage of those who die from tuberculosis was reduced from 51 per cent. in 1888 to 24 per cent. in 1905. The establishment of the eight-hour day in 1884 is declared by the union to be the cause of this improvement.

Tobacco is the greatest of all revenue producers. It is taxed by every government on earth. It bears a heavier burden in proportion to its cost of production than any other commodity. The governments of Spain, Italy, Austria, France, Japan and others make a monopoly of its manufacture and sale. England puts a tax on it averaging 1,200 per cent. of its prime cost. It is the stay of nations, the poor man's luxury and the rich man's solace. It soothes and cheers six hundred million human beings.

Suppose "tobacco and its manufactures" had been added to the list of food and liquors the adulteration and misbranding of which is made a misdemeanor in the States, punishable for each offence with a fine of $500 or a year's imprisonment or both? That would be an end to the "la flor de cabbage" and "bartender's revenge" brand of stogies. Perhaps it would not be a bad idea, either.

"Try this," said the cheerful traveler, "this is something like a cigar." "It does resemble a cigar," said the other, when he had taken a few draws.

FREIGHTS AND CHARTERS

Shipping business throughout the past week has been very good. Grain is still going out in large quantities, in fact shipments to date far exceed those of last year in most lines, but in wheat, particularly. Considerable butter and cheese has been exported since last report. Meats are still rather slow, only occasional lots being shipped. Flour continues in good demand on the other side. Business with other than British ports continues first-class. South African trade is being carefully nourished. Other foreign ports are using more or less Canadian flour also.

Sardinian, of the Allan line, plying between Montreal, London and Havre, arrived in Montreal with a general cargo July 4.

The new C.P.R. liner Empress of Ireland reached Quebec on her maiden trip July 7 having made a fast voyage across.

According to reports given out, the Allan line is not contemplating the building of any new vessels at present, beyond the one now under construction for the Atlantic service. A report came from Glasgow recently to the effect that two new boats, larger and speedier than the Virginian and Victorian, were to be built, but this rumor is denied at headquarters in Montreal. The C.P.R. say that they are not thinking of building any new vessels as is rumored in some quarters.

The Manchester Importer left for the city of Manchester July 6, carrying a general cargo.

A delegation of the leading produce exporters of Bristol, England, recently inspected the new arrangements made by the C.P.R. on some of their boats for the shipping of butter, cheese, etc., to England. The Monmouth, which recently sailed from Montreal for Avonmouth, was thoroughly inspected. The delegation was shown the butter chamber, cold air and refrigerator system, etc., and expressed themselves very favorably on the new arrangements.

Lakonia, of the Donaldson line, cleared for Glasgow with a general cargo on July 5.

The Prah, of the Elder-Dempster line, is in port with a cargo of sugar from the West Indies for the St. Lawrence sugar refinery.

Inland shipping this year has shown a considerable increase in volume over last year. To date there has been between 3,500 and 4,000 vessels entered and cleared the port.

Virginian, of the Allan line, for Liverpool, with general cargo, cleared July 4.

Steamer Haddington, from Fort William, brought into the port July 7, a record cargo of wheat. She carried 75,200 bushels of grain. It is said that this is the largest cargo of grain ever brought into the port. The boat is moored at the harbor commissioner's elevator, where it is unloading. Considerable wheat was loaded from it onto the C.P.R. liner Montezuma.

There have been no changes in the rates this week.

BUSINESS NOTES.

McIntyre & Edwards, of Regina, have sold their grocery business to S. W. Hunter.

T. M. Charlton, Huron street, Toronto, has sold his grocery business to G. H. Cooper.

J. Hickman, grocer, is in his new store at 374 College street, Toronto. Mr. Hickman has purchased the residence behind and built the store to it.

J. A. McCance, of St. Thomas, has had his grocery store remodeled and fitted up with new show cases, etc. It is now one of the most modern stores in the province.

THE LATE G. T. WHELPLEY.

This week we publish a cut of the late G. T. Whelpley, of Fredericton, N.B., who, as stated in The Canadian Grocer of June 29, had been in business for forty years in that city.

WESTERN CANNERS' TROUBLES.

Owing to the scarcity of labor in British Columbia fruit canners are having trouble in getting strawberries to pack. The present price of labor is so high that many fruit-growers prefer to let the berries rot than pick them for the small margin that can be made. It is feared the same thing will be experienced in other fruits later on.

BOYCOTT TINNED GOODS.

British retail associations have forwarded resolutions to the Grocers' Association conference to be held in London this week, recommending that canned goods in stock until there is a guarantee established as to their quality.

BUFFALOES CROSS RIVER.

Buffalo grocers are up in arms, it is said, because their customers their customers are crossing the river to Fort Erie to buy tea in Canada at 25 cents a pound. Tea is on the free list, but an effort will be made by the Buffalo men to have a duty put upon tea coming from Canada.

Living Beyond Income—Expression of Ideas—Test of a Buyer's Ability —The Value of Good Will—Betraying Confidences.

If a man spends, or contracts debts for, say, $2,000 per annum, and his income is only $1,500 per annum, he must steal the difference from some source, even though it be from his acknowledged creditors, and this rule applies not to individuals alone, but to business institutions. Look sharply after such people to see that they do not steal from you, or us. Some claims are made in bad faith, for with some men a dollar counts more than their souls; but all business men are not dishonest, by any means. Therefore, if you believe the claim to be wrong, but the claimant to honestly believe he is right, then, as a matter of policy, it may pay to make a concession if there is not too much at stake; but if, on the other hand, you feel that he is knowingly taking advantage of his position, then it is wise to hold out strongly for your rights, as a matter of principle.

It is not wise to worry over increased expenses while the gross profits increase relatively. Did you ever hear of a trial balance made up of debit items only?

What is the good of an original or novel idea if you do not utilize it? Learn to clinch it before it runs away from you and becomes valueless. Give free expression to your ideas relating to our business, and we will promise to give you credit for those we regard as worthy of it, and forget the others.

There are a great many unsuccessful men, possessing at times greater originality and more natural ability than others more successful, due frequently to the fact that the one possesses more confidence, assurance—or call it egotism, if you wish—than the other. Learn to cultivate this spirit, for without it you are not likely to meet with success.

The average man of means, or one occupying an exalted position in life, is burdened with all kinds of propositions, and therefore must necessarily act conservatively; and this same rule applies to buyers of merchandise. Therefore, do not take offence if you are not received with open arms, and, while your proposition is an honorable one, and of mutual benefit, you must persistently, but politely and tactfully, impress it upon the party of the second part.

When you know at heart you are wrong, it is wise to make such an acknowledgment, which will prove more creditable to your good judgment and manhood than stubbornly sticking to your first point on a false notion of principle.

Every man will perform bad as well as good deeds, and the fair thing to do is take his balance in the average. Don't narrow your view down to his mistakes only. Every successful business house has a profit and loss account.

Natural modesty and common sense might suggest the principle of not overestimating your own or of under-estimating the other fellow's ability, and the best results will follow; for some apparently sleepy men are in reality very keen, and at times sacrifice their pride in this respect to accomplish their object.

A reasonable course to pursue is to abide by an agreement strictly until you receive positive proof that the other fellow has broken faith, and then to act quickly in protecting your interest without any formal notification. To our minds, a breach of good faith in itself nullifies an agreement.

There is no necessity to worry over the orders for a heavy tonnage of material, representing a large moneyed value, which the average manufacturer needs badly to meet current obligations. He will, as a rule, see that shipments of such orders are made at the earliest possible moment, but we cannot too strongly emphasize the necessity of following up closely the small orders which some short-sighted manufacturers may neglect, because of apparently representing to him a small money value, but which may be holding up the completion of a contract job or a large order representing considerable in value to someone. Give proper treatment to the man ordering a dollar's worth of goods, and he may directly or indirectly bring you orders for many thousands.

The good will of an established business can be appreciated only by thoughtful and experienced men. While the population of the world is increasing, the area seems to be lessening, and the friends you make in the remotest parts of the earth may help your interests through friends and relatives at far distant points.

A junior officer of a large corporation made the following remark, worth quoting: "The president of our company is an able man of strict integrity, but should he make mistakes we must shield him from the penalty; for if our patrons lack confidence in the man directing the policy of the business it would react seriously against our interests." He knew the value of good will in business.

What is the test of a buyer's ability? To my mind, the amount of the net yearly profits of the company he represents, for market conditions largely regulate the selling prices; and, while general economy in the running expenses of each concern counts for considerable, the advantages obtained by the buyer are of more than a little importance. "Goods properly bought are half sold."

The buyer so gloated with egotism that he cannot resist talking freely of his accomplishments is a detriment to the house he represents, as well as the seller, although he may not realize it. You must be careful not to give such people too much of your confidence. The shrewdest buyers are the most conservative and least talkative, and while they may worry you and keep you guessing and make you do the talking, they are not likely to make trouble for you by betraying your confidence. A certain manufacturer's statement is worth quoting, as follows: "Do not quote these special prices to Brown, for he has talked too freely to me of other manufacturers' prices, and I am afraid it is a habit with him; but with such a man as Smith it is safe, and will go no further."

The average sales agent is made to discriminate, not alone because of the standing of the house or the quantities to be purchased, but also between the individual buyers.

Individual buyers of distinctly different types obtain substantial results in a different manner. I know of one buyer of fine principles who does practically all of the talking, and fairly begs the manufacturer for what he wants. I had occasion to criticize him, when his employer sensibly remarked: "I know him to be honest and faithful to his duties, and the results are unquestionably profitable to us."

I also know of another type of buyer, as quiet and modest as a trained nurse, and as mum as an oyster, making the sales agent do all the talking and worrying; and results prove him to be one of the keenest and shrewdest of buyers and and a natural born actor; and if either of these buyers attempted to imitate the example of the other they would both be failures.

Every intelligent buyer aims to work in close and harmonious relations with the sales department. Let each show proper regard for the other department, and the combination will add materially to the sales and profits.

Any buyer—in fact, any successful man—taking undue advantage of his position is a snob.

If any man tries to bribe a buyer for his own personal benefit, he would be justified in knocking him down; but it would be more polite to tell him squarely that all rebates on orders or shipments belong to his employers.

Lime Juice

that's All Lime Juice.

It Holds Trade

Quality, not quantity, wins trade and holds it--a new article sold on the basis of "more for your money" may catch the temporary customer, but do you want a man or a woman to buy once and then stop?

Stower's Concentrated Lime Juice is the pure Juice of West Indian Limes that are cultivated especially for "Stowers." It is all Lime Juice down to the last drop in the bottle. Years and years ago it was distinguished from all other Lime Juice because—no musty flavor—no free acid taste—its perfect keeping qualities after the cork is drawn—its great strength, because concentrated. "It holds trade"—it maintains its reputation of the past steadfastly.

Stower's Lime Juice

These Hold Trade Also.

FROM THE "CHATHAM DAILY NEWS," JULY 7th, 1906

CLEANLINESS AND QUALITY ARE HERE

Factory of the Kent Canning Co., an Example of Modern Thoroughness.

"We are preparing food, cleanliness strictly observed," is painted in large letters in one of the large process rooms of the Kent Canning Company, and a visitor to the plant cannot fail to observe that the rule is kept to the letter. This concern, the canned products of which have attained a favorable reputation among the connoisseurs of the Dominion, is unquestionably a credit to the Maple City. Kent brand goods are known wherever quality is appreciated, and every time a can with this label is opened the City of Chatham is duly advertised as a centre for the best canned goods on the market.

Cleanliness and Quality.

These two words represent what the Canadian canners have been fighting for during the last 20 years, and they certainly represent Canada as far as canned goods are concerned. Taking the local factory as an example, it can safely be declared that greater cleanliness than is here manifest is next to an impossibility, while it is within the knowledge of all that no better grade of fruit or vegetables grow anywhere than in Kent.

It is a fact generally known that only the best of fruit is canned, and in the Kent works this rule is rigidly adherred to. Upon the arrival of the berries, they are at once cleaned, at present 50 hands being constantly employed at this work. The watchword, Cleanliness, is here most thoroughly enforced, the foreman permitting no girl to take her place until satisfactory evidences of careful preparation can be presented.

After a thorough washing, the berries are ready for the cans. From here on the aid of modern machinery is in evidence. An ingenious machine quickly fills the cans with the luscious fruit, after which a proper proportion of hot syrup is added. This syrup is certainly the real article, and it is safe to say that no housewife uses a superior quality in her cooking, simply because nothing better in the way of syrup is obtainable.

THE CAPPER—A WONDER.

To the average mind it would appear that, after the berries are in the cans, the most difficult work, that of capping them, presents itself. Owing, however, to a most wonderful machine, this is not the case. The cans of berries are placed upon a slowly revolving sheet of steel, and when a certain point is reached, they are automatically and separately placed unto a steel moving track, or rail, closely resembling a broad chain. As they move along here a swiftly revolving brush, which just scrapes the top of the cans, cleans them. As each can reaches a certain point an ingenious brush arrangement places just sufficient acid on the grooves on their tops necessary for the solder capping, which soon follows. At this juncture a girl places the caps in position on the top of each can and they pass under a mechanical arrangement, which, when twelve cans are in a row, switches them on to another track, when a series of soldering discs complete the work as far as the canning proper is concerned.

After this is done they are pushed onto a third track, on which they continue for several yards, where a man adds any final touches in the way of soldering which may be necessary.

The cans are then cooled in a long tank of water following which they are placed in boxes and kept in storage for several weeks. During that time, should any cans be found to leak, or be otherwise defective, they are, of course, destroyed, although as a rule, it only requires ten days for any discrepancies to show, the additional days being prudently added by the company in order to be doubly sure that every can of Kent Brand products is found in first-class condition by the thousands of consumers.

Besides the great Kent strawberry, all the other products that are canned go through much the same process. Practically the same machinery is used, and the same foresight, attention and economy of effort are manifested in every product canned by the company.

Indications point to the fact that government inspection in the future will be more rigid than it has been in the past. This is welcomed by the proprietors of the plant, as they have always conscientiously tried to keep the place as clean, and unsullied from any deleterious matter, or adulteration, as is within the power of man to keep it. As an instance of this, it may be mentioned that a large 20 x 25 feet room is connected with the building, where the women and girls employed in the cleaning and packing may rest. The room is furnished with a table and chairs, and is well lighted by windows. It is at the disposal of the women employes at any time during the day, and is a model of cleanliness.

It may perhaps be nearly unnecessary to add that the most exemplary conduct is exacted from every employe while in the plant, and no smoking on the part of the men, nor profane language is ever for a moment tolerated. Neatness is everywhere apparent and, as previously stated, the establishment stands among the leading institutions of its kind in the country.

The canned products turned out by the local plant are used on the best tables in the provincial capital, though the majority of it is shipped west. They are favorably received as far west as the Pacific Coast, and in such cities as Winnipeg the Kent Brand is practically a household word. Only "Cleanliness and Quality" could achieve such a result.

The remarks as above are equally applicable to each of our thirty factories. In ordering Canned Goods it will pay you to stick to brands as follows, viz.:

"Canada First," "Little Chief," "Log Cabin," "Horseshoe," "Kent," "Auto," "Lynnvalley," "Maple Leaf," "Lion," "Thistle," "Grand River," "White Rose," etc.

"QUALITY AND CLEANLINESS," Our Motto. Yours respectfully

A Vigorous Tea Policy

The Grocer who comes out strong in his tea department is going to find himself at the head of the procession in sizing up with his competitors.

That is the reason it pays you to talk Ceylon Teas first, last and all the time. There is no use putting your money on a horse that is already beaten, so why bother with teas that have been out-distanced and out-classed.

Don't waste your time, instead show Ceylon Tea in your window, advertise it in your local paper and push it all along the line and you will find that it pays you every time and that right handsomely.

Remember your experience with Ceylon Blacks, how they beat out all competitors. The same thing is taking place in the green tea trade. Get in early and get the trade and prestige resulting from backing a winner.

Ceylon Teas Black and Green are winners every time

Interest Is Growing Warm

IN

CANNED GOODS

The season will open with a bare market. Consumption will show its usual increase. It is time the progressive retailer began making his plans to get his

SHARE OF INCREASED BUSINESS

Let us offer you a word of advice. Buy Old Homestead goods now. Insist on your jobber supplying nothing but Old Homestead. If you handled them last year you know their fine quality and high reputation with your customers. If you have never sold them you will be surprised at the ease with which they are introduced and the hold they take when once tried.

The demand this year is greater than ever. We had anticipated this and arranged for the biggest pack on record. We are still able to book a few orders.

Remember that Old Homestead goods are the standard of quality for Canada.

DON'T DELAY. ORDER NOW.

The Old Homestead Canning Co.

PICTON, ONT.

The First Six Months of 1906 has Expired and our books show that the increase in the consumption of

over the corresponding six months of 1905 amounted to 232,303 lbs., and that the increase in the Toronto branch alone (established 16 years) amounted to 111,232 lbs.

Our increase alone in 6 months amounts to as much tea as was consumed during the same period by all the inhabitants of all the cities and towns on the G. T. R., between Toronto and Montreal, including Pickering, Whitby, Oshawa, Bowmanville, Newcastle, Port Hope, Peterboro, Cobourg, Grafton, Colborne, Brighton, Trenton, Belleville, Napanee, Kingston, Gananoque, Brockville, Prescott, Cardinal, Iroquois, Morrisburg, Cornwall, Lancaster, Coteau Jct., Vaudreuil. This is worked out on a basis of a consumption of 4½ pounds of tea per head per annum, or, say, one-half-pound per week per family of five.

Then our Montreal branch, working the provinces of Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and Prince Edward Island, also comes in with a magnificent increase, all showing that we are making the same enormous headway this year in Canada that we did in 1905 over the previous year, and added to all this is our tremendous increase in the United States.

WHAT DOES THIS SHOW?

That we serve the public well, and that the grocer serves them best when he serves them with an article like "SALADA," thereby retaining their confidence and goodwill.

The above advertisement is very similar to one we published this time last year, our total increase for the first six months of this year over last being nearly as much as the first six months of 1905 were over 1904.
To anyone interested we will be glad to show them our books.

CANADA'S PRIDE

SEASON 1906

We have now fully equipped our factory with all latest machinery, making it modern and up-to-date and will pack a full line of FRUITS and VEGETABLES. We are situated in one of the best districts for producing a fine flavor, which was fully demonstrated by our pack of last year.

We would specially call your attention to our system of naming the different grades of peas, as on the label of each can is shown the exact size of the contents; the different grades being known as Nos. 1, 2, 3, which assures the consumers of getting exactly, what they are buying, instead of the great variety of names now employed, which no one understands. We respectfully ask that you give our goods a trial and allow the consumer to be the judge, ASSURING you we will pack, only, a HIGH GRADE QUALITY, which will create a demand. Remember the brand "Canada's Pride," the best yet.

What do You Think of the Red Rose Method of Advertising?

There is more money being spent in advertising Red Rose Tea than any other tea on the Canadian market.

——but——only a small portion of this money is going into newspapers or on the bill boards.

The greater part is put into the tea——right where it brings quick, direct returns in repeat orders.

Better than any prize or any amount of hot air——at least I think so. What is your opinion?

A friendly letter of criticism on this or any other point from every one who sells Red Rose Tea would be greatly appreciated.

FISHERIES OF CANADA

Most Extensive in the World—Value of Different Fish—Replenishment of Lobsters—The Dog Fish Industry — Canadian Whales.

Canada has the most extensive fisheries in the world, but falls behind the United Kingdom and Norway in the value of fish exports. This suggests great possibilities of development. There are 5,600 miles of sea coast on the east, 7,180 miles on the west, together more than double that of the United Kingdom, and the coast line of Hudson Bay, over 6,000 miles, asserted to possess very rich but quite undeveloped fisheries, is not included. Again, excluding Hudson Bay, the salt water in-shore area, not including minor indentations, covers more than 1,500 square miles, while the fresh water area of that part of the great lakes belonging to Canada is computed at 72,700 square miles, not including the very productive waters of Manitoba and the North-West.

Adding Newfoundland's fish exports to those of Canada, British North America leads the world. Here are the figures for the principal exportations:

United Kingdom	$17,313,171
Norway	12,557,676
Canada	10,856,538
Newfoundland	6,588,353
Holland	10,471,296
United States	6,527,863
Portugal	2,009,960
Denmark	1,792,384

Product of Provinces.

Canada exports considerably less than half the products of her fisheries, which in 1904, the latest return available, were by provinces as follows:

Nova Scotia	$7,287,099
New Brunswick	4,671,084
Prince Edward Island	1,078,546
Quebec	1,751,396
Ontario	1,793,299
Manitoba	1,465,990
N.-W. Territories	250,987
British Columbia	5,219,106
	$23,517,507

In Nova Scotia the most important individual fish was the cod, with the lobster a good second; in New Brunswick the herring, with sardines next; in Prince Edward Island the lobster by long odds; in Quebec the cod, with no near second; in Ontario the salmon trout; in Manitoba and the Territories white fish, and in British Columbia, salmon.

King Salmon.

The salmon is Canada's king fish. It heads the list for value. But if we annex Newfoundland again for a moment, the cod leads them all by millions. He is the John D. R. of North American waters. But setting aside Newfoundland again, the cod does not hold even second place in Canada's fisheries. In the catch of 1904 the lobster was second and the cod third. The figures are: salmon, Atlantic, $516,763; Pacific, $3,352,781; total, $3,869,544; lobsters, $3,691,550; cod, $3,642,953; herring, $2,156,489; whitefish, $1,058,812; sardines, $790,441; halibut, $784,564; trout, $782,140; mackerel, $750,397; haddock, $638,973; pickerel, $638,567; smelts, $447,579; hake, $363,134; pike, $252,853; sturgeon, $241,710; pollock, $237,818; clams, $215,338; oysters, $186,685; alewives, $155,616; eels, $129,944. The only decreases from the previous year were: cod, $134,776; mackerel, $893,922; smelts, $33,225; and pollock, $14,774. The British Columbia salmon pack of 1904 was small, scarcely more than a third what it was last year. At a similar valuation last year's pack would be worth $5,603,800, which, with the Atlantic catch, would give a total for the salmon of $6,120,563.

Keeping up the Supply.

But it is the development of the fisheries and the efforts to that end that are most interesting. First in importance is fish culture, in which Canada was a pioneer and is a leader. The Government's efforts date from 1867, when it took over Samuel Wilmot's hatchery at Newcastle, Ont. There are now 28 Dominion hatcheries. During the thirty-nine years 4,806,416,100 feg have been distributed, the average annual distribution for twenty years having been 221,000,000. During the last nine years not less than 100,000,000 lobsters have been hatched. The total distribution of feg last year from the Government's twenty-eight hatcheries was 627,541,400, an increase over the previous year's output of 154,291,000. The feg were of eight different species of valuable commercial fishes: Atlantic salmon, 9,114,000; Pacific salmon, chiefly sockeyes, 19,572,000; salmon trout ,3,790,000; pike-perch or pickerel, 26,000,000; lake whitefish, 105,500,000; Pacific trout, 50,000; eastern brook trout, 514,000; sea lobsters, 463,000,000.

Impounding Lobsters.

As a supplement to the hatcheries' output for the replenishment of the lobster fisheries, the system has been adopted for Cape Breton of buying "berried," that is, seed lobsters, from the fishermen, and impounding them until after the fishing season, then replacing them in their natural breeding grounds. It is done by contract at 16 1-4c. per lobster. Last year 52,772 "seed" lobsters were so saved from the fishermen. Prof. Prince, Dominion Commissioner of Fisheries, reporting on it recently, wrote:

"A 7-inch lobster will produce 5,000 eggs, whereas when one inch larger the number of eggs carried is just about double that quantity. A 10-inch lobster carries as a rule 18,000 or 20,000 eggs; but when 14 inches long the number of eggs is 40,000, and at 16 inches the number is estimated at no less than 80,000 eggs. Variations are not infrequent, and a 10-inch lobster may produce only 12,000 or 14,000 eggs; but on the other hand one specimen of this size is recorded which carried 21,000 eggs. These figures might appear large did we not know, by comparison with other marine creatures of economic importance, that the lobster is perhaps the least productive numerically of all. A herring deposits double the number of eggs produced on an average by the lobster; a mackerel four times as many, a cod four hundred times and a Canadian oyster four thousand times as many. No wonder that no lobster fishery in any country has been able for many years to withstand the tremendous annual drain implied by a large market. The lobster fishery of Canada, it is estimated, annually destroys between sixty and one hundred millions of lobsters, a considerable proportion of these being females about to spawn, or recently spawned. It is indeed astonishing that our lobster grounds have been able to hold out so long with this gigantic destruction going on year after year."

Making a Pest Pay.

A new enterprise in which the Government is pioneering is the turning of dog-fish to commercial advantage. They are now the greatest pest of the Atlantic fisherman. Inspector Bertram, of Cape Breton, in his last annual report, said: "The greatest menace to the fishing industry is the dog-fish, and they are increasing in numbers every year to such an extent that the waters are literally alive with the pest between the beginning of July and end of November. The quantity of food fish consumed and the destruction to gear are not the only drawback to the successful prosecution of the industry, but also to the fact that they frighten all kinds of school fish away. Before the arrival of dog-fish in July, cod are found invariably plentiful on the banks which surround our coast. In July, when the dog-fish begin to make their appearance, the baited hook catches the dog-fish instead of cod, haddock or pollock. Then again dog-fish have completely ruined the mid-summer run of herring which was in former years such a source of profit to Cape Breton people."

Inspector Pratt wrote from New Brunswick: "These pests of the ocean whose destructive qualities are dilated on in very strong language by the fishermen from Sandy Hook to the Grand Banks of Newfoundland, are still with us, I regret to report. The manner in which they have reduced the slender income of the line and net fisherman along the Atlantic coast is perfectly incredible and it is generally conceded that on account of the large size of their schools no human agency can reduce their numbers to any appreciable extent."

Name Not Good to Eat.

The Government's experiments include canning and the manufacture of fish manure. Canned they are said to be a very palatable and good food, but the name "dog-fish" is against their becoming popular, and "white halibut" has been suggested. Prof. Prince quotes a Nova Scotian authority thus:

"After having eaten dog-fish for a number of days, mostly with potatoes. I found them by all odds the most satisfactory fish that we have. When well cooked, boiled, fried, or broiled, their flavor is superior to any other, and they are much more satisfactory, indeed the equal of pork as to quantity, and 50 per cent. more substantial than cod or haddock. Fresh or salt they are better than many kinds of salmon, with flavor much the same, but without the dryness of the salmon. Mackerel are not to be mentioned in comparison. Smoked, the dog-fish is far superior to halibut, and they dress the nicest of any fish. But that is not all. As a nerve food, there is no equal to the dog-fish. They are the most satisfactory food that I ever ate; it just seems to suit the digestion, and there is none of that ill effect that we have after eating heartily of other fish or meat. Dog-fish are not scavengers like most of our other fish; they live on live food, which may account for their fine and delicate flavor."

Help the Man with the Line.

One of the drawbacks to line fishing for cod has been the difficulty of drying because of unfavorable weather, and of late years many fishermen have abandoned the great staple of the dried fish market and turned their attention to the lobster fishing to the overdoing and probable undoing of it. As an encouragement to the resmuption of cod fishing the Government "has undertaken," to quote the deputy minister of marine and fisheries, "as an instructive experiment, to practically demonstrate to the fishermen the great possibilities and advantages to be derived from an artificial system which permits of the best and quickest results absolutely unaffected by any climatic conditions."

Scotch Curing.

Much has been published about the success of the Government's experimental stations for the introduction into Canada of the Scotch method of curing herring. The work was carried on on both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, and demonstrated the superiority of the Canadian herring.

Canada has the Whales.

Canada, with the richest whaling grounds in the world, has until now neglected the industry made increasingly profitable by modern methods and decreasing supply, and it is being encouraged by the pen of Prof. Prince. Lieut.-Col. Gourdeau, deputy minister, in his recent annual report, says:

"The revival of the valuable whaling industry, which was at one time actively pursued from Gaspe, and many centres

David Marshall,
A Candidate for Parliamentary Honors.

in the estuary of the St. Lawrence, is a feature of great moment in the maritime industries of the Dominion. As the more valuable kinds of whales were reduced in numbers in the Gulf, the industry fifty years ago declined, and the pursuit of the valuable cetaceans was left to Scottish, Norwegian and United States whalers, who carried on hazardous but remunerative whaling in Hudson Bay and the Canadian waters of the Arctic circle.

"Four new features in the industry have brought about a revolution, viz.: the use of explosive bomb-harpoons; the inflation of the carcass of the whale by machinery; the use of machinery in handling the captured whales at fixed whaling factories; the utilization of other products than whalebone and blubber—by conversion into guano, leather, glue, canned meat, etc.

"These four important features have led to the capture of rorquals, humpbacks, blackfish and other so-called inferior kinds, which were neglected by whalers in former years, because they were more dangerous and powerful than the valued 'right-whales,' and the blubber and whalebone were less in quantity and wholly inferior in value."

A BUSINESS CANDIDATE.

The Conservatives of East Elgin have honored themselves in nominating Mr. David Marshall as their candidate in the approaching Dominion bye-election in that constituency, made vacant by the appointment of Mr. Andrew Ingram to the Ontario Railway Board.

Mr. Marshall, who is known to most readers of The Grocer as one of the organizers of the Aylmer Canning Company, the Canadian Canners, Limited, and for the last three years and up to a few months ago manager of the latter company, is the type of man we need in public life.

Successful in business, gentlemanly and considerate in manner, and one who has always had the respect and confidence of those with whom he has been brought into business relations, Mr. Marshall will have the sympathy of the business public irrespective of their party affiliations in his campaign for the suffrages of the voters of the constituency in which he has spent the better part of his life and to the development of which he has lent his fine business talents.

Although born in Eramosa Township, near Guelph, Mr. Marshall is practically a native of Elgin, having moved there as a lad with his father forty-five years ago. The shingle business first attracted the young man's attention, and gathering together some money from this venture, he went into the grocery business, establishing the Red Star Grocery, still a prosperous concern in the Town of Aylmer, where the candidate has long resided. From the grocery business Mr. Marshall launched out into canning, being one of the pioneers in Western Ontario. This venture was also a success, and during the twenty-odd years since its establishment many thousands of dollars found their way to the pockets of the Elgin farmers through the medium of the canning company, while the name of Aylmer became a household word among the users of canned goods the country over.

Associating himself with the organization of the Canadian Canners, Limited, Mr. Marshall occupied the responsible position of manager until a few months ago he resigned to be succeeded by his associate in the Aylmer concern, Mr. J. J. Nairn.

Mr. Marshall's entry into public life will be followed with keen and sympathetic interest by his many friends in the grocery trade throughout Canada.

PROMINENT MERCHANT GONE

Charles P. Hebert, of Montreal, died on Tuesday— A Pioneer Grocer—Attained Success by Hard Work and Business Capacity.

One of the pioneers in the wholesale grocery business in Canada has passed away in the person of Charles P. Hebert, who died in Montreal, July 17. Mr. Hebert had been in failing health all Winter, so that his death was not unexpected. Nevertheless he will be greatly missed in the realms of commerce in which he was a prominent figure for over fifty years. His funeral will take place to-day.

Charles P. Hebert was born in the Village of St. Charles, Que., in 1834. He came to Montreal in 1844, when he was but ten years of age. He began his business career in a small grocery shop when still quite young. He changed his position two or three times before he entered the firm of V. Hudon, in 1857, as clerk. Here he spent eight years in learning the business, in which he was evidently successful since. In 1865 Mr. V. Hudon started him in business with his own son Joseph and the then bookkeeper, Mr. Hamelin, under the firm name of Joseph Hudon & Co. Until 1883 this firm continued in existence. Then Mr. Hamlin withdrew and the firm name was changed to Hudon, Hebert & Co., and Mr. Hebert's two sons, Albert and Zeph, entered the firm as clerks. They were both made partners in 1893.

Running a grocery store in those days was not an easy task. Such modern inventions as the telephone, the telegraph, the splendid shipping and railway facilities, were not in existence. It was upon his own pluck and perseverance that the merchant had to depend to build up a business. And looking at the splendid premises now occupied by the firm of Hudon, Hebert & Co., one must give Mr. Hebert credit for the industry and patience he exercised with his partner in the upbuilding of such a business. It is not all on the exterior, for if one were to examine the books of the company there would be revealed therein the tremendous business carried on by this firm annually. In the old days, when transportation was an unsolved problem, trade was more or less confined; to-day this house does business in all parts of the Dominion. And this trade has been built up largely through the indefatigable efforts of Mr. Hebert, whose untiring energy and stick-to-itiveness won the admiration of all, even those who competed with him for trade supremacy. As the business of the firm grew Mr. Hebert found it necessary to employ extra help, but in the old days a staff of five persons carried on the whole business of the then firm of J. Hudon & Co. Mr. Hebert was responsible for the buying and selling. Mr. Hudon did the receiving and shipping, while Mr. Hamelin did the bookkeeping. And the success of the firm was due in a great measure to Mr. Hebert's care and business astuteness. His careful hand guided the young firm through many a struggle.

Mr. Hebert was one of those sterling characters of the old school, one to whom strict integrity was a sacred duty. It is such characters as his which young men commencing their business career should emulate if they hope for success. Hard work, perseverance, honesty and readiness to accept the opportunity when it came were in a great measure responsible for his success. Adhering to these principles he attained that goal to which many aspire but few succeed in reaching.

Although many times pressed to accept public office, Mr. Hebert never would. He was a man who would have made a success in public life, but he did not see his way clear to serve the people that way. His business was his hobby ; to it and some charitable work he devoted his whole time. Business honors he did accept, being one of the first presidents of the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild. He had filled several offices in the Montreal Board of Trade, such as vice-president, member of the council and member of the board of arbitration.

Mr. Hebert took a deep interest in Montreal's charitable institutions. He was president of the board of management of the Notre Dame Hospital, and was also connected with other charitable organizations.

Up to the beginning of last Winter Mr. Hebert had always been hale and hearty, but his health failing then he was not able to attend to the business as he would have wished. Seventy-two years is not always reached by a man who has spent such a life of hard work as did Mr. Hebert. He will be sadly missed by his many friends, both business and social, by whom he was much admired.

William McKinnon and Edgar Lawrence have purchased Caldwell's meat and grocery business, Moncton, N.B.

PIONEER AND PATRIOT.

C. M. Creed at Seventy-Five Secretary Maritime Board of Trade.

Not many men arrived at their 75th year continue to give their time to furthering the business interests of their country. Such an one is C. M. Creed, of Halifax, secretary of the Maritime Board of Trade. The boards of trade in the Atlantic provinces are public spirited bodies with a wide range of interests, and Mr. Creed by his long experience and ability is eminently fitted for the good work he is doing. He enters upon his 75th year on July 22, and The Grocer joins his many friends in wishing him many vigorous and happy returns of the day. The annual meeting of the Maritime Board will be held at Amherst, N.S., on August 15.

HAMILTON TRAVELERS' DAY OUT

Hamilton commercial travelers held their annual picnic at Oakville on Saturday afternoon in Lake Bank Park. Travelers and their friends to the number of 300 were present and had an enjoyable afternoon. The 13th Regiment band accompanied the party. A baseball match was played between city and country travelers and was won by the country travelers by 12 to 9. A series of games and races took place and afforded much entertainment for the large company.

PICTURE OF TEA.

The picture of the Japan tea plant produced in the recent Special Spring and Export Number of The Canadian Grocer was a photogravure of a water color sketch of the tea plant done for Smith, Baker & Co., of Japan, one of the large tea houses of the world. The firm issued reprints of the picture to the trade, a copy of which has been received by The Grocer and is very well worth preservation by any one interested in tea.

MERCHANTS MEET INSPECTORS.

Produce Men of Montreal Forgather With Cheese Experts.

For two years past meetings of the Eastern Ontario dairy instructors have been held in Montreal with the provision merchants of that city, to enable the experts whose time is spent in improving the quality of the cheese output to get into personal touch with the trade end of the industry. These men spend their time in the factory and on the farm, and it is highly essential that they have a knowledge of the business after the cheese is marketed.

The first meeting this year was held Tuesday of last week in the Board of Trade, where 40 instructors and most of the members of the Montreal Produce Merchants' Association were present. After a very profitable discussion of various phases of the cheese industry, dotted with suggestions for improvement, the instructors visited the warehouses and were very kindly received. Geo. Putnam, Toronto, superintendent of dairy instruction; Geo. Publow, chief dairy instructor of Eastern Ontario; and G. H. Barr, chief dairy instructor of Western Ontario, were with the visiting delegation.

H. A. Hodgson, president of the Montreal Produce Merchants' Association, presided. Several Montreal men addressed the meeting and various subjects of interest to the trade were discussed. R. M. Ballantyne spoke of the improvement in the quality of the cheese made by eastern factories. This improvement had been going on for the last five years. Cheese now manufactured was much higher in quality and occupied an enviable place in the trade. Uniformity in weight was a subject which should be taken up as soon as possible.

Arthur J. Hodgson addressed the meeting and in the course of his remarks suggested that in future when the association paid a visit to Montreal they come in sections, as in that way the produce merchants would be enabled to show them things connected with the trade in a much more satisfactory manner. He then touched upon the matter of uniform weights. He spoke of dirty railway cars and the bad effect these had upon the appearance of cheese boxes and even the cheese itself.

A. W. Grant read an interesting paper on disease germs in milk.

Geo. H. Barr, chief dairy inspector in Western Ontario, warned buyers and instructors against giving explanations as to defects in cheese too hastily, since it was often hard to place the cause of the defect. In their dealings with the farmers the instructors should not use technical terms when it was possible to state the matter in a straightforward manner in simple language. In this way their teaching would assume greater force and be more beneficial to the farmer. Rusty cans and galvanized pails had a great deal to do with the bad flavor sometimes noticed in cheese. Sanitary conditions when making the cheese were essential and were too often neglected.

Geo. Putnam, superintendent of farmers' institutes, agreed that the matter of cleanliness was highly important.

Fred Fowler spoke of the progress of the factories in Eastern Ontario and stated that the merchants were ready to back up inspectors who did their duty in criticizing bad cheese. Farmers sometimes retaliated by leaving the syndicate. If such an occurrence took place, the merchants on being apprised of the fact he felt sure would be able to force the farmer to rejoin the syndicate for self-protection. Mr. Publow spoke of the necessity of sanitation in the making of cheese and brought up the matter of co-operation between the merchant and the producer.

CHEESE MAKERS AT LAW.

J. G. Heroux, cheesemaker, of Terrebonne, has taken an action for $7,724 against Matthew Moody and Henry Moody. The plaintiff alleges that the defendants sold him a number of cheese factories in the County of Terrebonne some time ago, with the understanding that they would not carry on the same business in the same county, and that they did not live up to their agreement.

FORTY YEARS A GROCER.

J. Gander will celebrate his fortieth year in the grocery business at Merritton, Ont., on Sept. 18 next. Mr. Gander has taken The Canadian Grocer continuously since the commencement of its publication.

SUGGESTIONS FOR DISCUSSION

At Coming Convention.

(1) Organization of a mutual fire insurance department.
(2) Division of territory into properly workable local districts, and the appointment of local district secretaries (where there are none at present) to superintend collection of fees and other matters of local interest.
(3) Consideration of relations of Western Association with the "Retail Merchants' Association of Canada."
(4) The debt collection department and how it may be improved.
(5) A proposal to establish a selling agency for country produce, the object being to ship to an agent for disposition.
(6) Suggestions as to a new constitution.

CAT MOTHERS A RAT.

Strange Mix-up in the Cellar of Michie & Co., Toronto.

Michie & Co., grocers, Toronto, have a cat that has undertaken the odd duty —for a cat——of mothering a young rat. She had a shelf full of five of her own, but took on the rat without a whimper. She had domiciled her family on a high shelf in the cellar and on Monday one of the men at work in the cellar turned up a rat, caught it and passed it over to puss. She took it and mounted the barrel box and pipe ladder to her shelved kittens.

Everyone thereabouts thought, if they thought anything about it that the career of a small rat was closed. But the next day and the day after the rat was seen rolling among the kittens as much at home as a bird on a bough and the rat in the cat family became and is the wonder of the store.

The next day Mrs. Puss decided to move from the shelf to a coal bin and the rat was the first she transported, making a mouthful of him in the usual cat fashion. The rat stayed in the coal bin where she laid him while his foster mother, mouthful by mouthful, brought down her own five. They are in the coal bin now, a very happy family.

Some may wonder how the rat is fed. The men give it cheese and other dainties, but the story is told that the old cat plays the she wolf's turn for Romulus and Remus.

A RUN OF HARD LUCK.

W. T. Box, a young Montreal grocer, has decided to give up the retail grocery business. Mr. Box has had a run of extremely hard luck since he started in business for himself. In the beginning his horse was killed and his wagon smashed by a street car. Later his store was burned to the ground. In neither case did he obtain satisfactory damage. His latest misfortune lies in the fact that the building he moved into this Spring has been condemned by the city health inspector. This is entirely the fault of the owner of the building, who will probably have to stand the loss incurred by Mr. Box, who loses all his stock.

Mr. Box is very popular with everyone who knows him, and his grit in sticking to the business in face of such hard luck has won much admiration from all in the trade.

HALF HOLIDAYS.

The grocers of Port Hope are closing on Wednesday afternoon during the Summer months. Peterboro merchants, generally, are observing Thursday afternoon as a holiday, but the grocers are not unanimous in the matter.

There has been a large quantity of Heinz pure pickling vinegar placed within the last month. Like all other Heinz goods, the quality is extra fine. Seedless valencia raisins may be had from H. P. Eckardt & Co.

FREIGHTS AND CHARTERS

Outward Movement of Foodstuffs—Vessel on the Rocks.

There has been considerable activity in shipping circles during the past week. Export trade, speaking generally, has been in a healthy state and good shipments in different lines have been moving out.

Cheese shipments continue steady, which is somewhat surprising considering the present state of the market. Prices are very high, but nevertheless orders are being received from the other side daily. Export business in consequence is good. As a matter of fact cheese shipments to date are considerably ahead of those for the same period last year.

Butter is not moving out of the country so freely. Some considerable trade is being done, but it is not so satisfactory as the cheese business. Shipments since the opening of navigation this year have not been so great as those of 1905 during the same period.

Meat is still moving out very slowly. Dealers find that there is very little export call for their lines. To just what cause the lack of business must be attributed it is difficult to decide. Although some business is passing, there is not a great deal doing in lard at present.

Excellent flour trade is being done in an export way. Large shipments are being made to Great Britain, South Africa and other points. Grain is being shipped in large quantities, wheat particularly.

The steamship Cervona, of the Thomson line, which sailed from Montreal on July 7, went on the rocks near South Point, on the south shore of Anticosti, on July 10. It will be remembered that the Cervona carried a cargo including 8,000 tubs of butter, 38,000 cheese, 40,000 bushels of wheat and 519 head of cattle. The vessel was bound for London. Wrecking steamers succeeded in getting the boat off the rocks on July 14, when it returned to Quebec. The cargo was not materially damaged.

One of the recent arrivals in port is the Yola, with a cargo of sugar from the Barbadoes, for the Canada Sugar Refinery.

Manchester Shipper, Furness, Withy & Co., cleared for Manchester with a general cargo on July 13.

The Escalona, R. Reford & Co., sailed for Aberdeen with a general cargo on July 13.

Freight rates this week are unchanged. The rates have been very steadily maintained so far this season, very few changes having been made.

COW TESTING.

Reports of Quebec Associations—Interesting Comparisons.

The reports of the Cow Testing Association issued by the Dominion Dairy Commissioner continue to show interesting variations in the performances of herd and individual cows.

St. Camille, Que.—Thirty days ending June 2; herds, 21; cows, 151; average test (percentage of butter fat) 3.5; average yield of milk per cow, 582 lbs.; average yield of fat per cow, 20.9 lbs. One herd of 9 cows averaged only 300 lbs. of milk per cow, while another of 8 cows averaged 786 lbs. In one the yield of butter fat was 10.6 lbs. and in the other 27.4 lbs. The former herd, too, had the lowest individual average, 260 lbs. of milk, and the latter had the highest, 990 lbs.

Lotbiniere, Que.—Thirty days ending June 16; herds, 19; cows, 145; average test (percentage of butter fat) 3.8; average yield of milk per cow, 615 lbs.; average yield of fat per cow, 23.5 lbs.; highest herd average yield of milk per cow, 860 lbs.; lowest, 398 lbs.; highest individual yield, milk, 1,140 lbs.; lowest, 305 lbs.; highest individual test, 5.0; lowest, 2.5.

St. Armand, Que.—Thirty days ending June 23; herds, 19; cows, 355; average yield of milk per cow, 661 lbs.; average test (percentage of butter fat) 3.9; average yield of fat per cow, 26.2 lbs. The record at St. Armand, Que., for the fourth period shows a marked general improvement. In only one herd is there a cow testing under 3.0 per cent. fat, and there are several cows giving over 1,000 lbs. milk for the 30 days. In one herd with 35 cows the average was 31.3 lbs. of butter fat. In another of 24 cows the average was 20.8 and in a herd of 7 cows it was 40.2 lbs. One cow in a herd of 23 gave 1,635 lbs. of milk with a test of 5.0. The lowest yield was 195 lbs. of milk.

St. Edwidge, Que.—Thirty days to June 10; herds, 30; cows, 288; average yield of milk per cow, 651 lbs.; average test (percentage of butter fat) 3.8; average yield of butter fat per cow, 24.9 lbs. The largest herd, 28 cows, averaged 638 lbs. of milk, with a test of 4.1, yielding 26.5 lbs. fat per cow. The highest yield was 863 lbs. milk; test, 3.7, fat per cow, 31 lbs. This performance was by a herd of 12 cows. The poorest yields were by herds of 7 and 5 cows respectively; yield, milk, 481 lbs., 482 lbs.; test, 3.9, 3.8; fat, 18.6 lbs., 18.2 lbs.

MANUFACTURERS' OFFICERS.

President and Vice-President by Acclamation—Committee Nominations.

On Tuesday, the 17th inst., the nominations for officers of the Montreal board of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association were held in the offices of the Board of Trade building. This event is always of great interest to the trade and a large number of members were present to participate in the proceedings.

J. S. N. Dougall, of McCaskill, Dougall & Co., was elected president of the board by acclamation, and S. W. Ewing, of S. H. Ewing & Son, secured election to vice-president also by acclamation.

There are this year, eighteen vacancies on the committee and twenty-nine names will be on the ballot papers for the honor. The only election by acclamation for the committee was that of Lieut.-Col. Jeffrey Burland. Col. Burland is an ex-officio member of the committee, being the retiring chairman.

The following gentlemen were nominated: Fred Birks, J. H. Birks, S. S. Boxer, William Bramley, W. T. Castle, William Cauldwell, C. W. Davis, Geo. E. Drummond, Geo. Esplin, F. W. Fairman, O. Faucher, Robt. Gardner, C. B. Gordon, J. W. Hughes, S. D. Joubert, J. R. Kinghorn, L. B. McFarlane, J. A. Milne, Robert Munro, L. H Packard, Geo. W. Sadler, Hon. J. B. Rolland, J. H. Sherrard, E. F. Sise, William Smaill, Clarence F. Smith, W. T. Whitehead, F. Howard Wilson, R. J. Younge.

Ballots will be issued in a few days. Poll closes at 2 p.m., Tuesday, 24th inst., the day of the annual meeting.

AN ATTRACTIVE CATALOGUE.

A very attractive catalogue has just been issued by the Ocean Mills, Montreal. Mention is made in it of all the many lines manufactured by this firm. Many cuts are used and give effect to the wording of the catalogue. A post card to the head office in Montreal will bring one.

PERSONAL MENTION.

W. Hooey, of the Eureka Refrigerator Company, Toronto, called at the Montreal office of The Canadian Grocer this week on his way back from the Maritime Provinces, where he has secured considerable business. While in Montreal Mr. Hooey visited the local trade in company with the local agent, J. H. Maiden.

Another caller at the Montreal office of The Grocer was Mr. Camus, of Camus Freres, Cognac, France. While in the city Mr. Camus spent some time visiting local houses. Mathieu Freres, De Bresoles street, are agents for this house, whose principal brand of cognac is "La Grand Marque."

FAVORS GRADING CHEESE.

W. G. Gardiner, dairy instructor for the Perth, Ont., district, speaking recently of the intention to fill the position of butter and cheese referee at Montreal now vacant, said the patrons in his district favored, instead of a man to decide disputes between makers and buyers regarding the quality of cheese, the appointment of a Government grader who would grade and stamp all cheese as first, second or third grade, as the quality warranted. The buyers would then have an understood price for each grade and the makers could tell when their cheese was not up to the standard and find out the reason why. The cheese would also bear the stamp when it reached the Old Country. Not only in his district, but patrons generally, Mr. Gardiner claimed, were in favor of this. There was always a percentage of poor cheese and all the factories had to suffer the loss for it.

Mr. Gardiner said cheese makers and patrons were making an honest effort to turn out good cheese. The chief cause of poor cheese was bad flavored milk. A general improvement was going on in the factories. In the Perth district there were 11 factories with cement floors.

WESTERN POSTAL SERVICE.

The western postal service at the present time is utterly inadequate. The western business man who reads this will probably say that the expression "utterly inadequate" scarcely does justice to the subject, but in cold print it will scarcely do to put in the unprintable language in which many westerners are wont to indulge when the western postal service is mentioned. Hard things are said of it whenever two or three western business men gather together, and at the recent board of trade convention in Edmonton not one voice was raised in defence of the western postal administration. So many were the instances of neglect and long delays in delivery, so overwhelming was the evidence presented as to the inadequacy of the service, that no defence was possible.

Instances were quoted of delays of weeks and months in the transmission of letters a few miles. This paper can tell of nothing quite so bad as that but one specific instance will serve as an example of the generally inadequate service. A letter from the Winnipeg office of this paper to A. E. Boyle, secretary of the board of trade in Regina, was posted in the Winnipeg post office on June 25th, and was received by Mr. Boyle on July 10th. And this on the main line of the C.P.R.

When such service is not infrequent on the main line of the C.P.R. it may readily be imagined that the service on the new C.N.R. main line from Winnipeg to Edmonton, and on the branch lines, is very much worse. Edmonton wholesalers complain that they can ship goods by freight to their customers on the C.N.R. main line and the goods will arrive a fortnight before the invoice mailed on the same day that the goods are shipped. In the face of such service they find little satisfaction in contemplating the postal surpluses at Ottawa.

The truth is that the west is growing too fast for the Post Office Department and Ottawa officials are too far away to appreciate the situation. What is urgently required at the present time is the appointment of a special deputy postmaster-general, who will live in the west and have full authority in the west to open new post offices as they are required, and to take drastic measures to improve the service between existing offices. Western postmasters do not rely on their "salaries" for a living, and perhaps most of them earn more than they are paid. But the public require and demand an adequate service, and it must be provided no matter what the cost. The western business man feels strongly that it is the duty of the Post Office Department to abandon the task of accumulating a surplus and devote themselves to the organization of an efficient service, cost what it may.

CONTEMPTIBLE ATTACK.

Discredited by the exposure of their disgusting methods, the United States packing interests are trying to rehabilitate themselves by the shabby time-worn trick of maligning their betters.

The Canadian packers have never attempted to compete with Chicago in low-grade meats. The Canadian farmer raises the finest hogs in the world, and the Canadian packing houses and abattoirs in which our meats have been cured have been conducted, in the main, in a manner that reflects credit on them. As a result Canadian bacon has for years commanded a considerably higher price on the British market than has that of American packers.

The recent investigations, while disgusting the British consumer, has turned his attention more than ever to Canada, upon whose products he has learned he can depend. The American interests were quick to note this and as unscrupulous in taking means to check this movement.

Their method was characteristically underground. A syndicate dispatch, purporting to come from Ottawa, is appearing broadcast in United States papers under the caption, "Canada's Meats are Vile," in which a number of incoherent charges are made which in every case where capable of investigation are found baseless, and which, if true, would not justify the headline.

It is practically certain that the dispatch never originated in Ottawa at all. It has all the earmarks of the "faked" dispatch, and there can be little doubt that it was instigated by interested parties in Chicago.

The investigations in Canada by the Dominion, Provincial and municipal authorities, as well as by representatives of the press, following the disclosures of Chicago nastiness, have in every case shown that the Canadian packers have conducted their houses with a proper regard for decency and cleanliness.

With a view to rendering innocuous these unfair attacks, it might be well to establish in Canada a system of governmental inspection, and to that the packers are quite agreeable.

CASH DISCOUNTS.

A Toronto retailer complained to The Grocer that the wholesalers, to pay costs of the Hamilton conspiracy suit, he said, had cut out their one per cent. discount for cash within ten days. If that be so the jobbers hate to own it, because inquiry at several houses elicited only denials everywhere. But it was said a change has been urged and contemplated for years. At present the cash discount varies on different classes of goods, entailing much extra clerical work in making invoices and keeping accounts. Some urge a flat rate applicable to all classes of goods. Others urge that everything should be sold net. In Montreal there is a flat rate and it works well.

One wholesaler remarked: "What's the difference? The buyer pays the discount anyway. The price is made to provide that." If that be so the sooner all goods are sold net the better for the retailer, because artificial price incentives must operate to his disadvantage.

FOOD STUFFS ASSOCIATION.

The retail grocers of Canada should have an organization of their own. The retailers of groceries are the purveyors of food stuffs to the nation. There can be no more important branch of trade. The methods of the grocers in no inconsiderable degree determine the cleanliness and healthfulness of a great part of what we eat. An active and progressive organization could do a very great deal to improve the conditions of doing business, and the methods in vogue. To be effective such an organization must have one subject and stick to it. Surely food stuffs and the handling of them is big enough ! There are quite a number of local organizations and if they would get together the rest would be easy — the trick would be turned.

USING MORE SUGAR.

Six countries of Europe, the United Kingdom, Germany, France, Austria-Hungary, Holland and Belgium, consumed 307,747 more tons of sugar between September, 1905, and May, 1906, than in the same period a year previous. The figures for the nine months are :

	1904-5	1905-6
United Kingdom ...	1,104,820	1,238,099
Germany	698,185	795,424
France	414,434	431,263
Austria-Hungary ...	325,641	378,816
Holland	66,868	71,915
Belgium	52,235	54,413

This is an illustration of how the consumption of sugar is increasing. In Canada the value of sugar, syrup and molasses imported increased from $7,536,-204 in the fiscal year ending June, 1903, to $11,337,176 in the fiscal year ending June, 1905.

THE SALMON SITUATION.

This has been a very unusual year in canned salmon from the standpoint of the retailer, and two factors enter into the abnormally large transfer of salmon from jobber to the final distributors. Two years ago the retailers bought heavily, the market went against them and they carried over considerable stocks to last year, when prices, it being a big year, were low. Once bitten, twice shy; so last year the retailer bought sparingly, with the result that this Spring found the retail trade pretty well cleaned up in the salmon line. Then came the advance in the price and much talk of a small pack and prices to beat all bygones. Here was a fine field for the retail trade carrying very light stocks to operate in, and buying commenced and has kept up for future needs. Very little Fraser River sockeye is now left in wholesale hands.

All are waiting for the packers' pronouncement on the opening price of the new pack. That has usually happened in May, but the packer is growing wise and this year, despite predictions to the contrary, this price will not likely be named till the pack is known. That will be on or about August 20. Canadian and Australian agents have been urging the canner to name a price, but Old Country agents have been backing his inclination to wait till he knows what he will have to sell.

THE LATE MR. HEBERT.

The Canadian Grocer has to announce with deepest regret and much sorrow the death this week of its oldest and best friend, Mr. C. P. Hebert.

It is now about twenty years since the present head of the MacLean Publishing Co. decided that the grocery trade of Canada wanted more special news than they were able to get through the ordinary channels. There were many other classes like the grocers, but the grocery news was that with which he was most familiar.

He discussed his intentions with a number of the leading retail and wholesale merchants and manufacturers. Nearly all of them, though friendly, thought such a publication could not possibly succeed, and discouraged his project. Some laughed at the idea. Some even sneered. Only two or three received him cordially. Mr. Hebert was one of these. Our president was at that time an entire stranger to him. Nevertheless he was warmly welcomed, given every encouragement and promised Mr. Hebert's support and assistance. In the two decades since then Mr. Hebert has been our most loyal friend and one of our most valued advisers. No matter how busy, no matter how important a subject he had in hand he would instantly drop it at any time to be interviewed by one of our representatives on a trade question or a market condition.

When he went down the river for a few weeks rest in Summer he had but two papers sent to him, The Canadian Grocer and one of the French daily newspapers.

In his private life and business career Mr. Hebert set a high standard which every young man could profitably aim to attain. Clean, honorable, industrious and sincere, he secured the love and commanded the respect of all who knew him. He inspired the young men about him to attempt great things. Finally, and perhaps the best of all, he devoted his spare time in the later years of his life in the best of all charities, the care of the sick. He was the backbone and main support of the Notre Dame Hospital.

CHEESE AND EDUCATION.

How effective government educative assistance of the cheese industry is, is shown by the fact that the Government's Eastern Ontario cool curing room at Brockville is taking cheese up to its full capacity and applications for space have had to be refused. The cool curing rooms were established a couple of years ago to demonstrate to the cheese makers the value of cool curing and so induce them to install their own refrigeration plants. It was not intended that the Government should continue this work indefinitely. Dominion Dairy Commissioner J. A. Ruddick stated in his evidence before the agricultural committee at the recent session of Parliament that this would be the last season for maintaining the cold curing rooms by the Government.

A prominent dairyman, speaking of the cool curing rooms, said : "The salesmen and buyers are beginning to realize that cool curing not only keeps their cheese in the best condition, while it is waiting for the market, but prepares it for the best demand by giving it evenness of texture and delicacy of flavor that it is impossible to obtain in a room of uneven temperature."

It has been by unremitting educational effort over a period of years by both Dominion and Ontario Governments that Canada has attained to first place as a cheese producing country and only by the continuance and improvement of the system can that position be maintained.

In 1893 the value of cheese exported was $13,407,470. Ten years later, in 1903, the banner year thus far, the total was $24,712,943. In 1898 Canada imported 11,557,458 lbs. of cheese at a cost of $928,600. For the fiscal year 1905 the importations were 415,257 lbs. valued at $59,485.

AGRICULTURE AND EDUCATION.

The Ontario Department of Agriculture and Department of Education are said to be arranging for the establishment of primary courses in agriculture in some of the collegiates of the province, to afford preparatory training for students intending to enter the agricultural college. This, it is said, is the beginning of the application of the Government's plan to provide agricultural schools in every county. It is a wise and far-sighted undertaking. The basis of Canada's prosperity and happiness must be agriculture. No great industry can today succeed without education ; the blind following of precedent is past and the worship of yesterday and the things of yesterday has given place to the conviction that there are better ways and the desire for knowledge.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Montreal, July 18, 1906.

Although the volume of business passing in grocery circles is not large, yet trade is good for this season. What demand there is calls for general lines, and most orders received are for goods required for immediate consumption. Quotations have just been received on Californian canned goods. The list shows numerous changes in the prices. Some lines are higher than last year, while others are lower, but there is nothing unexpected. Sugar is practically unchanged since last week. Business passing is very fair. Prices are well maintained. Japan teas are of much interest at present. It looks as though prices on medium grades would be higher this year. Whether this comes to pass or not, however, time only will tell. Some Ceylon greens have been again advanced. The price now is considerably higher than it was six months ago. Molasses is rather quiet. More or less activity prevails in dried fruits. Nuts continue to advance. Stocks of Valencia raisins are pretty well cleaned up locally. Coffee presents no particularly new features, while spices are not interesting. Evaporated apples are unchanged. Some comb honey is arriving, but not enough to make this line a factor in the grocery market. Collections are said by jobbers to be a little better than they have been for some time past, but still better returns would be welcome to the trade.

CANNED GOODS—Locally there has been practically no change in the canned goods situation since last report. Old stock is being gradually cleared out to make room for next season's output. Perhaps the feature of the market is the price list just received for Californian canned goods. The list shows that considerable advance has been made on some lines over last year, while in certain other lines, as predicted in The Grocer, there is a noticeable reduction. Apricots will cost from 40c. to 50c. per dozen more than last year, when prices were exceptionally low. Peaches will cost 25c. higher, while cherries and pears are quoted 25c. lower. Plums vary very slightly. A small pack is probable—not more than will fill orders received.

SUGAR—Good steady trade is passing in sugar. While the rush of orders reported in last week's issue is not so great, nor so noticeable this week, nevertheless there is considerable activity in this line. Prices are well maintained at figures quoted. No advance is expected under conditions prevalent at the moment, nor do the refiners anticipate a decline.

TEA—Considerable interest is centred upon the Japan tea market at present. Conditions in Japan are interesting to tea merchants, who are not sure just what will be the ultimate outcome of the situation. Low grade Japans are going to be scarce, it seems, while the very low grades are being taken up by the Chinese for exportation to Manchuria and other points north in that district. Medium grades are high, and it is quite safe to say that if present high prices on medium grades are maintained in Yokohama, prices locally will advance. In their circular of June 28, Smith, Baker & Co., of Japan, give some interesting facts. "We have practically arrived," they say, "at the period of the year when the advancing wave of second crop teas overtakes and merges in the diminished and receding flow of first crop. Yokohama and Kobe statistics show that each port has received 6,500 piculs of first crop teas less than last year, or a total of 13,000, and last year was the shortest crop in twenty years." Continuing the report states: "Second crop teas have arrived in sufficient quantities to form a basis of opinion as to quality. In cup merit they are better in every way than last year, which was poor on account of excessive rain and hot, steamy weather. The leaf, while uniform and of good color, is large and lacks the usual proportion of hard, slender needle leaf." Some Ceylon greens are up another farthing, which makes the present price three farthings more than it was six months ago. Ceylon blacks are moving fairly well at about the same prices. There is very little inquiry for cheap China greens. Good new Chinas are still about 12 per cent. higher than last year. Better business is anticipated shortly as prices are firming up a bit and the trade must come.

COFFEE—There is not a great deal that is new in the coffee market. The report published in The Grocer recently to the effect that there had been considerable damage done to the Mocha coffee crop through tribal wars in the east has been confirmed. Locally business is fair. Maracaibo is a little stronger this week.

SYRUP AND MOLASSES—Molasses is moving along fairly well. Business continues limited to a certain extent. Jobbers are selling to the retail trade only what is required for immediate consumption.

Corn syrups are subject to very good sale in many quarters, although the weather is rather warm for much business in this line.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS—The upward tendency in nuts continues. Tarragona almonds are advanced and dealers at present are quoting 14c. to 14½c. Shelled almonds are on the same basis, and buyers are paying 27c. and sometimes more. Brazils, although not in very great demand, bring 14c. Walnuts are unchanged, while filberts are firm. Seeded raisins are advancing slightly, but prices so far have not been materially affected. In some quarters there is talk of a two-cent advance shortly. Time only will prove what this rumor amounts to. Valencia raisins are rather quiet. Spot stocks are pretty well cleaned up, so that dealers will be ready for the opening of the market which takes place in a couple of weeks. Currants are moving freely. Quotations on new crop figs have been made as stated in The Grocer last week. Short crops are expected. In prunes, opening prices are still maintained on Californian goods. Oregon prunes, which have largely gone out of favor in the United States owing to lack of keeping qualities, are being offered at very low rates.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Abbreviations.

Corn—Firmer. a
Tomatoes—Weaker.
Cheese—Higher.
Raspberries—Crop not up to expectations.

Trade in foodstuffs is active for the season of the year. In Toronto it is quite brisk. Changes in quotations are very few. Canned corn is firmer. The canners and independent packers are all cleaned out and it is said jobbers had to pay the independents 10c. to 15c. a dozen advance for the last lots. Tomatoes are somewhat weaker and some firms are asking as low as $1.15. The range is from that to $1.30. This bears out the intimation in The Grocer a few weeks ago that there were some heavier holdings than were necessary to meet the demand til the new pack comes in. Salmon continues very strong and retailers are providing for next Fall's needs. That means an unusual output by the wholesale houses. This market is unusually bare of dried fruits and jobbers are all on the skirmishing line of buyers. Prices, however, are not too inviting and the tendency is rather to hold off and hope for a decline. Prices on the new crop are slightly higher than last year, but about on a parity with what is being asked for old stock still held. Sugar has not made a decided move thus far. Consumption is scarcely what was anticipated, due to the short berry crop.

CANNED GOODS—Vegetables are moving into consumption at a good average rate and in corn the market has strengthened very materially. The canners are said to be out of it and all the other packers had was taken at an advance of 5c. to 10c. . Quotations have not been advanced to the retail trade. Tomatoes are quoted by some houses at $1.15, but the majority still claim to be getting $1.25. The strawberry pack was very limited and it is soon to be doubtful if the canners can fill even 50 per cent. of their orders.

SUGAR—The sugar market is steady in tone. Willett & Gray say of raws:

"The advance in value of Cuba centrifugals to the parity of European beet sugar has brought the anticipated action. It is now confirmed from London that at least 17,000 tons of beet sugars have been taken for the U. S. at basis of 8s. 4 1-2d f.o.b. Hamburg for 96 degrees test centrifugals at New York, equal about 3.74c. duty paid. Naturally this meeting of prices in competition with Cuba has held in check any further advance in the latter, and in fact, prices are scarcely maintained at the full advance, the latest sales being made at basis of 3.72c. duty paid for 96 degrees test, against 3.75c. at the close of last week. Bids are now out at 1.32c. less than this price, say 2 5-16c. c. and f., basis 95 degrees, equal to 3.70c. duty paid for 96 degrees test, which were accepted to the extent of 75,000 bags. We continue our quotation of 3.72c. basis 96 degrees, as the spot value, as a lot of Porto Ricos were taken to-day at that figure.

"As Europe now fixes values, rather than Cuba, it is worthy of note that European markets have remained steady, but dull, during the week, at 8s. 4 1-2d, except on one day, when the fluctuation touched 8s. 5 1-4d.

"The source of greatest confidence in the market maintenence is in the fact of the very large increased demand for refined sugar for direct consumption, which is well sustained and has even better prospects ahead from the brilliant reports coming in from the peach crop States. Double the produce of peaches is reported from many sections."

The visible supply is stated as follows: Total stock of Europe and America, 2,856,654 tons, against 2,082,456 tons last year at the same uneven dates. The increase of stock is 774,198 tons, against an increase of 814,371 tons last week. Total stocks and afloats together show a visible supply of 3,011,654 tons, against2,267,456 tons last year, or an increase of 744,198 tons.

COFFEE—Locally the coffee market is without feature. Willett & Gray say of the general situation:

"Closer attention is now given to the absence of reserve stocks in the interior of this country as well as in Europe. The character of the trading has undergone a distinct change and the buying has been strictly hand to mouth. The world has been believing this new crop to be large and has abstained from buying beyond most pressing needs. For this reason it is known that a heavy buying movement is possible and in the event of anything developing favorable to the article the extent of the demand may be surprising, when remembering the low level of present prices. On its own merits coffee is capable of a smart improvement when sound judgment of such a prime staple takes the place of the disappointed speculation and pessimism, which have so long held values down. Brazil is holding very firm."

TEA—Nothing unusual has disturbed the even tenor of the local tea trade this week. The demand for better quality tea continues. A London mail advice of July 1 says: "A feature of the sale of the new season's Indian teas has been the greater importance attached by buyers to the quality of the offerings—in contrast to last year. This seems to point to the probability that the present wide range of values will be maintained during the coming season, provided teas of good character are shipped and that planters in the higher level districts are not tempted by the prices obtained last year to sacrifice quality to quantity."

J. A. Young, of the firm of J. A. Young & Sons, Glencoe, is seriously ill.

B. C. MARKETS.

Vancouver, July 16, 1906.

While all lines of business catered to by he wholesale grocery and provision merchants of the province have been very prosperous so far this season, perhaps the greatest increase is to be noted in what is locally called the "up-coast trade." Not only in the logging camps and the canneries at every point from here to the Skeena River, but at many small settlements along the coast and on the islands of the gulf, business has been expanding at a very remarkable rate. There are no new towns up the coast, though much has been read and written of the new G. T. P. terminus, Prince Rupert, which is, or is supposed to be, located on Kaien Island and the mainland close to it. But there is no settlement of permanent character there yet. The building of a saw mill by a firm which has a contract for ties for the new railway is about the first indication of permanent industry. The work of the surveyors has not yet been accomplished on the new townsite. It is the aim of the management of the new transcontinental road to make their new city a model one in every respect. But the day for real estate speculation in lots in the new city has not yet arrived, therefore interest has not been aroused.

Dawson trade is beginning to shape up now that the season commodity rates are in force. By the end of this month the shipments of staples north will be heavy, in preparation for stocking up the big emporiums of the Klondike metropolis for next Winter.

While fresh fruits rule the market very largely at present, the interest in dried fruits is very keen because of remarkably high prices and prospects of very short pack in some lines. For instance, apricots are a failure almost entirely in California this season. So much so that but twenty boxes of the fresh apricots have been received so far this season, whereas by this time last year two cars of the fruit had been disposed of. Other lines are very scarce on the market, dried pears being out of stock. Prices are at the moment, 16c. for apricots, 14 1-2c. for peaches; prunes, 6 3-4c. to 9c. as to size; figs scarce at 7 1-2c.

Eastern canned goods are not yet quoted for new season pack. The old stock is not very heavy. Prices run, for tomatoes, $1.25; beans, $1.02 to $1.05; corn, $1 to $1.05; peas, 87 1-2c. to 90c.

Sago and tapioca are still short, and hard to stock, the quotation being about 6 1-2c. American corn meal is out of stock in this market, at present, hard to get and reported from points of supply as rising.

In flour prices are fairly steady, the Calgary Milling Co. having created about the only interest in the market by a very strenuous campaign of publicity. Another Calgary concern, the Standard Soap Co., is also making a big fight for trade in this market.

The New Westminster Canning Co., which is putting up choice fruits, is being heavily pushed by the W. H. Malkin Co., of this city, who have issued some interesting circulars to the trade upon the subject of supporting home institutions, especially when quality and price are back of the suggestion.

In the dairy produce, local fresh eggs are a scarce article, and bring 30c. wholesale; eastern stock of good quality is worth 23 1-2c. to 24c., and there is a liberal supply.

Local creamery butter is in big demand and all absorbed at the present price of 25c. to the trade. Eastern creamery is 22 1-2c. and 23 1-2c. Local dairy butter (fresh) brings 21c. and 22c.; eastern dairy is scarce. In price it ranges from 17c. to 20c.

In fresh fruits the strawberry season has closed, so far as the coast fruit is concerned. There may yet be some shipments from the interior, but all that crop goes to the northwest. Dealers say that the crop though late getting started was about the same as last year. Some improvement has been noted in the manner of packing, the fruit getting to market in better shape.

Raspberries are now coming in though there is not a very great supply. They are quoted at $2.25 and $2.50 per crate. Local cherries, for preserving, are 10c. per lb. Table cherries are $1.50 per 10-lb. crate, and very limited quantities offered locally.

Peaches, Yellow St. Johns, are selling at $1.50, and Hales Early, a clingstone variety, at $1.15. Next week Early Crawfords are expected. Apricots are not on the market this year, the California crop being a complete failure. Some cars of good prunes and plums have been received. Prunes quote at $2. Burbanks at $1.75 per crate.

The first California fresh apples have been received. The Gravensteins sold at $2.25 and white and red astrakhans at $2.50 per box. Bananas are coming in freely and in good shape. The price at present is 5 1-2c. per lb. to the trade.

Indications point to a successful semi-annual meeting of the association on the 26th and 27th. The work accomplished since the semi-annual meeting in February has been of a steady, substantial nature and those who have kept in touch with the minor workings of the association are more than pleased with the progress made. Numerous local sections have been well organized and, with a little assistance and oversight on the part of the general secretary, they are now in good working order. The latest addition to the list of local associations is that of the Winnipeg grocers and from the enthusiastic way in which the Winnipeg grocers are commencing the association work, it would seem that theirs will be one of the most effective sections on the list.

It is becoming increasingly apparent that the Retail Merchants' Association of Western Canada must at once have a new constitution for it has long ago outgrown the constitution adopted in February, 1905. Its membership extends through the three provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, and it is plain that each of these provinces must have its own local organization and its own secretary acting under the supervision of a general secretary in Winnipeg. Distances in the west are too great, and at present the postal service is too miserably inefficient for the affairs of the association in the three provinces to be managed from Winnipeg. There should be a central office, but there must also be local autonomy.

Then again the organization now includes more classes of trade than grocers and general merchants. Formed as an association of country storekeepers, it has now grown until there are sections of butchers, druggists and even piano dealers. These have all been organized by Secretary Coulson and they are directly under his supervision, but they have had no voice in the election of the general executive, and under present conditions they are not entitled to any.

The situation is at present an anomalous one. Nominally these new sections of druggists and butchers and piano dealers, et alia, are branches of the Retail Merchants' Association of Western Canada, at the head of which are President Hunter and his associates. But the Retail Merchants' Association of Western Canada, although the parent organization, has really no right to any such position. It is an association of grocers and general storekeepers whose interests and problems are, in many respects, quite different from those of the butchers and druggists and piano dealers. The simplest way out of the difficulty seems to be the recognition of the fact that the retail merchants and the butchers, the druggists and the piano dealers et alia are merely individual sections of a big association, which at present has no head and which is held together by a tie of the loosest possible description. The only connecting link is furnished by the circumstance that all have been organized by Mr. Coulson. Clearly, a new constitution is urgently required.

As the months have gone by it has become very evident that the affiliation of the western associations with the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, that is with the Ontario-Quebec association, presided over by Mr. Trowern, has accomplished nothing and is not likely to be of any service. The burden of Mr. Trowern's song at the February meeting was the "contract plan" of arranging prices. In order to induce the manufacturers to put their goods on the contract price basis he was in urgent need of the co-operation of the western merchants. That co-operation was cheerfully promised and for that purpose affiliation with the Ontario-Quebec organization was willingly agreed to.

But what has happened in the meantime? According to the decision of Mr. Justice Clute in the case of Wampoe & Co., vs. F. E. Karn Co., Limited, this contract price plan is illegal. As other courts have sustained the plan and as the question is one of vital interest to all classes of dealers, this was clearly a case demanding the attention of the retailers in all parts of the country. Could not Wampole & Co. be induced to appeal the case?

Secretary Coulson wrote Mr. Trowern assuring him of the co-operation of the western association in any effort to have the case appealed. His letter was not acknowledged and apparently no action was taken. Mr. Coulson then wrote Wampole & Co. direct and received a reply to the effect that they have no intention of appealing the case and will have nothing more to do with the contract plan.

On the evening of July 12 the Winnipeg grocers held a business meeting in the association rooms. President R. Templeton presided and a good representation of the city grocers was in attendance. The membership committees reported progress and it was found that there were some 84 members in the city section.

President Templeton and Vice-President Nixon were instructed by the meeting to act with committees from the other branches of the trade in the city in waiting on the board of health to request the removal by the city of garbage from the stores the same as from residences. It was suggested that petitions be drawn up and signed by all classes of merchants. Vice-President Nixon spoke strongly on the subject saying that the scavengers were charging him an average of $5 per week and he considered this out of all reason.

Secretary Coulson urged upon the members the importance of keeping the "delinquent list" of poor pay customers as complete as possible. This list could only be compiled through the co-operation of the dealers themselves and he looked to them for help.

The next meeting will be held on the evening of Thursday, August 2.

MANITOBA MARKETS

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday, July 19, 1906.)

Crop reports continue most optimistic in tone and all indications seem to point to a record crop. That being the case, there is a feeling of buoyancy in the wholesale and retail trade, the effect of which is seen in liberal buying of the best quality of goods. Values are steady in most lines and there are few quotable changes of importance.

CANNED GOODS—There are no quotable changes this week. Salmon is firmly held at the higher prices recently established and high prices are likely to rule in salmon this year. We quote:

N. B. MARKETS.

St. John, N.B., July 17, 1906.

Business continues good for midsummer. It is difficult to think of it as midsummer. The weather has been more like Spring. The tourists find what they are looking for, cool weather. The increased facilities which are so greatly needed for St. John's very large and rapidly increasing Winter port business, are being pushed forward.

Flour is easier. Sugar is a surprise to everyone; an advance has been expected for some time. The market is very firm. The market has been very bare of rice, but there were quite free arrivals this week. Prices are firmer. In hops some low prices have been quoted. The market for new hops is much higher. Prices will likely rule for pressed goods. In spices there is little change. Cloves show a further advance. Tapioca is still held at full figures.

OILS—In burning oil values are unchanged. Spot business is small. In lubricating oils there is a fair trade. Paint oils are still high. In cod oil as yet the market has taken little shape. Receipts are light.

SALT—A good steady business is reported in Liverpool coarse salt, at full prices. In Liverpool factory filled, for which this is the season of demand, sales are not large, Canadian fine having the chief sale.

CANNED GOODS—There is a good supply of corn and peas here. It is expected new goods will be quoted well above last year's prices, so that while present prices are low, they are firmly held. Tomatoes are unchanged at full figures. Peaches are very firm. Strawberries are higher. New goods are quoted a third above last year's price. Gallon apples are firmly held. Salmon is not yet generally quoted, as regards new goods. The market is firmer. Oysters are rather higher and scarce. Domestic fish, sardines, haddies, etc., are unchanged.

GREEN FRUIT—Some fair apples are now being received. Prices are still high. Of bananas there is big steady sale. Oranges and lemons are high. There is a fair quantity of California plums and some peaches, but practically no apricots. Pines are unchanged. Melons are firmly held. Local crop of strawberries is not large.

DRIED FRUIT—Spot seeded raisins are rather higher. In other lines of raisins prices are unchanged. In Malagas and Valencias, new goods, prices will be higher than last season. Currants will also likely be higher. The spot market is unchanged. Peaches and particularly apricots are extremely high. Spot prunes are scarce and high, new goods will be quite cheap. Dates, figs and peels will be higher than last year. Onions are unchanged. Valencias, it is reported, will cost higher than last season.

SUGAR—The market is very firm. Every day the trade looks for an advance, but so far it has been delayed. Sales are good.

MOLASSES—Just fair spot business. Prices are firmly held. Fancy Barbadoes the chief stock here. Porto Rico a lighter stock than usual.

FISH—Salmon are still a fair catch, and prices are well maintained. There are few other fresh fish. There should be some shad, but they seem a thing of the past. Dry codfish, while still at full prices, are not ruling as high. Pickled herring in light supply, high figures still rule. Smoked herring are dull.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—In flour, Ontario grades slightly lower, Manitoba brands are easy. Oatmeal is firm at the high prices. A fair sale. While cornmeal is unchanged, higher prices are expected. Beans, particularly Yellow Eyes, are low but except prime whites few are being offered from the west.

BACK FROM ABROAD.

P. C. Larkin, manager of the Salada Ceylon Tea Co., who with Mrs. Larkin and their daughter have been abroad for some five months, are now back in Toronto. During their stay they traversed Britain, France, Germany, Switzerland and Italy, but of all the countries visited, Egypt (it being their first visit there) in Mr. Larkin's opinion was the most interesting. "We went up the Nile," said Mr. Larkin to The Canadian Grocer, "from Cairo to Assouan, a distance of some seven hundred miles. When we started about the middle of February the thermometer registered at Cairo about 65 degrees, but as we went south the weather became warmer. The boats, which were excellent, did not run at night, and through the day they stopped at all interesting places. Egypt, south of Cairo, is simply two ribbons of cultivated land, each about two miles wide and seven hundred miles long, these strips being redeemed from the desert by the overflow of the Nile, and the consequent deposits of mud therefrom.

"As one goes up the river the desert is always in sight from either side, but the strips along the river's bank are most prolific, sometimes giving two or three crops annually of cotton, sugar and fodder. As you know, the Nile gets its water from the Abyssinian Mountains, the land of nearly perpetual rains. When the heavy rains take place in these districts, they drain into Lakes Victoria and Albert and thence into the White and the Blue Nile. In the months of July and August the river is a raging torrent, overflowing the land on all sides, after which it gradually subsides.

"Before the advent of the British there was scarcely any attempt made to supply the country with water in the dry seasons, but the system of damming and irrigation now carried on under the British auspices is wonderful. The dam at Assouan stretches across the body of the river, which is about a mile and a half in width, and contains numerous sluice gates opened and closed by machinery. When the Nile is in full flood the gates are open but when signs of subsiding are seen the gates are closed, and the water retained in a reservoir of great depth containing over a trillion cubic feet of water, which later is used for irrigation purposes, being carried through canals to the back country. Before this system of irrigation was built by the British only one crop per year was possible and for months human beings and animals suffered much distress from the want of water. Now there is always enough, and as years go on there will be plenty. Since the British have come into the country the abuses and disorders that were so prevalent have ceased. Of these abuses the 'corve' was one of the worst, a method by which the governments of the provinces supplied the general government with numbers of men to do public work without remuneration or keep. The 'bastinado' and many other evils that had long ruled in Egypt were also abolished. In fact, take it all in all, the British Government, through Lord Cromar, are ably carrying the white man's burden.

"The temples and monuments of Egypt —and they are many—show that the Egyptians were a mighty people at one time, and their conventional style of art (for they do not seem in their statuary or drawing to attempt to copy nature) is sometimes most beautiful. In architecture their columns and capitals are magnificent, and in appliances for removing heavy masses of stone and doing such work it is doubtful if they are equalled at the present time.

"Altogether we had a most pleasant trip and when I returned I found that the Salada Ceylon tea business for the first twenty-five weeks of this year had increased twenty-two per cent. over the corresponding period of last year, and when I tell you we had a 23 per cent. increase in 1905 over 1904 you can imagine that I came home well satisfied."

GROCER'S EXCURSION.

The Toronto Retail Grocers' Association will hold their annual excursion to Niagara Falls and Buffalo on Wednesday next, July 25, by the Niagara River Line. This promises to be the best outing the grocers ever had. The committee, who have done a lot of hard work, are: H. D. Kelly, C. T. Cootes, F. W. Johnston, D. McLean, J. S. Bond, A. Snyder, R. B. Snow, D. Bell, B. Panter, Geo. Riley, F. Thorn, V. Van Loon, D. G. Beaton, secretary.

NEW PACK SELLING WELL.

W. H. Millman & Sons, Ontario agents for the Old Homestead Packing Co., Picton, report very large sales of the new pack of canned goods, up almost, they say, to their limit of offerings. The quality maintained during the two years the firm has been established and their attractive label, Millman & Sons say, make selling easy.

THE WHEAT COMMISSION.

The commission for which $10,000 was voted last session by the Dominion Parliament to inquire into the inspection and grading of wheat, has been appointed as follows: G. E. Goldie, Ontario; L. McNair, Manitoba, and John Miller, Saskatchewan. The secretary is J. R. Boyle, Alberta.

QUAKER CANNED PEAS

We are now reaching the finish of this important line in canned goods. While the pack, through lessened acreage, is largely curtailed, never in the history of this firm has the quality equalled this year's pack. It is a magnificent pack in quality, entirely perfect and perfectly flawless. In past years we have packed a good pack of peas in quality, but there has always been some inferior goods crept into the pack that we did not think worthy of a Quaker label. This year, with a flawless pack, there has not been a single or individual can that is not worthy of a Quaker label. This is something unprecedented in our six year's experience in packing peas. In accomplishing this, nature has assisted us largely, the weather being cool and moist throughout the whole packing time. Nature did her part and we are pleased to say that we also did ours, so that we are in a position to say that we are now able to offer the consumers the finest pack of Quaker Canned Peas that we have ever packed since in business :: :: :: :: :: :: ::

YELLOW DOG'S BIG BARK

Puerile Attempt to Slander Canadian Meat Products—Syndicate Article Published Throughout the States Says Canada's Meats are Vile.

The dog with the fierce bark and no courage to back it is very like a silly syndicated article that has lately appeared in many American papers. The heading is "Canada's meats are vile," but in the article itself no facts to back up the assertion are offered. It is evidently an attempt to prevent the Canadian product being accepted instead of the badly discredited American output. The article follows :

"Ottawa, Canada, July 1. — When President Roosevelt opened out on the methods of packers in the United States, there was a great shout from all along this side of the line at the opening that would be made for the 'superior' product of the Canadian plants, and from the other side of the Atlantic came hurried cables with assurances that the British Government had stipulated all tinned meats for the army and navy should come from Canada. It seemed to be taken for granted that all Canadian packing establishments were models.

"But in a few days it turned out the packing business in Canada was not so superior as had been assumed. Suspicions led to a public demand for the appointment of municipal, provincial and federal inspectors. The capital, it was discovered, was being used as a dump for dressed meats rejected in other cities. In Toronto the provincial factory inspectors reported fertilizer plants working in close proximity to the plants where canned products, bologna sausages and meat puddings were made. Immediate action was urged.

"There was what the papers called a 'meat scandal' at Ingersoll, where the slaughtering apparatus, fittings and so forth were declared officially to be unclean. A herd of calves from one day to two weeks old was awaiting shipment to London, Ont., for canning, the product of which would have been entirely unfit for human food. At Winnipeg and elsewhere in Manitoba the conditions were such that the Government ordered an investigation of the provincial abattoirs.

"The Ottawa inspectors, in one week, confiscated unsound beef, pork, veal and poultry. A hog brought to By Ward market proved to be actually green from decomposition. It had been sold by a Russell farmer to a Montreal buyer, who refused to receive it on the ground that if he did so it would be rejected. The animal was taken back from the railway station to the farm, died on the way and was dressed for Ottawa. Previously it leaked out that a large dealer in hogs outside the capital was in the habit of feeding carcasses of horses dead of the glanders to his stock, and this stock was killed, dressed and put on sale in Ottawa."

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN.

The cheese markets are still advancing steadily week by week and British importers are buying right along at advanced prices in spite of the generally existing feeling of uneasiness.

The following is a quotation from a private business letter, received this week from London:

"Our market is not high enough as compared to Canadian quotations and many buyers still refuse to believe in present high rates, but are compelled to take goods, having no stock."

This is the keynote to the present situation, which, as far as current market prices are concerned, is undoubtedly an abnormal one. We have, however, repeatedly pointed out in these articles the underlying causes of this abnormal condition, first the new season started without any stock left over from last season, which forced buyers on to the new season's make at relatively high prices; second, the canned meats scandals appeared and while this curtailed the consumption of canned meats it increased the consumption of cheese; and third, from one reason or other the production of milk is less this year than last year.

Last week's figures of receipts of cheese and butter as supplied by the Montreal Board of Trade and as compared with the actual figures of exports, show a most flagrant lack of correctness. The members of the Montreal Produce Merchants' Association have for years tried to get the clerical staff of the Montreal Board of Trade to get the receipts more accurately. This is done on other exchanges in the U. S. and in Great Britain, but in Montreal we get nothing but imperfect and misleading reports.

According to these board of trade figures the receipts last week were 112,080 boxes of cheese and 35,447 packages of butter, against 119.103 boxes of cheese and 41,185 packages of butter for the same week of last year, or a total since May 1 of 764,077 boxes of cheese and 239.969 packages of butter as compared with 748,561 boxes of cheese and 278,664 packages of butter for the corresponding period of last year.

The shipments were last week 128,677 boxes of cheese and 19,640 packages of butter, against 99,084 boxes of cheese and 33,847 packages of butter for the same week of last year, or a total since May 1 of 778,292 boxes of cheese and 117,764 packages of butter, as compared with 685,928 boxes of cheese and 173,456 packages of butter for the same period of last year.

The export figures are absolutely correct and assuming the figures of receipts to be as nearly correct this year as they were last year, we find them to be on cheese 15,516 boxes more than last year and on butter 38,695 packages less than a year ago, while the exports show an increase of 92.364 boxes of cheese and a decrease of 55,692 packages of butter. As compared with last year this would mean a considerable falling off in the production of milk and also considerably less stocks of cheese in Montreal. Both these points may be taken as being correct, but above figures actually show the exports of cheese since May 1 to be 14,215 boxes in excess of the receipts, and how is it possible for us to ship what we have not received?

There has been a steady demand for fresh or unsalted butter at a premium over the salted article, so that the best creameries gradually drifted into the making of unsalted butter and the production of this increased beyond the natural demand, and lately the salted butter sold at a premium over the unsalted product. Saltless butter has a limited demand and is not fit for speculative or holding purposes. Salted butter is much better for this purpose. If carried in a right temperature it will not deteriorate like the saltless article and, as the latter is the more expensive for makers, it is well to encourage the making of fine butter salted 2 to 3 per cent. This article will always find a market, while if there is an overproduction of saltless butter it would have to be sold at a lower price.

In spite of the recent advance in prices for butter, cheese still remains the better paying product of the milk and recently a number of creameries have returned to the making of cheese.

OUR LONDON LETTER.

By Our Own Correspondent.

July 7, 1906.

The London butter market has continued on a steady basis. While the demand cannot be termed keen, it is yet sufficiently good to keep matters on the move. This is, of course, an uncertain season as far as supplies are concerned, and both buyers and sellers are guided by a policy of considerable caution. Consequently the large supplies which have recently come to hand from Siberia have been very welcome, even though the uniform quality might have been better. A fair quantity of Australian butter has been delivered—more, indeed, than would have been expected at this time of year—and sales are being effected at a higher price. Choicest brands are fetching 102 shillings at most, and medium 96 shillings. The stocks of New Zealand butter on hand are very small, and consequently the market is against buyers, prices for best grades being as high as 108 shillings. Small quantities of Canadian butter continue to change hands, and although there is not very much doing in this direction on account of the earliness of the season, still such transactions as are made are in favor of sellers rather than of buyers. Best prices realized are in the region of 106 shillings, but the bulk of trade passes at 102 and 104 shillings. In Manchester, it is understood, the demand for Canadian butter has been thrown back by plentiful supplies of Irish creameries, but in Liverpool it is meeting with a speedy sale at from 102 to 104 shillings. Owing to the long stretch of hot weather on this side of the water, those retailers who are not blessed with suitable cold storage appliances have found it extremely difficult to keep the butter in good condition, and consumers have suffered in consequence. Ice is not too plentiful, either.

During the past few days there has been a steady demand in London for Canadian cheese, and large quantities have changed hands. In spite of general activity, however, stocks in warehouse continue to accumulate, owing to the very large supplies that have arrived from the Dominion. This is just as well, for up to the present there has been a steady reduction in the quantity held in warehouse. However, with something over 40,000 boxes delivered at this market, and 30,000 at Liverpool, stocks all round have been replenished just when they required it. Prices have not varied to any degree, choicest white making 58 shillings. Cable quotations from Canada are firm, and buyers are hesitating to close with offers until their course becomes more clear. Unfortunately, as in the case of butter, the hot weather is having a deteriorating effect.

There has been such a long period of depression on the Canadian bacon market here that it is a real pleasure to be able to report that a stronger tone is becoming apparent, and that an advance of 2 shillings has taken place during the past week. The improvement is not very great, but in view of the bad times just gone by, the merest turn for the better is more than welcome. Although it is known that Canadian packers are doing their best, without benefit to themselves, to cater to this market to the best of their ability, still it must be confessed that quality required a deal of improvement.

PROVISION SITUATION.

About stationary, fairly describes the present conditions in regard to hog products in Canada. The lament of packers about the high cost of the raw product continues unabated, but the competitive buying of hogs goes on. The prices f.o.b. country points range from $7.40 to $7.60, which means $8 or better at the factory. Some packers report a slightly larger receipts this week; others about normal or a little less. The market in Great Britain is steady. Everywhere, however, the domestic demand for pork products keep up and here again traders say prices have not reached a level commensurate with the cost of hogs.

PROVISION AND DAIRY MARKETS.

MONTREAL.

PROVISIONS—There has been an advance of one-half a cent in pure lard and of a quarter of a cent in compound. This has been rendered necessary by existing conditions. Hams, too, have been advanced. Present rather high prices in hams and smoked meats generally have been made absolutely necessary owing to the scarcity of bacon hogs. Such a scarcity as the present there has not been for a long time. As it is packers must cover their costs, so that advances recently made cannot be considered other than justifiable.

BUTTER—Prices were boomed at country points last week end, but their equivalent cannot be obtained on this market. There was a fair amount of trade doing for export last week, but with the increased cost the demand this week has not been as great as it might otherwise have been. Prices will likely remain steady at about current rates unless there is a further movement either up or down in the English market.

CHEESE — The cheese market has scored another advance, but trading is very slow so far at prices now being asked. It would appear as if we had about reached the summit, and while no radical decline is anticipated, the tendency is for easier prices, particularly so since we are having such a spell of hot weather, which affects the quality.

The eggs now arriving are disposed of at anything from 15½c. to 17c. First-class selects are selling from 19c. to 20c., but supply is limited.

TORONTO.

PROVISIONS — Pork products, the dealers declare, are not yet on a parity with the price of hogs, and the advance continues. This week the move is in small and large hams and short cut. Despite the high prices the demand for cured meats is heavy.

Beef, however, is considerably lower, due to the arrival of grass fed cattle and a declining demand.

BUTTER—Prices are unchanged. The bearish feeling of a week ago has passed and receipts are being absorbed with a readiness that bespeaks the commission men's faith in the stability of the market. Since not much butter is going forward for export, considerable quantities must be going into cold storage. Two years ago a Western Ontario maker stored his entire output, 100,000 lbs., and made handsomely out of it. Last year he tried it again but did not do so well. Receipts continue undiminished, making up at this end for the late Spring. While some dealers are inclined to ask a cent more for creamery prints, prices are practically unchanged.

Pork held at full figures, there is little business. Beef is rather unsettled, but considered rather firmer. Lard is ruling lower, but is unchanged this week. Canadian is again supplying the trade. Smoked meats continue high. Refined compound lard continues a free sale. In fresh meats, light beef, in particular, is offered lower. Sales are not large. Veal is firmly held at full price. Lamb is firm and high, supplies being bought up

A Good Repeater

A prominent grocer, when recently asked what kind of goods he liked to sell best, replied:—

"Give me a good repeater like Royal Baking Powder; an established article of undisputed merit which housekeepers repeatedly buy and are always satisfied with."

NEW baking powders and new foods, like new fads, come and go but Royal goes on forever. Grocers are always sure of a steady sale of Royal Baking Powder, which never fails to please their customers, and in the end yields to them a larger profit than cheaper and inferior brands.

DAIRYING IN THE WEST.

The dairy branch of the Department of Agriculture, Saskatchewan, has completed arrangements for the first traveling dairy work in the province and the first class commenced on July 3. The work this season will be conducted mostly throughout the foreign settlements and the instruction is being given by a qualified dairyman who is assisted by an interpreter. The classes will extend over two months.

ANOTHER AMERICAN BRANCH.

The Cudahy Packing Co., of Chicago, are about to establish a branch at Toronto Junction, Ont., for the manufacture of beef extracts and other meat products. Their Ontario charter authorizes a capital of $40,000. The duty on beef extracts is 20 to 30 per cent.

NOTES.

Aylmer, Ont., has carried a $7,000 by-law to assist the establishment of a pork packing industry there.

Sir Thomas Lipton is said to be now backing a meat packing company to locate at Winnipeg instead of at Chicago, as originally intended.

The Western Canneries, Limited, is a new million dollar meat packing company being projected in the west. It is intended to locate first at Medicine Hat.

FLOUR AND CEREAL FOODS

Wheat is Lower and Again Approaching an Export Basis—Flour in Fair Demand—Crop Outlook Throughout Canada is very Promising.

Cereal interests throughout Canada and all that trade in grains, are awaiting the new crop. Domestic consumptive demand keeps the wheels of commerce moving, but not very rapidly. The decline in prices of wheat this week, too near an export basis however, seemed to interest buyers abroad, for it stimulated inquiry and Canadian millers took a good bunch of stuff on the head of it. All this relieved the tedium in the grain offices. In the flour trade, things are quiet, too. Cereal food products, wheat kinds especially, are in fair demand. A pretty good crop of hay is being gathered throughout Canada. Everywhere in the Dominion grain crops are promising, and in Southwestern Ontario cutting has begun.

A NEW CEREAL.

The Peterboro Cereal Co., manufacturers of Canada Flakes, will in the course of two or three weeks put another appetizing cooked cereal food on the market to be known as Corn Crisp. It will be a preparation from southern white corn, similar to Canada Flakes from wheat. Rolls weighing 500 lbs. are used to crush the wheat, the rolls to crush the corn will be 1,500 lbs., and the machinery is now being installed.

SHORT WHEAT CROP.

R. R. Dobell, manager of the foreign department of the Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., returning from abroad, predicts a shortage in the world's wheat crop of from 200,000,000 to 250,000,000 bushels. Russia and India, he says, will be short.

MILLION ACRES MORE.

C. E. McPherson, general passenger agent of the C.P.R. western lines, says the increase in acreage of prairie land under cultivation this year is a million acres and conditions were never before so favorable for a magnificent crop.

MONTREAL.

FLOUR—Good business in flour continues. Prices have not been changed since last writing, nor is anything new in quotations at present anticipated. Export demand keeps up, and brisk trade is being transacted. Locally millers report excellent general trade.

HAY—Locally the hay market is practically unchanged since last week. Offerings are not very large, as farmers now working on their new hay find that hay will be short, and in consequence they are not anxious to dispose of their present holdings.

In the Old Country the market is very weak. Since last report prices have dropped considerably. Latest quotations from Liverpool are all the way from 53 shillings to 57 shillings c.i.f.

Grain cutting in Manitoba and the west is expected to commence by August 12. Conditions everywhere are very promising.

THE LAND OF COFFEE.

The year's deliveries of coffee in the United States, says the American Grocer, were 6,806,883 bags, of which 5,360,784 bags, or 78.75 per cent., were Brazil; 1,446,099 bags all other sorts. These figures show the preponderating influence of Brazil as a coffee producing country, and also how a crop failure there might send coffee to two or three times the present values. The outlook for 1906-07 is for total crops fully 2,000,000 bags below the world's requirements. If Brazil has an average crop, 10,200,000 bags, it will be all that present indications warrant.

CANADIAN MADE A PEER.

The Right Honorable William James Pirrie, who has recently been elevated to the Peerage in Great Britain, is a Canadian by birth, although the greater part of his life has been spent in Ireland. He was born in the City of Quebec in 1847, but while still a child went with his parents to Ireland, where at the age of fifteen he entered the shipbuilding and engineering establishment of Harland & Wolff. In 1874 he became a partner in the firm, and subsequently was made chairman, which office he still holds. He is perhaps better known in Canada by his connection with the Canadian Sugar Refinery, with which he has been associated for a number of years, than from his other commercial enterprises. The Right Honorable William James Pirrie was Lord Mayor of Belfast for 1896-97 and was nade a member of the Privy Council of England and Ireland in 1897, and high sheriff of the counties of Antrim and Down in the years 1898 and 1899 respectively. His home is at Devonshire House, Belgrave Square, S.W., Ormiston, Belfast. He is a member of the Reform Club, and of the Kildare street, Dublin, and Ulster, Belfast, clubs.

BUILDING IN THE WEST.

Building operations in Calgary during the past six months of this year totalled $821,235, not including permits for the Alberta Biscuit Co.'s factory and a new thousand-barrel flour mill.

In Edmonton the total is again a record, $727,510, almost as large as for the whole of 1905.

Henry Reuel, Waterloo, Ont., has sold his grocery business to Michael Ritzer. Mr. Ritzer has spent the past three years in the Brantford Institute for the Blind, where he gained a thorough business training. He took possession July 16.

TRISCUIT TRUTHS

TRISCUIT is shredded whole wheat, made the same as Shredded Wheat Biscuit--except that it is compressed into a wafer and baked by electricity.

TRISCUIT is not a " breakfast food." It is a substitute for white flour bread and is used as a TOAST with butter, cheese or marmalades.

TRISCUIT is an ideal food for flat-dwellers, light house-keepers, campers, for picnics, for excursions on land or on sea. The best of all wafers for chafing dish cookery.

TRISCUIT should always be heated in an oven before serving. It is made by The Canadian Shredded Wheat Company at Niagara Falls, Ont., makers of shredded wheat products. The TRISCUIT booklet is sent free.

PIONEER GRAIN MERCHANT DEAD

Auguste Girard, one of Montreal's pioneer grain exporters, and one of the oldest business men in the city, is dead. Born in Marseilles, France, in 1828, the late Mr. Girard had a varied career during the seventy-eight years of his life. He emigrated to the United States at an early age, and there remained until 1860, when he came to Canada. Settling in Montreal, Mr. Girard was one of the pioneers in the grain exporting business. In 1870 he was associated with Hon. Louis Tourville, Hon. J. B. Renaud, and others. He it was who first exported Canadian rye to Belgium. He was the promoter of the first French line of steamships direct from Canada to Europe. Mr. Girard retired from active business some six years ago. He was the oldest member of the Corn Exchange, and was at one time vice-consul of France.

BALFOUR, SMYE & CO. OPEN.

The new firm of Balfour, Smye & Co. have opened the doors of its wholesale grocery warehouse in Hamilton, as successors to the old firm of Balfour & Co. The reconstruction of the firm, as a result of the dissolution of the Canada Grocers, has been under way since April 30, when the business was taken over from the Canada Grocers by Fred. T. Smye, St. Clair Balfour and Charles McIlroy. Each of the three was born in Hamilton and was trained in the wholesale grocery business there. Mr. Balfour has charge of all territory from Fort William to the Pacific Coast.

Mr. McIlroy will retain his traveling trip of the Niagara Peninsula, which he has covered for the last 18 years, and Mr. Smye will be the managing director of the new company.

LUNENBURG, N. S., June 30th, 1906.

DEAR SIR—

We beg to advise that we have purchased a controlling interest in the fish business of A. N. Whitman & Son, Canso, N.S., and have organized a new company to be known as the Whitman Fish Company, Limited, which will continue to develop the fresh, canned, and smoked fish industry so well established by Messrs. Whitman & Son in the past. All the Whitman fish products will be sold by our agents from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and the trade can feel assured of receiving the most prompt and courteous attention to orders in this as in all our other departments. The fame of Whitman's Canned Finnan Haddie, Mackerel and Halibut is known to the trade in every part of Canada. These fish are the best of their species, and we anticipate an ever-growing demand from season to season.

The Canned and Smoked Fish Department is not, however, the one in which we expect the most remarkable development. That is reserved for the FRESH FISH branch of the business. With the very best facilities for obtaining supplies of cod, haddock, halibut, mackerel and salmon, and for the transporting of the same in cold storage to all the principal cities of Canada, we are able to guarantee finest quality fish, prompt delivery and lowest market prices, and expect an immense development in every branch of sales.

During the past six months we have found a growing demand for "DUFF'S" Choice Grocery Herring, and in order to meet the wants of our customers, and supply the very best quality obtainable, we purchased one of the best known fishing stations in Bay of Islands, Nfld. At the Bay of Islands station we will handle nothing but herring, and will supply the trade of Canada with a most uniform quality, and satisfactory article. Our herring packages are barrels, halves and buckets.

The different departments of our business now include practically everything in the lines of salt and fresh Atlantic fish. We are glad to say that the demand for "HALIFAX" and "ACADIA" brands, put up in packages, gets bigger every month. Our trade for these has been obtained solely by selling an article of the very best quality. Those who have bought them once, want them always. We think the same practice with regard to quality will secure similar success for each and every one of our numerous products.

Thanking you for past favors, and soliciting your further orders, we are

Yours respectfully,

The ATLANTIC FISH COMPANIES, Limited

WILLIAM DUFF,
MANAGING DIRECTOR.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Good Averagé Canadian Fruit Crop—Importation of Vegetables About Over for the Season—Price Fluctuations — Fish Market Steady.

Judging by results thus far and present indications, the Canadian fruit crop of 1906 will be regarded as a good average with the exception of a light yield of strawberries and in Ontario a failure of plums. The scarcity of strawberries in Ontario was accentuated by the demands of the canners, who wanted an early product to send into the Northwest. The raspberries are now trying to fill the void left by the strawberry shortage and the task seems a little more than the crop, though a good one, can overtake and take care of the ordinary demand as well. Montreal also is reported a heavy consumer of Niagara fruits this year.

The cherry crop is panning out well, but there is a heavy demand and prices are well maintained. A lower level is not looked for except during a momentarily glutted market. The currant crop, red, white and black, is good. California fruits are arriving in car lots, but low prices are not looked for this season.

The Ontario peach outlook is encouraging and a good crop of all varieties is anticipated. Lawton berries also are a good crop.

The watermelon crop in Georgia and Florida is reported to be short 60 per cent. of the average, but it may be just a little late. It is a somewhat uncertain quantity and the price has been known to drop in a week from $120 to $20 a car. At present the price is $100 to $120 a car and at this time last year it was $50 to $70. The quality of the fruit is excellent and the demand larger than ordinary despite the price.

Lemons, importing brokers declare, are going higher.

Canada is feeding on its own vegetables now. There are still some importations of tomatoes, celery and cucumbers, but it is not heavy. The demand everywhere is good and supplies are none too large.

The fish trade is steady and seasonable.

FRUIT GROWING IN THE WEST.

J. O. Killough, of Fairville, ten miles northwest of Pense, Sask., has 5,000 growing fruit trees. An orchard of 1,000 trees planted five years ago is doing splendidly. Some of his experiments are of great interest. He has made a great success of grafting white and black heart cherries on to the wild red cherry stock of the country. Trees thus grafted are bearing as prolifically this year as the natural stock. Plums, too, are doing remarkably well, especially the Desoto plum. As to small fruits, Mr. Killough has gone in heavily for raspberries, currants, gooseberries and the like, and expects that they will do well.

"Can you make a commercial success of fruit growing in your district?" Mr. Killough was asked.

"Well," he replied, "I did not go into it for that purpose, but I am quite certain that it can be made a commercial success. Of course, our fruits will never rival those of Ontario in quality, except perhaps berries, but fruit growers here have an enormous initial advantage in the saving of heavy freights and in being able to put their product on the market in first-class condition."

TO SHIP LIVE FISH.

Messrs. Siemens & Halske, Berlin, are constructing railway cars for the conveyance of live fish out of water. German chemical experts have discovered that fish remain alive in the air as long as their gills are damp, and have invented compartments in which the fish are supplied. Experiments have shown that fish can be kept alive in this manner for three or four days.

MILD CURED SALMON.

The mild curing of Spring salmon on the Pacific Coast has assumed large proportions this year. There have been twenty-six traps on the south shore of Vancouver Island. The salmon is barreled and shipped to Germany where the demand is far in excess of the supply.

FRUIT IN THE NORTH.

C. W. D. Clifford, M.P.P., of British Columbia, reports a new fruit district on the Skeena River in the northern section of the province to be approached by the Grand Trunk Pacific.

APPLE CROP ONLY MEDIUM.

Only a medium crop of apples is now looked for in Ontario this year.

A grower near Nelson, B.C., this season cleared $3,500 from a 3 1-5 acre patch of strawberries, says the Nelson News.

OKANAGAN FRUIT.

Western Editor Tells of Great Development in the Garden of the Rockies.

J. Forsyth Smith, editor of the News, of Vernon, B.C., centre of the Okanagan Valley fruit district, in an interview during a recent trip east stated that within the past few years a great change had come over the Okanagan, as a result of the large influx of population into the district from the Northwest Territories and Manitoba. The large holdings, which formerly retarded settlement, had nearly all been cut up into ten and twenty acre lots, which were now finding a ready sale, every train bringing in well-to-do farmers who had made a comfortable stake in the prairie country, and were now looking about for a pleasant retiring place.

The Coldstream ranch, Lord Aberdeen's splendid fruit property, five miles from Vernon, had been of the greatest value to the Okanagan in advertising extensively its possibilities as a fruit-growing country, and in carrying on the necessary preliminary experimental work of which newcomers reaped the advantage. The ranch, which had recently passed into the hands of a limited company, comprised some 13,000 acres, of which 2,000 were under cultivation, 200 being set out in fruit, comprising pears, plums, prunes, cherries, etc., of the finest quality and flavor. The Coldstream annually shipped out from 350 to 450 tons of its own fruit, while in the past it had purchased and sold another 200 from the neighboring growers.

Mr. Smith stated that last year, for the second time, the first prize gold medal of the Royal Horticultural Society went to British Columbia in competition with the best fruit districts of the British Empire. In this exhibit the Okanagan was well represented. At the same time the Royal Horticultural Society awarded eight silver gilt medals to individual exhibitors from British Columbia. Of these five were from the Okanagan.

Questioned as to profits in the fruit business, Mr. Smith stated that last year the Coldstream received $10,875 net from a twenty acre orchard of 12-year-old Northern Spies. John Gummow, of Peachland, received at the rate of $300 an acre for peaches on the trees, the shipper taking all care of the fruit from early Spring till maturity and accepting all risks of marketing. The net proceeds of an acre of apple trees, which have reached maturity, should be not far from $200 an acre, while strawberries may produce from $345 to $400 an acre.

A very large number of fruit trees had been set out in the Okanagan during the past year, and a total of nearly 200,000 could be no very great exaggeration.

MONTREAL MARKETS.

GREEN FRUITS.—Very good trade has resulted from the exceedingly warm weather we have been having. All lines are in good demand. Peaches have been advanced to $2 since last quotations, while pineapples are also higher. Strawberries are becoming scarce, and are now quoted at 14c. New lemons are offered at $4.50. New apples in half bushel baskets are also on the market. Raspberries this week are quoted at 13c. Lemons are enjoying good sale. It is thought in some quarters that the price will go up one dollar at least if the present hot weather continues for another week or so.

VEGETABLES—Trade in vegetables during the week has been quite active. From nearly all quarters there has been a good steady demand. New vegetables are now obtainable for more reasonable prices and trade in consequence is more brisk. Green peas are now quoted at $1 per bag. New beets are much cheaper than they have yet been, being sold at 50c. a dozen. New carrots are selling from 15c. to 25c. per dozen. Turnips are obtainable now at a very reasonable figure.

FISH—Fairly good business is being done in fish at present. Demand is very good in most sections, although trade is slow in some quarters. Fresh salmon is scarce now, since the season is nearly over. Gaspe salmon have been advanced to 14c. Fresh halibut and steak cod are plentiful and very good trade is being done in these lines. Pike and dore as well as other lake fish, are scarce. New skinless cod and boneless cod is arriving daily.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

GREEN FRUITS—This week brings the flood tide of the cherry crop in Ontario. Raspberries are coming on in large quantities, but the short crop of strawberries seems to have thrown the demand to later variety and the supply is scarcely equal to it. Watermelons are arriving from the south in quantity, but the price continues firm. Texas peaches are beginning to arrive. Valencia oranges are a shade easier.

BISCUIT MAKERS TO THE WORLD

W. & R. Jacob & Co's Big Factory in Dublin, Ireland—Modern Conditions of Labor.

It will be information to a great many people in Canada to read that in the W. & R. Jacob & Co. establishment in Dublin the Irish capital has one of the largest biscuit factories in the world, and likewise one of the most up-to-date as to plant, equipment and organization. Apart from its size and the fact that it gives constant employment to upwards of 2,000 hands (even this number being largely increased at certain seasons) this factory is interesting as affording a convincing refutation of the too prevalent belief that there is no longer scope in Ireland for manufacturing enterprise.

Half a Century Ago.

W. & R. Jacob & Co. established themselves in 1851 in a building occupying a small portion of the present site, without any mechanical equipment to speak of, and with a total force of employes not exceeding forty. Not a single year has passed in which some material alteration or addition has not been made to the plant. The total premises to-day cover an area of several acres. At the present time there is nearing completion a substantial six-storey building which contains several times the floor space of the entire original premises. From the enormous increase in the productive capacity of the plant indicated by the foregoing contrast, it may be readily inferred that the market for the firm's products has been commensurately widened. From the purely local patronage with which the business began, the firm's products are to-day regularly exported to all the important British colonies and to foreign countries. It is gratifying to know that wherever they go they favorably advertise Irish manufactures.

Biscuits by Machine.

The machinery used in biscuit-making, as illustrated by an up-to-date factory like that of W. & R. Jacob & Co., is much more complicated than that used in breadmaking, and differs largely in the principles of construction. In the first place, the dough is not kneaded, but the flour and other ingredients are thoroughly mixed in an iron cylinder fitted with revolving knives instead of arms.

From this machine the dough passes to a "brake" or rolling machine. Here it is passed several times under a roller with heavy pressure, thus gaining the required texture. From the rolling machine the dough, which is now in the form of a sheet, is transferred to the cutting machine, where it is again rolled, this time to the exact thickness desired, which is frequently not much greater than that of cardboard. From the roller the thin sheet passes along the machine to the heavy gun-metal stamps or dies which automatically cut out a large number of biscuits at a time, stamping the figure or name as well. These biscuits and the remaining scraps of dough are ingeniously separated, the latter being carried from the machine on a moving cloth band and the former being automatically conveyed to wire frames, on which they are placed in the oven.

Never Stop in the Ovens.

Through these biscuit ovens, which are nearly 50 feet in length, the frames containing the biscuits are carried on an endless moving chain, the speed of which may be regulated. As a rule, it takes from 7 to 12 minutes for the actual baking, depending on the character of the biscuits.

Any attempt to estimate the number of the hot, crisp, and dainty biscuits that emerge from the ovens in the course of the day is simply bewildering. For instance, each of the wire frames or pans that are carried through on the moving chain will hold on the average 63 biscuits, and the oven is wide enough for three of these pans placed side by side, making 189 biscuits delivered every time a row of pans leaves the oven. As the pans emerge from the oven in an unbroken stream, and as fast as they can be carried away, and as a number of ovens are in constant use, millions are produced every twenty-four hours.

Present Factory of W. & R. Jacob & Co., Dublin, Ireland.

Multitude of Varieties.

The variety of cakes, biscuits and wafers manufactured is as astonishing as the enormous quantity, and it is difficult to imagine how palates which are alike the world over can exhibit so many different tastes. When the biscuits leave the oven they are delivered to the girl packers, who examine them, rejecting any that are in the least imperfect, and with deft fingers neatly place them in packages. The brake, or rolling machine, the automatic cutting machine, the ovens, and the packing room are so placed that there is no loss of time or labor in the transition from stage to stage.

Related Industries.

In the meantime, a score of other operations, not directly connected with biscuit-making, are being carried on. In one large department scores of hands are busily making the tin canisters in which the biscuits are packed for export; in another the cartons or cases are prepared; in another department, which contains a printing plant, the labels, etc., are printed; in the fitting shop all repairs to machinery are made, and special machines of exclusive pattern are designed and constructed.

Economy of Production.

A striking illustration of the economy of production resulting from the manufacture of biscuits and cakes on a large scale is afforded by the correspondingly enormous quantities of material used. In the large factory to which particular reference has been made, tons of sugar, fruits, flavorings, and other ingredients, and scores of cases of fresh eggs are always in store. It is certainly no exaggeration to say that in such large quantities a factory-made cake or biscuit may be delivered to the consumer at actually less cost than the bare ingredients would amount to if purchased in the ordinary retail way.

Improved Conditions of Labor.

But even more striking than the improvement in the methods and processes which has marked the baking industry in recent years is the improvement in the conditions under which the industry is carried on. In this respect Dublin's extensive biscuit and cake factory is again a forward type. Every effort has been made not only to conserve economy of production, but also to provide for the comfort and physical well-being of the operatives. The factory is provided in every department and in all floors with complete sanitary arrangements, and is throughout perfectly ventilated and lighted.

The comfort of the workers has been considered in other ways. Complete restaurants are provided at which substantial and wholesome meals are served at cost price. There is a large swimming tank in which forty men may be accommodated. A roof garden, a recreation room provided with a piano for the girls, and other lesser evidences of Jacob & Co.'s thoughtfulness are among the factory's features. The advantages afforded by these improved conditions of labor are shared by the employer and the general public. The former gains a direct benefit in increased efficiency, and the latter in obtaining an article made under the best attainable sanitary conditions. It may be thought that too much importance has been attached to this feature, but such can scarcely be the case. Although the old hand processes have been largely replaced by automata of iron or steel, there is still room for human hands to make or mar, and the product that results from their labor must bear the impress of those who fashioned it.

Mr. Chas. E. Jacob recently visited the chief cities of Canada in the course of a trip around the world in the interests of his firm. Mr. Jacob expressed himself as pleased with the prospects in Canada and has arranged for a more aggressive campaign on this market.

FLY TIME.

A sticky pad covered with dead and sickly flies is not an appetizing thing in the store. The flies must be put out of business, but there are ways more pleasing to the sight than the fly pad route. Flies do not like a cool store, and there are many things that can be done to lower the temperature. An awning is good, and a sidewalk regularly wetted is good, in the hot weather. It is not considered advisable by some to wet the floor of the store, but the outside can be well soused with water to good effect. Of course there are some confections that would attract flies to the north pole, but a campaign of coolness and protection by silent salesmen, etc., will do a lot to remove these pests. This is a hard season of the year to keep the confectionery department looking attractive, but that is all the more reason why special efforts should be made to do so.

TOBACCO AND CIGARS

Native Tobacco Industry Expanding—Equal to Imported Weed—Experimental Farm Needed—All Grades Can be Raised.

Last year over 3,000,000 lbs. of tobacco was handled in the district around Leamington, Ont. It is only a few years since this industry took hold in Ontario, but to-day the returns that accrue from its cultivation amount to a large sum. For many years a very small acreage was all the evidence given to show that tobacco could be raised in that part of Canada. It was raised by a few for their own use, and in this way the production has grown to such an extent that it is now one of the future crops of Canada. Even in old Kent County the farmers have come to the conclusion that the returns from tobacco growing "listens well."

Those who have successfully grown tobacco in Ontario have gained their knowledge of its culture by experience, but the industry has grown so large and so many are taking it up that technical education from an experimental farm would be a boon to those engaged, or about to become engaged in the work.

All grades are now grown in Ontario, from pure Havana leaf down to the most ordinary stuff. Soil has a lot to do with the quality, but skill in raising and treatment also plays a prominent part. The best of the native tobacco finds a ready market in Canadian cigar factories, who find it quite equal to any imported leaf.

EXPERIMENTAL TOBACCO FARM.

The member for East Lambton, J. E. Armstrong, in the House of Commons the other day suggested to the Minister of Agriculture that the experimental farm system be extended by establishing stations for tobacco growing in Southwestern Ontario. The minister intimated that he had the matter under consideration.

THE MAKING OF CIGARS.

In the course of a write-up of one of the large United States cigar concerns, the Scientific American describes the process of manufacture from the field to the finished product. It says in part:

Although we are a nation of smokers, many will learn with a shock of surprise that the annual estimated expenditure in this country for cigars alone reaches the stupendous figure of $300,000,000. It must be admitted that an industry whose total revenue is written in nine figures possesses an interest which demands for every question affecting it the most thoughtful consideration.

The present article deals with the technical side of the cigar industry, and it will be shown that in the manufacture of this, as of many another familiar luxury of our modern life, there is involved a variety of delicate processes and a range of technical skill far greater than the average citizen would suppose. Ask the man on the street if he knows how cigars are made, and he will probably tell you that he does, having frequently watched the process in some one or other of those shop-window exhibitions, which form a favorite method of advertising. Yet it is a fact that if the cigar is being carefully and properly made, the man who rolls it is merely performing the last operation in a succession of carefully considered and carried out processes, which will extend over a period which must be measured by months and, in the case of some brands of cigars, even years of time.

Although the methods by which the cigar leaves are rolled up into the cigar and covered with the wrapper are, except for the introduction of cigar-making machinery, the same to-day as they have been from time immemorial, there has been great progress made in the art of preparing the leaf for the cigar roller, and this is particularly true of the company whose plant forms the subject of the accompanying illustrations. In fact, if they were asked to indicate where they had been enabled to make the greatest advance in the art of cigar manufacture, they would undoubtedly point to their large stemmeries, located chiefly in the moist southern climate, where new and elaborate methods have been introduced for subjecting the tobacco leaf to a thorough curing and blending process, intermediate between the curing at the leaf houses and the working up into the finished cigar. Broadly speaking, all cigars may be divided under three heads, according as they are imported cigars, domestic cigars, and little cigars. The term imported cigars is universally recognized as applying only to those which are made in Havana. As the strictest laws are enforced against the importation of tobacco to Cuba, it follows that all genuine Havana cigars are made of Cuban tobacco. For the birthplace of the cigar we must go to Havana, Cuba, and for centuries the word Havana has stood for the highest quality. The Havana Tobacco Company controls 260,000 acres of the best tobacco lands in the Vuelta Abajo district, and they have twenty-five factories in Havana. Here Havana cigars are made in all grades, from the cigar which may be purchased on any stand at two for 25 cents up to the most expensive brands which, if bought at retail, would cost about $2 apiece. The high quality of the most expensive Havana cigar is due to the very careful selection of the tobacco—tobacco which is grown in limited quantities in specially favored districts; secondly, to the perfect curing and blending of the leaf and to the high wages which are paid to the best cigar makers; and lastly, to the fact that in making the most expensive grades, these men are allowed to take all the time they consider necessary.

The "Precise" Housekeeper

Many grocers entertain a sort of dread of this exacting person, who possesses a precision of taste most difficult to gratify.

No guess work in their selection of goods.

Now, our goods are graded and classified to the precise taste of every precise housekeeper.

The grocer who handles

will be able to meet these particular patrons with some brand whose fine aroma, richness and delicate taste will certainly delight them, put him at his ease, and "put money in his purse."

CLASSIFIED LIST OF ADVERTISEMENTS ON PAGE 31

Large Soap Sales

Don't try to sell soaps that are unknown—it's hard work and unprofitable labor.

The best selling soap is the best known soap, and the best known soap is the one which is advertised the most extensively and is at the same time absolutely pure and of high quality.

Baby's Own Soap

is the most extensively advertised soap in Canada—it is absolutely pure and is known throughout Canada as the best soap for the Nursery, Toilet and the Bath, because of its rare quality. It is not surprising that it sells easily and in very large quantities. You cannot afford to let your customers go elsewhere to buy Baby's Own Soap.

The Turned-Down Corners

Here and there in the Ledger of Life you have turned down the corner of a page for remembrance sake—you'd forget something if the turned-down corner wasn't there.

To-day, turn down a corner deep and wide to remember this one sure fact: "Quality is remembered long after price is forgotten." Every time you come to that particular page—remember. Every time you try to sell inferior quality, think of the turned-down corner—what it stands for, and what it really means to your success.

"Taylor's" Candied and Drained Peels

Caught, cured and canned right at the water's edge—not re-shipped and re-handled before packing. No bone, dirt or slime ever gets into the "Thistle" Brand. Open a can yourself for the most convincing proof—they are all right at all times. Always Genuine Haddie only.

From the "Star-Journal," St. Catharines. July 6th, 1906.

AT THE SIMCOE CANNING FACTORY

A Model of Cleanliness and a Credit to the City is "No. 18" of the Canadian Canners, Limited, on Lake Street.

In these days when the air is filled with rumors of the unsanitary condition of packing houses and canneries in various places, IT SHOULD BE GRATIFYING TO ST. CATHARINES PEOPLE TO KNOW THAT in the Garden City conditions the very opposite prevail.

To inquire into the actual condition of some of these places, a representative of The Star-Journal as he was passing the Simcoe Canning Factory, better known now as No. 18 of the Canadian Canners, Limited, deemed it advisable in the interests of the public to visit the premises. A request at the office for permission to go through the factory was promptly granted, AND WHAT THE VISITOR SAW DURING HIS HALF HOUR'S STAY WAS ONLY OF A MOST GRATIFYING NATURE.

The houses provided for the employes are situated at the opposite side of the property from the factory, are neatly painted and furnished with iron bedsteads and other modern furniture, while the sanitation is well attended to by good waterworks and sewerage connection.

Large quantities of strawberries, cherries and beets of excellent quality were found, awaiting the employes who have charge of the assorting of them. These are divided into three grades. Some of the fruits are made into jam and placed in gallons or barrels, but the major portion of the fruit is put up into the familiar tin cans, to be had from all dealers.

ENTERING THE FACTORY PROPER, ONE IS STRUCK WITH THE AIR OF CHEERFULNESS AND CLEANLINESS EVERYWHERE. The walls and ceiling are painted white, and the floor is kept quite free from dirt or filth of any sort, such as might have been found in similar factories in days past. That the place may be easily kept in this condition, a sewer was constructed underneath the floor the entire length of the building, and the floor laid with a three-inch fall, so that when the hose is turned on each day and the floor flooded, all refuse and dirt is swept off at once and carried away into the city sewer on Wellington street. In this department were found this morning seventy women hulling berries and ten working on cherries, besides twenty-five men and boys, all of whom were neatly dressed and none of whom bore even a suggestion of uncleanliness.

A large number of the women employed in the factory were working on a Remington peeling table, made in Chicago, which moves continuously, bringing to the women the fruit to be hulled, and carrying away that finished. The fruit is nearly all put up in syrups, the syrupping being done by a machine made for that purpose. THE CANNING IS DONE ALMOST ENTIRELY BY MACHINERY, THE FRUIT NOT BEING TOUCHED BY THE HANDS OF THE EMPLOYES FROM THE TIME IT IS POURED INTO THE CAN UNTIL IT REACHES THE CONSUMER, the counting, brushing, sealing of the cans and other parts of the process being done wholly by machinery. The goods are cooked in the cans after they are sealed, and then run into a vat of cold water and cooled, and then turned into small cases and taken to the shipping room.

The remarks as above are equally applicable to each of our THIRTY FACTORIES. In ordering Canned Goods it will pay you to stick to brands as follows, viz.: "Canada First," "Little Chief," "Log Cabin," "Horseshoe," "Kent," "Auto," "Lynnvalley," "Maple Leaf," "Lion," "Thistle," "Grand River," "White Rose," etc.

"Quality and Cleanliness," our Motto.

Yours respectfully,

CANADIAN CANNERS, Limited

HOW IS YOUR TEA TRADE?

A little slack, eh? Not much sale for Greens? Customers seem indifferent about it?

We have met lots just like you. What you need is a tonic, a tea tonic for weary consumers. Have been drinking Green Tea of more or less merit for years and are tired of the dull sameness.

Well, just try them with Ceylon Teas and watch them sit up and take notice. The Ceylon Teas have now got the call, the public are taking hold of them because not alone of their superior flavor and drawing qualities but because they know them to be absolutely cleanly and healthful, "made" and put up by machinery, without the contamination of human handling.

Just try pushing Ceylon Greens a little and see how readily they go and what satisfaction they afford the customer.

CANADA'S PRIDE

SEASON 1906

We have now fully equipped our factory with all latest machinery, making it modern and up-to-date and will pack a full line of FRUITS and VEGETABLES. We are situated in one of the best districts for producing a fine flavor, which was fully demonstrated by our pack of last year.

We would specially call your attention to our system of naming the different grades of peas, as on the label of each can is shown the exact size of the contents; the different grades being known as Nos. 1, 2, 3, which assures the consumers of getting exactly, what they are buying, instead of the great variety of names now employed, which no one understands. We respectfully ask that you give our goods a trial and allow the consumer to be the judge, ASSURING you we will pack, only, a HIGH-GRADE QUALITY, which will create a demand. Remember the brand "Canada's Pride," the best yet.

UNDISPUTED FACTS OF VITAL INTEREST TO ALL WHO SELL TEA

The sale is now nearing the 15,000,000

packets per annum mark.

For the first six months of 1906

Over the corresponding ones of 1905

We have increased the number of consumers of "SALADA" Ceylon Tea in Canada by 57,020 persons, or 11,404 families of 5 each.

For the first six months of 1905 over 1904 we had a somewhat similar increase, or, in other words, we add to the users of "SALADA" over 50,000 persons every year.

Wouldn't it pay you well to push "SALADA" and "SALADA" only?

The above figures (which are absolutely authentic) show that "SALADA" gives better satisfaction than any other Packet or Bulk Teas on the market, otherwise, what is causing the steady growing demand?

Believe us when we tell you that it costs more to produce "SALADA" Quality of Tea, but when we pack it we have something to be proud of, and can guarantee it.

This alone should be a strong point in favor of every dealer, not only selling "SALADA," but using it as a foremost "Leader" in the Tea Department of his business.

For nearly 16 years "SALADA" has held the unassailable confidence of all who have handled it, and their number is legion.

Black, Mixed, or Natural Green. } Sealed LEAD Packets Only.

STATES PURE FOOD LAW

Resume of an Important Measure—Result of 27 Years of Agitation and Public Education—What is Adulteration—What is Misbranding.

After 27 years of agitation to that end, the American Congress at the close of its recent session passed a national pure food law. It is entitled: "An act for preventing the adulteration or misbranding of foods and drugs, and for regulating traffic therein, and for other purposes." The introductory section reads:

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that the introduction into any state or territory or the District of Columbia from any other state or territory or the District of Columbia, or from any foreign country, or shipment to any foreign country of any article of food or drugs which is adulterated or misbranded, within the meaning of this act, is hereby prohibited; and any person who shall ship or deliver for shipment from any state or territory or the District of Columbia to any other state or territory or the District of Columbia, or to a foreign country, or who shall receive for commercial purposes in any state or territory or the District of Columbia from any other state or territory or the District of Columbia, or foreign country, or who, having received shall deliver in original unbroken packages, for pay or otherwise, or offer to deliver to any other person, any such article so adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of this act, or any person who shall sell or offer for sale in the District of Columbia or the territories of the United States any such adulterated or misbranded foods or drugs, or export or offer to export the same to any foreign country, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and for such offence be fined not exceeding two hundred dollars for the first offence, and upon conviction for each subsequent offence not exceeding three hundred dollars or be imprisoned not exceeding one year, or both, in the discretion of the court: Provided, however, that no person shall be liable to the penalty of imprisonment as provided herein unless he knowingly committed the offence charged; provided further, that no article shall be deemed misbranded or adulterated within the provisions of this act when intended for export to any foreign country and prepared or packed according to the specifications or directions of the foreign purchaser when no substance is used in the preparation or packing thereof in conflict with the laws of the foreign country to which said article is intended to be shipped, but if said article shall be in fact sold or offered for sale for domestic use or consumption, then this proviso shall not exempt said article from the operation of any of the other provisions of this act."

Definition of Food.

Section 2 provides that the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of Agriculture, and the Secretary of Commerce and Labor shall make uniform rules and regulations for carrying out the provisions of the act. Section 3 provides that the examinations of food, etc., shall be made in the Bureau of Chemistry. Section 4 provides for the prosecution of violators of the law. In section 5 the term "food" is defined as including all articles used for food, drink, confectionery or condiment by man or other animals, whether simple, mixed, or compound. For the purposes of this act, according to section 6, an article shall be deemed to be adulterated: "In the case of foods:

What Adulteration is.

"First: If any substance has been mixed and packed with it so as to reduce or lower or injuriously affect its quality or strength.

"Second: If any substance has been substituted wholly or in part for the article.

"Third: If any valuable constituent of the article has been wholly or in part abstracted.

"Fourth: If it be mixed, colored, powdered, coated, or stained in a manner whereby damage or inferiority is concealed.

"Fifth: If it contain any added poisonous or other added deleterious ingredient which may render such article injurious to health; provided, that when in the preparation of food products for shipment they are preserved by an external application applied in such manner that the preservative is necessarily removed mechanically, or by maceration in water, or otherwise, the provisions of this act shall be construed as applying only when said products are ready for consumption.

"Sixth: If it consists in whole or in part of a filthy, decomposed, or putrid animal or vegetable substance, or any portion of an animal unfit for food, whether manufactured or not, or if it is the product of a diseased animal, or one that has died otherwise than by slaughter."

Misbranding Defined.

For the purposes of this act, an article is deemed to be misbranded: "In the case of food:

"First: If it be an imitation of or offered for sale under the distinctive name of another article."

"Second: If it be labeled or branded so as to deceive or mislead the purchaser, or purport to be a foreign product when not so, or if the contents of the package as originally put up shall have been removed in whole or in part and other contents shall have been placed in such package, or if it fail to bear a statement on the label of the quantity or proportion of any morphine, opium, cocaine, heroin, alpha, or beta eucane, chloroform, cannabis indica, chloral hydrate, or acetanilide or any derivation or proportion of any such substance contained therein.

"Third: If in the package form and the contents are stated in terms of weight or measure, they are not plainly and correctly stated on the outside of the package.

Must Not Mislead.

"Fourth: If the package containing it or its label shall bear any statement, design, or device regarding the ingredients or the substances contained therein, which statement, design, or device shall be false or misleading in any particular; provided, that an article of food which does not contain any added poisonous or deleterious ingredients shall not be deemed to be adulterated or misbranded in the following cases:

"First: In the case of mixture or compounds which may be now or from time to time hereafter known as articles of food, under their own distinctive names, and not an imitation of or offered for sale under the distinctive name of another article, if the name be accompanied on the same label or brand with a statement of the place where said article has been manufactured or produced.

"Second: In the case of articles labeled, branded or tagged so as to plainly indicate that they are compounds, imitations or blends; provided, that the term blend as used herein shall be construed to mean a mixture of like substances, not excluding harmless coloring or flavoring ingredients. And provided further, that nothing in this act shall be construed as requiring or compelling proprietors or manufacturers of proprietary foods which contain no unwholesome added ingredient to disclose their trade formulas, except in so far as the provisions of this act may require to secure freedom from adulteration or misbranding."

Section 9 and section 10 provide for the determination of the standards of the various articles of food, while the concluding sections provide for the fines and penalties for guilty violators of the law.

The act goes into effect on January 1, 1907.

MONTREAL GROCERS' PICNIC

Auspicious Weather, Beautiful Location and Large Attendance Assisted to a Great Success—Banquet, Sports and Dancing—Boating on the Richelieu.

Clear, cool Summer weather, plenty of sunshine, yet no oppressive heat, came with July 18. So did the Montreal Retail Grocers' picnic. A more beautiful day than that on which the picnic was held could not be desired. Weather conditions were ideal for the holding of a picnic. And this was one of the facts responsible for the grand success of the event. Everybody enjoyed the day in every respect. Picnic day is the day of the year with the grocery trade in Montreal, and, could every picnic day be such as July 18 this would not be surprising.

P. Daoust,
President, Montreal Retail Grocers' Association.

Otterburn Park, the spot chosen for the holding of the outing, is a delightful picnic ground. Situated on the bank of the pretty and historic river Richelieu, within easy reach of the city, yet quite away from it, it was possible to forget all business cares and give up the day to the pleasures provided by the officers of the association. Many complimentary things were said about those responsible for the selection. If The Grocer is correctly informed, the worthy president of the association, Mr. P. Daoust, had a great deal to do with the naming of this place.

Everything went off without a hitch. The several committees delegated to look after the necessary arrangements, did their work well.

A special train consisting of fifteen coaches left Montreal at 9.15 and pulled up before the entrance to Otterburn Park around ten o'clock. Some seven or eight hundred persons attended the excursion.

Where the Elders Were.

At the banquet held in the dining pavilion, happy speeches were made by a number of the leading wholesale and retail grocers, travelers and members of the press. President Daoust congratulated the members on the way in which they and their families had turned out and thanked the various committees for their hard work in arranging for the day's outing and enjoyment. He welcomed the wholesalers and friends of the grocers generally. J. A. Beaudry, secretary of the Retail Grocers' Association, spoke of the good work done by the members and also referred to the unity that would make for power with them in all their dealings. He outlined the plan for a general provincial association when all grocers would get together and work for their general interests. Mr. Beaudry's remarks were received with attention and applause.

J. O. Levesque, one of the most popular grocery travelers, was called upon for a speech and enthusiastically received. Also Mr. R. Carrignan, of the traveling staff of Laporte, Martin & Cie, both of these gentlemen showing themselves finished speakers.

J. N. Ethier, of Laporte, Martin & Cie, Limited, replied on behalf of the jobbing trade and in the course of his remarks referred feelingly to the loss sustained by the grocery trade in the death of C. P. Hebert, of Hudon, Hebert & Cie, Limited. The tribute paid by Mr. Ethier to the memory of the late Mr. Hebert was a most touching one and the kindly recollection was much appreciated and commented on by those present. Mr. Ethier in thus publicly honoring a departed fellow jobber honored himself.

H. S. Nightingale and W. H. Seyler responded for their respective trade journals, Le Prix Courant and the Canadian Grocer.

Mr. Lamoreux, president of the Retail Butchers' Association, and J. P. Watson, president of the Retail Boot and Shoe association, made appropriate and happy remarks, expressing their pleasure at being present with their brother tradesmen and purveyors.

Members of the executive and the chairmen of the various committees, also spoke pleasant words to the united guests.

The programme of sports was large, but competitors were numerous and each number was keenly contested. Notes.

A large number came out on the noon train, swelling the attendance very considerably.

The waters of the beautiful Richelieu attracted many and boating parties were numerous.

It was a good move on the part of the games committee to allow only two prizes to the same individual.

Hudon & Orsali, wholesale grocers, distributed to the ladies a very handsome little fan, which was much appreciated by the recipients.

Prizes for the winners of the different sporting events will be distributed from the rooms of the association, 270 St. Catherine street east, on August 2.

N. Chartrand, president of the reception committee, and a past president of the association, did much good work and pleased all by his unfailing courtesy.

Everybody is in the hopes that the twenty-seventh annual picnic of the association will be as delightful and successful as was that held on July 18. The Grocer hopes so too.

Secretary J. A. Beaudry was kept busy all day. His work in arranging for the picnic and the interest he took in the running off of the day's programme had a great deal to do with the success of the affair.

Very artistic dance programmes were supplied those taking part in this amusement. Much credit is due the dance committee for the satisfactory manner in which all arrangements were made. Drouin's orchestra supplied the music.

Comfort Soap buttons were much in evidence during the day and the energetic representatives of that firm, Messrs. Cockburn and Perry, were kept busy in supplying the demand. Several balloons were sent up in the course of the morning.

The genial president of the association, P. Daoust, was wanted on every hand, and tried his best to be every place at once. He succeeded in doing more than his share of work. He wore his usual sunny smile. Vice-president Upton was on hand early and helped make the event a success.

Tea and coffee firms were well represented. Walter C. Gaden was on hand, as usual, with his hundreds of Red Rose tea calendars, which also, as usual, were all gone before twelve o'clock. A. G. Middleton representing Tamilkande teas was very much in evidence during the day also. A. T. Hodge, representing Chase & Sanborn, was kept busy during the day in the capacity of judge. J. W. Guenard represented E. D. Manceau.

The large wholesale houses of Montreal were well represented. In many cases one of the firm attended, but the greater majority of those representing wholesale houses were travelers. The Grocer noticed among others A. Christin, Viau Freres; J. H. Maiden, C. M. Benoit, Boivin, Wilson & Co.; J. Mainville, F. X. St. Charles & Cie; A. L. P. St. Denis, J. O. Levesque, Leduc & Co.; E. WESTERN CANNERIES, LIMITED.

A new canning company for Western Canada is being organized and Winnipeg papers have been carrying advertisements offering the stock for sale. The capital stock is placed at $1,000,000.

TORONTO GROCERS ABROAD

Annual Excursion of the Retailers to Niagara Falls and Buffalo—It was the Most Successful Outing in a Score of Years.

"I've been attending these excursions for twenty years," declared S. E. Qua, of Davidson & Hay, on the good ship Corona Wednesday night returning from the annual excursion of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association.

D. Bell.

A high dignitary of the Ontario civil service, a deputy minister, if you please, who is summering at Niagara, was aboard and remarked to The Canadian Grocer representative: "I don't know who these people are, but they're the best looking and best behaved crowd I've seen this season."

The crowd was the largest the grocers have ever had, the weather was superb, the trip was delightful, the guessing contests made great entertainment, there was not a flaw or mishap the whole day; everything made for success. The association's excursion committee were justifiably proud of their attainment. They were: R. Van Loan, president; R. B. Snow, vice-president; T. Clark, treasurer; D. G. Beaton, secretary; C. T. Cootes, H. D. Kelly, J. S. Bond, D. McLean, A. Snyder, F. Thorn, F. Johnston, D. Bell, B. Panter.

Guessing Contest.

The greater number of the eight or nine hundred who joined in the excursion went by the Chippawa at 7 a.m. As soon as the steamer was well under way the guessing contests began. There were four, provided by Red Rose tea, the A. F. MacLaren Imperial Cheese Co., Bovril, and E. W. Gillett Co., Limited. As an entertainment the Red Rose tea performance easily took the palm. It was a pie-eating contest and the guessing was on the time. Manager Geo. E. Campbell brought with him four sturdy lads that looked to have a capacity for despoiling pie. Each was given half a blueberry pie and a cup of hot Red Rose tea to wash it down. The guess was which boy would win and how long would it take him.

The pie-eating was brief but highly exciting. Everyone aboard wanted to see. Ladies, old and young, scrambled onto benches and frantically encouraged the lads to gastronomic speed. It took the winner, Roy Cameron, 1 minute 43 seconds to dispose of his pie and tea. The nearest guess was by Miss Mabel Bowen, 41 Stanley street, 1 minute 40 seconds, and the next by "Davey" Bell, the popular Yonge street grocer. The prizes were: 1st, 5 lbs. of Red Rose tea; 2nd, 2 lbs. of Red Rose. The timekeepers were R. F. Cowling, of T. H. Smith & Co.; R. Blackburn, of Davidson & Hay; Chas. Harlock, grocer, 716 Queen street east, and Mr. Spittal, of Pure Gold. The judge was Mr. McLean, grocer at McCaul and Baldwin streets, Toronto. On the home trip handsome blotters recording the contest, giving time and winners, were distributed.

Weight of Baking Power.

The E. W. Gillett Co.'s competition was to guess the weight of Magic baking powder in a glass jar. There were 700 tries at it. Five were tied for first place, Arthur Butcher, J. Winchester, Mrs. Scollen, Miss Frett and T. Clark. The weight was 10 lbs., 5½ ounces. Three guessed half an ounce over and two a like amount under, so they drew lots for position and the luck fell in this wise: Arthur Butcher, 1st; Mrs. Scollen, 2nd; Miss Frett, 3rd. This contest was directed by Will Turpin. On the return trip he had a lot of grotesque masks which he distributed and many were worn. The advertisement was printed on the back.

The A. F. MacLaren Imperial Cheese Co. put up a large hotel jar of Imperial cheese in a handsome silver holder. The weight was 5 lbs., 8⅝ ounces. Charles Elms took the cheese and holder with a guess of 5 lbs. 8½ ounces.

Bovril set up a very handsome silver mug and filled it with beans. A. Muir guessed nearest to the number of beans in the mug. His name will be handsomely engraved on the trophy.

A Pleasant Day.

The morning sail on the lake was delightful. Upon arrival at Lewiston a train of ten cars and two engines was waiting for them and speedy time was made over the New York Central line to the Falls and Buffalo. Some remained to spend the day within earshot of the cataract, but most of the company went on to the Bison City.

They all got back tired but satisfied to take the 7.30 boat, the Corona, at Lewiston. As the big boat lay at her dock waiting for them the sun went down behind the Canadian shore, the rosy light faded from the battlefield of Queenston and the historic heights. It was very pleasant. And when all were on there appeared to be room on the big vessel for as many more. Everyone was comfortable and the sail home was pleasant as the passing of a Summer day. There was an orchestra along and quite a number engaged in dancing on the after deck.

Wholesale Houses Represented.

The wholesale houses were well represented. Aboard were Speaker St. John, of the Ontario Legislature; Charles Ritchie, K.C.; Lew Kemp, J. A. McLean Produce Co.; A. W. Cormack, Wilson, Lytle & Badgerow; John Murphy and Mr. Marshall, Rutherford & Marshall; J. A. Taylor, T. Grant, Eby, Blain Co.; Phil Brown, John Sloan & Co.; Jas. Mortimer, T. Holman, H. Scully, Christie, Brown & Co.; C. Wilson, Todhunter & Mitchell; B. Cope, Gunns Limited; Chas. Rupert, Taylor, Scott & Co.; Mr. Rupert, Howland & Elliott; R. Maxwell, F. Hays, Perkins, Ince & Co.; Grant Fleming, T. Kinnear & Co.; Park Stevens, F. W. Humphrey; John J. Fee; W. J. Walsh, Fleischmann & Co.; H. Scott, Scott Bros.; W. E. Spittal, A. L. Gallow, T. R. Crowley, Pure Gold Co.; S. S.

ANGLO-SAXON TEA PARTY

The Buffalo grocers are said to be sore because their customers cross to Fort Erie on Fridays and come back with five-pound parcels of twenty-five-cent tea of a much better quality than they can sell for fifty cents a pound. It is reported that an effort will be made to have a duty placed on tea, which is allowed in at present free of tax five pounds at a time.

There is more in this, we suspect, than the selfishness of a few Buffalo grocers, who would like to prevent other people saving money at their expense. It is the ancient political prejudice against tea, surviving the incident of Boston Harbor. Ever since the unfortunate affair of 1776 the United States has been a coffee-drinking country. They drank it first as a spite beverage, confusion, as it were, to the enemy; then they grew to like it; presently they became so addicted to it that they spoiled their stomachs and ruined their complexions. To such an extent has the vice grown that philanthropists, with an eye to the main chance, have devised cereal substitutes which have had great success. The dividends these moral reformers enjoy serve to show that the country is honestly striving to conquer its besetting sin. But, alas, the good these coffee emulsions do is constantly being undone by pie, the effect of which on constitutions already weakened by caffetannic excesses is said to be disastrous.

Amidst all its sufferings it is significant that the nation never seems to think of taking to tea. Nobody advertises it as a substitute. Travelers in New England tell us it is impossible to obtain there a cup of good tea. The fires of an old hatred still smolder, and they boil the unfortunate plant to death. In the west and middle west things are not much better. In the south they do not know the name. In the east they aim to make it so bad that the visitor will take refuge in coffee. Only in New York does it come to one as a cup that cheers but does not inebriate, but the restaurants set a high price on it, as who should say, "If you will betray your country by absorbing the pernicious fluid you must pay for it."

And yet tea is a good creature. It nourished the wits of Queen Anne's and other ages. Dr. Johnson fed his great mind and his huge body on it, and spite of a digestion as exacting as ever man's was, lived beyond the allotted term largely by its help. He was such a champion of tea, such a practical expounder of its virtues, that Burke suggested that the India Company should give him a pension. But Dr. Johnson is a bad example to cite, for this great tea-bibbing philosopher was a Tory, and it was on this very subject of his favorite tipple that he wrote the pamphlet, "Taxation No Tyranny," which was nasty medicine to the American colonies.

Tea, it will be seen, is a ticklish topic where Anglo-Saxons are concerned. At the same time we cannot side with the Buffalo patriots in their endeavors to keep the quarrel open. John Bull and Uncle Sam are getting closer and closer together. Let our good Canadian tea be the libation poured to this new and delightful friendship. It was tea that drove us apart. Let tea bring us together again.—Toronto Star.

ORGANIZED THE CLERKS.

J. B. E. Poirier, general manager and treasurer of the Beach Calculating Machine Co., Montreal, was in Toronto this week establishing a general agency for his company. He is going as far west as Winnipeg, via Detroit and Chicago, returning in a fortnight.

Mr. Poirier was for years associated with the retail grocery trade in Montreal and founded the Retail Grocery Clerk's Association of that city. He is still the mainstay of it and continues as its treasurer. The association is now engaged in an early closing campaign. In Montreal 10 o'clock is the usual closing hour for grocers. The early closing by-law is before the courts and a decision is awaited.

At Redvers, Sask., a board of trade has been organized with these officers: President, R. Douglas; secretary-treasurer, L. T. McLanders; executive, J. Dodds, W. Montgomery, H. Bowers. The first step they purpose taking in hand is the establishing of a bank and elevator.

BOARD OF TRADE INFLUENCE.

The influence of the Board of Trade in Canada in the realm of commerce and finance should be extended into the fields of social and political progress. not party politics or fads, but the every-day business of managing the affairs of the whole community, municipal, provincial and federal. The individual who makes a success at business would not necessarily be a success as a public man, but in the bulk the business men of a community as represented by the board of trade should, if their interest was aroused, decide wisely on questions of public polity.

One principal reason why the boards of trade are not more influential is that many of them have not the right kind of secretaries. A board of trade secretary should be an expert in the matter of detecting questions calling for action by the board. He should be a man with a knowledge of public affairs. Everything on the order paper of council, legislature and parliament is of moment to the business community. The board secretary should know the significance of issues as they arise, keep his board informed and advise them when to take action. Many things vital to the commercial interests of a community are neglected by the public bodies that should deal with them. Boards of trade could force action in many instances if they were so minded.

It may be urged that this is the business of the president and executive. That is just the point. The elected officers are business men absorbed in their own affairs; what we claim is that the secretary should be specially commissioned to advise the board and as a body inform them of the ins and outs of questions which in the public interest they should take up. To do this well the secretary must have a working knowledge of public affairs and public bodies. About eighty per cent. of public business is in the hands of municipal councils. Here is a large field in itself for boards of trade.

The Hamilton board recently made a progressive move that is decidedly in the right direction. It has decided to engage an agent to devote his whole time to the affairs of the board. He will investigate all complaints about transportation and such matters. The board appointed committees to boom Hamilton-made goods, and to co-operate with the aldermen when important matters are before the council for consideration.

THE HONEY CROP.

Ontario's honey crop is reported by the provincial Government inspectors to be a failure owing to unfavorable climatic conditions. Since the bees gather their surplus honey in ten or fifteen days this not very wonderful. If some one could produce a tame bee with a tongue long enough to reach the nectar in red clover there would be no more honey crop failures and Canada would enter among the big honey producers. Bees have been brought from Italy, Egypt and other countries in the attempt to get one that could extract honey from red clover, but to no purpose, and white clover remains the chief source of Ontario honey.

Europe produces 80,000 tons of honey of an approximate value of ten to eleven million dollars.

According to statistics in the Handels museum, Germany leads in the production of honey among European countries with 1,910,000 beehives, furnishing 20,000 tons of honey. Spain is next with 1,690,000 hives and 19,000 tons of honey. Austria-Hungary is third with 1,550,000 hives and 18,000 tons of honey. The other European states are far behind. France produces 10,000 tons, Holland 2,500, Belgium 2,000, Greece 1,400, Russia and Denmark 900 tons each. In these statistics the effect of climatic conditions is noteworthy, especially when comparing Russia and Greece. The latter has only 30,000 beehives, yielding 1,400 tons of honey, while the former with 110,000 hives produces only 900 tons.

A TRAVELERS' TIME.

A traveler was heard lamenting the other day about the amount of time he was compelled to lose in waiting for an appointment with a storekeeper in a small town. This traveler called on his man but found him engaged. He went out and came back again in an hour's time, but found the same condition of affairs. The man with whom the storekeeper was speaking was a resident of the town, who could be seen almost daily, but the traveler had but a short time to remain before his train left, and felt that an effort should have been made under the circumstances to give him an opportunity to do business and get away.

It is hardly fair to mete out such treatment to a man, but from reports that are heard from time to time it is not an infrequent occurrence. Unfortunately there are merchants who have a feeling that a man having goods to sell is under an obligation to them, and they must show it by keeping him hanging around until they feel disposed to talk with him. This is an unkind spirit, and one that never begets any good feeling from the man who is thus snubbed. It is not necessary to turn one's business upside down to accommodate any traveler, but a kindness done in making an effort to assist him to facilitate his business is only right. From a purely selfish standpoint it is also the best policy, for as a rule the experienced traveling salesman is in pretty close touch with most things that are going on in the trade, and is often in a position to give the merchant a pointer that is worth a great deal more in value than the time taken in seeing the traveler.

But there is another side to the story. The merchant has his grievances and his "thorn in the flesh" of being solicited in season and out of season for a sample order of this or that that he really does not want. He states plainly that he has sufficient of the goods enumerated in stock, and does not care to do any more buying, but the drummer man remorselessly tags after him, insistent and argumentative. By some this is called zeal, but oftener it is poor judgment. It is never right to try to sell a man what he does not want, and it is the importunate salesmen who do this that put merchants on the defensive when they see a traveling man enter their store.

POWER FOR MUNICIPALITIES.

A conference of municipal delegates representing municipalities from Toronto west to London was held at Galt this week. The harmony which prevailed showed the spirit in which the public have embraced this gigantic scheme. Hon. Adam Beck and Cecil B. Smith addressed the delegates and took it upon themselves to answer the adverse criticism expressed through the correspondence columns of the daily papers. There was no weakening in the stand taken in favor of carrying out the original plans, and estimates relative to the cost, maintenance and distribution of power were again taken up and explained by the speakers.

To avail themselves of the privileges of the act, the municipalities must cooperate with the Government, and this they decided to do. But while it is well that there is such unanimity in endorsing the act of the Government regarding the development of Niagara Falls, there should be no undue haste in dispelling the criticism of those who are opposed to the present plan of development, for only by the expression of such opinions are the difficulties to be seen. Few questions that have come up for public assent are of more importance than this one, as it means the outlay of millions of money. That the power can be generated and distributed is not the issue—that is accepted. The method that is most economical and most advantageous to the public is what must be well thought out. In a multitude of councillors there is wisdom, so let no one who has new light to throw on the subject be denied an opportunity.

GROCERS' TECHNICAL COURSE.

Some months ago Dr. Packenham, principal of the Toronto Technical School announced in The Canadian Grocer his intention of establishing at the opening of the school this Fall an evening course of classes for grocers and grocers clerks. He attached to it the one condition that sufficient interest should be manifested by the trade to make the effort worth while. He would have to arrange a course of lectures by experts in various branches of the trade. It is a considerable undertaking. If established, the work would do a great deal to raise the standard of the grocery trade in Toronto and throughout Ontario and the opportunity should not be allowed to go by default. Every grocer and clerk who will attend such a course, if established, should send Dr. Packenham a post card notifying him to that effect.

ORGANIZATION FOR GROCERS.

Retail grocers, when spoken to individually, admit, almost unanimously, that there should be a strong provincial organization of grocers apart from other branches of the trade. There are many questions peculiar and vital to the foodstuff trade that the men engaged in it should, they feel, have an organization. Apparently all that is needed is for some one of the local organizations to send out a call. Such an organization could do much for the grocery trade and it is the only way by which the retail grocers of Canada as a body can keep their department of business abreast of the times.

REFRIGERATION FOR FRUIT.

The Dominion Department of Agriculture is going to spend some money this year to teach fruit growers the advantage of cooling their early fruit before shipping it. To do this the Government has arranged for a refrigerator car service and has undertaken to pay the cost of icing up to $5 for fruit for export.

The initial paragraphs of a circular (No. 914) issued by the Grand Trunk reads:

"At the request of the Department of Agriculture of the Dominion Government, we will, as far as practicable, furnish iced refrigerator cars for the transportation of export shipments of fruit via the port of Montreal, during the period August 1 to September 30, inclusive.

"The ice used in the initial icing, as well as in the re-icing of these cars, will be charged for at the rate of $2.50 per net ton. The Dominion Government will assume an amount not exceeding five dollars ($5.00) per car towards the cost of this icing, and the difference between the amount assumed by the Government and the actual cost, must be paid by shippers."

A. McNeil, chief of the fruit division, in an explanatory statement to the Canadian Grocer, says:

"Briefly, the conditions are these. The shipper sends in a written requisition for a refrigerator car, stating how much ice he requires and paying $2.50 per ton for the ice. Of the amount paid for ice, the Government will repay not more than $5 per car. This applies only to fruit for export during August and September. This is a very important concession to fruit growers, not so much on account of the amount of money contributed, as on account of directing attention to the necessity for refrigerator cars in the case of early fruit. If fruit shippers could be induced to see the very great importance of cooling their fruit before shipping it, there is no reason to doubt that every bushel of our early fruit could be marketed at a good price."

This is an educational expenditure the entire country will approve. The development of agriculture in all its phases must be Canada's first industrial consideration if it is to take its obviously destined place as a food producer.

COMPLAINT AGAINST FISH

The Grocer has been handed a letter by A. P. Tippet & Co., Montreal, regarding the manner in which, according to rumor, fish are being packed in the Maritime Provinces. Considerable talk has been heard among the trade on this question. It is a fact that if the things spoken of in this letter as printed hereunder are true, the fish trade of Canada is in great peril. Already there is a very noticeable decrease in the volume of business turned over, which may be ascribed to this cause. Legitimate packers claim that there are some houses who seem to feel quite justified in refilling cases of "haddies" with hake, and other such cheaper lines of fish. The effect upon the trade, if such is the case, is easy to see. The question opened by this letter is one of vital interest to all concerned in the fish trade of the country, and if such conditions as are described exist the sooner matters are remedied the better. The letter follows:

"Dear Sirs,—I have been buying canned haddies from Canada for some years, having met with them in the west during my annual vacation, but this season I visited the Maritime Provinces and was very much surprised to find that in many of the factories they packed all kinds of fish and called them haddies.

"Now, I do not know much about fish, but I was told that hake and pollock and dog fish were often used by packers to fill up; this has very much upset me, and I should like to know if it is quite according to your law to pack goods under different names, because the fishermen told me these were very much cheaper and inferior to haddock.

"Yours truly,

"M. BOYLE."

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Fluctuations.

Fish—Revised.

Montreal, July 25, 1906.

In grocery circles this week there has been nothing out of the usual. Business has been steady and the markets generally featureless. Summer trade is very good and jobbers seem to be satisfied with the amount of business they are turning over. Collections are reported much better, accounts being collected with less trouble than formerly. Corn and peas are in good demand according to the reports of jobbers. Around the trade there is considerable wonderment as to what may be the reason or seasons of canners in withholding quotations on next season's goods. Price lists should have been out before this. Good trade is passing in sugar at prices which are well maintained. Owing to existing conditions an advance in sugar is considered as not improbable. Molasses are unchanged. In tea there is practically nothing that is new. Dealers report good business in dried fruits. Quotations on new crop currants are expected to arrive in a couple of weeks. Coffee has not changed since last report, while spices are on the quiet side. Honey in combs is arriving more freely. Good business is anticipated a couple of weeks hence.

CANNED GOODS—Good business is reported. For the season, demand generally has been very good. There is considerable corn going out at present, and several fairly large orders for peas have been received by jobbers. Tomatoes are in fair demand at figures quoted. Some surprise is expressed by the trade at the way canners are delaying in giving out prices for next season. Quotations should have been out by this time, but with the exception of a couple of lines nothing has been made public. No prices have been made on such staple lines as tomatoes, corn, peas and salmon. This delay on the part of the canning companies has given rise to much speculation as to what can be their idea in holding off so long.

TEA—Nothing new has developed in the tea situation. Interest is still centred in Japan teas. Prices have been well maintained, according to recent cables from Yokohama. Such old Japans as are held have been advanced more or less as was expected. In some cases there has been an advance of two cents. Owing to the fact that these teas were sold so cheap during the past few months, however, these advances are not surprising. China greens present no new features. Indians are unchanged, while there has been no change in the tone of the Ceylon market.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

July 26, 1906.

The grocery trade is very fair, quiet in spots, of course, but seasonably very good, and collections are not a cause for complaint. The canned goods situation is interesting the trade most now. Jobbers here think the canners and packers are wise in not making prices until the pack is known. Corn, peas and tomatoes are, of course, the principal articles. The pea pack is about finished and an announcement of the price is expected very soon, perhaps this week. The pack is said to have been about 65 per cent. of what was expected and if orders were to be completely filled it would leave the factories bare. That means a very strong situation. The market on corn is in good shape. The prices are firm. Sugar is firm and a rise is expected. The dried fruit market continues very firm and all lines very scarce.

CANNED GOODS—Stocks of canned corn are said to be in very small compass. There has been no actual change in prices, but holders are not at all anxious to sell freely. Preferred brands are pretty well out of stock. The price of the new pack of peas has not been fixed but it is expected to be 12 1-2 to 15c. higher than last year. Last year the crop was unusually heavy and the quality unusually good. This year neither conditions prevail. One day this week there was not a green pea to be had in St. Lawrence market, Toronto.

The salmon pack is still uncertain, but the confident expectation is that it will be small and the market continues very firm. Retail prices here have advanced from 15c. to 17c. for choice brands.

TEA—Japans are on too high a level for much business to be done for general importation. The crop is about one million pounds short to date of that of last year to the corresponding date. This would not be serious on a forty million crop, but when the fact that last years crop was nearly ten million short of the previous year it assumes a greater importance. Ceylon greens apparently have a new opportunity of being strong competitors of the Japans, and although these are also dearer they can still be bought at prices which show about the same margin that buyers expect to get on Japs and allow the highest class of leaf, with good liquor, to go to the counter at 25c. This is not the case up to the present moment with Japans, as only very ordinary teas can be bought to lay down at 17c. to 18c., which are not considered good enough leaf to resell to the retail trade at the same prices. Black teas are very cheap in the primary markets for the lowest grade, with good ordinary leaf. Anything, however, showing indication of quality in the cup at once jumps about 2c. per pound and strictly fine teas are very high. This is quite in accordance with the usual course of the tea market, which in the matter of prices invariably contracts and expands at both ends, thus when teas are at their very cheapest the finest are always at the very highest price and when teas are at the dearest point of the market the finest ordinary grades get very close together in the matter of prices. The main principle governing this feature is that conditions favorable to the production of very large quantities are unfavorable to the production of fine quality, and thus when tea is plentiful, quality is scarce.

COFFEE—Locally, trade in coffee is quiet. Willett & Grey say of the situation:

"The distinctly favorable position of coffee is commanding more attention but the necessities of interior buyers are growing more acute, and these two features together will force the trade out of the waiting attitude it has so long observed. The coffee trade always displays more activity in advancing markets, apparently always better satisfied to build up their stocks when prices move up and when once a good impetus displaces cankering pessimism the natural buying movement will be very heavy.

"Everybody is watching for news from Brazil. The Federal scheme to provide some protection for the coffee industry in Brazil may not at first sight be regarded with the confidence due to it. The coffee states have labored long to reach a practicable basis and it is positively announced they have settled upon a bill that Congress will pass and the Government will execute.

SUGAR—The market is firm at unchanged quotations. At New York buyers and sellers are to far apart in their ideas regarding raws for business, and in Europe best is slowly advancing. Of the world's visible supply Willett & Grey says:

"Total stock of Europe and America, 2,548,977 tons, against 1,864,479 tons last year at the same uneven dates. The increase of stock is 684,498 tons, against an increase of 774,198 tons last week. Total stocks and afloats together, show a visible supply of 2,718,977 tons, against 2,079,479 tons last year, or an increase of 639,498 tons."

DRIED FRUITS—The currant market has been steady in Greece and quite firm for some weeks past. The firmness developed last week into an actual advance. This is attributed, according to cables received, to some new concessions having been made to the Currant Company, which, it is claimed, will enable them to deal more effectively with the crop than last year. There are practically no currants in Greece now except what are held over by the carrying company and the conditions under which they are carrying these currants prohibit the possibility of the goods being exported at a lower figure than that now quoted, which are about on a parity with the actual prices at which the Currant Co. is under obligation to buy all currants offered to it.

The general opinion in regard to Valencia raisins is that prices will open on the primary market at least a cent above last year's prices. That price is likely to be maintained throughout the year. The crop is estimated at 20,000 tons or 1-3 less than last year; while exchange is much more unfavorable for export. Malaga raisins, barring accidents, will be even a larger crop than last year, but with the high prices of all other fruits may have some effect on the demand for Malagas. Reasonable prices are expected even with the somewhat larger demand.

California prunes are practically out of the market and the new crop will not be in time for the early Fall demand. Austrian fruit, said to be not so sweet, but more flavory, is selling at 6 1-2c. for 90's. Some French prunes, 110s-115s, are to be had at 4 1-2c.

Manufacturers of citron peel have been advancing prices.

NUTS—The price of almonds locally has been advanced in keeping with the higher prices abroad. The general level of prices for all nuts for the coming season will likely be about 25 per cent. higher than last year. On almonds it is said the advance will be even more.

The owners of the New York cargoes of dates, of which some 20,000 boxes will be billed to various points in Canada, have advanced their prices 1-4c. The London market is much higher and the prospects are that the advance named will be maintained.

N. B. MARKETS

St. John, N.B., July 23, 1906.

Business continues good, though it is just between seasons. Market generally is firm. Flour is perhaps the chief exception. The difference in price between Manitobas and Ontarios is at present more than usual. One reason is said to be the increased demand for Manitobas and the effort of the Ontario miller to hold a demand for his product. It is a question if the Ontario miller is not somewhat to blame for the falling off of the sale of his product, having interfered with the individuality of his flour by using so much Manitoba wheat. It is not an uncommon thing to hear of people giving up the use of Ontario brands because of the change in the quality of the flour. It is neither one thing nor yet the other.

The extreme price of cheese for this season is a feature of the market. The output in New Brunswick, and particularly in Nova Scotia, has fallen off of late years. The quantity was never enough to very much affect the general market. Cream of tartar, while rather firmer, continues quite low. Rice is firmer.

OIL—Outside of the city prices in burning oils are rather higher. The market is firm. Consumptive demand not large at this time. In lubricating oils a good steady business. Paint oils rather quiet. Full figures quoted. In cod oil fair receipts, just a fair sale. Prices unchanged.

SALT—Business in Liverpool coarse salt has been quite active, one firm in June handling twenty-five thousand bags. There are three cargoes now about due. Prices are well maintained. They are rather lower than last year. In fine, Canadian chiefly sold. There is improved sale for English, extra fine, repacked in boxes here.

CANNED GOODS—Corn quite firm, a fair stock. Price on new peas daily expected. It is expected it will be well above last season, so market is very firm. Tomatoes firm at full prices. In fruits, strawberries firm at the sharp advance. This is not a large market for fruits. Peaches firm. Market quite bare of gallon apples. They showed a nice profit this year. Salmon are higher, owing to the higher price at which new goods opened. Demand here is for Springs. Oysters scarce. Meats dull. In sardines, haddies, and kippers situation unchanged.

GREEN FRUIT—Dealers are very busy. Bananas sell freely. Oranges and lemons still high. Melons have but a fair demand here. Pines unchanged. Apples rather lower and of better quality. Strawberries about done. Just a fair demand in California plums and peaches, a few pears seen. Nova Scotia cherries now here.

DRIED FRUIT—While spot prunes are scarce for new goods, prices somewhat easier. Spot seeded raisins are higher. Prices for future quite firmly held. Malaga table fruit will cost higher than last year. Early prices on Valencias note a firm market. Apricots and peaches extreme. Dates and figs higher than last year, as is citron. Currants are unchanged. New quoted above last year's prices. Evaporated apples out of the market. Onions unchanged.

SUGAR—While market is very firm, the expected advance is still delayed. There is a good demand.

MOLASSES—Business is somewhat quiet. Imports, particularly of Barbadoes, have been large. A large part of the Barbadoes has been the fancy grade. Prices unchanged.

FISH—Salmon is about the only fresh fish of interest. In this, season is getting late. Prices have been good and catch quite large. In dry fish prices are lower, getting down to fair values. Pickled herring are still high. Dealers got a good full price for their deliveries this season. Smoked herring are dull.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—Ontario flours again lower. They are about 80 cents below Manitobas; this is more than usual. Millers are trying to hold the market for their Ontario flour. Oatmeal firm at full figures. Cornmeal little changed. Beans are dull, just a fair sale even for Yellow Eyes at the low prices. Barley of late is in very small demand. Peas, light business.

PROVISIONS—In barrel pork firm prices rule; there is but a slight demand. Beef is quiet; there is an effort towards rather higher prices. Pure lard is again firmer. Some American still bought. In fresh meat, business rather quiet; while best beef is quite firm, light beef is low. Mutton is very scarce. Lamb continues quite high. Low prices not expected. Veal a fair price. Pork still high.

Gilbert McKechnie, merchant, of Durham, Ont., is closely identified with the Durham Cement Works. Since he took hold the company has attained a very strong financial position.

T. P. McGillicuddy, general merchant, Mount Forest, Ont., is having a big sale with a view of retiring from business. He has in view a trip to the west and if satisfied with the outlook may remain there. Mr. McGillicuddy will be much missed by the merchants of Mount Forest, for he is a genial spirit.

As The Canadian Grocer goes to press this week, the Retail Merchants' Association of Western Canada is meeting in Winnipeg in the regular semi-annual convention. President Hunter is presiding. At the opening session Secretary Coulson presented his report of the work accomplished since February and general satisfaction was expressed at the gratifying increase in membership. A full report of the proceedings at the convention will appear in next week's issue. The secretary's report was as follows:

To the president and members of the Retail Merchants' Association of Western Canada:

Herewith I take pleasure in presenting my general and financial report of the progress of the association since our annual meeting in February. As will be seen, there are features in the present condition of affairs which are encouraging and features which are somewhat discouraging. First, as to membership. As shown in my report last February we had then a membership of 590; of these, it has been found necessary to strike off the names of some 74 dealers who for different reasons are not in business to-day, consequently of the old members there are only 516 who can now be included or counted as members. Since the February meeting 227 new names have been added to the membership list, making a present total of 743; this number is distributed among the three provinces, Manitoba having a membership of 450, Saskatchewan 160, and Alberta 133. The substantial and steady growth in membership is satisfactory, but it is discouraging to note the very large number who have not paid their fees for this year.

R. Templeton,
President, Winnipeg Retail Grocers' Association.

The association has been financed mainly by the fees of the new members who have joined since February last. Now, I have no doubt but that every member on our membership list will pay. It is only a matter of going after it, which would be an expensive proposition, first, in a loss of time, and incidentally the money spent in traveling expenses.

I hope that this meeting will be able to devise some cheaper and equally effective mode of collection.

The Retail Hardware and Stove Dealers' Association of Western Canada adopted last February the plan of making sight drafts on all members who, after having received three notices of their arrears, failed to remit. These drafts were issued without further advice, and have been successful in securing their collections. I would respectfully submit this plan for the consideration of the meeting. I feel and know the members of the association, particularly those in Manitoba, have received benefits largely in excess of their annual fee and should be prepared to pay promptly.

At the time of the annual meeting the association did not have any Winnipeg members; since that time four branches of the trade have been organized, and the grocers, butchers, druggists and piano dealers now have flourishing sections. It will be seen, therefore, that the association has outgrown its constitution; organized first as an association for the uniting of out-of-town merchants it now includes also the above-mentioned sections of trade, who are nominally sections and parts of the Retail Merchants' Association of Western Canada, although they have as yet had nothing to say in the election of the general executive, although each have their own executive. It is evident, therefore, that a revision of the constitution is necessary to meet this new condition of affairs.

The association now extends from Winnipeg west to the Rocky Mountains, and the territory is a little unwieldy to be handled successfully direct from Winnipeg unless sub-divided into provincial sections. I would strongly recommend that Saskatchewan and Alberta be separate provincial sections, each section to be responsible for its fees to this association and to superintend their local organizations under the direction of your executive.

Since the last general meeting in February I have held 38 meetings in different sections of Manitoba and Saskatchewan, assisting in the settlement of local differences and in the organization of local sections. I have touched little new territory, but have devoted the most of my time to perfecting the organization in territory already visited.

Members are familiar with the association plan for the collection of debts and the preparation of a delinquent list. In a number of sections the delinquent list has been well attended to, and members throughout the three provinces are finding the collection forms of great service. In Winnipeg the plan is working well. Last February I was instructed to act with the secretary of the Retail Hardware and Stove Dealers' Association of Western Canada in securing joint offices for the two associations. We found that it would be necessary to lease offices on a yearly basis. Suitable premises were secured in the Scott building for which we became personally responsible at a rental of $45 per month payable in advance, the share for each association being $22.50 per month. Each association has the sole use of one private office, and the joint use of the general board room.

Business could not be carried on without a typewriter and it was found that the rent of one would cost $5 per month, while one could be bought on payments for $125. As you will see by the financial report appended, this association is paying $2.50 per month as its share of $5 per month payments on a typewriter. When these payments are completed the machine will be the joint property of the two associations.

Since the last general meeting the contract price plan introduced by Mr. Trowern has been declared illegal by Justice Chute in his decision in the case of Wampole & Co. vs. Karn Co. at Toronto recently. At the present time it is impossible for any lawyer or business man to say just what price agreements are illegal, for the reason that there are as many decisions for as there are against the price contract plan. It would seem, however, that friendly agreements among merchants in the same towns or districts are permissable provided that prices are not unduly or unreasonably enhanced.

At the last meeting affiliation with the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada was decided upon and it has been my endeavor to work in conjunction with their secretary. I am reluctantly compelled to report, however, that so far there have been no apparent benefits from the affiliation. I have written Mr. Trowern repeatedly upon important matters and have not been accorded even the courtesy of a reply. Up to the present time my efforts to work in conjunction with Mr. Trowern have been a complete failure and I would suggest to the association a reconsideration of our relations with the Ontario association.

Shortly after the last general meeting I learned that the Postmasters' Association were endeavoring to secure permission from the Dominion Government to compile a directory of post office patrons and sell them to mail order houses. On behalf of the association I wrote the department protesting against this and the requests of the post masters were not granted. In this matter, as in others, I sought the co-operation of Mr. Trowern, but received no reply to my letters.

(Signed) W. A. COULSON.

B. C. MARKETS.

Vancouver, B.C., July 23, 1906.

The salmon run on the Fraser River is engaging attention at present. Contrary to expectations the season opened fairly well, with catches per boat up to 115. Recently, however, the run has become lighter and it is anticipated that the regular experience of a light year will be that of this season. This is one of the "lean" years, three of every four being counted so in the sockeye salmon run of the Fraser. The run is not expected to keep up very long.

In northern waters the salmon are reported running very well, and the pack at the canneries in Northern British Columbia is well over the average. There is no season on the northern rivers when the catch is extremely small as on the Fraser. On the other hand there is no season when there is such an extremely large catch in the north as the fourth year on the latter river.

The most satisfactory condition in the salmon industry as a whole would seem to be indicated by the report received at the annual meeting of the British Columbia Packers' Association, the largest concern in the salmon canning in the country. While not so very large a dividend was shown, this was on account of very poor business the first years of the organization. Taken by itself last year showed splendid results, and the association is in the very best financial standing. Most of the profits went to paying up dividends on preference stock which had been in arrears in the years of small pack.

ADDRESS, "THE EDITOR"

THE CANADIAN GROCER

10 FRONT ST. EAST, TORONTO

The Okanagan district is shipping out enormous quantities of small fruits this season, the whole crop going to the Northwest. The apple crop is promising a large yield, and just at present the peach crop is coming in very fast. It is barely three years since peaches were first a factor in a commercial way in the fruit shipments from Okanagan. This year the quantity to be exported promises to be very much larger than all previous shipments combined. The quality also is so much superior to the peaches which arrive from California that there is no comparison.

This week the fruit market is very active, larger quantities of plums, prunes and peaches from California arriving. Prices are not any lower yet. In the course of a week there will be much larger supplies from Oregon and Washington, as fruit from those districts is now coming to maturity. Then the prices will be lower. Local plums, prunes, etc., are not expected to be on the market for some weeks. There have been some apricots from Oregon and Washington received on the market this week. They are rather green and not very large, but are selling at $1 per crate, which is not excessive considering the failure of the California apricots.

New potatoes are in large supply, and the price is steady at $18 per ton, with prospect of less being quoted very soon. The crop is large this year and in very good condition. No Ashcrofts are yet being marketed here, but will be coming forward soon for shipment north. The surplus crop of that district all goes to Dawson.

S. W. Ewing, Vice-President Montreal Branch Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

Local creamery butter is in large supply now, the product weekly being about to the full limit. No surplus is ever possible, however, as northern shipments of fresh creamery butter are always large and the Yukon market can take all that is produced. Local dairy butter is coming in to retail dealers in fair quantities. Prices have not changed this week.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS

Halifax, N.S., July 25.

Fresh fruit is now so plentiful that there is little demand for canned goods, and there is a very marked falling off in all lines. The price of all fruit now on this market, with the exception of bananas, is very high, particularly oranges and also lemons. The demand for sugar is very heavy, but the price shows no change. It was felt that with the increased consumption, prices would advance, but no change thus far has taken place. At the present time sugar quotations are seventy per cent. below those in force at this period last year. An early advance is looked for. Canners decline to quote prices on salmon just now as there is some uncertainty as to what the pack will amount to. It is expected that the price will be higher than last year. The strawberry crop is now about over. The lowest price touched in Halifax this season was eight cents per box. Prices were well maintained throughout the season, considering that the yield was fairly large. The best berries on

The first lot was sold to Smith & Proctor, of Halifax, at 11¾ cents, and the second to Messrs. Biffin at 11½ cents. Another lot is about ready to place on the market.

BUTTER AND EGGS—There is a good demand for both. The receipts are only fair. Local made dairy prints are quoted at 20 to 21 cents and small tubs from 19 to 20. Creamery is about 2 cents per pound higher. Nova Scotia eggs are very scarce. These are selling at 17 and 18 cents. Prince Edward Island eggs are in good supply at 16 cents. The quality of some of the latter is very poor, the warm weather having a very bad effect on them.

FISH—The market is well supplied with fish and thousands of small mackerel are still being taken by the fishermen along the coast. The dealers are buying up these fish at 2 cents apiece, and large shipments are being made to the American market. It is stated that one local dealer has half a million mackerel in cold storage.

The brigantine Maggie Bell landed here during the week, 231 puncheons and 112 barrels of molasses for the Dominion Molasses Co.

PRODUCE AND PROVISIONS

WANT GOVERNMENT INSPECTORS

What British Work People Will Demand as a Guarantee of Imported Meat Products—Denmark's Lesson for Canada — Stores Which Sell Only Canadian Meats.

By J. B. Jackson, Canadian Commercial Agent at Leeds, England.

In view of the charges which are being made by the press in reference to the methods of the Chicago packers, especially with regard to canned meats, I have had an interesting interview with six of the leading provision firms in this district, and on making inquiry as to the prospects for Canada's export trade in canned goods, their collective opinion is as follows:

"We have no buyers at present for canned goods of any description; it makes no difference whether these goods are put up in the United States, Canada, or even in England. Everything that is put up in inside a tin can, and offered on the market at the present time, is quite unsaleable. The public are prejudiced against one and all alike; and all instances of ptomain poisoning are ascribed to canned meats and fish; when, however, the press comments have ceased and public opinion has cooled down, say, in two or three months' time, things will change, and the market will revert to its old position and the public will buy their old fancies, giving preference to the goods from those countries having good government inspection."

Canadian Canned Meats.

I also asked these gentlemen for a candid opinion on Canada's canned meats, and was told that they considered them equally as good, if not a little better than the average "American" brand. They also suggested that Canadian packing houses had a great opportunity to make special efforts to place their goods on the British market, having an asset of great value in the fact that these goods are put up under the British flag.

Denmark offers an object lesson to Canada. Quite a number of private firms in Denmark commenced to ship fresh pork and cured bacon to the English market; it was found on inspection here that some 50 tons of the Denmark pork was diseased, and was destroyed. The pork packing houses in Denmark thereupon unanimously asked the government to provide adequate and sufficient government inspection, so that the meats exported, whether cured or fresh from Denmark, should be right in every particular, and that the trade of the country should not be uselessly imperiled.

The largest dealer in canned goods in this district informs me that the huge industrial classes in the north of England do not want fancy dishes, such as canned tongue and canned chicken; their favorite dish being corned beef in two and six-pound tins. Whole families are employed from early morning till late at night in the Yorkshire mills, and a very large quantity of American corned beef is consumed in the dinner-hour, as a ready substitute instead of a hot meal, and for this reason, corned beef is in great favor amongst retail shop-keepers in this district.

Some weeks ago, a side of Argentine chilled beef was used by the workhouse people in Hull, and being diseased, caused five deaths. This also intensified the feeling against canned and chilled meats in this district, and the press are loud in their demands for adequate inspection, and that no beef, except English beef, should be purchased, unless the cattle or carcasses respectively are imported from a country giving the guarantee of government inspection.

Canadian Direct Meat Supply Company.

A new company has been formed in Leeds called the Canadian Direct Meat Supply Company. I called on them at one of their branch shops here, and had an interview with the manager. The company is entirely financed by English capital, and has been organized on account of the great demand for Canadian goods, as against American.

Two branch shops have been opened in the industrial part of the city, at Hunslet and Beeston Hill; they buy their meat direct from Liverpool, and place no meat on sale except Canadian, a guarantee being exhibited in the window, that no meat will be sold in that shop except "Canadian."

The company has gained great popularity in its already short existence, and although this is the only concern of its kind in the north of England, it is expected, owing to the demand for this class of meat at the present time, that branch shops will be opened in the surrounding cities and towns, as the business develops.

The cheese factory at Moscow, a village on the Napanee River, was struck by lightning Saturday morning and burned. There were 100 cheese in the building.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN.

Since last week there has come a change over the cheese market and at present there is a great deal of doubt about shaping of the market in the near future.

Judging from our Canadian standpoint there are a great many "bullish" elements. We have had a long spell of extremely hot and dry weather, the pastures have dried up and there is a material shrinkage in the flow of milk, caused not only by the draught, but also by the troublesome flies. Against this we have the argument of extremely high prices, large shipments on the way to Great Britain and a general feeling of uneasiness on the part of British importers.

Last week we had a slight accumulation of stocks in Montreal at very high prices, which shows an indisposition on the part of British importers to follow our lead, and in consequence prices eased off to previous trading basis. If the consumptive demand will now again come on, there will be not much, if any, further decline. This will be tested during the next few days; meanwhile, we have dealers who believe in still lower prices and others think that present prices are safe.

If the above mentioned heavy shipments, now on the way to British markets, are being absorbed promptly, we cannot look for a decline in prices. On the other hand, if the trade in the U.K. will not take up these quantities we must expect a further decline, as prices are still too high for storing purposes.

The receipts in Montreal last week were 107,363 boxes of cheese and 31,065 packages of butter, against 94,502 boxes of cheese and 41,328 packages of butter. During the same week of last year or a total since May 1 of 871,440 boxes of cheese and 271,034 packages of butter, as compared with 843,063 boxes of cheese and 319,992 packages of butter for the corresponding period of last year.

The shipments were last week 81,258 boxes of cheese and 19,279 packages of butter, against 66,947 boxes of cheese and 19,442 packages of butter for the same week of last year, or a total since May 1 of 859,550 boxes of cheese and 137,043 packages of butter, as compared with 752,875 boxes of cheese and 192,878 packages of butter for the corresponding period of last year.

According to these figures, our Montreal receipts show an increase of 28,377 boxes of cheese and a decrease of 48,958 packages of butter, while our exports show an increase of 106,675 boxes of cheese and a decrease of 55,835 packages of butter, or stocks in Montreal of cheese 78,298 boxes less and of butter 6,877 packages more than a year ago.

As it takes about two and one-quarter times as much milk for the production of a pound of butter as it does to produce one pound of cheese, it follows naturally that the yield of milk this year is away below the yield of last year.

The situation on butter is this year a most peculiar one. Prices paid at country markets are a long way above the export basis, but the market continues firm. British markets are not ready to pay our ruling prices here, yet there is a good deal of butter being exported every week. Comparing prices of butter with cheese, the latter continues to be the better paying product of the milk and that farmers are aware of this is shown in the enormous decrease in the receipts of butter at Montreal. The increase in the receipts of cheese is so small, compared with the falling off in the receipts of butter, that it clearly demonstrates a considerable falling off in the production of milk.

We had a most interesting meeting of the Eastern Ontario dairy instructors and inspectors under the lead of G. G. Publow, in Montreal, a while ago. Mr. Publow is doing a lot of good work with his instructors and inspectors improving the quality of cheese in Eastern Ontario, and bringing his men to Montreal to visit the different warehouses here, hearing complaints and comparing cheese from good factories with those which are faulty, will do much to improve the quality generally. A point brought out at this last meeting was a most important one, viz., the point of cleanliness in factories and surroundings and also in taking in of good milk. If the milk delivered to the factories is tainted it should be turned away; no good cheese can be made from poor milk. Farmers are very apt to be careless on the subject of cleanliness and factories do not like to lose a "patron," but this is poor policy, as one lot of poor milk might spoil the entire product of the factory and cause a loss to the careful farmers.

OUR LONDON LETTER.

By Our Own Correspondent.

Although there has been a very fair business passing during the past week on the London butter market, the inquiry for Canadian has not been very great. "Choicest" parcels are making anything from 102s. to 106s. In other grades there is not much doing. In fact, for New Zealand, Australian and Danish the preference is for the best quality. The demand for New Zealand has been brisk, but stocks on hand are very small, the Ionic only bringing in 1,000 boxes during the past few days. Larger quantities of Siberian butter have come along, and are selling easily at 96s. and 98s. for best grades. Canadian creameries are being ordered more freely, but the price is lower here than in the Canadian market.

The demand for cheese is exceedingly good, and this in spite of the fact that prices are away up. Large quantities are going into consumption and each week shows greater deliveries from warehouse. Shipments from Canada, too, have been on a large scale and not less than 64,000 boxes have been credited to this market. The Devona has brought in 34,000 boxes, the Carthaginian 5,000 boxes, and the Hibernian 17,000 boxes. Consequently, stocks on hand have been increased to 105,000 boxes. In spite of this, however, sellers find the demand sufficiently good to warrant them taking a firm attitude, and are inclined to dictate to buyers. Choicest colored is making 58s., but there is talk of 60s. being asked in the near future. Cable quotations from the other side of the water are at 58s. and 59s. c.i.f. Of course buyers say they will not accept. Events will prove the truth of this. Some New Zealand cheese, about 1,000 crates, came to hand in the course of the week and quickly went into consumption. In all the chief centres the demand for Canadian cheese is good, and supplies are passing quickly into consumption.

There has been a steady demand for best weights in Canadian bacon, and prices have been again advanced 1s. and fair business has passed at the higher price. Heavy weights are not moving off very freely, and the demand is somewhat irregular for these grades. In Liverpool the inquiry for Canadian peafed is good and with short supplies there has been an advance of from 1s. to 3s., leanest making 64s., and Cumberland cuts 59s. to 63s.

At length the recommendations of the butter commission have been published. Amongst other regulations, it is suggested that inspectors of the Board of Agriculture, and the Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction for Ireland shall have power to enter any premises where they have grounds for believing that butter is made, reworked, blended, treated by any process, adulterated, or stored. It is furthermore suggested that all premises where butter is treated or where abnormal butter is produced shall be registered with the local authority as a butter factory; that no fat, other than butter fat, and no vegetable or other oils, nor any substance capable of being used in the adulteration of butter, be permitted to be brought into any registered factory; that the addition to butter at any stage of the process of manufacture of any fat not derived from milk be expressly and directly prohibited; that the penalty for the importation of adulterated butter be in proportion to the quantity of the consignment. There are numerous other laws suggested, those dealing with the retail sale being particularly stringent and all-embracing.

PROVISION AND DAIRY MARKETS.

MONTREAL.

PROVISIONS—Prices have changed somewhat since our last report. In pure lard it will be noticed that prices are a shade easier than they were. Breakfast bacon is also obtainable at prices slightly lower than those quoted last Friday. Packers report a good general demand for meats. Stocks are none too heavy, but they are able to fill orders received. Hams, bacon and lard are in good request. Export trade is very slow.

BUTTER—The butter market is steady to firm with prices about unchanged. Some inquiry there is from England so that holders are a little more firm in their ideas. At present prices not much Canadian butter is going into consumption, most of it being put into cold storage.

CHEESE—There has been a smart decline in the cheese market since last week. The cause of the fall in prices must be attributed to the fact that prices were too high, besides which arrivals in England have been large. As a consequence there developed an easier feeling locally. Probabilities point to still lower prices in the near future. Exports have been very heavy of late and are beginning to be felt on the other side.

EGGS—Dealers report excellent demand for the strictly fresh laid eggs, which are not arriving in any quantity. For these it is easy to obtain 20c. Poorer qualities are hard to sell. No. 1 eggs are quoted at 17c.

TORONTO.

PROVISIONS—There is little change in provision quotations this week, but the market is firm and the demand continues active. Breakfast bacon and shoulder hams have hardened to top quotations. Fresh meat prices are unchanged.

BUTTER—The market holds an even level but is firm, and the outlook is for a continuance of this condition. One large commission merchant complained that a good deal of poor cream separator solids were coming to the market. Prices are above the export level, and merchants are simply putting receipts away in hope of higher prices.

CHANGE OF CUSTOMERS.

Canadian Commercial Agent Edgar E. Tripp, of Trinidad, writing of that island's sugar crop for the fiscal year ending March 31, says: "A very noteworthy circumstance is that for the first time on record, so far as I am aware, the colony's former best customer, the United States, did not take one pound of Trinidad sugar. Practically all went to the United Kingdom and British North America, which received respectively 195,917 bags and 127,866 bags. In view of some recent statements as to there being no advantage in the Canadian over the United States market, this is surely significant."

SWISS CHEESE IN ONTARIO.

Schweitzer cheese, a Swiss variety, is now being made in Wellesley township, Waterloo County, Ont., where also the first limburger made in Canada was produced. Christopher Burgener, who had long experience in Switzerland, has started a factory and has 25,000 pounds now in process of curing. He will largely increase the amount as the season advances.

NOTES.

The Jarvis and Dunnville butter factories in the month of June paid to their patrons $10,500.

John W. Montgomery, of Guelph, Ont., formerly cheesemaker in the Goldstone factory, died last week. He was a Scotchman of Linlithgowshire and was 69 years of age.

The demonstrations in the dairy building of the Toronto Exhibition this year will be in charge of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. A course of lectures will be delivered.

FLOUR AND CEREAL FOODS

All Eyes are on the Western Crop—Hundred Million Bushels Looked for—Local Situations Mostly Quiet — Some Flour For Export.

Nothing unusual has disturbed the cereal markets this week. Everyone is waiting the outcome of the western crop. As usual, alarmist reports are not lacking, but confidence continues in a hundred million bushel crop of wheat. The Ontario wheat is coming to market and quotations on old wheat have declined. Flour also has weakened somewhat in Ontario and some export business is being done. The Americans are several weeks ahead of Canada in getting into the English market with the new crop, and Canadian exporters are just now breaking in. Some of them, to get a footing, will forego profit. Cereal products everywhere are very quiet, but that is seasonable.

OUTLOOK AT BRANDON.

A staff correspondent of the Winnipeg Telegram, writing of the crop from Brandon, Man., says:

Brandon is the centre of a section of some 307 miles long, north and south, by 20 miles wide east and west, that is famous for the quality and quantity of its hard wheat. With the exception of the Portage Plains, there is no part of the Canadian Northwest that has yielded so abundantly for so long a period. For more than twenty years the Brandon district has been noted for the volume of wheat exported. To-day the farms first placed under cultivation a quarter of a century ago are producing hard wheat in undiminished quantities. In all that time a crop failure was unknown. The average was higher some years than others but the sale has been a never failing source of wealth in the Brandon district. Present prospects promise in every way to maintain the record.

The tendency in the district is toward smaller farms and that extensive cultivation which can scarcely be secured where the operations are conducted on a huge scale. The increased value of wheat lands in the district renders this improved method of farming necessary as an economic force. Land has advanced over 100 per cent. here in six to ten years. Prof. Wolverton recently sold a section two miles from Brandon at $47.50 per acre. John Ross was the purchaser. Six years ago it cost Prof. Wolverton $20 per acre. David Black sold three-quarters of a section lying four miles south of the city at $47. It had doubled in value in six years.

CEREAL NOTES.

Goodrich & Coulter, millers, Colborne, Ont., have been burnt out.

The oatmill at Brigden, Ont., has been undergoing repairs for a fortnight.

MONTREAL MARKETS.

GRAIN—There has been little movement in grain during the week. Business has not been brisk in any quarter. Oats are easier. Manitoba holders are letting out their old stocks, which has the effect of lowering prices.

FLOUR—There has been no change in the flour situation since last report. Prices are steady. Locally, good business is being done. Export demand is very good in some quarters, while other sections report slow business. On the whole, however, export trade is very fair.

HAY—There has been little change of note in the hay situation locally. Farmers are still inclined to hold what stocks they possess. In the Old Country the market is weak. Heavy arrivals are responsible for this state of affairs. The situation will not improve until these surplus stocks are cleaned up. Quotations received from Liverpool indicate 53-55 shillings c.i.f. as ruling figures.

TORONTO.

GRAIN—The western crop nearly monopolizes interest. The consensus of opinion here is that it will run about 100 millions. Quotations are scarcely changed. The Ontario wheat crop is coming to market and dominating prices. For September and October delivery the quotation is 74c. and for spot old wheat 77c. is the price.

FLOUR—Quotations on Manitoba patents remain unchanged, but Ontario, keeping pace with wheat, has declined 5c. to 20c. There is very little local demand. As usual, buyers to avoid too early new crop flour, have bought ahead for a couple of months. Some export business is passing. A sale made yesterday in the presence of the writer was on a basis of $3 for new wheat flour, immediate shipment, in buyers bags at the mill. Another quotation was 21s. 6d to 22s., Glasgow or Liverpool, for 280 lbs.

QUAKER CANNED PEAS

We are now reaching the finish of this important line in canned goods. While the pack, through lessened acreage, is largely curtailed, never in the history of this firm has the quality equalled this year's pack. It is a magnificent pack in quality, entirely perfect and perfectly flawless. In past years we have packed a good pack of peas in quality, but there has always been some inferior goods crept into the pack that we did not think worthy of a Quaker label. This year, with a flawless pack, there has not been a single or individual can that is not worthy of a Quaker label. This is something unprecedented in our six years' experience in packing peas. In accomplishing this nature has assisted us largely, the weather being cool and moist throughout the whole packing time. Nature did her part and we are pleased to say that we also did ours, so that we are in a position to say that we are now able to offer the consumers the finest pack of Quaker Canned Peas that we have ever packed since in business. :: :: :: :: :: :: ::

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Raspberry Crop is Turning Out Well—Vegetables are Getting More Plentiful and Corn has been Reached—Lake Fish Dearer.

The fruit trade continues very active. Price variations this week have been only in keeping with the progress of the season. The demand for fruit everywhere is quite equal to the absorption of the supply and prices are maintained. The Ontario raspberry crop is turning out well. They have been very plentiful this week and the supply will continue two or three weeks more. The canners, however, are making great inroads upon the crop in an endeavor to make up for the strawberry shortage. California fruits are getting cheaper in Canadian markets. Canadian peaches, the early white variety, are beginning to come, but they are of little account. Watermelons are cheaper and importers are complaining of the time consumed in transit. Some cars are as long as eleven days on the road and when they arrive if the weather has been hot about two-thirds of the fruit is spoiled. Lemons are firm and a large importing agent states that any low prices will indicate inferior fruit. Lake fish are scarcer, as is usual at this season. The price is but slightly advanced.

B. C. SALMON CANNERIES O.K.

Because of an attempt to slander British Columbia canned salmon in Great Britain, the secretary of the Provincial Board of Health inspected the canneries in operation and says that of twenty-five canneries on the river every one is strictly compling with the regulations of the board of health. There is no offal or dead fish in the buildings and the rule of cleanliness is rigidly enforced.

The Provincial Department of Agriculture has received information from the Canadian agent at Manchester that as a result of the tinned meat exposures the use of that class of food has dropped off 40 per cent. among British workmen. Therefore the local Government is likely to take steps to encourage the use of salmon.

COST OF CANNING SALMON.

The Fraser River sockeye season opened July 10 and will continue until Aug. 25.

"Unless the salmon pack is a small one," said a canner the other day, "the canners do not expect to make much money this season on account of the increased running expenses. The increased price of labor this year will make a difference of 10 cents per case more than last year. Block tin has increased 50 per cent. and solder 75 per cent. As there are about a dozen sockeyes to each case, the increased cost for the fish alone at $1.20 to $1.80 per case."

NEW CLAM FISHERY.

In Prince County, P.E.I., a new fishing industry has grown up within two years. The catch is quahaug, a hard shell clam, and from two to three hundred men are now engaged at it. The quahaug is fished with a drag from a boat and a fisherman will fish from three to seven bushels per day. The price paid on the shore is $1.40 per bushel. From two to three hundred bags of these clams are shipped from Summerside daily to the New York and Boston markets. Thousands of dollars have been paid to the fishermen of Prince County this season for the shell fish. Recently, the fish wardens have stopped the fishing of the quahaug at some places as it is claimed that the oyster beds were being damaged.

FRUIT SALES IN MONTREAL.

On Monday several cars of fruit were sold at the rooms of the Montreal Fruit Auction Company on Mountain street. A car of peaches brought from $1 to $1.40 for Hales early, and from $1.50 to $1.75 for Crawfords. A car of plums was sold at prices ranging from $1.60 to $1.85. Pears sold from $3.60 to $3.65.

FRUIT FROM TRINIDAD.

The British West India Fruit Co. established in Trinidad two years ago, and by their encouragement fruit-growing on the island promises to become a flourishing industry. The first year they did a business of £803 and in 1905-6, £4,259. Areas of some extent are now being planted out in various districts. The principal fruits are oranges and bananas, but many other varieties go forward in smaller quantities.

SALMON PACKING IN GOOD HANDS

The contention of some people that the salmon packing business is a precarious and uncertain one which is seldom profitable is disproved by the experience of the British Columbia Packers' Association, which has demonstrated that the cannery business can be made profitable on a large scale under the proper sort of management.

The British Columbia Packers' Association is a consolidation of thirty-one canneries on the Fraser River and fourteen along the north coast of British Columbia, representing about 65 per cent. of the total salmon pack of British Columbia. This association has had a number of successful and profitable years, and is now on a dividend-paying basis, having paid off the entire amount of its debt to the Bank of Montreal. The company's shares are going up and its stock is looked upon as a good investment.

The association has had as hard a row to hoe as any of the other salmon associations on the coast, and its success can be attributed to the judicious management which has placed it in its present strong financial condition. The credit is largely due to Mr. W. H. Barker, the manager of the association, under whose able guidance the concern has been cleared of its large indebtedness and made one of the most substantial institutions on the Pacific coast. — Pacific Fisherman.

PUSHCARTS BANNED.

In Toronto the sale of fruit and ice cream has been prohibited in the busy portion of the down-town section.

PICKEREL HATCHERY.

The Dominion Department of Marine and Fisheries has decided, it is reported, to establish a pickerel hatchery at Sarnia or Point Edward, Ont.

NOTES.

A company engaged in whale fishing in the St. Lawrence is taking on an average a whale a day.

The annual exhibition of the Granby, Que., Fruit-Growers' Association will occur on the 13th and 14th of September.

The sardine herring has not appeared on the Atlantic coast yet this year, and the circumstance is causing some anxiety to fishermen. His absence is alleged to be due to the presence of large numbers of dog fish and pollock in-shore.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the British Columbia Packing Co. was held in the offices of the company in Vancouver last week. The old board of directors was nominated for re-election at the meeting to be held in New Jersey on August 6. A handsome profit was shown on last year's workings.

MONTREAL MARKETS.

GREEN FRUITS—Good demand for all lines of fruits prevails. Business is brisk, the warm weather being the cause of increased trade. Valencia oranges have been advanced twenty-five cents by the trade. Pineapples are also up. The rise in lemons mentioned as probable in The Grocer last week has taken place and this fruit is now selling at $5. Raspberries are coming in more freely and prices are lower, ten cents now being quoted. Canadian plums are on sale, the first lot arriving last Monday. From 50c. to 75c. per basket is obtainable.

VEGETABLES — The warm weather has been responsible for a good healthy trade in vegetables. Larger arrivals in most lines have caused prices to fall in many cases. Parsley has declined considerably, while tomatoes are now selling from $1.25 to $1.50. The demand is very good. Arrivals are just about large enough to supply the demand. There is a wide range of prices offered in cabbage quotations. Demand for this line is good at figures running from 35c. to 75c. per dozen. Cucumbers are selling from 20c. to 25c. a dozen. It is not likely that prices will go much lower than this for some time. New potatoes

FISH—Trade in fish has been fair during the week. The hot weather has had the effect of keeping business down considerably. This is usual at this time of year, however. For staple lines very good orders are being received. Requirements in fish lines at present are mostly for immediate consumption. Halibut is not so plentiful, and it is said will be scarce. The price has been advanced to 11c. Fresh haddock and cod are held in good supply. Lake fish are becoming scarce and prices are slowly going up in consequence. The season for Gaspe salmon is nearing the end. Some lots are still arriving, but they are not large. New stock prepared fish is now arriving freely. Salted, pickled and dried fish is also being received by dealers.

GREEN FRUITS—Heavy receipts of raspberries will be available this week and next. The crop is said to be good for three weeks more. In the district adjacent to Toronto they are just coming in. The fruit trade continues very large in volume. Price fluctuations for the week are merely seasonable. Cherries and currants are slightly higher. Imported fruits, pears, peaches, melons, are a little lower.

BISCUITS AND CONFECTIONERY

Candies and the Outing Season — Need for Display—The Cocoa Bean and How it Grows and is Prepared for Commerce.

When women take an outing, if its only for an hour or two, they want some confectionery. That's why the demand for candies continues good through the warm months, that and the fact that the children are on the rampage.

The more expensive kinds, if they are to be a success in a grocery, must have careful handling and good display. A handsome show case standing by itself gives character to the candy department and cannot but attract attention.

MANUFACTURE OF COCOA.

Facts About the Production and Handling of the Popular Bean.

In Ecuador, the country from which the largest supply of crude cocoa is drawn, the trees grow to a height of from 20 to 30 feet and the base of the trunk is from 8 to 10 inches in thickness. They are raised from fresh seeds, which are planted in rows about five yards apart. They begin to bear in the sixth or seventh year and in the tenth year reach full maturity. The blossom is very small, pinkish white, and waxlike in appearance. It grows directly out of the main trunk and branches. As it fructifies, the petals fall off and from the stamens, in the course of from fifty to seventy days, an oblong pod is developed. This pod is of golden color, and contains some twenty to thirty-five grains of cacao, enveloped in a grummy liquid, which coagulates on exposure to air. The outer rind of this pod is dark or golden yellow in color and very hard, a sharp instrument being necessary to cut it open. Its size varies, according to the kind of cacao, from 8 to 15 inches long by from 2 to 6 inches thick. The outer rind is marked by longitudinal furrows, more or less pronounced, which indicate the interior arrangement of the seeds.

The average yield of the trees varies in the different countries in which they grow. In Ecuador the average is said to be from one to two pounds of dry cocoa to a tree. In Surinam the average is about two and one-third pounds. The fully ripened pods are detached from the tree with a long pole armed with two prongs, or a knife at its extremity. The pods are left in a heap on the ground for about twenty-four hours; they are then cut open and the seeds are taken out and carried in baskets to the place where they undergo the operation of sweating or curing. There the acid juice which accompanies the seeds is first drained off, after which they are placed in a sweating box, in which they are enclosed and allowed to ferment for some time, great care being taken to keep the temperature from rising too high. The fermenting process is, in some cases effected by throwing the seeds into holes or trenches in the ground, and covering them with earth or clay. The seeds in this process, which is called "claying," are occasionally stirred to keep the fermentation from proceeding too violently.

The cocoa is brought into the market in its crude state as almond-shaped seeds, which differ in color and somewhat in texture. They are first cleaned and then roasted, great care being taken to secure a uniform effect. By the roasting the shell becomes more readily detachable, and its complete removal is the next step. The crushing of the seeds into small fragments is easily accomplished, and this is followed by a thorough winnowing, by which the lighter shells are carried away by themselves, leaving the clean fragments of the roasted seeds ready for further manipulation.

The result of many analyses of the roasted seeds shows the following averages: Moisture, 6.51; fat, 49.24; theobromine, .43; starch, 10.42; cellulose, 3.1; other carbohydrates, glucosides, etc., 7.78; protein matters, 18.33; ash, 3.92.

The clean shells are used for the preparation of a wholesome and very low-priced drink. The cracked cocoa or coarsely ground product of the roasted seeds is called "cocoa nibs" or cracked cocoa; the finely pulverized product of the roasted seeds from which a portion of the fat has been removed in order to make it more digestible and prevent it from caking, is called "breakfast cocoa" or "powdered cocoa." In the preparation of chocolate the fragments are ground by a complicated mechanism until they attain the highest degree of fineness and constitute a perfectly homogeneous mass or paste without removing any of the fat. The pure product of seeds prepared in this way, to which nothing is added and from which nothing is taken away, is known as plain chocolate or bitter chocolate. Sweet chocolate is made by working into the mass a certain percentage of sugar. For flavoring, vanilla is generally used.

The fat or "cocoa butter," so called, constituting an average of about 50 per cent. of the seeds, is, when pure and freshly extracted, of a pale yellow color. Its consistency is about that of tallow. It is insoluble in water, completely soluble in sulphuric ether and the essential oil of turpentine. It is used very extensively in the manufacture of confections, and by pharmacists as the basis of pomades and ointments. Considered as a food and as a medicinal substance, it possesses the same fundamental property as other fat.

Trinidad's export of cocoa for the fiscal year ending March 31, was a record, writes Canadian Commercial Agent Tripp. The total was 285,725 bags, value £1,196,450, being composed of 248,460 bags of produce of the colony, and 37,265 bags other than produce of the colony. This industry is the more important and valuable from the fact that the great majority of the owners of cocoa estates are resident proprietors, and the profits made are for the most part spent or invested in the island. For many years France has been the largest consumer, but the United States has now taken the lead with 137,826 bags. France is next with 105,000 bags, and Great Britain with 33,223. Canada figures for 1,200 bags only, against 3,722 in 1904-5.

American Chicle Co's Profits $1,404,000 —An Increase of $200,000.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the American Chicle Co., the profits for the year were quoted to be $1,404,000, an increase of $200,000 over last year. After paying dividends of 6 per cent. on the preferred, amounting to $180,000, and 13 per cent. amounting to $780,000 on the common stock, the surplus for the year was $440,000.

The profits of $1,404,000 were derived after taking care of the losses incurred by the company by the San Francisco fire. During the year the company built a plant in Toronto, Canada, and is now constructing a factory in Portland, Ore., to take the place of the one destroyed in San Francisco. The officers report a very successful business in London during the past year. The company has also acquired 1,000,000 acres more of land in Mexico, making the total acreage controlled in that country 2,600,000, from which to extract its raw material. The company is also the largest colonizer in the Yucatan and Campeche districts, no less than the heads of 1,000 families being employed extracting raw material in those districts. Every factory owned by the company worked 300 days during the past year. The company now owns seven factories, one each in Newark, Cleveland, New Orleans, Louisville, Chicago, Toronto and London and one now in course of construction at Portland, Ore. The total salaries paid to officers for the year amounted to $42,000.

TOBACCO AND CIGARS

Modern Show Case the Right Equipment for a Grocer's Tobacco Stock—Tobacco Growing in Canada — Plants of the Same Order.

Show cases are entering much more than they used to into the equipment of the modern grocery store. Show cases are now a work of art. The old-fashioned affair, plain frame, glass top and front, that occupied considerable space on the grocery counter years ago, has passed and its successor is a plate glass structure standing on its own feet, and is an adornment. This is the kind of case, or silent salesman, very well adapted to the display of a grocers' tobacco stock. Tobacco and cigars to be a success should be carefully kept and advantageously displayed. Both these requirements are met by a modern show case. All outdoors is decorated with signs telling a smoking public that certain brands of cigars are cleanly made in hygenic surroundings. To what purpose is it all if the retailer is mussy and untidy while the product is in his keeping. The public appreciates neatness. Look over your tobacco department and see how you can improve it. If it can't be improved send us a picture of it for reproduction on this page as a model.

TOBACCO GROWING IN CANADA.

Tobacco-growing in Canada is no innovation of recent years. Even three-quarters of a century back the early settlers grew sufficient for domestic use along the border. For nearly fifteen years in this vicinity the weed has been cultivated for shipment to Eastern Canadian points, while for over half a dozen years the raw product has been manufactured near where it is grown. According to men in Essex County in touch with tobacco growing, the future along this line looks extremely bright. One of them pointed out to-day that with the harvest at the end of August conditions were every bit as good as growers in the Southern States would care for. Taken all in all, it seems that there will be no little increase in the production of the fragrant leaf within the next few years. At present, indications point that way. The higher land along Lake Erie, being more immune from frost, seem the most favorable spots for tobacco, though good crops are frequently produced even in the lower places. So far the bulk of the tobacco has been of the "White Burley" brand, a coarser type, but extensive experiments that bid fair to be successful are being carried on for the propagation of the finer brands used in cigars and mild pipe-smoking. The greatest difficulty at present is experienced in inducing the growers to "barn-cure" the weed properly. In some quarters it is claimed that the variation in prices is the cause of this carelessness on the part of the growers in "barn-curing." Prices range from five cents to fourteen cents a pound and so far the same price has been paid for well and poorly cured crops, the price fluctuating at different times. In other words it is alleged that the buying is not regulated. However, be that as it may, there is a brighter side. There is now more and more of a disposition among the growers to cure the product in the best manner possible, so that time may yet prove the remedy. Tobacco fields generally yield from $50 upwards an acre, sometimes reaching in Essex $150 an acre.—Crop Correspondence, Toronto Globe.

TOBACCO'S RELATIONS.

Tobacco belongs to the nightshade (Solanaceae) family which embraces in its genera a number of well-known plants and vegetables. Among them might be mentioned red pepper, jimson weed, petunia, Irish potatoes, tomato, egg-plant and tobacco. The genus nicotina embraces 50 or more species of which tabacum supplies nearly all the tobacco of commerce.

TOBACCO WORKER'S FUNDS.

According to the last report issued by George W. Perkins, president of the Cigar Makers' International Union, the organization has paid in benefits during the past twenty-six years the sum of $6,845,540.66. The report shows that since the adoption of the benevolent and protective features there has been paid the following benefits: Loans to traveling members, $991,777.98; strike bene-266.43; death benefits, $1,514,525.99; out of work benefits, $1,045,866.11. These figures as a whole show and prove the oft-repeated claim that the better financed a labor organization is the less trouble and the fewer strikes they have.

THE WEST GROWING.

A Winnipeg cigar factory has received an order for half a million cigars from a western wholesale firm. This is the largest order yet placed in the western capital.

cigars, from the five-cent cigar upward, are made by hand in various factories of the American Cigar Company, to the number of twenty-five or more, which are scattered among the various cities of the United States. Quite a few cigars below five cents in value, and all little cigars, cheroots, and most of the stogies manufactured by this company are machine-made.

The Leaf Houses.—As soon as the tobacco crop has been gathered and stored in the barns, which is done in the Fall of the year just before the coming of the frost, the company's agents select from their own farms, or purchase from the tobacco farmers, leaf tobacco suitable for various brands of cigars that are to be made. The tobacco for small cigars, cheroots, and all the cheaper brands is grown in the States of Wisconsin, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Florida. That for the more expensive brands is grown, as we have already noted, in Cuba, and the wrappers in Sumatra. The leaf tobacco as thus selected and purchased is delivered to the various leaf houses of the company. Here it is classified according to the brand for which it is to be used; is packed in cases, and shipped to large storage houses, where it is kept for twenty-four months and subjected to natural fermentation or sweating, the object of which is to sweeten and mellow the leaf, which otherwise would be strong and rank, and also to give it a uniform color.

At the time of purchase, the tobacco is classified according as it is to be used for wrappers, binders, or fillers. Contrary to the popular belief, the wrapper has practically nothing whatever to do with the quality of the cigar, which is determined almost entirely by the filler. As a matter of fact, the filler constitutes about 94 per cent. of the weight of the cigar, and it is questionable whether the average wrapper constitutes more than 2 per cent. of its weight. Consequently, the color of the wrapper can have but little effect upon the strength of the cigar, for the mildest cigar may be covered by a dark wrapper, and vice versa.

The Stemmeries.—In the ordinary process of cigar manufacture, it is customary for the buyers to ship the leaf tobacco to the various factories, where two or three grades will be placed on the cigarmaker's bench; and in making up the filler he will select a certain number of leaves from each grade, and roll them together in the cigar, thus making what is called a blended cigar. Some companies, however, consider that it is only possible to get a perfect blending of several different grades of tobacco if, after they have been mixed together, they are subjected to a second and artificial sweating or fermentation, and it is largely due to the thoroughness with which this process is carried out in their stemmeries that they attribute the excellence of their output.

Casing Room.—The tobacco is shipped from the leaf houses to the stemmeries in large cases, which are received in the casing room, opened, and inspected by the superintendent. The tobacco as it arrives is very dry and crisp, and if handled in this form is liable to break up and make a large amount of scrap. It is, therefore, opened out, bundle by bundle, and placed on large trucks where it is sprayed with water to make it pliable for handling. As the tobacco comes from the leaf houses, it will be of various qualities, and in loading it upon the trucks, the various qualities are taken, say from as many as eight different cases, so that each truck-load represents a blend of many varying grades. After being sprinkled on the trucks, it is taken to the sweat room, where it is kept at a temperature of 94 degrees and in a humidity of 95 per cent. for a period of from two to four weeks. The trucks are then brought back to the casing department, where they are drawn up, six at a time, in front of what are known as the picking tables. Here one man distributes the leaves from the trucks to the tables, where women untie the bundles, spread them out before them, pick out the inferior tobacco, which is used for a cheaper grade of cigars, and throw the good tobacco onto an endless traveling belt or convevor.

Casing Machine.—The selected tobacco thrown on the belt is deposited in a copper-lined rotating cylinder, where it is rolled over and over and sprayed with fine jets of water, to give it the proper amount of moisture for fermentation. It is then pitchforked into a truck, where it is packed down tightly, and taken to the sweat room, where it undergoes fermentation until it has thrown off all the sap and rankness, and has reached the best smoking condition. It remains here for a period of from three to four weeks. When this process is complete the leaf tobacco, still on the truck, is brought up to the third floor again and undergoes another process of blending, sometimes as many as five different grades being mixed together. This blending takes place in a revolving screen cylinder where, in addition to the blending, sand, soil, and any other substance from the farm are removed, and the tobacco is thoroughly cleaned. It is then loaded onto the trucks again, where it stays packed for two or three days, the purpose being to secure a thorough exchange of aroma between the different grades of lead, and to draw the leaves to a uniform condition for stemming.

It should be understood that the process of artificial fermentation has a double result, each of which is vitally important to the quality of the tobacco. In the first place, it serves to sweat out the rankness, removing the sap and gummy substances; and secondly is serves to secure a thorough exchange of flavor of aroma from leaf to leaf, various leaves giving and taking from one another, and securing, so the experts claim, a blend greatly superior to that which can be obtained when a cigar is made up of leaves that come direct from the leaf houses and have not been subjected to artificial fermentation.

Stemming Department.—The blended tobacco leaves are now wheeled on trucks to the stemming department, where the stems are removed. In stemming by hand the stem is torn from the leaf by the operator, who commences stripping from the tip, and by a deft movement strips it clear, leaving the leaf in two parts. The strips are neatly arranged, one above the other, in two piles, or "books," of fifty leaves each. The books of strips are taken from the stripping benches and placed on wire trays, 14 inches wide by 3 feet long. There are eight piles to the tray. The trays are loaded into the shelves of large trucks, ninety-six trays to the truck, and brought down to the drying department.

Drying Department.—In the drying department the strips are allowed to dry out naturally for a period of twenty-four hours. They are then placed in the dry room, where a current of warm air, at a temperature of 95 deg. to 100 deg. Fah., is driven through them until it has taken off all the surplus moisture, the process of drying occupying from four to five hours, according to the grade of tobacco. The trucks are then drawn out, and the tobacco allowed to cool out for twenty-four hours.

FREIGHTS AND CHARTERS

There has been practically no change in the volume of business being transacted in shipping circles since last report. Sailings have been numerous, as usual, while shipping has been good. Grain shipments have been very large by houses in some quarters, although other firms are not sending out very heavy cargoes. Hay has not been moving out very well. In only a few cases has there been any good business. The English market is heavily stocked, besides which the English hay, which has been on the market some little time now, takes up the demand for Canadian products. For the time being dealers do not expect any improvement in conditions.

A fair amount of business is being transacted in butter. Prices remain very high for good trade. In England, very often, buying seems to be a case of necessity. Buyers recognize the fact that prices are high but are compelled to purchase, through having no stocks.

In some quarters there is reported a better feeling in the export meat business. Generally speaking, however, trade moves along unchanged. Shipments to date have been below those for the same period last year, although not so greatly as one would imagine. Considerable activity is reported in flour. Canadian millers have been shipping freely in most quarters, while American flour has been shipped through Montreal in large quantities.

Cheese has been on the quiet side, which is not surprising when existing market conditions are considered.

The Victorian, of the Allan line, and the Marina, R. Reford & Co., both sailed with heavy general cargoes on July 19. The Victorian is destined for Liverpool, and the Marina for Glasgow.

Inland navigation transportation facilities have been further improved by the inauguration of a passenger and freight line between Montreal, Toronto and Hamilton. The Hamilton & Montreal Navigation Co. are responsible for the new line. The steamer Dunburn, which was the first boat to make the trip, arrived in Montreal July 17, and was inspected by a number of board of trade members and other business men interested in the new project. The company is completing arrangements for the building of two steel vessels for use along this route. It is expected that they will be ready for use next Spring.

OTTAWA GROCERS' PICNIC AUG. 6.

Arrangements are now well completed for the Ottawa Retail Grocers' picnic. This year it will take the form of an excursion to Arnprior, the date fixed being August 6, Civic Holiday. The spot chosen for the holding of the fourth annual picnic is an admirable one, and no doubt the beauty of this little town will in itself draw a goodly sized crowd. The grocers intend to maintain the high standard of sports which have characterized former picnics, while other measures for the comfort and amusement of excursionists are not being neglected. A good time is assured.

Thomas Tuck, tobacconist, Killarney, Man., has been succeeded by Duncan & Boyd.

Make it YOUR Leader

There are some products that require constant pushing to make them go, but there are others that move so fast they almost pull the dealer after them. Every wide-awake grocer likes to handle goods of this last-named class because they mean sure profits with little or no effort. A leader in this class is

Quaker Rice
(Puffed)

It very nearly sells itself. All that we have said about Quaker Rice as a trade winner, all that we have predicted about its great and continued popularity, is more than confirmed by our sales record. Quaker Rice is a substantial food which can be easily made into many delightful confections. Once the people taste it they can't resist eating it. This is the only product of its kind ; therefore, will soon be the fastest selling of all cereal foods.

From the "Dunnville Chronicle," July 13th, 1906.

THE F. R. LALOR CANNING FACTORY

"Cleanliness" is the Motto of the Management in the Preparation of all Food Stuffs.

With the object in view of seeing with our own eyes under what conditions of cleanliness work is carried on in the F. R. Lalor canning factory here, the Chronicle on Wednesday morning sent a reporter on a trip of inspection. The factory was canning peas at the time, and the manager, Mr. B. L. Edgecombe, being very busy, gave our reporter the right of way and invited the closest scrutiny.

The first thing that struck our eye was a notice at the entrance ' "VISITORS ALWAYS WELCOME," which was the first evidence that the management had nothing to conceal. As we passed through the hallway, among the many notices and rule cards we noticed the following :

"WE ARE CANNING FOOD HERE. ALL EMPLOYES MUST LOOK TIDY AND BE CLEAN."

"WASH YOUR HANDS BEFORE GOING TO WORK," ETC.

THESE RULES ARE STRICTLY ENFORCED, SHOWING THAT THE MANAGEMENT REALIZE HOW IMPORTANT AND SERIOUS A MATTER IT IS TO HAVE ABSOLUTE CLEANLINESS AMONG THE EMPLOYES AND THROUGHOUT THE FACTORY.

THE WALLS ARE WHITEWASHED, AND THE FLOORS KEPT THOROUGHLY CLEANSED. A dirty or sloppy floor could not be found, and WE VENTURE THE STATEMENT THAT THE AVERAGE HOME DOES NOT RECEIVE THE RIGID ATTENTION TOWARDS KEEPING THINGS CLEAN THAT IS USED HERE. The employes have proper conveniences for washing their hands, and a plentiful supply of towels are always on hand.

The canning of peas is a very interesting process. The peas are brought in by the farmers on the vines and delivered into large sheds, where they are threshed by ingeniously devised machinery, the peas coming from the threshing machines without showing the slightest trace of being broken or at all bruised. The shelled peas then pass along to the cleaner, which removes all small particles of vines and other refuse. They then drop to the separator, where they are graded into their various sizes. THEY ARE THEN THOROUGHLY WASHED and picked over by hand, then put into perforated pails and cooled, after which they are washed again with filtered fresh water. They are then put into the can filling machines, where the cans are automatically filled and sealed, the cans not being touched again by hand until they arrive in the storehouse, where they are cased up and labelled ready for shipment.

Mr. Edgecombe informed us that the cans were passing through the machines at the rate of 72 cans a minute. It is well worth any one's while to pay a visit to this hive of industry, and have the manager show them through the different processes.

IF ALL THE CANNING FACTORIES IN CANADA ARE UNDER THE SAME STRICT MANAGEMENT WITH A VIEW TO PRODUCING QUALITY UNDER THE SAME CLEAN AND SANITARY CONDITIONS THAT OBTAIN IN EVERY WELL-APPOINTED HOME, AS IS THE RULE IN DUNNVILLE'S FACTORY, IT IS NO WONDER THE CANADIAN CANNED GOODS TRADE HAS ALWAYS LED THE WORLD, AND HER SUPREMACY WILL NEVER WANE.

The remarks as above are equally applicable to each of our THIRTY FACTORIES. In ordering Canned Goods it will pay you to stick to brands as follows, viz.: "Canada First," "Auto," "Little Chief," "Log Cabin," "Horseshoe," "Kent," "Lynnvalley," "Maple Leaf," "Lion," "Grand River," "White Rose," etc.

"Quality and Cleanliness," our Motto.

Yours respectfully,

CANADA'S PRIDE

SEASON 1906

We have now fully equipped our factory with all latest machinery, making it modern and up-to-date and will pack a full line of FRUITS and VEGETABLES. We are situated in one of the best districts for producing a fine flavor, which was fully demonstrated by our pack of last year.

We would specially call your attention to our system of naming the different grades of peas, as on the label of each can is shown the exact size of the contents; the different grades being known as Nos. 1, 2, 3, which assures the consumers of getting exactly, what they are buying, instead of the great variety of names now employed, which no one understands. We respectfully ask that you give our goods a trial and allow the consumer to be the judge, ASSURING you we will pack, only, a HIGH-GRADE QUALITY, which will create a demand. Remember the brand "Canada's Pride," the best yet.

TO THE GROCERY TRADE OF CANADA

The "SALADA" corporation have made an immense success of their enterprise, unhampered by trade traditions, and with a scanty reverence for "ruts," but with a deep-rooted conviction in the doctrine of "Quality," first, last and all the time, as the main factor for success.

The Annual Sale is now nearing the 15,000,000 packets per annum mark.

We leave it to you as to whether we were right in our conclusions.

WINNIPEG and CALGARY

TO MANUFACTURERS AND SHIPPERS

DEAR SIRS,—

We wish to impress upon you the fact that Winnipeg and Calgary are the largest commercial centres in The Great West. We are in daily touch with all the wholesale grocers at the following points: Winnipeg (9), Kenora (3), Brandon (1), Lethbridge (1), Calgary (5), and Edmonton (2). We have large and commodious premises at Winnipeg and Calgary and are doing one of the largest brokerage businesses in this territory. We sell exclusively on commission and handle all lines sold by the wholesale grocers from A to Z.

If you are not represented in this territory we will be pleased to have you communicate with us; we secure business for a large number of the leading Canadian and United States houses and we can do the same for you.

If you wish to have your goods pushed among the wholesale grocery trade, write us, forwarding samples and prices.

We store in Winnipeg and Calgary all classes of goods and distribute cars at a moderate rate.

Firms in Great Britain or Europe when in the market for Rolled Oats, Oatmeal or Mill Feed, write us for c.i.f. prices any port.

Just a Few Words to the Trade about Canned Goods

We wish to introduce our lines to the public in a way that will thoroughly demonstrate their merits.

THAT WAY IS QUALITY

You may get an exceptionally handsome label enclosing a poor quality of goods; and

You may get a fair class of goods enclosed in a cheap label; but when you get RIVERDALE BRAND CANNED GOODS you get QUALITY that is not excelled and a NEAT AND ATTRACTIVE LABEL.

A trial order will convince you.

"THE FAIRBANK PLAN"

LOOK INTO IT

and see just what "The Fairbank Plan" is. While we spend hundreds of thousands of dollars every year advertising the six great Fairbank specialties:

Gold Dust Washing Powder
Fairy Soap, Copco Soap
Fairbank's Glycerine-Tar Soap
Fairbank's Scouring Soap

and educating the public regarding them; and while we intend to continue doing this, we realize fully that advertising alone has not accomplished the splendid results we have enjoyed in the sale of these goods, but that "the man behind the counter" has been an important factor in extending and increasing our trade. It was the realization of this fact that gave birth to "The Fairbank Plan," as a method of rewarding the retail clerks for their earnest co-operation in selling these goods and, consequently, a portion of our immense advertising appropriation is now set aside for the recognition of the dealer and his clerks.

"The Fairbank Plan" is an absolutely fair method of rewarding the clerk in direct proportion to the interest displayed in pushing the six specialties, as each package of these goods is couponed in such a manner that the coupon can be easily removed before the goods pass into the hands of the consumer. For these coupons we offer many valuable articles.

If you will send for an illustrated premium list of "The Fairbank Plan" it will convince you that this is no cheap trading-stamp scheme.

WESTERN RETAILERS MEET

Semi-Annual Convention in Winnipeg—Fair Week and Attendance Not Large—Dominion Affiliation Unsatisfactory—Resolutions on Trade Lines—Line Between Wholesalers and Retailers to be Better Defined.

On the morning of July 26 President J. F. Hunter called to order the semi-annual meeting of the Retail Merchants' Association of Western Canada. The attendance was not large and it was plainly seen that those members are right who for some time have been urging that Fair week is an inconvenient time to hold a convention. In all probability the small attendance last week will result not only in a change of date for future mid-summer meetings, but also in the introduction of some scheme of representation whereby at future gatherings each section will have one or two elected delegates. At present all members are entitled to attend the meetings but only a small proportion ever take the trouble to do so. According to the plan proposed at last meeting, local sections will be asked to elect delegates to the annual and semi-annual general meetings and it will be the duty of these delegates to attend.

Substantial Progress.

But if the attendance was not large the report of the secretary, as published in last issue, showed very substantial progress in many important respects. In the arduous task of building up the association so that it will have the power and influence required to make it an effective agency to fight the retailer's battles with other branches of the trade and to promote the interests of the dealers generally, the first and most important requirement is a strong membership. The secretary's report showed a large increase in the net membership and the strength of the association may be estimated by an examination of the membership list printed in this issue. The large number of fees unpaid is discouraging, but there can be no doubt that the neglect is due in nearly all cases to mere carelessness.

W. G. McLAREN, Souris.
President Western Board.

As the attendance at the meeting was not large it was not thought advisable to attempt any business of much importance. Accordingly, the revision of the constitution was left over for the annual meeting in February next, and the relations of the association with the Dominion Retail Association were given only partial consideration.

The Membership List.

The membership list printed below shows the strength of the association according to provinces.

Convention Opens.

The convention opened at 10 a.m. Thursday, with President J. F. Hunter in the chair.

When the minutes of the February meeting had been read and adopted, President Hunter presented the report of the executive committee. He said that owing to the affiliation last February with the Dominion Association much of the work mapped out at that meeting was subject to the assent and approval of the Dominion board. For instance, all work relating to the contract price plan, mutual fire insurance, etc., was to be done in conjunction with the Dominion board. He (Mr. Hunter) and the secretary had written the secretary of the Dominion board repeatedly on important matters, but it was not until the evening before that they had received any reply whatever. Under these circumstances, the executive had found it impossible to carry out the plans they had made.

To Stop Price Cutting.

Shortly after the February meeting the president and secretary had approached the wholesale grocers to learn their sentiments on an important matter. They had suggested to the wholesalers that they should put an end to retail price cutting by making a certain percentage of retail profit a condition of all sales to retailers. Nothing came of this as it was about this time that the Wampole vs. Karn case came up, casting doubts on the legality of the contract plan. Nothing further could be done in this matter until amendments were secured to the criminal code. Accordingly, the efforts of the association had been directed chiefly to the task of getting members in line in the local country sections.

Collection of Fees.

The secretary then read his report as printed in last issue.

W. G. McLaren (president of the western board) was sorry to note the large amount of fees in arrears. The association could scarcely expect to collect all, for, like merchants doing a credit business, they must count on a certain proportion of bad debts. He would not favor making drafts on individual members, but would suggest that the secretary write one member in each section and seek his aid in the collection of fees.

Resolutions Committee.

After some general discussion the reports of the executive and secretary were adopted and a resolutions committee was appointed, composed of the following members: W. G. McLaren, J. B. Preston and W. A. Coulson. This committee met and reported in a few minutes. While they were out, President Hunter read the correspondence received, among which was a long letter from E. M. Trowern, in the course of which he paid his respects to The Canadian Grocer.

The convention then proceeded to the consideration of the resolutions submitted by the committee.

Distribution of Merchandise.

F. J. Messner, Holmfield, and N. J. Ryan, Ninga, championed a resolution referring to the division of the selling field between jobbers and retailers. The resolution was as follows:

"That it is the opinion of this association that the time has arrived when the field of distribution of the two classes, the wholesalers and retailers, must be defined and each take their own and exclusive place in the distribution of merchandise."

The resolution carried.

Selling to Large Consumers.

The same members were also responsible for resolution No. 2, which was upon the same lines and was carried unanimously. It was as follows:

"That in the opinion of this association it is injurious to the retail trade to have wholesale dealers or semi-jobbers sell to hotels, boarding houses, public institutions, private parties, etc., and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild to acquaint them with the fact."

One Price System.

President Hunter and W. Ruddell championed the one-price system in a resolution urging retailers to have one price for their goods and stick to it. Nothing cheapens a dealer so much as to allow himself to be beaten down in his prices. No business could be conducted successfully if customers were to be allowed to fix the prices. W. G. McLaren added that the same amount of business can be done in a one-price store in half the time that it requires in a store where customers are allowed to haggle over prices.

Retail Selling Agency.

W. S. Kenner and H. O. May championed a couple of resolutions advocating the maintenance by the association of buying and selling agencies. The selling agency would dispose of the produce of the members to the best advantage while the buying agency could buy goods in large quantities at low prices.

The selling agency plan was approved and referred to the executive for action but the meeting thought the buying agency proposal premature and voted it down.

Premiums Condemned.

F. J. Messner and A. McKay introduced a strong resolution condemning premium goods and urging the members to discourage as far as possible, the sale of premium and coupon goods. A copy of the resolution is to be sent to the manufacturers of premium goods sold in grocery stores.

Criminal Code Amendments.

J. S. Ruddell and J. B. Preston brought to the attention of the meeting the present unsatisfactory state of the criminal code. It was unfair that wholesalers and retailers are prevented from making trade agreements while the labor unions are allowed to organize. The resolution pledged the association to work with all other associations in an effort to have the law amended.

Delegates to Conventions.

J. B. Preston and W. G. McLaren introduced a resolution advocating a plan to secure larger attendance at future conventions. The resolution was as follows:

"That in the opinion of this convention the interests of the association would be better looked after and business more thoroughly and expeditiously carried on if each town or village was represented at convention by duly appointed delegates and only such be entitled to take part in the proceedings, and that provision for the carrying out of this idea be incorporated in our constitution and by-laws."

Relations With Dominion Association.

W. G. McLaren introduced the following resolution dealing with the relations of the association with the Dominion Association, whose headquarters are in Toronto:

"That the executive have acted upon instructions contained in the report of the affiliation committee adopted last February, by the terms of which this association was to act in conjunction with the Toronto Association in matters pertaining to Dominion legislation, and that it has failed to receive any replies to correspondence, any reports of progress or notification of any action along legislative lines, and resolved that, in view of these shortcomings this association instruct our executive not to pay any money to the western board until such time as satisfactory efforts and results are shown; and also that the western board, failing to receive proper responses and a full report of work upon legislative lines, be authorized to act upon their own authority."

President Hunter added that the association had been hindered in its work by the long delays in waiting for the co-operation of the Dominion board and he hoped the resolutions would improve matters."

The resolution carried unanimously.

WINNIPEG EXHIBITION

Western Manufacturers do Not Give Enthusiastic Support—Only Time Possible—Many Interesting Exhibits and Large Attendance—What was Shown in Foodstuffs.

Compared with the exhibitions of former years, the Winnipeg Industrial Exhibition held last week made a very favorable showing and its friends are encouraged to hope that, under the new management, there are much better things to come. Favorable comments were heard on all sides and there were many who were prepared to make comparisons by no means unfavorable with the Dominion Exhibition. Certain it is, that, while the exhibition was not so large in extent as when it was held under Dominion auspices, the preparations were more nearly complete when opening day arrived and the machinery worked more smoothly. Comparing conditions with those of a year ago, it is not too much to say that the vast majority of the exhibits were in better shape this year on the evening of the first day than they were last year when the exhibition was half over. In a word, something like system has been evolved from the chaos of former years and those who are qualified to judge unite in ascribing the better order of things to the efforts of Dr. Bell.

Must be Before Harvest.

It is unfortunate that it is necessary to hold the fair at a time of the year when it is impossible to secure exhibits that are really representative of the varied resources of the Canadian west. Were it not for the endless line of threshing machinery exhibits the visitor would scarcely realize that the exhibition is held in a rich agricultural country. The crop is yet to be harvested, and for that reason and others the exhibition does not represent the agricultural resources of the country it serves. Were it possible to hold it a few weeks later in the year there could easily be secured exhibits which would open the eyes of the visitor to the real resources of the newer Canada. Unfortunately this is not possible, as in a few days' time the harvest will commence and the entire west will be busy with it until the first snow flies. The only possible date for the exhibition is the week chosen in July before the harvest commences.

Manufacturers Should be in.

But if it is impossible to have an exhibition in Winnipeg in July which is really representative of the varied agricultural resources of an agricultural country, there should be nothing to hinder an exhibition truly representative of the manufacturing, industrial and commercial interests of Winnipeg and the west. It is true that the manufactures of Winnipeg are not so many as might be wished, and not so many as there will be in a few months' time, but they are larger and of much more importance than most people imagine and their products should be on exhibition. It is partly because their products are seldom or never properly exhibited that the great majority of people imagine that they are of much less importance than they really are.

Deserving of Support.

If the exhibits of Eastern Canada manufacturers were eliminated from the exhibition held last week there would be little left in the manufacturers' section of the Colonnade. Especially is this true of the confectionery, biscuit, and general grocery exhibits, a department which even with the eastern and foreign exhibits was very weak. Scarcely a Winnipeg industry in this department had an exhibit and it would almost seem that there is a tacit agreement to ignore the Winnipeg Exhibition. Perhaps the excuse is to be found in the lack of system and in the confusion of former years, and it may be that another year will see more liberal support accorded the exhibition by the business houses of the west. The exhibition is deserving of good support and surely the greater portion of the support should come from the business men in the immediate territory which it serves.

From B. C. Orchards.

Throughout the fair the British Columbia fruit exhibit under the direction of Mr. Palmer attracted a great deal of attention.

Two hundred handsome glass jars contained a splendid collection of preserved fruits, including twelve varieties of plums, eight varieties of pears, grapes, peaches, quinces, cherries on branches, crab apples, Logan berries, apricots and nectarines, all of great size and very tempting to look upon. The fresh fruit was shown in the regular commercial packages, well graded and packed, and included delicious looking Morello and Belle Magnifique cherries from Sterling and Pitcairn, Kelowna, tempting Royal Anne cherries from Nelson, rich hued olivet, Royal Anne and Belle Magnifique cherries from Victoria, luscious peaches from Kelowna, apricots and peaches from Kamloops, blackberries, apples and crabapples from Chilliwack, and early apples from Port Hammond. The early apples were particularly fine and large for so early in the season. Fine red raspberries from Burnaby, and peach plums from the Okanagan, Chilliwack, Lardis and Port Hammond, added their richness to the display. Splendid greenhouse tomatoes were shown from Victoria and Central Park.

Kootenay Fruit.

As well as having a share in the general British Columbia exhibit, the Kootenay district sent a special exhibit which occupied a separate corner in the same building. A most interesting feature of the display was a background of branches heavily laden with fruit just as they grew on the trees. They included deep red cherries so thickly clustered that there was scarcely room for the leaves, apples hanging a dozen in a cluster, red currants so large that they well deserve the name of cherry currants. Another specialty in the exhibit was some immense gooseberries, the Keepsake variety, which were the size of small eggs and quite sweet. The cherries grown in the Kootenay district are said to excel all others and certainly the samples shown were beautiful to the eye and delicious to taste. A jar of red raspberries picked and preserved in acid were marvels for size and richness of color.

A large cake of ice in which were frozen twelve large trout caught by a fruit farmer after tea attracted much attention and was another token of the delights of the Kootenay country.

charge was made at the exhibition for the cocoa served.

The illustration shows that the exhibit was a most attractive one and when the lights were turned on the booth was the subject of many admiring comments. The full line of goods manufactured by Walter Baker & Co. was on exhibition and the advertising done among the consumers should materially assist the trade in making sales. The lines on exhibition included Baker's Breakfast Cocoa, Baker's Chocolate, pany. The plant now comprises six large mills and storehouses, having a floor space of 350,000 square feet.

It is an interesting fact that on the spot where the industry was first started, more than a century and a quarter ago, the business has continued and attained the highest development. From the little wooden mill, "by the rude bridge that arched the flood," there has grown up one of the greatest establishments in the world—the house of Walter Baker & Co., Limited—an establish-

Walter Baker & Co., Boston and Montreal.

Walter Baker & Co.

One of the exhibits around which the crowds were gathered at all times was that of Walter Baker & Co.'s cocoa. From childhood people have been familiar with the Baker "cocoa maid" as shown in the advertisements of this firm and exhibition visitors thought they were already acquainted with the demonstrators who were serving the cocoa. Past experience has taught Walter Baker & Co. that people appreciate best and remember longest what they have bought and paid for, and hence a small Caracas Chocolate, Auto-Sweet Chocolate, German Sweet Chocolate and soluble chocolate.

Inquirers learned that Walter Baker's cocoas and chocolates have been on the market for 126 years. It is indeed interesting to note that in October of the year 1780—twenty-seven years before Fulton started his first steamboat on the Hudson River and fifty-seven years before the electric telegraph came into use—the Baker cocoa and chocolate factory was established in Dorchester, Massachusetts, on the site now occupied by one of the largest mills of the comment which competes successfully for prizes in all the great industrial exhibitions of the world, whose influence is felt in the great commercial centres, and whose prosperity promotes the welfare of men who labor under a tropical sun in the cultivation of one of the choicest fruits of the earth.

What is the secret of their great success? It is a very simple one. They have won and held the confidence of the great and constantly increasing body of consumers by always maintaining the highest standard in the quality of their cocoa and chocolate preparations, and selling them at the lowest prices for which unadulterated articles of good quality can be put upon the market.

They receive numerous letters from housekeepers who have used their cocoa and chocolate for many years, stating that lately, when ordering the Baker goods, other goods of greatly inferior quality have been sent to them. They find it necessary, therefore, for the protection of those who want their cocoa and chocolate, to issue an emphatic warning against these fraudulent practices, and to ask buyers to examine every package they receive, and see that it bears the well known trade mark of "La Belle Chocolatiere," sometimes called the Chocolate Girl, and the correct name of Walter Baker & Co., Limited. Under the decisions of the United States courts, no other cocoa or chocolate is entitled to be labeled or sold as Baker's Cocoa or Baker's Chocolate.

Western Cereal Co.

Meat of Wheat was exhibited in an attractive manner by the Western Cereal Co. and there were few visitors to the fair who did not stop at the booth in question to learn something of the new breakfast food that is made in Western Canada. Meat of Wheat is not eaten cold, it is not pre-digested and it is therefore popular with the many who are returning to the old-fashioned hot breakfast cereal. The management never tire of impressing upon the public and the trade that Meat of Wheat is a Canadian-made product which takes the place of a line of food imported from a foreign country and upon which there is considerable duty. It is made from No. 1 hard Spring wheat which is acknowledged to contain the largest percentage of gluten of any wheat that is grown. Moreover, only the best part of the wheat is used. In an ideal breakfast food the starchy element must be eliminated so far as possible, what is wanted being the gluten and the phosphates.

That Meat of Wheat is what was wanted by the public is made evident by the large sales since it was introduced. W. L. MacKenzie & Co. are selling agents to the wholesale trade and retailers can get supplies from their wholesale house.

The Cowan Co.

Prominent among the exhibits in the first hall devoted to manufactures was that of the Cowan Co. of Toronto. Attendants dispensed cocoa and chocolate free of charge to tired, hungry and thirsty crowds of people, and E. H. Rountree, the western representative, courteously explained to all inquirers the good qualities of the Cowan line of cocoa, chocolate and confectionery.

As can be seen from the illustration, the booth was very prettily decorated and it occupied a commanding position where none could fail to see it. The familiar Cowan milk chocolate boy pictures were very much in evidence in the decorations and there were few visitors to the fair who would readily forget the pleasing effect of the Cowan exhibit.

The full line of Cowan specialties was on exhibition and many were surprised to know that the firm manufacture such an extensive variety of goods. The specialties upon which the most emphasis was laid were the cocoa and the sweetened and unsweetened chocolate. Comparatively newer is the Cowan milk chocolate which is earning a secure place for itself in the western market, although it has been forced to face strenuous competition. Mr. Rountree explained to all inquirers that the Cowan goods are made-in-Canada goods and that they are pure goods. The firm offer a reward of $100 to any person who can show any adulteration in the Cowan goods.

In conversation with The Canadian Grocer, Mr. Rountree remarked that it had always been the policy of the Cowan Co. to protect the retail trade and therefore they were not selling any of their goods at retail from the fair booth.

Christie-Brown Biscuits.

The substantial character of the booth in which were displayed to the public the 500 varieties of dainty biscuits manufactured by the Christie, Brown Co., Limited, was characteristic of the reliability and standing of that firm. The booth took the form of a kiosk in white and gold, the walls of which were formed from the glass-faced boxes in which Christie, Brown biscuits are now put up

Situated in the centre of the main manufacturers' section, the booth was observed of all observers, and many were the questions answered by the courteous attendants in charge.

Purity, cleanliness and quality are the watchwords of Christie, Brown & Company, and while visitors at the fair must have been struck by the results they may not have realized the care and attention involved. They will be interested, no doubt, in knowing that in the immense factory in Toronto, lithographs of which will be observed at the bottom of the booth, every girl employe as she enters the factory each morning is provided with a clean blouse, apron and handkerchief, while each male employe is given a clean smock and pair of overalls, all laundered at the firm's expense.

Christie, Brown & Co., Toronto.

As a further indication of the scrupulous care the firm take of all pertaining to their plant, extensive baths are provided on the premises in charge of a matron and a male attendant respectively, and every employe is required to make frequent and regular use of the same. A sanitary inspector is kept constantly in attendance and vigorous measures are constantly in operation to maintain absolute cleanliness.

Equal attention is paid to the quality of every ingredient that enters any of the Christie, Brown products. For instance, the butter used is the very highest class creamery butter that can be obtained and is brought in fresh every morning from the creameries.

The factory, as will be observed, is a handsome, compact, as well as immense place occupying almost an entire block.

The Christie, Brown Company are very gratified at the development of their business in the west, which is going ahead at a rapid pace. Messrs. Scott, Bathgate & Co. 149 Notre Dame avenue east, Winnipeg, are their western representatives and carry a large and varied line of their goods in stock continuously. Messrs. Scott, Bathgate & Co. were in charge of the display.

LONDON TRADE DOINGS

Why There Were Two Grocers' Excursions on the Same Day—London as a Distributing Centre—Preventing a Glut of Fruit.

The grocers of London held excursions last week.

This was different from former years when but one excursion was held.

Still, each of the two this year was as largely attended and as great a success as the combined one of other years.

The majority went to Detroit on Grocers' Wednesday, it being under the auspices of the London Retail Grocers' Association. The Grand Trunk provided a special train and about 1,000 people took advantage of the reduced rate, and the grocers made the picnic memorable by having an enjoyable day together.

But a large crowd also went to Niagara Falls, the special Michigan Central train carrying from London and St. Thomas upwards of 800 people.

The odd feature of the two grocers' excursions on the same day, and what made it confusing to the general public was the advertising of both as the picnic of the Retail Grocers' Association.

The cause of the factions was this: For several years two or three of the grocers have conducted a picnic to Niagara Falls under the auspices of the Retail Grocers' Association that was once in existence and which was dropped several years ago. This year, however, after the Pure Food show, it was decided to organize the grocers into an association, which was done, and, thinking the old association entirely dead, the new one adopted the natural name of the Retail Grocers' Association.

The new association became active, among other things stopping a sugar war between two grocers across the road from each other. It decided to have a picnic and excursion to Detroit, and advertised it for July 25. Then the former managers of the Niagara Falls picnics advertised the usual picnic to the Falls under the name of the Retail Grocers' Association. Four grocers composed the moving spirits of the Niagara Falls excursion, Messrs. J. Trebilcock, T. A. Rowat, F. Harley and F. H. Robinson.

The new Retail Grocers' Association, which now numbers among its members the majority of the grocers in the city, was led by President C. H. Lee and Messrs. Harry Ranahan, John Diprose, and W. Lawson, who worked most energetically for the success of their picnic to Detroit.

The rivalry all through was good-natured and perhaps accounted for the large crowds that patronized both, procuring as it did extra advertising for each of them.

The Retail Grocers' Association came out well financially on their picnic and are already contemplating another. But this one will likely be to Springbank, London's riverside Summer resort. A meeting will shortly be called when it will be moved that the last Wednesday in August be set apart as a picnic day just for the grocers, their clerks and their friends. The grocers of London have found the Wednesday half holiday through the three Summer months a success, and members of the association feel that they can mark the last Wednesday afternoon in no better way then by the proposed scheme.

London grocers have had a good season so far for small fruits. There was a time when the local market was frequently flooded with fruit and there was trouble in selling. This year the fruit men have so well managed things that the method of distribution has prevented glutting of the market at any one time. The supply has, however, been steady and no decrease in crop has been reported from the western peninsula.

The Free Press is authority for the statement that amongst the wholesale men the local grocers are having their share of the good times in London, this city becoming a bigger distributing point than ever. On Monday, it asid:

"As a distributing point London is gaining so rapidly that the city holds its own with any other market in Canada. It has been learned from a local wholesale man that the business done by wholesale grocers has increased over 100 per cent. during the past year. The growth in other lines has kept pace with the grocery business, and in some instances has surpassed it.

"While the trade in the Northwest has been greatly instrumental in bringing about this increase, the general prosperity throughout Canada, and the immense export demand for Canadian products have been the leading causes.

"The growth of the cities and towns in Western Ontario, of which London is the hub, has resulted in a large demand for London's manufactured products, and all produce handled exclusively by merchants of this city."

The employes of D. S. Perrin & Co., biscuit manufacturers, will hold at Port Stanley on Saturday, August 4, their annual picnic for which great preparations have been made.

Arrangements are being made for the program of the annual convention of the Master Bakers' Association of Canada, which will be held in this city on August 14 and 15.

MACONOCHIE'S ALL RIGHT.

In "Reports and Analytical Records" of a recent number of the Lancet, London, Eng., under the caption "Army Meat and Vegetable Rations," Maconochie Bros.' goods are reported on as follows from the Lancet laboratory:

We have examined these rations and the contents appeared to be wholesome and as regards taste to be as satisfactory as fresh meat. On searching carefully for evidence of metallic contamination we find none whatever. This is a tribute to the method of tinning adopted, especially as in one instance the ration examined had been in its tin for over five years. The fact is that this firm have for some time adopted a tin which is made and hermetically closed without the use of soldering or lead. The edges overlap and are pressed together, forming a perfectly air-tight joint. Moreover, the lid of the tin is protected from coming in contact with the contents by interposing a specially prepared parchment. The method of sealing the lid on the tin without the use of solder is distinctly ingenious and will be approved on hygienic grounds.

THE MAN BEHIND.

There's the man behind the gun,
And the man behind the loom ;
There's the man behind the stove,
And the man behind the boom ;
There's the man behind the bank,
And the man behind the till ;
There's the man behind the club,
And the man behind the quill ;
There's the man behind the horse,
And the man behind the cow ;
There's the man behind the hoe,
And the man behind the plow ;
There's the man behind the fist,
And the man behind the curse ;
There's the man behind the pick,
And the man behind the hearse ;
There's the man behind the jokes,
And the man behind the rhymes ;
But I'd rather be behind them all,
Than the man behind the times.

TRAVELERS ON A FROLIC

Annual Retirement of the Drummers' Snack Club to Alton, Ont., for Twenty-four Hours of Merriment—Concert, Burlesquers, Sports—New Officers.

Laughter is one of the elixirs of life. So sayeth the Drummers' Snack Club, and once a year the members cast care and business and all seriousness to the day-after-to-morrow and hieing them to Alton, Ont., give one clear twenty-four hours to uninterrupted and uncorruptable hilarity. It happened this year on Friday and Saturday last, a Jewish day, sundown to sundown.

Fourteen years ago Robt. Algie, of the Alton Woolen Mills, then in the general store business, invited a number of travelers to a day's outing with him. It proved so pleasant they came again and the idea of an organization to meet annually took root in the hospitable soil of Alton.

Poster Promises.

No paper-and-ink recital of the 24-hour doings can convey an adequate conception of the fun, but the promises of the sheet poster, with which sections of the country side were papered, were fulfilled to the letter. "The trouble will begin about 7.30 on Friday evening, when that 'Canon Ball on Wheels,' known as the Teeswater local, stops at Alton to give the atmosphere a rest and to unload the loveliest load of passengers it ever carried. Then whoop-la! It looks like a collision between a laundry and a lunatic asylum. Everybody talks and laughs at once. The traveler and citizen do a tug-of-war shake, the smiling homecomer kisses his sister or somebody else's sister, the cousins and aunts overflow with feminine effusion, children shout, dogs bark, and there is great rejoicing in the land. Suddenly, a score or more of red coated musicians let loose a flood of inspiring melody, the crowd join in. It is necessary to explain here that the aforesaid red coats are not the Irish Guards, but the Citizen's Band of Alton, only some of them are Irish and all of them are guardians of good music. Then away goes the procession to the big tent where is held the famous Snack concert."

It was a Hummer.

That all came is true as travelers tales. At the head of the procession President Charley Smith, of Hamilton, rode in a pony cart accompanied by the beautiful owner, and he held a small white silk banner inscribed:

Twentieth Century.
Drummers'
C. T. A.
Snack.

On one side was the motto "When Commerce knocks all doors must open" and on the other "The sample is mightier than the sword." It was decorated with the maple leaf, rose, shamrock and thistle and was presented to the club five years ago by an old lady far past the allotted span.

The concert was heralded as "a cup of musical and intellectual pleasure extravagantly filled to overflowing." It was a good one at that, high-class in every respect and nobly upheld the high reputation of former years, vouched for by an attendance of fully 2,000 natives. It was held in a big circus tent and the programme was as follows:

JOHN W. CHARLES, The New President.

Night of Noisy Glee.

The night was one uproarious burst of mirth for those quartered in "the Dormetory." The advance notice read thus, "travelers will find plenty of comfortable cots in the old tent near the cyclone cellar. Anyone disturbing the peace may expect an impromptu bath." Since there never was any peace to disturb the livelong night the waters of the pond were not rippled. The village was serenaded until two o'clock and that cheerful and harmless amusement was resumed at five. In the interval whenever repose seemed within hail Court Thompson, of Hamilton, would annunciate one of Dr. Munion's advertised truths and add in musically stentorian tone, thumb to temple and index finger upward, "Munion! By the great horn spoon, Munion!" It earned him the title of "Dr. Munion."

Dawn came at last. Breakfast was had on the ground and at 11 o'clock the club's annual meeting was called to order by President Charles Smith, of Hamilton. He spoke a few words in his hearty whole-souled way, expressing his appreciation of the success achieved this year thus far and of the loyal support accorded him by the executive. The finances showed a good balance on the right side.

At the concert the night before a telegram was received conveying greeting and good wishes from Wm. Algie, now in Europe. On motion of Lt.-Col. Stoneman a reply was ordered.

Election of Officers.

When election of officers was mentioned someone promptly proposed as president John W. Charles, of H. P. Eckardt & Co., Toronto. The name was received with uproarious applause. Mr. Charles tried to protest, but they wouldn't hear him and in a twinkling he was president by unanimous acclamation.

Dr. Algie arrived just then and the president seized the opportunity to present the worthy doctor with a very handsome carving set as a mark of appreciation of his interest in and self-denying labors for the club. The doctor made a happy, off-hand reply, homorous, reminiscent and appreciative.

Then the election of officers was concluded as follows:

Toronto secretary—Cecil Hunt.
Hamilton secretary—M. P. Malone.
Home secretary—Robt. Algie.
Treasurer—Wm. Irvine.

Toronto executive—Donald C. McGregor, Wm. White, Geo. Dixon, Frank Bemrose, Wm. Meen, E. R. Bowles, Wm. Colville, Sol Walters, R. M. Asher, Geo. Campbell, Cecil Hunt.

Hamilton executive—Court Thompson, P. Smith, Guy Long, Bay Hill, J. Smith, Jack Singe, R. E. Smith, Vern Smith, Jack Duffy, Ernie Clark, Chas. Smith, Lieut.-Col. Moore, Lieut.-Col. Stoneman.

Home executive—Robt. Algie, Wm. Algie, Dr. Algie, Amos Mason, Wm. White.

Auditors—Peter Smith, Wm. Colville.

According to custom and with great good will, President Charles Smith was created an honorary member for life. Ald. W. H. McClarity and A. J. Lloyd, grocers, of Owen Sound, were present and they also were accorded honorary membership. The honor roll was swelled also by the names of those of the musical talent not already on, George Dixon, Frank Bemarre, E. R. Bowles.

Burlesque Ladies.

Luncheon was served in Science Hall by the ladies of the Presbyterian church. Then the burlesquers came upon the landscape. A ladies' baseball game was the first item on the programme of sports. The first lady to illumine the atmosphere was Sol Walters, looking like the mama of an army of Arabian dancers. Ex-President Smith came next, looking like nothing that ever happened. The next to emerge were A. Eccstein and R. E. Smith, young and reckless beauties, and the four performed a cake-walk within the charmed circle of the red-coated band. The rest of the 18 were wafted into view as their costuming was completed, then a parade was formed and led by the band they marched down the village street and back to the athletic field. The procession was marshalled by Will White, an ancient Rube, and Cecil Hunt, a regulation circus clown, both mounted on Dr. Algie's bay nag, which also wore pants. The baseball teams were :

What a pity a group photo was not taken of the lady ball players !

Col. Moore wants a concert by travelers—put the Colonel down for a song and dance.

The Alton band is a wonder. Capt. R. B. Albertson is leader and Dr. Algie president.

Where was Mister Charles when the dormitory lights went out ? Sweetly sleeping in his borrowed bed.

Will Colville was the man who made the games go. By dint of very hard work he cut out all delays.

Sol. Walter's lullaby :

Hoky pokey, Hankey pankey,
I'm the Queen of the Swikey Swanky ;
And I'm very well, I thankee.

At the meeting when they wanted to elect an executive, Bill Colville grabbed a lantern and started in search of a Toronto man. But wait till next year.

Bill Meen, of Melagama tea wore a gown of advertising matter that a modiste must have made. But he was strong on baseball, and the skirt couldn't keep him from making bases.

F. J. White, of the Melagama Tea Co. drove up from Toronto in his auto car with Mrs. White and a couple of friends. The auto was kept busy all day and a good many friends had a spin.

PURE WESTERN CANNED GOODS.

Strange to say, the great majority of the Canadian packing houses have failed to take advantage of the obvious opportunities offered them by the Chicago packing house revelations. One striking exception to this rule has been the Manitoba Canning Co. of Grande Pointe, Manitoba. Realizing that the present is the psychological occasion for impressing upon the minds of trade and consumers that in their Grande Pointe packing house all operations are performed under strict sanitary rules and that the management welcome inspection, the Manitoba Canning Co. at once commenced an aggressive advertising campaign. First the trade were reassured, full page space being used in this paper to show the grocery and provision trade that the Manitoba Canning Company welcomed investigation and that the honest grocer need have no fears in recommending the company's goods to a perplexed public who no longer knew what to buy. Then followed advertising directed at the consumer. And on July 20 the company published in the Winnipeg Free Press a letter to refute the statement that Manitoba had not a packing industry of its own, and at the same time they made plain to readers their cleanly methods, sanitary surroundings and high reputation of their products.

MAMMOTH GROCER'S PICNIC

Brantford and Hamilton Trade and a Hoste of Friends at the Falls—A Glorious Day Most Enjoyably Spent—Winners of the Games.

The monster annual picnic of the Hamilton and Brantford retail grocers and their friends was held at Victoria Park, Niagara Falls, July 18. A record-breaking crowd attended. All available steam and electric cars were crowded from an early hour. Perfect weather conditions prevailed, and everybody enjoyed this, the greatest annual grocers' picnic in Canada. Hamilton sent out per G.T.R. ten special trains of nine cars each. Brantford sent three special trains. A finer picnic ground than the beautiful Victoria Park, overlooking the great falls, could not be found in all Canada.

Two bands, the 13th of Hamilton and the Dufferin Rifles of Brantford, furnished good music during the day. An elaborate programme of sports was run off without a hitch. Comfort soap ladies' race, open to all married ladies, and catching the greased pig proved the mostly exciting events.

White duck caps bearing the legend "Red Rose tea is good tea" were worn by many Hamilton and Brantford grocers.

Red and blue badges and buttons advertising Victor and N. P. soap were worn by all excursionists from the two cities. Much credit is due the several picnic committees and the G.T.R. officials for the way in which they handled the great crowd of over ten thousand people without an accident of any sort to mar the enjoyment of the day.

The first programme feature was an indoor baseball match in the morning between Hamilton and Brantford teams for a silver trophy. While the score leaned wildly towards Hamilton, Brantford put up a plucky fight and at no time did their opponents feel they were having a walk-over. The score was 8 to 1 and the teams were :

Hamilton—Williams, G. W. Cann, M. Cummings, Donovan, Ab. Hobson, Art Lavis, Semmens, Brown, Walter Cann.

Brantford—J. Cammell, J. Newham, D. Noble, J. Mathers, R. Cammell, H. Burns, F. Harp, J. Burns, G. Harp.

The racing results were as follows :

Potato race, 50 yards, potatoes 10 yards apart and to be brought in one by one—Farmer, of Hamilton, Young, of Brantford, Brown, of Hamilton.

Single ladies' 50 yards dash—Miss T. O'Neil, Hamilton, Miss Julia Holtham, Hamilton, Miss Beverstock, Hamilton.

Shoe race—B. Cornell, Hamilton, L. Brown, Hamilton, Wm. Farmer, Hamilton.

Boys' race, under 10, 50 yards — G. Cornell, N. Becker, G. Kingston.

Ladies' Comfort Soap race — Mrs. Fleming, Mrs. Donald, Mrs. Carey, Hamilton.

The baseball match between Big 3 Special and Two-in-One resulted in favor of the latter, 20—14. Batteries—Big 3, Taylor and Hollington ; Two-in-One, Hunt and Young.

D. M. Barton, physical director of the Hamilton Y.M.C.A., won the praise of all concerned by his work as starter. The other officials were : Judges—J. A. McIntosh, C. W. Griffin, J. Lampman. Clerk of course and chairman of the games committee—John Forth. Secretary of games—M. Semmens. Treasurer —H. P. Boyd. W. J. Jackson, J. G. Price.

Associated with these gentlemen were Messrs. Adam Ballentine, Chas. Peebles, Jos. Kirkpatrick, and others, who, under the enthusiastic direction of President A. G. Bain and Secretary M. R. Hill, are responsible for the huge success of the picnic.

The greased pig took to the tall timber. Treasurer Boyd, of Hamilton, mounted a table.

The Grand Trunk did its work well, and to take and return 10,000 people without an accident and in good time calls for a vote of thanks.

The cash prizes totalled $80.

The evening band concert left nothing to be desired but more time.

NOVA SCOTIA APPLE CROP.

Some difference of opinion exists regarding the Nova Scotia apple crop. It has been reported a failure. Our correspondent writes :

"It is a very difficult matter this year to forecast the prospects of the apple crop. Reports greatly vary and in many cases are conflicting. In some localities a splendid 'set' is reported, and apples are described as hanging as 'thick as currants' on the trees. In other districts the set is said to be far below the average. On the whole, however, it seems probable that the crop for the entire valley will be well up to the average. Gravensteins everywhere are apparently a failure, being small in yield and decidedly 'spotty.' Kings and Baldwins show up well. Ribstones have set very unevenly and on the whole lightly. Russetts are a failure. Other varieties make a moderate showing.

DRUMMERS SNACK—FRED. C. HUNT, Toronto Secretary.

"There will be a decidedly small yield of plums, one-third or one-fourth of an average crop. Pears are a total failure. The great bulk of the potato crop was planted about two weeks later than usual, i.e., between the 12th and 21st of June. It is making splendid progress, however, now, and is almost certain to go above the average. The 'bug' is very little in evidence and to all appearances will not 'cut much ice' this Summer. Owing to the lateness of the season a considerably small area was planted in potatoes this year. All other root crops promise exceedingly well and pastures are in full bite. Taking it altogether the outlook for the present season is a bright one for agriculture, and not unpromising for the fruit raisers, but the question of prices, the great determining facts in the latter case, will not be decided before the end of the year."

WESTERN RETAIL CONVENTION.

In point of attendance, the convention of the Retail Merchants' Association of Western Canada, held in Winnipeg last week, was not very satisfactory and the executive will be well advised if they take into serious consideration a resolution passed at the convention, advocating a plan for the representation of the various sections by duly appointed delegates and suggesting some other time of year for the mid-summer meeting. Under the present haphazard system all members and dealers are entitled to attend, but no one feels any special responsibility in the matter. In future it is hoped that there will be a systematic scheme of representation whereby each section will send one or two delegates and all parts of the country will have a voice in the decisions of the convention. Moreover, it would also be an improvement if the convention could be held at some time other than Exhibition week, for the Fair presents many attractive distractions, and it is difficult to get a good meeting.

But while the attendance was not large, the convention was very far from being a failure and a number of important resolutions were passed. A full report appears in another part of this paper and comment is unnecessary.

MR. TROWERN AND THE MACLEAN TRADE PAPERS.

At the meeting of the Retail Merchants' Association of Western Canada held in Winnipeg last week, President Hunter, in the absence at a committee meeting of Secretary Coulson, read a long letter to Mr. Coulson from E. M. Trowern, the secretary of the Dominion Retail Merchants' Association. That letter contained a bitter attack upon two of the MacLean trade papers, Hardware and Metal and The Canadian Grocer, and it is certainly the right and privilege of this paper to reply to it. In justice to Mr. Trowern, we should like to reproduce the letter in full, but Secretary Coulson takes the ground that it was a personal letter, and that it was through a misunderstanding on the part of President Hunter that it was read in the open session of the convention. We respect Mr. Coulson for his honorable scruples in this matter, but take the ground that, the letter having been read in open meeting, it became the property of the association, and, an attack having been read upon this paper in an open session of the convention, it is our privilege to reply.

As readers of this paper are well aware, the two retail associations of the west decided in February last to affiliate for certain purposes, and they elected a joint executive known as the "Western Board." This "Western Board" affiliated for certain specific purposes with the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada and it was the duty of Mr. Coulson, as secretary of the Western Board, to keep in touch with Mr. Trowern, the Dominion secretary. Mr. Trowern laid stress last February upon the importance of securing the support and co-operation of the western merchants and the western merchants responded to the appeal.

In the months that have passed since the February meeting, several important matters have come up which would seem to demand the attention of the entire retail trade of Canada. Western merchants were anxious to co-operate with the trade in the east and Mr. Coulson wrote Mr. Trowern repeatedly, asking for information and offering assistance and support. But, strange to say, no reply was received until the day before the opening of the convention.

And what was the excuse for not writing? The first reason assigned was that certain articles had appeared from time to time in The Canadian Grocer and Hardware and Metal, and the second was that he thought it best not to disturb the slumbers of the western associations until the time of their convention. Surely these reasons are quite inadequate, but that is a matter for the associations to decide for themselves. The hard-headed business men of the west may require a lot of argument to persuade them that because Mr. Trowern does not like certain articles in the MacLean trade papers, he is therefore excused from answering his correspondence.

In the course of his letter to Mr. Coulson, Mr. Trowern went out of his way to attack the editors and management of the MacLean trade papers and also to discredit the Ontario Retail Hardware and Stove Dealers' Association. He made the statement that the Ontario organization had not been able to secure sufficient attendance at their meeting to elect five officers—a statement which is the direct opposite of the truth, but the motives for which will probably be well understood by the Ontario hardware dealers. In bombastic style he also proceeded to say that the trade in Ontario and Quebec are thoroughly aroused over the attitude of The Canadian Grocer and Hardware and Metal, and they are now taking up the matter with the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild and with the Canadian Manufacturers Association, and he was perfectly certain that the MacLean Publishing Co. would have to change their plans. This statement is, of course, too ridiculous to deserve serious attention.

The MacLean trade papers desire only the best interests of the retail trade and they do not propose to be frightened by talk of this kind. All honest and intelligent efforts to promote the organization of the retail trade for self protection will, as in the past, have the hearty support of this paper.

EXPERTS DISAGREE.

As time goes on the details of the pure food propaganda will filter into the understanding of the masses of the people, but in the meantime things are very much unsettled in the minds of the select few, the experts. At a recent national convention in Hartford, Conn., of the Association of State Dairy and Food Departments, experts all, most of them commissioners charged with the carrying out of state food laws, marked divergence of view was apparent as to what legally constituted pure food and pure food products. One commissioner, for instance, declared in the most positive manner that no matter how small a proportion of preservative nor how harmless it might be, when used in whisky, butter, milk or other foods is a poison. Another delegate declared in terms quite as strong that any drug or chemical becomes only poisonous when a fatal dose is taken.

Pure food regulations should aim primarily at two things, to insure the marketing of only healthful and clean food products, and to provide that consumers shall have the fullest knowledge of what they are buying.

Strawberry jam as the experts understand it, a concern of fruit boiled in sugar and water, may be too expensive for some consumers, and if they can get a healthful, palatable and nutritious substitute composed of apple pulp, glucose and timothy seed, why not so long as it is not sold to them as genuine strawberry jam. They should know what they are buying. If we were restricted absolutely to jam as the dictionary defines it, many a boy and girl would be deprived of one of the joys of youth.

DARK PLACES IN THE CODE.

The absence of clear and definite intention in section 520 of the Criminal Code is causing the wholesale grocers of Canada much expense and annoyance. They pointed this out to the Government months ago and asked, not that their association and its methods be declared legal, but that the act be made plain, that it be made to mean unequivocally what the Government thought in the public interest it should mean. They contended that everything the Grocers' Guild had done was morally and commercially above reproach. But what they asked the Government to do was to make the code plain and not a mere matter of opinion bandied between judges and lawyers. The grocers have no desire to be lawbreakers, but as the code stands now the best lawyers in the country cannot tell them whether they are or not.

Under the circumstances it seems strange that the Government having had ample notice should allow the session of Parliament to conclude without any steps being taken to remedy the situation. It is a question affecting every business interest of the country, the right to trade organization and agreement.

Now comes word that Sir Wilfrid Laurier has promised that the Government shall take the matter up at the first session of Parliament next year and that he expresses the view that those engaged in business should have an equal right of organization with labor men. This is satisfactory so far as it goes, but why should the intention of the law be left in obscurity for a year ?

NEW FACTOR IN FRENCH TRADE.

Another indicator pointing to Canada's increasing portion in the world of trade is the formation of a Canadian section in the British Chamber of Commerce of Paris, France. It should be also an influential agent in developing the present not inconsiderable commerce between France and Canada.

As yet Canada has the big buying end and small selling end of this business. In the year 1905 the Dominion bought from France goods to the value of $7,201,000 and sold to it $1,511,000 worth. The principal items in this bill of lading were, fish and produce of, mostly lobsters, $608,000; minerals and metals and manufactures of, $44,800; wood and manufactures of, $131,000; breadstuffs, $211,000. Canada sold that year $2,754,000 worth of canned lobsters and France took more than a fifth of the output, $589,000 worth. The only two better customers were Great Britain and the United States. Of the metal products, the largest item was agricultural implements, $360,000. The other important article under that heading was asbestos, $45,000. While exporting over $12,000,000 worth of butter, France bought from us last year, as a beginning, $14,000 worth; but of cheese not a pound.

The British Chamber of Commerce, Paris, has issued circulars calling attention to the Canadian section, setting forth the advantages of membership and inviting Canadian manufacturers to join.

"The committee appointed for this purpose," runs the letter of the president, "is composed of gentlemen well acquainted with Canadian requirements and will attend to all inquiries relating to Franco-Canadian business. We have reason to believe that there is a large field in France for Canadian produce and manufactures."

The Chamber was established in 1872 and the circular accompanying the president's letter says:

"It offers to its members the experience of thirty-four years of continental business, and has unique opportunities of affording information on channels of trade, of putting British houses in touch with likely agents, of indicating trade openings and markets, of explaining French methods of business (which, needless to say, differ in many ways from English) and of advising on such important subjects as the best means of advertising and otherwise bringing goods before the French purchaser. The Chamber also obtains for its members information on the commercial standing of French firms. Notice of proposed commercial legislation, customs regulations, inventions in France capable of interesting British manufacturers, and statistical and general information of all kinds are transmitted to members both directly and through the medium of the Chamber's monthly circulars and reports."

With the recent extension of the commercial treaty with France, the establishment of a direct line of steamers and the formation of a Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Paris, Canada's sales to France should materially increase. That there is ample room for development is shown by the imports into France of goods which Canada brings to the markets of the world, grain and grain products, $22,000,000; cheese, $6,600,000; machinery, $22,400,000; meat, $4,200,000.

CANADIAN PRODUCE IN ENGLAND.

A recent despatch from England comments on the utterances of an English paper, the Newcastle Daily Chronicle, which commends very highly Canadian butter and cheese. Canadian produce was brought to their notice particularly through the action of a Montreal exporter, who is advocating a more stringent inspection of butter and cheese manufacturing. Speaking editorially of Canadian goods, this paper says that they are possessed of a deservedly high reputation in the Old Country. It is very encouraging to those interested in the butter and cheese exporting trade locally to know that their efforts towards maintaining the high standard, for which Canadian goods have long been known, are publicly recognized in the Mother Country. The Newcastle Chronicle states further that if Canadian manufacturers show themselves willing to promote a system which will absolutely guarantee the purity of Canadian butter and cheese their reputation will soar even higher. This is a fact, and there is every reason why Canadian exporters should do all that is possible to ensure purity in the manufacturing of these articles. It is only possible to do this through the co-operation of farmer, factoryman and exporter.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Montreal, August 1, 1906.

Trade in grocery lines has been moving along very satisfactorily during the week. For the time of year business has been quite good, the size of orders received by jobbers being encouraging. The market this week does not present any new feature of interest. The various grocery lines have been moving along steadily at prices which are well maintained. In canned goods nothing new has developed. The trade is anxiously awaiting the new price lists, but they have not yet been forthcoming. Corn is becoming scarce. In some quarters there is talk of a short crop owing to the hot weather. Sugar is moving out steadily. It is thought in some sections that there will be an advance in prices shortly, but this is entirely problematical. Japan teas continue interesting. There is a report current that there will be no third crop teas, while, as is well known, second crop are very short. Molasses is unchanged since last week. The market is firm. Dried fruits are moving along about as usual at this time of year, while coffee and spices present no new features. Evaporated apples are almost an unknown quantity. Some holders of small lots are talking 16c. The report circulated recently to the effect that the bean crop had been more or less seriously damaged by insects has not been confirmed and dealers are not inclined to credit the story.

Collections have been very satisfactory during the past week, and jobbers feel that the fact of there being more money in circulation, as evidenced by the returns, will help business materially.

CANNED GOODS—Canners have not yet issued their price lists. It is said however, that the lists will be out in a week or ten days at most. Considerable activity prevails in canned goods. Many orders are being booked for different lines for future delivery at open prices. Spot salmon is in very good demand, while there is considerable inquiry for future. Tomatoes are unchanged since last report. Peas are moving out very well, as is corn also. It is stated by some that corn is rapidly becoming cleaned up. The present warm weather, according to those in a position to know, may have the effect of insuring a short crop this year. Canned fruits are in fair request.

SUGAR—Good business in sugar is reported on all sides. Orders received by jobbers are very satisfactory. Prices have been well maintained to date, but there is a possibility, though not a certainty, of an advance shortly. Existing conditions make this statement possible, but only time will tell whether or not the advance anticipated in some quarters will be realized.

TEA—The Japan market is strong at present. Buyers are coming forward now, apparently realizing that it will not profit them anything to hold off any longer buying second crop teas. The prices demanded have scared many up to the present. We have been informed by reliable parties that second crop Japans will be "enormoously" short, while there will be no third crop. Ceylon greens are inclined to be stiffer. Good prices are obtainable for good quality teas.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS — Fairly good business is passing in dried fruits. The market has not changed materially during the week. Valencia raisins are unchanged. Very good demand for seeded stock is reported. Currants are moving along about as usual. Nuts are still upward in tendency as regards prices. Brazils will, it is said, be very short this year, only half a crop being expected. Tarragona almonds are still advancing. Filberts are stiffer than they were last week. Almonds are also inclined to go higher.

EVAPORATED APPLES—Stocks are said to be cleaned up entirely. This has been said so many times within the past two or three months, however, that it is hard to say just how stocks stand. It is probable that supplies are well nigh exhausted. In some sections holders of small lots are talking 16c. and in some cases this figure has been obtained.

BEANS—The story recently circulated to the effect that the bean crop had been more or less damaged by insects has not been confirmed, and it is now regarded as no more than a rumor. Numerous other rumors are afloat, as usual, but nothing definite can be stated as yet. In some quarters somewhat lower prices are looked for next season. There is no change in the conditions at present.

RICE AND TAPIOCA—There is nothing new to report in the rice situation. Orders received are for immediate delivery. Tapioca is practically out of the market. A large Montreal jobber speaking of the situation said: "Fully nine-tenths of the wholesalers in Montreal are without any stock of tapioca. Orders for this article can not be booked. Plantation owners are not offering anything and in consequence the jobbing trade finds it impossible to obtain supplies. It is uncertain why the planters are holding back, but it is a fact nevertheless. Those jobbers holding any stock at all are asking in most cases 8c., although some sales have been made at 7½c." Under these circumstances the quotations, 7½c. to 8c., are purely nominal.

Toronto, Aug. 2, 1906.

The grocery trade this week has been very satisfactory. Sugar has occupied more than its average one-third of the business done and the feeling regarding it is that a rise is past due. The information has been received here that the rise would have taken place had it not been for Montreal importation of some European sugar, and the Canadian refiners did not want to give the interloper more room to move in. Otherwise the market has been very steady and very few changes or fluctuations are noticeable in the grocery list. Figs, like so many other dried fruits, are going to be rather higher this year. Tomatoes are interesting some jobbers, but the situation is practically unchanged. There will be enough of the old stock to go round till the new comes in, perhaps a little more. Castile soap has advanced ½c. a pound.

CANNED GOODS — Trade continues steady. Gallon apples have been advanced by some houses to $3, and the stocks are very limited. There is an ample supply of tomatoes. Some houses are selling at $1.15, but it is claimed they could get $1.25 just as easily. Prices on the new salmon pack are not yet out, and the trade is curious to know what they will be. The market locally is very firm and low grades as well as the choice brands are said to be getting scarce.

TEA—The local market is practically featureless. A London mail advice of July 19 says: "The demand has been fairly active at the opening of the new crop and prices for teas of satisfactory character have, on the whole, been up to expectation, which augurs well for the better liquoring teas which we may expect in the near future both from Assam and Darjeeling. The most unsatisfactory feature of the market is that common teas have dropped slowly week by week until they have now reached a quotation almost without parallel since 14th February, 1901, when the duty was at the rate of 4d per lb."

COFFEE—Locally the market is firmer, and the hopes of those who bought for a rise many months ago seem about to be realized. At the end of last week Willet & Grey New York, said:

"There has been a fair improvement in all coffee markets, and while this may be attributed partly to developments in Brazil regarding Valorization, the underlying better tone comes from the strong position of the article itself and the fact that trade buying results from absolute necessity. All consuming markets have followed a waiting policy a long time past, and during this period allowed their supplies to run very low. The trade kept out of the market believing new supplies from a full crop could be bought at low prices. The same old experience follows, that which all have honed to attain seems impossible and general calculations to secure cheaper coffee are upset. The Brazilians are justified in raising their prices to the world when Government action to enhance values is within reach, involving also a new export tax. But allowing that this feature is not yet fully understood, that there is a difficulty to appreciate the probable effect of Valorization, and its opponents preach all kinds of impediments, the upward turn in the markets shows a better trade inquiry and points to a higher basis when buying becomes general. In this market there is still more disposition to buy the higher grades, the demand for these better qualities having reduced the spot stocks in New York nearly a million bags since the first of the year."

On Monday the New York coffee market rose 15 to 20 points because of cables from Brazil stating that the Senate had approved the valorization scheme and a substantial advance in Europe.

SUGAR—There has not been so strong a feeling in the market locally for some time as now. A rise is thought to be past due and, as explained above, the delay is attributed to importation from Europe. Consumption is now heavy and all wholesalers report heavy demand by the retail distributors.

The strong feeling here is simply following the course of the market abroad. In New York refined advanced 20 points during the week prior to July 26. Willett & Grey's Sugar Journal of that date says: "The notable features of the week are a general recovery of the strong tone and upward trend of the sugar markets of the world, both in raws and refined, the going of American refiners to Europe and Java for new supplies, and the extraordinarily large continued demand for consumption everywhere, especially in the United States." That journal looks for strong and upward trend in the market for both raws and refined during the remainder of the present sugar campaign. This week the European market continues upward. Between Friday and Tuesday the European market for beet advanced 1d. to a New York parity of 3.80c. duty paid for 96 test centrifugals. Statistics now show a visible world supply of only 612,374 tons in excess of a year ago.

DRIED FRUITS—The market remains practically bare. P. L. Mason & Co., importing brokers, Toronto, have been advised by their principals at Turgena that there is an enormous demand there for natural Turkish figs, and sales have been far in excess of last season. Prices are about 2s. per cwt. higher than they ruled during the season of 1905. The fig crop is reported considerably short of last year's, but a fair average. The crop last year was the greatest on record. It is thought the low prices of last year created a demand for the fruit which, with a smaller crop, has caused the hardening of prices.

WOOL AND HIDES—Wool is being offered very freely by various holders throughout the country in quantities varying from 5,000 to 30,000 pounds, but there are very few sales, as the market is easier owing to the recent decline at London sales, and dealers anticipate a further decline in wool similar to Canadian. Hides are coming in freely and the supply is said to be in excess of the demand.

MANITOBA MARKETS

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday, August 2, 1906.)

Business continues very active with few changes of importance in jobbing prices. Tapioca is quoted this week at another advance of ¼c. per lb. and it is firmly held at the new price.

CANNED GOODS—Cohoe salmon is unobtainable and there is very little sockeye or humpback salmon being offered. Until the new pack is on the market there will be a scarcity of all brands of salmon. It will probably be October 1 before the new pack is available in Winnipeg.

B. C. MARKETS.

Vancouver, B.C., July 30, 1906.

While northern shipments to the Yukon have not been quite up to anticipations so far, local trade is excellent, so the wholesale trade reports. Retail merchants are also very well satisfied with the volume of business. Up-country trade, in so far as the Kootenays are concerned, is not very brisk, but that is partly owing to the fact that there is a scarcity of labor. Trade with Alberta and the other provinces is very satisfactory and increases every month.

Extreme warm weather has caused very big trade in fruits, and the grocers say that scarcity and high prices of lemons have caused big sales of lime-juice. In staple goods there has been little or no change. Flour is steady and prices unchanged. Sugar has not changed for some time. In cured meats prices have advanced considerably, owing to short stock and large consumption at this season.

Circulars are coming forward re eastern canned goods, new season's pack, but the jobbers have not yet bought. One independent eastern packer has been in the market interviewing the trade.

New pack canned salmon is quoted higher, to arrive, than old pack, which is quoted now at $5.75 per case, for old No. 1 sockeye. The price for new pack is $6.

California dried fruits are not yet quoted for new stocks, but the old pack is held high and nearly cleaned up.

Smoked meats have never been quoted higher. Hams are sold at 18c. and 19c., while breakfast bacon is quoted 19c. to 23c. Dry salt is 14c. and 15c.

In dairy produce, local fresh creamery still sells at 25c. to the trade, though the supply has not continued to increase. Local dairy is 19c. to 22c. Eastern and Northwest creamery is quoted 22½c. to 23½c. Eastern dairy, 17c. to 20c.

Local fresh eggs are very scarce. They quote at 30c. to 32c., but very few get into wholesale hands. The retail trade is absorbing them direct. Choice selected eastern eggs are 24c. A car arrived last evening and other stock is on the way. The market is well supplied.

In fruit the market is very active, and large quantities of choice stock are being handled. The general prices are high and of local crop the offerings are yet small.

Watermelons and early Crawford peaches came into the market this week. The watermelons are California goods, and are in fine shape. The local price is $4.50 per dozen, averaging 18 lbs. The reports are that the crop of melons is going to be very large this year. Locally, the stock has been taken up very readily by the trade.

The early Crawford peaches sold at $1.50 to the trade, at which price yellow St. Johns are also selling. Hale's Early bring $1.15.

Preserving peaches are not yet in. Another ten days will bring them forward in large supply. The Okanagan peaches, which all go to the Northwest, will not be moving very rapidly till the second week in August.

Four cars of Washington apricots came into the market this week, and that will cover the season, as no more are expected. They were very good stock, and because of the total eclipse of the California crop were taken up greedily. They sold to the trade at $1.10 and to the consumer at $1.25 per crate.

A few local new apples, mainly yellow transparent, were in the market this week at $1.25 per box. Local plums, yellow peach variety, were also in and brought 50c. to 75c. per crate.

California peach plums and similar varieties brought $1.50 per crate of 25 lbs. Burbanks, Kelseys and Wicksons were $2 per crate. There were three cars of Pioneer brand fruit, packed at Newcastle, Cal., received by the Oscar Brown Co. this week.

Bartlett pears of choice quality have arrived. The first quotation was $3.50 per case, but they have dropped to $3. Valencia oranges of fine quality are in stock, a car having been received last evening. They sell at $6. Lemons are now $8.50 regularly, and in small supply. The price in California has advanced another dollar per case. Bananas have come forward at the rate of three cars per week. They are selling well at 5½c. per lb. Muskmelons are $4.50 per crate.

Potatoes are down to $15 per ton and plenty offering. Of course no Ashcrofts are forward to this market yet. The local stock of dry onions is due to be marketed next week. Meantime Washington stock is selling at $2.50 per hundred, the local likely being 25c. per hundred less when received. Lettuce is $1.25 per crate. Tomatoes are in big demand, and supplied fairly well from local sources, Mount Pleasant, Burnaby and Victoria being the chief. The price is $2.50 and $3 per crate of 20 lbs. Okanagan tomatoes are going forward in limited quantities to Alberta, beginning this week.

Cucumbers are 75c. to $1 per dozen. Cauliflower, local, $1.50 per dozen. Cabbage, local, 2½c. per lb. Green corn is due next week and will sell at 75c. to 90c. per dozen.

The prospects of an electric railway line in the Fraser Valley on the south side of the river are very bright, Mr. J. Buntzen, managing director of the British Columbia Electric Railway, having announced to a joint meeting of reeves of the municipalities in the district that he would report favorably on the matter to his company. There is a large population in the district, but not a tenth of the land is under cultivation yet, and with the growth of agricultural interests, more especially in fruit and dairying, the advantages resulting from operating such a line would be enormous. The road would run from New Westminster to Chilliwack, and would be nearly 75 miles in length. It would cost over a million dollars to construct.

The satisfactory results from small fruit-growing in the Kootenays are exemplified by the experience of one man in the Nelson district, who from 3 1-5 acres of strawberries sold over $3,500 worth of fruit. The demand for all the fruit produced in the interior is so great in Southern Alberta that it is far in excess of the supply. While prices are as a consequence high, the market will never be over-supplied, as the area possible to be brought into bearing is limited. This year frost affected the strawberry crop to some extent in the Nelson district.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS

Halifax, N.S., July 31, 1906.

There was an unexpected slump in the price of strawberries this week. At the close of last week the price rose to 12 cents per box, as it was thought that the season was about over, but this week several hundred more crates arrived, and as the demand was about over the price dropped to 8 cents for Nova Scotia berries. A large lot of Prince Edward Island berries also arrived, and these helped to further stagnate the market.

Trade is very good considering that this is usually the dull season of the year. Prices are steady and unchanged in the local market. The recent advance of ten cents in the New York sugar market has not been felt here as yet, though a corresponding advance is looked for locally.

VEGETABLES—The market is well supplied with local grown vegetables, such as carrots, beets, turnips, and potatoes. A strange fact about the market at present is that old potatoes are fetching a higher price than the new crop. The latter are selling at $1 per bushel, while New Brunswick (old) are quoted at $1.25.

FRUIT—There is an abundance of fruit on the market. The steamer Boston, from Jamaica, landed 1,000 tons of cargo, which included sugar, cocoanuts, oranges, and 4,000 bunches of bananas. The latter sold from 60c. to $1.75 per bunch. American apples, Pippins and Williams, are quoted at $6, and Sweet Boughs at $5.50 per barrel. California late Valencia oranges are now quoted at $6 here.

N. B. MARKETS

St. John, N.B., July 30, 1906.

This is usually the quiet season; there is, however, generally a fair business reported. Dealers are disappointed that there is no advance in sugar. In flour the market continues weak. The Maritime Board of Trade will meet shortly in Amherst, N.S. This is one of the fully alive small cities of the Maritime Provinces. More than usual interest has been taken in our Provincial Exhibition, which opens the first of September. The space is now about all taken. The amusement features, which are now so large a part of an exhibition, will be far beyond anything previously attempted here.

In rice a firmer market is reported. Cream of tartar is slightly higher. Tapioca, which has ruled at extreme price, is hardly as firm. Package hops, in which there was quite a break in prices, are again tending higher.

OIL.—In burning oil the market is very firm. Dealers for some time have been actively engaged booking orders for Fall. In paint oil prices are held at Fall figures. Business is rather quiet. Lubricating oils just a fair sale. In cod oil supplies are coming in rather more freely.

SALT.—This is the active season in Liverpool coarse. Receipts this season have been quite heavy; further cargoes are due. Prices are well maintained. In fine just fair steady business.

CANNED GOODS.—Prices are generally firmer. In vegetables this is particularly true of peas, which last season ruled so very low. There is a fair stock of corn. Salmon are firmly held at the advance. This means high prices. Springs are chiefly sold. In fruits, gallon apples about out of the market. Strawberries firmly held. This is rather a small market for fruits. Oysters high and scarce. Domestic fish unchanged. Pack in general will be small.

GREEN FRUIT.—There is a large business. Bananas continue to be the chief line. Oranges and lemons are high. A fair grade of apples now being received. In berries season is getting late. Strawberries about done. There is still a fair demand for rhubarb. Apricots are not seen and peaches are high. Pears in fair receipt. Melons do not sell largely here.

DRIED FRUIT.—The spot market in seeded raisins is higher; choice are hard to get. For Fall prices are unchanged. Prunes are very scarce here. For Fall prices are rather easier. In Valencia raisins new will cost higher than last season and crop is reported short. Currants are firm; these will also cost, for new goods, higher than last year. This is true of dates, figs and peels. In onions market is getting quite bare. Valencias shortly expected. There are no crab apples.

SUGAR.—Dealers continue to carry full stocks, looking for higher figures. The advance is slow coming. Market seems very firm.

MOLASSES.—The features of the season is the small quantity of Porto Rico which has been imported; the quantity into Halifax is also very small, and the large quantity of fancy Barbadoes or syrup. This last is still somewhat of an experiment.

FISH.—In dry cod prices are rather lower, being nearer a fair value. Some pollock are also being received. There is improved demand for boneless fish, even from the best trade, particularly pure cod. In pickled herring prices are still high, though new fish are more freely received. Smoked are dull. There are still fresh salmon.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL. — In flour market is weak and lower prices expected. Oats and oatmeal still high. Cornmeal unchanged. Beans are quiet. Market rather firmer, particularly for yelloweyes. Barley and peas are very dull.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC AGENT.

W. H. Millman, of W. H. Millman & Son, Toronto, has just returned from Picton, the home of the Old Homestead Canning Co., for which W. H. Millman & Son are the western selling agents. He had been making himself personally acquainted with the recent improvements and additions to the plant. To a representative of The Canadian Grocer he said they were just about completing a huge stone and steel storage warehouse 200 feet by 65 feet and three storeys high. It is absolutely fireproof, not a particle of wood being used in its construction, and is also frost-proof and will enable the Homestead Co. to carry their own insurance.

Mr. Millman is more enthusiastic than ever about the company's plant and the product they are turning out. Another improvement is a great new cooling trough with automatic elevators and carriers. Mr. Millman declares it is the finest plant of its kind in the world. Replying to a question as to the outlook, he said the company was already sold as far as they dare until crops develop further. Mr. Millman says they had not a complaint from a single customer last year and everyone had given a bigger order this season.

EVOLUTION IN GROCERY EQUIPMENT.

Commenting upon recent improvement in grocery store equipment, the Tea and Coffee Trade Journal says:

The introduction of modern fixtures has developed what might almost be termed a craze for displaying goods, and the modern grocers are now vying with one another along this line. The fixtures, therefore, that are popular are those that combine, with convenience and economy in space, attractive display features. The day of the ostentatious fixtures is over, say the dealers in fixtures, and the business of the designers who strive to devise elaborate plans, involving much money and providing few, if any, of the practical requirements of the grocery business, is practically killed. It is not an elaborate show of wood carving, but an attractive showing of goods the modern grocer must have to make business. Elaborate decorations often injure trade more than they benefit it, say the up-to-date fixtures sellers.

Most marked among the improvements in fixtures are those shown by the evolution of the "bins," in which staple commodities are stored. A few years ago the bin was an unsightly thing with a square base and a lid that lifted like the cover of an old-fashioned well. Later some one improved matters a little by inventing the roll-top bin. But it still was unornamental and obtrusive. It was not until the "tilting" bin came that the possible attractiveness of these receptacles was understood.

Improvement has followed improvement in the tilting bin until to-day it combines beauty and convenience and affords the grocer excellent chance for display of goods. This bin works on a pivot and may be easily adjusted to any angle, thus enabling the grocer to reach its contents readily. It can be removed at will and therefore can always be kept clean. A patented false front affords splendid means of displaying the bin's contents. These displays, grocers assert, make many sales for them. The attractiveness of the goods, as seen through the glass front, tempts customers to buy. With the old-style bin there was nothing but a printed sign to tell what the receptacle concealed, and few people believe enough in signs to buy because of them.

According to the present plan of arranging a grocery store, the bins are topped by tea bins, with mirror or display fronts. Above the tea bins the shelves may be extended to the ceiling, if necessary, for the new rolling step ladders, heretofore used only by dry goods houses, are found in every modern grocery.

Even the centre columns, which support the girders in many stores, and which are usually considered unsightly, may now be made pleasing features of the place. These are usually cased in paneled oak or used for display of bottled and canned goods and cereals. The goods are usually built about the columns pyramid style.

Where counters are still used, the space beneath them is now used for barrels of goods. The barrels are hung from swings which allow them to be hung forward without effort, giving ready access to their contents. The utilizing of this space for barrels also prevents the back of the counter from becoming a receptacle for the refuse of the store.

It is now the correct thing to group spices into what is termed a spice nest. This makes them easy to handle and keeps their odors from reaching other goods.

Fixture dealers say that the demand for "full view" show cases—with both ends, top and front made of glass—has grown rapidly in the past few months. These are used for display of cigars, confectionery, etc., and add to the appearance of a store very materially.

The new computing scales are another of the improvements that have added to the comfort of the grocer. These enable him to know almost at a glance the cost of a quantity of goods and this without having to resort to pencil and paper. The new scales are fitted with agate bearings, instead of steel, making them more sensitive and durable.

The roll-top refrigerators continue to grow in popularity. Hundreds of them are now in use. They are attractively built, permit of a display of butter, cheese and other dairy products and require much less ice than the old-fashioned sort.

Invention has done away with the old method of cutting cheese. The computing cheese cutter makes it possible to cut off the exact amount required, thus preventing loss as well as unsightliness.

And a grocer does not need to carry the aroma of coal oil about with him any longer. The new self-measuring oil tanks enable him by the raising of a lever to draw from the tank the quantity desired. The improved measuring faucet will draw a gallon of molasses, in the coldest weather in one minute. It is absolutely accurate and prevents loss from dripping. The electric coffee mill that will granulate and pulverize in rapid fashion is another of the recent additions to the grocer's equipment.

B. C. CANNED FISH CLEAN.

The British Columbia salmon canneries are clean and their methods are clean. That in a sentence is the report sent by the chairman of the Fisheries Commission now busy on the coast in response to the following request from Hon. Mr. Brodeur, Minister of Marine and Fisheries at Ottawa:

"I am informed that the Chicago meat canning revelations have had a disastrous effect on the consumption of British Columbia salmon in Great Britain. Canners and English agents consider the situation serious. As the chairman of the British Columbia Fisheries Commission cannot be reached by wire I desire the sub-division of the committee now on the spot to thoroughly investigate and inspect the canning operations and canneries from a hygienic and sanitary standpoint and make me a comprehensive interim report to form a basis, if satisfactory, to cable to England to remove this apprehension."

The commissioners went thoroughly about their inspection and their report is a cause for satisfaction.

AMEND CODE NEXT YEAR.

Premier has Written so—Business Same Rights as Labor.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier has written to the secretary of the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild stating that the amending of section 520 of the Criminal Code to make the meaning of it absolutely plain would be taken up at the first session of Parliament next year. This is what the guild through a deputation to Ottawa some months ago asked to be done at the last session.

Sir Wilfrid, it is stated, has also expressed the view that the same right of organization should be extended to labor and business interests. At present labor unions are specifically exempted from the operation of the code.

AN ANALYSIS OF MEATS.

Chief Analyst Thos. McFarlane, of the Inland Revenue Department, collected throughout Canada for examination and analysis 322 samples of canned meats, Canadian and American, in about equal numbers. Only four showed signs of decomposition. Boracic acid was the only preservative of which traces were found and in no case exceeded the quantity fixed by the English Parliamentary Committee, 0.5 per cent. There were 51 such samples, 15.8 per cent. No distinction was made between Canadian and American goods.

The Department of Agriculture is making an inspection of the sanitary conditions, but the report is not ready.

A NEW INDUSTRY.

The Montreal city food inspector received a peculiar request recently Some person, a foreigner, evidently, by his accent, telephoned asking whether or not there was any city by-law to prevent one packing horseflesh for exportation to European markets. The food inspector advised the inquirer to call in person when the matter would be discussed. In European countries, some of them, there is at present quite a market for horseflesh for human consumption, and it is thought the person making inquiries has his eye on the future. Should permission to carry on the business of packing and exporting horseflesh be granted it would mean considerable work for civic officials. A whole system of inspection would have to be established and special slaughter houses erected, besides numerous other matters which would require attention.

The "Yacht Club" sardines may be had from H. P. Eckardt & Co.

Buyers of dates should communicate with H. P. Eckardt & Co.

EFFECTIVE ADVERTISING

Publicity for Specialties—Ten Advertising Do's and Dont's—A Grocer Tells How Advertising Helped Him—Some Things to Avoid.

SPECIALTY ADVERTISING.

Give more publicity to specialties. What is to hinder you from running a small ad on, say, coffee essences, condensed milk, lime juice, table jellies, etc.

There is a continuous call for such goods, but some people are apt to forget that their regular grocer has a stock. An ad in the local newspaper once in a while, or a circular sent out periodically, should make it clear to your customers that you can supply such lines as those mentioned above.

TEN AD-WRITING COMMANDMENTS.

No. 1.

Stop!—before you would write. Think! Then when you appreciate thoroughly what you would write—Go ahead!

No. 2.

Don't write all display, or very much display. "All display: no display." The more display is used the less becomes its emphasis, and "emphasis" is its only excuse for existing.

No. 3.

Remember you are not writing to please yourself, nor to meet the approval of the critics. You are after results and "results" is your goal.

No. 4.

Remember that what not to do is always as important as what to do. Sometimes more so.

No. 5.

Don't denounce your competitor. Make sure the goods you advertise are as meritorious as any on the market. Then there'll be no need or, even, desire for denunciation. Poor business is usually traceable to an inferior product which the public condemns as soon as it discovers its shortcomings. Be honest and honorable.

No. 6.

Don't try to produce wonderful ads with an empty head. As a well-fed, well-developed body gives the best physical work, so a well-developed brain produces the best mental work. There is no excuse for poor ads outside of brainlessness.

No. 7.

Be original. The world is just crying for originality, novelty. The successful man will be found to have been original.

No. 8.

Don't waste time. Wasted youth means brainless young manhood. Brainless young manhood means poor earning power, and poor earning power means penniless old age.

No. 9.

Don't quarrel. If you do, a quarrelsome, insidious spirit will creep into your ads—and you will be wondering why your efforts don't bring results like your competitor whose hand is always held out in friendship and good will.

No. 10.

Don't know it all. No one ever did, could or will, and even though you did, it would ruffle the equanimity of the next fellow to have you let him know of it. If the more you know the less you think you know you're safe. The man you despise can give you good ideas. Don't hesitate to take them.—Selected.

A GROCER'S EXPERIENCE.

"My fish department had never done much, and I had never made much of an effort to push it, but when my friend, Billie, the drummer, told me of the clearance sale to be instituted in New York by one of the largest wholesale concerns, obliged to go to the wall because of the extravagant living of the members of the firm, none of whom seemed to have had a definite idea of what their business was doing, I decided to take the trip down there.

"It seems that they had an enormous stock of sardines—the —— brand, which was listed pretty nearly everywhere wholesale at 26 cents. On these I offered a bid of 15 cents—the stock was being sold by auction—and constantly increased my bid a trifle as the price slowly went upward.

"Finally the thing settled down to two of us, the other being a large fish dealer from my own town. I knew him, but he did not know me, it seems. Fortunately for me, too, I had posted myself thoroughly on the market, before starting, so felt confident of my position.

"When he became aware that the bidding had dwindled down to the two of us, I found him looking me over. Evidently he must have come to the conclusion that 'I could not be much,' a small buyer, so he stopped bidding, his intention, presumably, being to purchase what was left at the low price of 21 cents—after I had bought a small lot. This would have been a clever move on his part—if he had sized me up right; but right there is where he made his mistake.

"I quietly told the auctioneer that I would take the entire lot. You should have seen my fellow townsman's face. He was staggered. But it did not take him long to wake up.

How much will you take for the lot?' he said.

"'Twenty-six,' said I.

"'I will give you 23,' said he.

"This I declined emphatically.

"And in the end he bought the lot for 25 cents.

"Now why do you suppose he did this? Simply because I was such an aggressive advertiser. He knew that I would do things when the goods arrived, and wisely decided to save me the trouble.

"It was the biggest day's pay by far I ever earned—and I made it only because of my advertising. Does advertising pay? Well, I guess."

Here we have a man who makes a grand day's pay on the strength of advertising he has done. Because he is known to be a hustler for business he is enabled to make a large profit on a deal without even touching the goods.

Now, is it not possible that you lose a great many good trades because you do not hustle, because you do not advertise sufficiently well?

Remember, the traveling salesmen are a wideawake lot. They know what is and what is not. Rather than tell you of a good thing they would rather tell it to another—if he is a better or more extensive advertiser than you.

He will do this because he knows well you will accuse him of overstocking you, in case the goods do not move well—if you are a poor advertiser, and rather than have you find yourself with such he will say nothing, preferring to let well enough alone.

The consequence is that you lose many desirable bargains. And there is no getting away from the fact that the man who buys cheapest is the man who can afford to sell cheapest; that he is the man who can play up bargains to the best advantage.

Suppose you show the drummer what you can do.

You can do it—and do it well—so just try.

To-morrow was yesterday—the day before that.

Play strong—now.—Brains.

Grocers should drop a line to Laporte, Martin & Cie., Limited, for quotations on French macaroni, vermicelli alphabets 1 lb. and loose, of the celebrated Marge & Fils brand. The Canadian agents are under contract for a large quantity. Prices are very reasonable.

J. J. Bridgetts, of the Hills Brothers Company, New York, was in Montreal on a friendly visit the latter part of last week and the early part of this. He called upon the trade in a friendly way in company with Mr. Thos. Montgomery, of Thos. Montgomery & Son.

The sea-borne merchandise exported and imported, of the port of Hamburg, during 1905 amounted in all to 17,374,218 tons, with a value of $1,268,161,000. As compared with the preceding year, this shows an increase of 1,500,000 tons in volume and of $123,900,000 in value.

Hunt Bros., millers, grain dealers and coal merchants, London, Ont., have been incorporated under Dominion charter. The share capital of the company is $140,000.

Messrs. L. Chaput, Fils & Cie., of Montreal, have made heavy purchases of Japan teas, new crop, at very low prices, and they are in a position to meet all requirements of customers at attractive figures. A large Chinese lantern is being given away with every five half-chest order.

On demand of Messrs. Laporte, Martin & Co., Louis Aunais, grocer, Montreal, has been caused to assign. Their claim against him is $693, and they allege that he has left the province. L. A. Delorme, member of the firm, has been appointed provisional guardian pending a meeting of the creditors.

T. H. Ellis, of T. H. Ellis & Co., grocers, etc., Mount Forest, Ont., is contemplating a holiday. "He'll take a long trip if the walking's not crowded," said a crockery traveler to The Grocer the other day. "T. H. is one of those fortunate people who can adapt themselves comfortably to all sorts of circumstances."

Mount Forest, Ont., old boys, come back for the annual romp and frolick between August 1 and 6 this year. J. S. Ireland, grocer, is taking an active part in the preparations now going on. His store turnout in a new dress will be a feature in the procession on the opening day. Mr. Ireland says business has been good with him all season.

C. A. Phair, general merchant, Lillooet, B.C., has issued a picture post card. The picture is entitled "Big Game Shooting" and shows a pile of heads and horns in front of the Phair store with this explanation: "Spoils of a three months' trip: 6 Rocky Mountain rams, 10 Rocky Mountain goats, 2 caribou, 1 grizzly bear, 1 black bear, 1 stag.

Peter Small, division court bailiff, Toronto, and formerly a locally renowned Liberal politician, is dead. For 10 years after coming to Toronto and until his appointment as bailiff, he was in the grocery business. Before coming to Toronto he was a hotel keeper and general merchant in Adjala, Simcoe County, Ont., where he was born.

Geo. H. Bradwell, Quebec representative of Sutcliffe & Bingham, Limited, Manchester, was married at Christ Church Cathedral, Montreal, this week, to Miss Elizabeth Shaw, of Manchester, England. After the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Bradwell left for a trip up the Saguenay, after which they will go as far west as Niagara Falls.

J. H. Christie, for three years manager of the grocery department of the E. J. Coles Co., Woodstock, Ont., has purchased a grocery, china and crockery business in Wingham. Mr. Christie and his family have made many friends in Woodstock and in business circles Mr. Christie is recognized as a man of marked ability, sure to make a success of the new venture.

"There is a demand, now being supplied by the United States, for about 10 carloads per annum of clothes pegs, and it is suggested that Canadian firms might profitably compete for this trade," Canadian Commercial Agent W. A. McKinnon at Bristol, Eng., writes: "The pegs now come packed five gross in a box, and the price would approximate 1s. 9d per box c.i.f., Bristol."

E. W. Gillett Co., Limited, Toronto, have opened an office in Montreal. Mr. A. A. Carrick is manager of the new branch, the office being room 508, Coristine building. The opening of this branch in Montreal will enable the company to carry on its Montreal and Quebec business with much greater facility. The company already possess warehouse accommodation so that now they are quite ready to meet the wants of the trade.

F. F. Adams, of Adams & Rogers, grocers, Cardinal, Ont., was a visitor at the Montreal office of The Canadian Grocer last week. Mr. Adams is one of the most progressive grocers in Cardinal and his firm is known as a most reliable and up-to-date one in that part of the country. He reports trade in grocery lines very active. Mr. Adams has long been a subscriber to The Grocer and says that he finds in it much information that is very useful to him in business.

Thos. Montgomery, of Thos. Montgomery & Son, Montreal, is again back at his desk after a serious attack of appendicitis, which kept him confined to his house over three months. While not yet in complete health, Mr. Montgomery is able to get down to business every day for a while. He has been receiving the congratulations of his many friends in the trade on his recovery. Mr. Montgomery leaves to-day on a short trip to the seaside for the benefit of his health.

F. Houlihan, of Houlihan & May, retail grocers, Sherbrooke, Que., was a caller at the Montreal office of The Canadian Grocer last week. He is one of the brightest grocers in the Eastern Townships, and as senior partner of the firm, has done a great deal towards placing it in the enviable position it now holds. Succeeding T. W. Fuller & Son, this firm has not only held the old trade, but built up a very considerable new patronage of the best class. While in the city Mr. Houlihan spent considerable time calling upon the trade.

NOT GETTING OUT OF ALBERTA.

James Turner & Co. are advised that a report has been circulated in Alberta that they are withdrawing from that province. This report, the firm assert, is without any foundation, as such a move was never contemplated, in fact, they are taking steps to increase their traveling staff, which they have quadrupled inside of the last four years. With the trade they have enjoyed in the west, which they followed up, even in advance of the railways, having commenced doing business in Winnipeg via St. Paul and Red River cart to Winnipeg in 1869, and extended their business with the construction of the C.P.R. through to the coast, it is hardly likely that they will ever consider in any way withdrawing from the territory.

The back of the blotter carries a pleasing lake view, with fishing and bathing details and a big boat landing at the Hamilton wharf. It's a good ad for Hamilton as well as the firm.

FREIGHTS AND CHARTERS

Continued Activity in Grain Shipments at Montreal—American Trade in Meats Going by the Canadian Port—Larger Shipments of Butter —Changes in Rates.

Shipping has been rather active during the past week. Conditions have been better than it was thought in some cases they would. The volume of the trade passing has not materially increased but shipping companies report very bright prospects for trade two or three weeks hence.

Canadian meats are rather slow. Trade with the other side is light in this line as it has been for some time past. There is considerable export trade in American meats through the port of Montreal.

Hay shipments have also been light. This fact is not surprising considering the state of the markets in the U. K. The present state of the market there precludes any better business.

Flour business has been very good in some quarters, while again reports are made to the effect that it is on the way to being quiet. On the whole, however, export shipments have been good.

Perhaps in grain, more than anything else, there has been a continued activity. Each day large quantities are going forward. One day last week something like seventy-seven thousand bushels of grain were transferred from the harbor elevators to the Montfort, which sailed July 28 for Bristol. This was a record days' transfer.

Manitoba oats are coming forward for shipment in very heavy lots.

Cheese exports have been heavy. The markets have been in such condition as to permit better business than formerly.

Up to last Saturday good business has been transacted in butter. Shipments might have been larger, but were very good considering what they were a few weeks ago.

The Jacona, R. Reford & Co. agents, sailed for Leith with cattle and a general cargo, cleared July 27. The Manchester Trader for Manchester with a general cargo, cleared the same day.

This week four changes will be noticed in the rates. Flour to London, Antwerp, Bristol and Glasgow has been advanced.

The above rates are exchanged on basis of $4.80 to £1 Stg., excepting that when freight is prepaid, the ocean proportion of the through rate must be collected on basis of $4.86 to the pound sterling.

If freight is offered other than specified above, on which steamship connections are accustomed to quote a weight or measurement rate at their option, prompt replies will be facilitated by giving, when applying for rate, the relative weight and measurement of the merchandise.

It is understood that when reporting Sack Flour engagements, a carload is considered 28,000 lbs.

It is also important that shipper's name be given for every engagement made.

He mentions especially the canned meat and canned fish industries, cotton yarn business, electric railways and the petroleum industry. GETTING A BIGGER FACTORY.

The F. F. Dalley Co. for the American Business in Buffalo.

Frank Menzie, sales superintendent for the F. F. Dalley Co., Hamilton, was a caller at the Toronto office of The Canadian Grocer this week, chuck full and bubbling over as usual with general good humor and enthusiasm about the way 2 in 1 shoe polish is going.

The company's American factory at Jersey City for the manufacture only of 2 in 1 is not big enough and premises have been secured in Buffalo. They are now being remodelled and the company expect ultimately to do all their United States manufacturing there. The manufacture of shoe finders' supplies also will be undertaken at the Buffalo factory.

On August 11 the Dalley Co's traveling staff of 18 or 20 mighty bright chaps will take a day off, and chaperoned by Mr. Menzie will spend the day on the Niagara & Buffalo Electric Railway System, from Queenston to the Falls, down the other side to Lewiston and back to Buffalo. The private car Oronto has been secured and it is fitted with ice boxes and other adjuncts to a complete larder.

The company recently secured the services of Mr. Williams, a consulting chemist of great ability, formerly with Winer & Co., and he is fitting up a fine laboratory at the Hamilton Works.

As a line on how 2 in 1 is moving Mr. Menzie stated he had taken an order from a New York firm for 261 gross, one gross for each of their 261 stores. W. H. Thompson and F. D. Menzie, of the traveling staff are now in Omaha and are meeting with fine success.

NO SULPHITES HERE.

The medical officer of the Borough of Bethnal Green, London, Eng., analyzed six samples of American canned meat goods, one of French, and six of colonial and English. Four of the American he found free of living organisms. One contained a quantity of sulphites. One, an old can of ham, contained living organisms. The French sample contained a quantity of sulphites. Four of the English and colonial samples were free from any improper matter, one contained numerous micro-organisms, the result of improper sealing, and in one, 7.8 grains of boracic acid to the pound was found. The analyst reports that the finding of sulphites in the samples leads to the inference that the meat, before being canned, was partly decomposed, and was dipped into sulphurous acid or sulphite to prevent the smell being noticed.

S. B. Campbell, brother of Jas. B. Campbell, has taken a position on the staff of th Acme Can Works, Montreal. Mr. Campbell has for the last sixteen years been interested in British Columbia mining and real estate and still retains a large interest in the west.

PRODUCE AND PROVISIONS

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN.

The situation on cheese remains practically unchanged. Prices during last week became firmer and showed a general advance of about 1-4c per pound, but this was mainly due to the previous decline in prices, which brought out new orders. At the present time of writing, the market may be called steady to firm from the seller's standpoint, who paid the advance at late country markets, but cable orders are scarce and bidding prices of British importers are careful and below our current market quotations.

However, it is our duty to state facts as far as known, regardless of any interests for either higher or lower prices as far as the near future is concerned. The facts are that there seems to remain a good consumptive demand in Great Britain, that we have no accumulation of stocks on this side of the Atlantic, and that the make of cheese is shrinking. These are all arguments against a decline in prices. Against this we have to acknowledge that present ruling prices are so high that it is hard to make anybody in the trade sufficiently "bullish" to buy more than pressing demands, and hold for an advance, in other words, there is a general lack of confidence that prices are safe for storing purposes.

The storing of cheese costs money; cold storage, insurance, interests on money and shrinkage in weight are very important items, and, to meet these expenses, the market needs to advance materially before a profit could be realized. Yet, last year's prices, at this date, were almost up to our present basis, and, as they paid holders in the end, and as we have considerably less stocks in Canada and a presumably larger consumption of cheese in the U. K., it may turn out all right after all to keep a few cheese for the demand later on.

According to the Montreal Board of Trade figures, our receipts last week were 121,816 boxes of cheese and 34,875 packages of butter against 111,418 boxes of cheese and 42,254 packages of butter for the same week of last year, or a total since May 1 of 993,256 boxes of cheese and 305,909 packages of butter, as compared with 954,481 boxes of cheese and 362,246 packages of butter for the corresponding period of last year.

The exports from Montreal last week were 106,671 boxes of cheese and 20,751 packages of butter against 112,756 boxes of cheese and 39,705 packages of butter for the same week last year, or a total since May 1 of 966,221 boxes of cheese and 157,794 packages of butter, as compared with 865,631 boxes of cheese and 232,583 packages of butter for the corresponding period of last year.

According to these figures we received since May 1 38,775 boxes of cheese more and 56,337 packages of butter less than last year, while our shipments show an increase of 100,590 boxes of cheese and a decrease of 74,789 packages of butter as compared with the same period of last year, in other words, our stocks of cheese in Montreal, if the receipts were correct, would be to-day 61,815 boxes less than a year ago and our stocks of butter would be 18,452 packages more than last year.

At any rate, these figures show a small increase in the make of cheese, a large decrease in the make of butter, a large decrease in the stocks of cheese in Montreal and a substantial increase in the stocks of butter.

This leaves us in a most peculiar position and demonstrates clearly the fact that cheese is a necessary article of food in the U. K., while butter is a luxury, especially when we consider the relative prices of both these products of milk. Cheese is dearer than butter, yet the latter shows an accumulation while the former shows a decrease in stocks on this side of the Atlantic. It might be said that Canadians rule the British markets on cheese and at the same time they have very little influence on the state of the butter market.

OUR LONDON LETTER.

By Our Own Correspondent.

There has been very little change in the position of the London provision markets. The firm attitude of cheese sellers has been encouraged by the fact that supplies from Canada have not been so large this week, whereas the consumption appears to continue unabated. And this in spite of the fact that the holiday season is here, and folks are leaving the metropolis in thousands.

The supplies of Canadian butter in this district continue to be very small, although slightly larger quantities are finding their way to the northern distributing centres. Quite recently there has appeared in a publication interested in Canadian trade, a paragraph to the effect that some importers around Leeds prefer to handle Canadian cheese in 60-lb. and 80-lb. weights. While it may be possible that a few men prefer to handle such sizes, the rule should be for Canadians to ship a 56-lb. cheese unless asked otherwise. There should be a recognized standard in this respect. It must be borne in mind that the smaller shop-keepers, who form so large a portion of the retail sellers of cheese, are often unable to stock more than one or two cheese, and a large one is apt to be inconvenient, both from a point of economy and clumsiness. Even the largest houses generally find the 56-lb. cheese the easiest to handle. As for quality, it would be well if Canadian makers could turn out an article with less solidity about it. That is to say, a cheese that would more easily fall apart under the knife—something with greater curdiness. Of course, the color of a cheese is always an important factor in its sale, and the whiter and fresher it looks the better. Sometimes it happens that Canadian cheeses have too deep a color, which, upon the cheese being cut up, becomes yet darker. This is not desirable.

With the prosperous times Canadian farmers are now experiencing, and the bright outlook for all branches of the Canadian dairy industries, it may well be expected that next season will see greater supplies of butter and cheese sent to this market than ever before. This is as it should be. There is room for it all. Now that the Canadian butter season is so near, it becomes increasingly evident how keen importers in Britain are to cultivate the acquaintance of Canadian shippers. Week after week the Canadian commercial agents are forwarding the names of interested men to their headquarters.

What is being done to help on this interest in the Old Country? It is all very well to say that Dominion shippers know where to put every ounce of butter and cheese they have on hand, but such confidence, in the face of keen competition, can not be wise policy. The produce trade is always of a very uncertain nature on account of varying productions and fluctuating prices. It is eminently desirable that the British public should be educated up to the point of asking for Canadian butter. Why? Simply because competitors have adopted such methods. Sweden and Denmark are extensively using the street hoardings in order to tell Englishmen that their butter is alright. They are creating a larger demand for their products, and they are seeing to it that their products do not prove disappointing. This is the kind of energy that makes trade. Of course there are men, even in the provision trade, who, ignorant of the efficacy of publicity, declare that it is impossible thus to make a demand, but facts are against them. A very great deal, however, rests with the shopkeeper, for with him rests the decision whether the public is to have what it asks for, or not.

There are obstacles, but obstacles were not made to be shied at. There was a time when the United States held such a hold on the British produce trade that Canada's chances of supremacy looked pretty small. Now that is all reversed. Moreover, with magnificent dock accommodation in London, and the co-operation of progressive and quite modernized steamship lines, everything is in favor of more perfect trade with the Old Country.

PROVISION SITUATION.

With the pork packers operating about half time and rumors of some suspending operations for a time completely, the statement that from 2-3 to 4-5 of the present output is going into domestic consumption seems plausible. The demand, especially from the Northwest, is very heavy. Prices for the raw and finished product continue to rise, while in the Old Country they fell away 3s. per cwt. Said a prominent packer yesterday, "We are now about 4s. to 5s. 6d per cwt. higher in cost than the present selling price in the Old Country." He thought 40 per cent. a very large estimate of the proportion of total output going into domestic trade.

The scarcity of hogs has now been felt 15 months and for eight or ten weeks, what the packers call the "very extreme" price has been ruling. At any rate it is the highest to extend over any lengthy period, that packers of 15 years experience can remember. The price this week is $7.65 to $7.75 f.o.b. country points. At the Toronto cattle market, fed and watered, it is $7.90 to $7.95, and off cars at the factory $8.15. Receipts at Toronto this week have been a shade heavier. October, it is expected, will see a considerable increase in the number of hogs marketed.

NEW CANNING FACTORY.

Work has been started on a new $150,000 meat canning factory in Montreal for Wm. Clark. The building will be constructed of pressed brick, cement and steel. The interior walls are to be of enamelled brick and the floors of the operating rooms of cement. It is to have 175 feet frontage on Amherst street and 130 on Wolfe street. There are to be four storeys in the front and three in the rear, and the building is to be ready for occupation this Fall.

COW TESTING.

How One Man Wastes Energy—1,000 lbs. of Milk Per Cow.

The Ingersoll, Ont., Cow Testing Association has the distinction of being the first this year to touch the 1,000 lb. mark as an average milk yield of all the cows. The report just to hand is for the 30 days ending June 21: Number of herds, 18; cows, 288; average yield of milk per cow, 1,004 lbs.; average test, 3.2 per cent.; average yield of fat, 32.9 lbs.

Two members of the association own cows giving over 1,600 lbs. of milk each. In strong contrast is a cow that yielded only 400 lbs. of milk during the 30 days. It was one of a herd of 13 cows whose average yield of butter fat was 24.3 lbs., the lowest in the association. One herd of 20 cows yielded an average of butter fat of 40.7 lbs.

The report of the Mansonville, Que., Association shows only one cow giving over 1,000 lbs. of milk in the 30 days ending June 27. One herd of 15 cows yields an average per cow of 852 lbs. of milk and two other herds not half that, 419 lbs. and 407 lbs. respectively. There were 16 herds with 262 cows and yielded as follows: Milk, average 589 lbs.; fat, average 22.6 lbs.

St. Camille, Que., association has reported 23 herds including 182 cows. One herd falls as low as 17.3 lbs. of butter fat per cow for the 30 days ending July 2. It comprised 10 cows. Another containing five cows has an average butter fat yield of 34.4 lbs. Its owner has just as good a cash income from his 5 cows as the owner of the other who milks and feeds 10 cows. "This," says the report, "looks like energy going to waste." The average yield of milk per cow for the association is 688 lbs., and of butter fat 26.2 lbs.

St. Felicieu, Que., association test for 30 days ending July 2 is reported as follows: Herds, 9; cows, 70; average yield of milk per cow, 614 lbs.; average butter fat, 23.4. This is the first report from the Lake St. John district where seven associations are now organized. The report says: "The records of this comparatively new and rapidly developing section will be followed with much interest. These figures show less variation in the yield than in any other association so far, the records being on the whole very uniform. The average herd test runs fairly high, sustaining the present reputation of the Lake St. John dairy cows; but for this time of year too many cows are yielding less than 500 lbs. of milk per month.

NOTES.

The value of canned meats exported from the United States in June, 1906, was $461,100, against $797,127 in June, 1905.

Litigation involving the assets of the Packenham Pork Packing Co., Stouffville, which went into liquidation some time ago, has resulted in favor of the liquidator, Osler Wade, and the creditors will now be paid in full.

PROVISION AND DAIRY MARKETS.

MONTREAL.

PROVISIONS—Since last report there has been practically no change in the market. Compound lard is in very good demand, there being in some quarters much more inquiry for it than for the pure article. Hams and bacon are in good demand on all sides. Present rather high prices, while having the effect of making buyers cautious, have not been the means of keeping down the trade to any great extent. Prices are steadily maintained.

BUTTER—The market is steady to firm, a fair demand having been experienced for the best butters. Shipments have been fairly large, although receipts are much less than a year ago, on account of the milk being made into cheese in preference, owing to the high prices obtainable for the latter article. In consequence holders are very firm in their views and will not sell under market quotations.

CHEESE—Prices have again advanced but the demand so far has not been encouraging at the high figures asked. Shipments last week were over 100,000 boxes, so that the goods are going forward almost as quickly as they come in. The market is quiet and nearly at top notch as to prices, so that many in the trade anticipate a small decline, although no radical reduction in values is expected.

EGGS—Strictly fresh gathered eggs bring good prices in the market at present, but very few lots are coming forward. Farmers are too busy with their hay to make any trips to the city unless absolutely necessary. Partly in consequence of this, eggs arriving are not of as good quality as they might otherwise be, being held too long before being delivered. Selects are quoted at 20c., although in more than one case 21c. has been obtained. No. 1 are selling at 17c.

IN NEW BRUNSWICK.

PROVISIONS—In pork and beef, barrels, there is little change. Business is very quiet. Pure lard after being a little easier, has been again advanced. Prices continue high. Smoked meats are high. Refined compound unchanged; a good steady sale. In fresh meats, particularly beef, business is not active. Mutton has a light sale. Lamb is lower, but cheap lamb not expected. Veal and pork are scarce.

SEARCHLIGHTS OF COMMERCE

Commercial Travelers of To-day and of the Days That Were—A Comparison of Methods and Habits— Keen Business All the Time.

The modern commercial traveler—the diplomatic, unobtrusive, gentlemanly, keen, present day "knight of the road"—is, of his kind, a remarkably interesting example of "the survival of the fittest," for truly the great army of business getters now is peculiarly adapted to the requirements of twentieth century people and methods.

Had Mark Twain served time as a "drummer" he could easily write an equally interesting and intensely exciting and amusing companion book to "Old Times on the Mississippi," under the title of "Old Times on the Road." A book, and a goodly sized one, would undoubtedly be required to convey to the uninitiated any intelligent idea of the old-time traveler's personality and achievements. Ability to successfully absorb unlimited liquid refreshment, smoke continuous strings of brightly banded cigars, loudly retail "the latest" stories, play unlimited poker and clothe his anatomy in raiment likening unto Solomon in all his glory, very often constituted a prominent portion of his most essential qualifications. In his expense account items for "entertaining" and "sundries" predominated, and as long as he "got business" the amount of such expenditure was rarely questioned. His customers, established and prospective, were wined and dined, smoked with and entertained in royal style. He was a "hail fellow, well met," everywhere; patronizing or obsequious as occasion seemed fit, sent forth to conquer large orders from the established—and flirt with the unacquired—country trade, mostly by the method in vogue of prodigal spending and showing the aforesaid "trade" a few pointers in the art of high life.

With the growth of the business world and consequent competition, however, new ideas crept in and have to a great extent supplanted the old plans of campaign. Modern-headed men decided that good goods could be sold on their merits—that liquor, cigars and the like were unnecessary and foreign to the issue, with the result that a new brand of commercial travelers handle the cream of the trade, to the mutual satisfaction of both sellers and buyers. And the change has been helped along not a little by an awakening on the part of the buyers to a grim realization of the fact that it was really their own money they were being feted with, and that just as sure as fate it came out of their own pockets, one way or another, in the long run.

The traveler of to-day is the searchlight of the ship of commerce, lighting up with far-reaching rays the channels of safe and easy business navigation, or quickly bringing to observation any dangerous or obstructive element. He is, or should be, the long distance eyes and ears of headquarters, and in this age of the measurement of brains against brains he must surely have a clear head and be extremely "smooth" to constitute a success. He must be strictly business from start to finish for the retail merchant has wearied of the rehashed story and blarney talks and much more appreciates valuable news and business pointers from a man he can thoroughly respect. His reports are regular and comprehensive and there is no reckless extravagance in his expense accounts. His real worth is measured largely by his sobriety—a point, by the way, that is considered first and foremost by the wisest heads of the best business concerns on this continent. And right here let us divert for a moment from the traveler specially to say that if any brainy, clever man, in any position, has cause to wonder why some fellow employe — possibly one who is comparatively slow and non-progressive —gradually but surely is promoted up the ladder of success, higher than himself, let such a man take an inventory of his habits and see if they are such as to warrant the perfect confidence of his employer. Let no man allow his sensible nature to be deluded by any foolish "yellow streak" that may be in him, into believing that the use of saloon side doors or breath perfume conceals the fact that he is more or less saturated with liquor, because it is always apparent to the person not so addicted, and to their abhorrence of a depraved habit is added disgust at puny efforts for concealment. If it is not a manly and approved of thing to drink intoxicating liquors and prostitute the brains publicly, sneaking around back doors and otherwise attempting to dodge the issue certainly won't help to gain respect. It would make a good many men squirm if they knew how thoroughly their employers are acquainted with their habits. Not only the banks, railroads and other big institutions, but merchants of every class nowadays avail themselves of means of quietly ascertaining how far they feel they can trust their employes, and sometimes for weeks and even months every movement and if possible every word is recorded by an apparently invisible agency. This system is no injustice to employes. If their way of living is clean and good it is most beneficial; if otherwise, they can blame nobody but themselves for results.

And all this relates just as directly to the present day traveler as any one on earth. Note well the respect of employer, merchant, fellow traveler and people generally for the man who exhibits sober habits, gentlemanly deportment, and honesty in all his dealings, for such is the eminently successful commercial traveler of to-day.

To such men too much appreciation and consideration cannot be shown by employers, for it is within their province to make ten-fold returns for every dollar awarded them, and furthermore, a few words of encouragement and praise when deserved goes a long way towards inducing forgetfulness of many weary days and nights of fatiguing travel during intensely hot or cold, dusty or wet weather, in all manner of conveyances — of unavailing efforts to obtain rest in ramshackle, bug-ridden "hotels," of luxurious repasts on lunch counter sandwiches and railroad coach drinking water—and last but not least, of priceless, lost forever days and nights spent away from loved ones and comforts at home.

FRUITERS ABROAD.

James Langskill has sold his grocery on Bloor street west, Toronto, and will assume his duties as president of White & Co., fruit importers and commission merchants, to which position he was elected at the beginning of the year. On Saturday, he and W. H. Desjard, the enterprising manager of the firm will leave for a week's business trip in the eastern states.

Adelit Beaudoin, grocer, 92 Fulford street, Montreal, has gone into liquidation with liabilities amounting to about $9,000.

A. E. Hopkins, representing O. S. Fellowes, Middletown, N.Y., manufacturers of solder saving machinery, was a visitor to Montreal this week. Jas. B. Campbell, of the Acme Can Works, did the honors in introducing Mr. Hopkins to interested trade.

WINDOWS AND INTERIORS

Is the Counter to be Done Away With?—Evolution of Grocery Interiors — A Bright Grocery in Walkerton, Ont.

INSIDE THE RED FRONT.

The Red Front Grocery, Walkerton, Ont., owned by J. W. McIntyre, is, on the inside, a pretty attractive store, unless the photograph from which the accompanying illustration was made is very much of a prevaricator. The grocers who live on the line of discovery, and that's where every food stuff man ought to be, will study every picture of a store interior in search of a new idea. There isn't any store in this country that cannot be improved. If anyone gets an idea from this picture, write and tell Mr. McIntyre about it. There should be a greater community of interest in the grocery trade.

PUT ON A GOOD FRONT.

"Old Country grocers pay more attention to window dressing than we do here," remarked an Old Country clerk now working in Toronto. This is borne out by the following advice by a Leeds (Eng.) firm :

"It is as important to have 'Invitation' written all over the outside of your shop as to have fresh goods, new styles, and brightness inside. People must see the outside ; you've got to get them inside. So make your first impression good, and it will count in your favor when money is being spent.

"A well dressed man is generally taken for a successful man and a shabby sign is in the public mind a sort of index to the quality and quantity of goods on sale and the service to be rendered. The great public associates a shabby shop front and dull sign-work with decreasing trade, old stocks and cobwebs. In days gone by a man could do business in a cellar or on a box, but those days are gone. You know who you are and what good things you have to sell. The public don't. You've got to tell them, and the first talk with them is from your own shop front."

THE COUNTER GOING.

"I believe it will only be a short time until the counter will be abolished from every up-to-date grocery store in America," says J. J. Frederick, in a recent issue of Eli Grocer, of St. Louis. "Already many eastern stores are operating successfully without the old-time fence between themselves and their customers; there is one St. Louis grocery that is doing a huge business, although it is counterless.

"Grocers who have cut out counters tell me that the innovation has improved business very materially. For one thing, they say the absence of the counter enables them to display their goods much more advantageously, while it brings them in closer touch with their patrons. Customers are able to view the shelf goods at close range, and if these are attractively arranged they tempt the viewers to buy.

"The place of the counter is taken either by a counter in the rear where all orders are filled, or by sliding shelves, such as those that add to the usefulness of roll top desks, arranged at intervals along the walls. The sliding shelves serve all the purposes of the counter and can be pushed back out of sight when not needed."

NEW PLAN OF WINDOW DRESSING

Here is an interesting method of window dressing applied by a Bradford, Mass., grocer, and described in the New England Grocer :

"First he fills the window with soil about four inches deep front, fifteen inches deep back. In the centre, away back, he places a large fern, while at each end of the window he places a small-sized century plant. Potted flowering plants in bloom are at various times bedded in the soil. Cut flowers, arranged with much taste, are added during the season. . . With the hours this busy, hustling grocer works he found it impossible to keep the windows clean. Flies would in a few hours spoil his best efforts along the old line. Mr. Taylor's arrangement of flowers (potted and cut), ferns, mosses, grasses, etc., were flanked by rows of large bottled pickles and olives, while lower down, facing the windows, were arranged the smaller bottled goods, stove polish and fancy labeled goods usually found in an up-to-date twentieth century grocery. Once each week the display is changed and windows washed. Potted plants, ferns, mosses, etc., were carefully watered and another window arrangement made."

A Walkerton, Ont., Grocery.

WALKER BIN AGENCIES.

The business of the Walker Bin & Store Fixture Co., of Berlin, Ont., is increasing so rapidly in the west that it has been found expedient to open distributing agencies in the west. Stuart Watson, 433 Main street, Winnipeg, is the agent for Manitoba, and the H. W. Laird Co., Regina, will handle the business for Saskatchewan and Alberta. Prompt attention will be given all western business.

FLOUR AND CEREAL FOODS

Harvesting Begun in the West—Quality of Ontario Wheat Very Good and the Yield an Average, if not More—Probable Revival in Oatmeal Trade.

Cutting wheat has commenced in the Northwest and grain men believe that the weeks to come will witness the harvesting of another record crop. Ontario Fall wheat is now practically all cut. The quality is declared to be excellent, but there is some difference of opinion as to the quantity. Certainly it is a good average, but some incline to the view that it will be a little better than that.

The outlook for the oatmeal and cereal milling in Canada is now very bright. The Canadian oat crop promises very well, while that in the States is poor. It is still a fortnight too early to speak positively of the Canadian crop, but if indications are realized there will be a marked revival of business this Fall, both in the domestic and export trades. Many inquiries are now arriving from the Old Country.

Present trade in oats and cereals is very dull. Not much business is passing in flour.

MONTREAL MARKETS.

GRAIN—Nothing new has developed in grain since last week. The market has been quiet and very little trade has been done in any quarter.

FEED—Owing to the very large demand for bran and shorts, prices have been advanced about one dollar. This rise has been caused partly also by the fact that many mills throughout the country are not at present running, owing to poor business obtainable. Feed flour has also been advanced. HAY—Locally, the hay market has not changed a great deal since last report. Very little is coming forward, farmers being busy with their new hay and not inclined to take the time to make deliveries. Prices are unchanged, although in some instances there is considerable latitude, according to the quality of the article offered. Figures hereunder, however, are about the average obtained.

In the U. K. the market is no worse, but perhaps a little better. The scarcity in London has induced some buying which has relieved the situation in Liverpool somewhat. In the former city 61s. is quoted, and in the latter 56s. The Manchester market is very weak at 52s., while in Glasgow conditions are improving, while prices quoted are 63s. to 64s.

CEREAL NOTES.

John F. Morrissey, representing Schultz, Baujan & Co., millers of Winter wheat at Beardstown, Ill., recently visited Winnipeg for the first time and was greatly impressed with the growth and possibilities of the western metropolis.

There is a demand in Great Britain for about 50 tons of banana flour arriving. Its chief importance is as a diet for children and invalids, for which there is said to be no question as to its value. H. M. Stanley, the explorer, spoke in high terms of its efficacy in gastritis, and the testimony of physicians in India and in the West Indies proves its value to those suffering from dyspepsia. The method of manufacture consists of drying and reducing to powder. The supply is uncertain. In London from $7.50 to $8.75 is charged per 112 lbs.

The Royal Commission to investigate regarding the grain trade has been instructed to take into consideration all matters connected with the grain inspection and the Manitoba grain act, and is given power to visit grain-growers and elevators all over the wheat-growing area, to inquire into the methods of handling the grain at the various stations, farmers' elevators, companies' elevators, the distribution of cars, methods of grain dealers in Winnipeg, Toronto and Montreal, the system of Government inspection and collection of fees, selection of grades, and the methods of handling the grain at Fort William and Port Arthur and other lake ports, at Montreal, St. John, Halifax, and in the Old Country.

HAY VERSUS GRAIN.

This week in Windsor, says a correspondent of the Toronto Globe, farmers got 56 cents a bushel for corn, but one man, County Councillor T. J. O'Neil, has long held the theory that it was more profitable to feed it. He kept an elaborate and careful calculation. In a sum of money Mr. O'Neil took home the other day from a sale of hogs at about seven cents a pound he figured he had been paid an equivalent of $1.25 a bushel for his corn, or nearly double the market price for the grain.

INDIAN TEA AND COFFEE.

The tea planters have been subject to vicissitudes of different kinds—agricultural, commercial, and fiscal—in recent years, but the last year has been much more full of promise. In 1905-6 the total exports were 214,000,000 lbs., or about 2,000,000 lbs. more than in 1904-5, while the value showed an increase of 5 per cent. This advance in price, the accompaniment, it may be presumed, of an improvement in quality, is encouraging to a long-depressed industry. England bought rather less black tea from India in 1905--6, but foreign consumers increased their direct purchases from 43.8 to 47.2 million lbs., the principal buyers being Canada, 14.95 million lbs.; Russia, 9.7 million lbs., and Australia, 7.75 million lbs. Scientific experiments for improving the cultivation and preparation of Indian tea are in progress. On the whole, the tea outlook is extremely good. The coffee industry, which has also been long depressed, is recovering from the effects of plant disease and Brazilian competition. The exports of coffee in 1905-6—viz., 360,000 hundredweight—were the highest for 16 years.

TRISCUIT TRUTHS

TRISCUIT is shredded whole wheat, made the same as Shredded Wheat Biscuit--except that it is compressed into a wafer and baked by electricity.

TRISCUIT is not a " breakfast food." It is a substitute for white flour bread and is used as a TOAST with butter, cheese or marmalades.

TRISCUIT is an ideal food for flat-dwellers, light house keepers, campers, for picnics, for excursions on land or on sea. The best of all wafers for chafing dish ookery.

TRISCUIT should always be heated in an oven before serving. It is made by The Canadian Shredded Wheat Company at Niagara Falls, Ont., makers of shredded wheat products. The TRISCUIT booklet is sent free.

DECREASE OF TAPIOCA.

The Grocer is in receipt of a letter from one of the largest importing houses in Montreal on the subject of the tapioca industry. Some very interesting facts are given therein which tend to explain the existing situation in tapioca. Our correspondent says :

"Referring to the subject of the tapioca industry as recently reviewed in your columns, we have before us several letters from correspondents in Singapore which may, perhaps, prove interesting to your readers.

"These letters confirm what we have already made public, viz., that the cultivation of tapioca is to a great extent being abandoned in favor of the planting of rubber. This fact is due in part to the increasing demand and consequent good markets to be found for the latter article, but apart from this the cultivation of tapioca is being relinquished voluntarily, and is also being discouraged by the Government in the colony on account of the way it exhausts the soil. Around the Singapore district they take three crops of tapioca, but in Malacca the planter is only allowed to take two crops off the ground. After these crops of tapioca are raised the land is left absolutely useless for practically a generation, one of our correspondents stating that he knows of land which has been waste for 50 years and probably more from the planting of tapioca. The concensus of opinion is that for some time to come people will go on planting more rubber and less tapioca, unless of course there should be a fall in rubber through over-production, or some insect pest or other cause. While this is the general opinion it must be admitted that in some districts in the colony itself there has been a revival of tapioca planting, possibly attracted by the high prices ruling for the past twelve months. This, however, refers to some districts only, and we think will not by any means counterbalance the pretty general decrease in the planting of tapioca. In Malacca, however, which used to be a great source of supply, all the available land has been used up, and on what is left that could be used, it is naturally preferred to plant rubber or such permanent crops. In fact, no increase is expected in cultivation in the native states. We think it is possible that there may be some reduction before this year is out, from the present high prices ruling, but we are satisfied that we shall not see for several years to come anything like previous low prices which have been ruling."

From the foregoing it will be seen at once that the present situation in the tapioca market is not at all surprising. Stocks locally were cleaned up long since and jobbers have been unable to obtain any new orders.

WHAT INDUSTRY DID.

Thomas Shaw, the new lord advocate of London, is a self-made man. The son of a baker, he earned his living as a lawyer's clerk while attending the university. His industry was tremendous, and the soundness of his scholarship may be judged from the fact that he contributed the article on Talleyrand to the Encyclopedia Britannica. He is a notable fly-fisher.

prove successful a considerable number will come next year.

From the Government fish hatchery at Ottawa there were shipped this year about 1,500,000 fry. They went to various lakes and rivers in different parts of Canada. The varieties comprised brook trout, salmon trout, grey trout and Atlantic salmon.

The balance sheet of the B. C. Packers' Association, submitted at the recent annual meeting, showed $483,000 of surplus. It was resolved that two years' dividends on preferred stock, which had fallen in arrears, should be paid, the last payment having been up to November 20, 1903. As it will take $87,000 to satisfy these preferred dividend claims for each year the total amount to be paid will be $174,000, leaving still a cash balance of $309,000.

The Ontario Superintendent of Agricultural Societies states that from reports received from vegetable growers the indications are that beans will be a light crop in all sections, and will be a complete failure in some owing to the blight and the ravages of anthracnose. Onions will be a fair crop, in spite of the maggot. In places celery will be exceptionally good, and will be fairly plentiful on the whole. In low-lying districts potatoes have suffered from the rot. The ouput of early tomatoes in the Niagara district will be enormous. In the Kensington district the blight has about ruined the onion crop.

GREEN FRUITS—Excellent business is being transacted in fruit at present. The warm weather has caused the demand to increase very considerably. All lines are in request. VEGETABLES— Dealers are quite satisfied with the amount of trade passing in vegetables. There is an active demand which keeps all lines moving. There can be no doubt but that the recent very warm weather has had a great deal to do with the large business being transacted. Old stock is becoming pretty well cleared up. Green peas are now about done, as are old carrots and old turnips. Canadian asparagus is now off the market. Good demand is GREEN FRUITS—Raspberries, owing to the hot weather and rain, will not last more than another week and probably this week will nearly finish them. Lawton berries are beginning to come in and there are prospects of a good crop. Early Canadian peaches and pears are coming to market and selling from 30 to 50c. a basket, allowing a wide range of quality. The imported fruits are in good supply and prices are rather lower than a week ago. Canadian early apples are considerably lower. VEGETABLES—The vegetable gardens are now putting forth their maximum quantities and there is an ample supply of pretty nearly everything. Corn is well started and the price has dropped to 10c. and upwards. Potatoes are a cheaper and promise a good average crop. Beans, cucumbers, tomatoes, turnips, cauliflower, celery and squash are all cheaper. Tomatoes are expected to take a quick dip. The hot weather is bringing them on very quickly.

BISCUITS AND CONFECTIONERY

The Grocer Himself Determines the Quality of His Trade—The Best Display is Essential to Handling Profitably the Best Goods.

Confectionery is a luxury and grocers should remember that. It is a trade to be cultivated and the merchant can, as he pleases, confine his trade to cent goods and cheap chocolates or he can have the best class of confectionery business with the highest priced goods. It is much a matter of display and advertising. Of course a modern plate glass show case with its several shelves is best, but a lot may be done with an ordinary counter show case. Dump into a show case a lot of cent suckers with wooden sticks pointing every way, next to that some wrapped goods and then some popcorn, flanked by paper bag prize packages, the display completed with a few trays of cheap chocolates, and you have a combination that would mean nothing to the young man seeking something nice for his best girl. It wouldn't attract any one but the undiscriminating youngster anxious to spend a cent that was burning his fingers. Every grocer has seen small displays of high-class confectionery. What looks better when properly arranged? The manufacturers go to much expense to make their products look tempting. The grocer who does not handle the goods in the same spirit is wasting their money and losing money himself. Nothing is more tempting than a good display of high grade confectionery and there need not be much of it, either.

BIG TRADE IN PEANUTS.

The sales of peanuts in the United States amount annually to eight or ten million dollars. Some dealers sell as much as a million bushels.

The seeds of the peanut are planted like beans, and when the vines have come up and the nuts are ready for harvesting the farmer takes a cultivator especially made for the purpose and starts down the long rows. On either side of this cultivator are two long knives which sink into the ground sufficiently to cut the tap root of the vine. The same process is gone through with on the other side of the vine. The main root being thus severed and the ground loosened, the vines are lifted into shocks like corn. They are cured by allowing them to stand in the sun for about ten days, when colored women and children are sent into the field to pick the nuts from the vines. An average picker will pick about five bushels a day, for which they are paid at the rate of 10 cents a bushel.

It is not known how peanuts first came to this country. Both Africa and Asia claim the distinction of being the home of this vegetable. Its first record in the United States dates back to 1850. In 1861 the crop amounted to about 50,000 bushels, but it was the circus that really made the peanut a valuable article of commerce. At the present time the crop amounts to about 11,000,000 bushels annually. Virginia and North Carolina still maintain their lead, but Tennessee now raises about 800,000 bushels, though of an inferior quality. Of the ordinary variety about 22 pounds make a bushel.

REMOVED TO HUNTSVILLE.

Walter Bates for a number of years in the grocery and confectionery business in Lakefield, Ont., has removed to Huntsville, Ont., succeeding Gilmour Bros. Mr. Bates has purchased the property he now occupies which besides the store and dwelling contains a bake-shop, where three men will be constantly employed making IXL home-made bread, the brand that has won such a good name for itself in his section of the country. Both Mr. Bates and his brother in Peterborough, Fred Bates, have been regular subscribers for The Canadian Grocer for a long time. Mr. Bates says: "while in the grocery business I bought many articles through seeing them advertised in The Canadian Grocer, including 'Bowser' coal oil tank, 'National' cash register, 'Dayton' scales, 'Wilson' confectionery scales, gasoline lamps, silent salesman, spice tins, gum machine, etc." Mr. Bates has had 20 years experience as a baker.

CONFECTIONERY NOTES.

There is talk of the establishment of a new biscuit factory in Toronto.

Canadian soda biscuits, classed under the heading of bread by the Customs Department, are meeting with much favor in Trinidad, the Canadian commercial agent writes, and fill a want amongst a class of people who look for a choicer article than the "cracker" of local manufacture which is in general demand by the masses.

TWO WAYS TO MAKE TEA.

Probably there's more than one right way of making tea. Here are two, each given by experts of big tea houses:

To brew a perfect cup of tea use only an earthen or china teapot—never metal. Scald the pot with hot water before using. Allow a teaspoonful of tea for every two cups required, pouring the boiling water on the tea. Never let the tea steep more than three minutes. The water should be boiled as quickly as possible, but thoroughly boiled.

Always make tea in a jug—Warm the jug. Put in a teaspoonful of tea for every two cups. Pour on fresh boiling water and set on the back of the stove for five minutes. Then pour the liquor off the leaves through a strainer, into the teapot, and serve.

HOW MUCH IS SUCCESS WORTH IN YOUR STORE

Have you a little time to experiment and the "pushiveness" to get value quickly?

Are you a seeker of "built-up-trade" goods with no desire to have to "talk up" sales?

To either offer a splendid inducement.

Given an opportunity by the right man they will draw trade from quarters where only "kickers" were supposed to dwell. Brought into a store where "others" are supposedly ensconced, "Perfections" will give a good account of themselves.

THE PRODUCTION OF BANANAS

Growth of Banana Trade—The Different Varieties— Yield Upwards from One Hundred Bunches per Acre—Canadian Imports.

How many bunches of bananas were sold in other than tropical countries thirty years ago? Or what is of more interest to Canadian merchants, how many bunches were used in Canada at that time. The answer to both these queries would, when placed beside the figures which represent the consumption to-day, show the tremendous growth of the banana industry in this short time, a little over a quarter of a century.

Bananas originally grew wild in certain tropical places, but afterwards were transplanted in different districts, until now they are grown, more or less, in almost every tropical country. There are certain parts of the world, however, where the fruit reaches greater perfection than it does anywhere else. In Central America the fruit produced is probably the best in the world. The bananas reach a greater size, grow in greater variety, and are all round a better fruit. In Cuba and the West Indies large plantations are cultivated, and the industry has a hold as far north as Florida. These are the only banana cultivating countries worth mentioning.

Many Varieties.

There are are over one hundred and fifty different varieties of banana grown in the districts mentioned. In Central America there are many plantations, covering anywhere from one hundred to ten thousand acres. The bananas grow from one to one hundred and seventy-five bunches per acre. The plant is grown in rows quite a distance apart. Each plant is cut down when it yields, thus permitting the growth of another bunch. When the whole stalk is cut down new ones spring up from the roots, the most healthy stalk being allowed to live, the others being killed. The stalk cultivated, in the course of ten or twelve months, produces a bunch of bananas, and then the same process is gone through again. The stalks are as large as a good sized tree, being from one foot to one foot and a half in diameter, and the leaves are in the neighborhood of ten feet long and two feet wide.

Large Shipments.

In the more cultivated portions of the country the bananas are sent to the shipping point by rail, or by boat, but when it is impossible to ship them in this way they are carried, bunch by bunch, by native women. At the shipping point the bananas are loaded on to the vessel by natives, or by loading machines made specially for the purpose. In the old days all shipments were made by sailing vessels, but it was found that these were too slow and entailed too much loss in time and money to make the industry a successful one. Gradually improvements have been made until at present vessels capable of carrying 40,000 bunches per trip are in the service. Refrigerator vessels are used also.

Arrived in northern markets, the fruit is shipped by rail, or vessel, to smaller markets, whence it is distributed to its final destination—the fruit and grocery stores. It is a common sight in several southern cities to see trainloads of this fruit going north every day.

Canadian Imports.

Canada imports in the neighborhood of one quarter to three quarters of a million bunches annually. In 1890 only about 100,000 bunches were sold here. The fruit is shipped to Canada, chiefly to Montreal, from New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Baltimore.

Nearly all the wholesale fruit houses are compelled to handle bananas, so great is the general demand for them, but there is only one house in Canada which handles them exclusively.

When the banana industry was in its infancy only the best fruit stores handled this fruit; nowadays every fruit and nearly every grocery store in the country has always in stock two or three bunches, or more, and the trade is growing every year, to such an extent in fact, that it is quite reasonable to expect the million mark will be reached in the course of a few years.

HOW TO MAKE ICED TEA.

An Expert Gives Directions for the Delicious Beverage.

Iced tea when properly made is a delicious Summer beverage. James A. McGuane, New York manager of the Salada Tea Company, gives the following excellent advice relative to the making of iced tea. The information was intended to be imparted to customers, and was contained in a letter to a president of a grocers' association.

"I am taking the liberty of making a few remarks about iced tea, which is used more or less extensively at this season of the year and which is made badly ninety times out of one hundred. In the first place, hot tea should never be poured on ice, and in the second place no artificial means should ever be used to cool it, until it is to be served. When tea is to be served iced it should be made two or three hours in advance and allowed to cool gradually; then the ice and lemon added just before being served. It will be worth your while to experiment in this yourself a little. Try pouring hot tea on ice and you will find a great deal of the flavor is gone. Then put some hot tea in your refrigerator and you will discover that it will soon begin to ferment and get more or less milky, which, of course, means spoiled.

"The right way to make this healthful, delicious and refreshing Summer drink is as follows: Use about one-quarter more of the dry leaf than you would when making tea to be served hot. Pour on boiling water and allow to steep five minutes (do not allow it to remain longer on the leaves — all the good can be extracted in that time). Pour off and let it cool gradually. Never use any artificial means of cooling until it is time to be served. Then ice and lemon can be added. The better way, though, is to put cracked ice and a slice of lemon in each glass. When iced tea is to be served it should be made two or three hours in advance, or time enough for it to get cool gradually.

"Claret iced tea is a most delicious and refreshing Summer drink, and it is made as above, adding a tablespoonful or less of claret to each glass. Put the claret in last; it will remain on top until stirred and gives a beautiful appearance.

"Don't pour hot tea on ice. If you do it will lose its delicious flavor.

"Don't put hot tea in the refrigerator to cool. If you do it will spoil in short order.

"Don't use a cheap tea for iced tea. It is poor economy at all times, and particularly when you are going to use it iced.

"Tea when properly made and poured off the leaves will keep for two or three days perfectly if kept in a moderate temperature."

TOBACCO AND CIGARS

Cigar-Band Collectors—The Source of Meerschaum—The Making of Cigars—Tobacco Leaves—A Cigar Factory Opened at the Capital.

Cigar band decorating is growing steadily in favor with the younger element, who have the fever for collections of any and every sort to a serious degree.

Just why it stays in favor so long would be hard, indeed, to say; but the fact itself remains.

Trays are its most popular form of expression—ash trays and queer placques for using in dens and such places whose furnishing is allowed to take in all sorts of oddities without question.

The work is all done by original groupings of the pretty bands, pasting them upon the under side of a glass plate. Then, when the plate is well covered, felt is covered with paste, and while in its moist state, is stretched until it takes on the shape of the glass, fitting without a wrinkle, and is trimmed off evenly at the edges.

Occasionally a photograph is applied to the centre of the plate the bands forming a sort of illuminated frame for it.

Besides cigar trays and plates, a number of other things are decorated with the bands. Odd-looking steins, for instance—which cannot be used, except as a fanciful bit of furnishing, as the felt lines them—are made, and the quaintest of tobacco jars; and, for a man's room, photograph frames to hold the picture of the maiden of his "pipe dreams," a graceful tribute to the "great god nick o' teen," whose devotees are so widely scattered, and many of them so fanatical as worshipers.

THE SOURCE OF MEERSCHAUM.

The following particulars of the meerschaum industry of the district of Eskischehir, Asia Minor, which, it is stated, supplies the whole of the meerschaum consumed throughout the world, are taken from the Bulletin Commercial (Brussels):

The chief sources of meerschaum production are found within six hours' journey from Eskischehir, the Sepedschi, Saricu, Odbscak Konigli and Jarmalar mines giving the best yield; but there are still nearly 2,000 points where meerschaum is extracted from the sea. The industry gives employment to about 4,000 persons, mainly Kurds and Persians.

The methods of working are primitive, and no attempt is made to secure immunity from accidents, although these occur from time to time. Batches of from three to fifteen workmen are set to sink a well about one metre in diameter, and no propping up is effected until they strike—at a depth of 20, 40, or even 60 metres—a bed of the red clay in which is found meerschaum mixed with serpentine, in pieces ranging from the size of a hazel nut to that of an apple. The extraction of these pieces is often attended with great difficulties, but the work is carried on day and night.

Once a week retail traders from Eskischehir visit the mines in order to purchase the raw material. This is brought into the town and passed through three cleansing operations; the clay adhering to it is then carefully removed, and the irregular pieces are rounded. The meerschaum is next examined by the wholesale merchants who have to possess considerable experience in order to distinguish the various qualities of the pieces, to calculate the number of these to a case (the product being sold by cases or boxes, not by weight), and to estimate their value.

When purchased by the wholesale merchants the meerschaum is humid, heavy and of a yellowish tinge. It has, therefore, to be dried, either in the sun or in a kiln, according to the season of the year; this causes two-thirds to waste away, but turns it a snow-white color. It is afterwards rubbed with hot water and sand, and finally polished with wax.

The meerschaum is then ready to be placed on the market, the pieces being sorted into four classes, according to quality and size, viz., Svia-Malay, Birimbirlik, Pembeli and Dockme. Each of these classes is in turn divided into eleven categories. When sorted the pieces are wrappd in cotton wool and packed in boxes of different sizes containing from 32 to 40 pieces of the first, or 75 to 90 pieces of the second quality; 100 to 200 pieces of the third quality fill a large box, which would contain from 200 to 400 pieces of the fourth quality.

TOBACCO NOTES.

The Joseff Tasse Cigar Co., Montreal, have assigned and creditors meet today. Arthur Wilks was appointed provisional liquidator.

A cigar factory has been opened in Ottawa by a Montreal man, and in a short time he expects to employ 25 hands and make 5,000 cigars a day. The present output is 2,000 a day.

THE MAKING OF CIGARS.

Ordering Room.—The process of drying out is liable to have left the outside leaves of the tobacco a little too dry for packing, and, therefore, the trucks with their load are taken out and placed in what is known as the ordering room. Here the tobacco strips are subjected to a current of humid air at a temperature of from 92 to 95 degrees, for a period of from fifteen minutes to half an hour. The trucks are then wheeled out and the contents removed and packed in paper-lined cases, after which the cases of tobacco are placed in storage for from three to five months, in order to allow the tobacco to make a further exchange of aroma. The product is then ready for shipment to the cigar factories.

A most notable feature in this stemmery is its absolute cleanliness, the free circulation of fresh air, the absence of dust, and the clean personal appearance of the people who are employed. Another feature that will be appreciated by smokers is the fact that the tobacco leaf in the stemmeries rarely comes in contact with the hands of the workmen. Machinery takes the place of human hands wherever possible, and this of course aids in keeping the finished product free from anything objectionable.

The manufacture of little cigars and cheroots by machinery was studied in a factory employing 1,750 hands, the largest single cigar factory in the world. As in the hand-made cigar, the whole operation is performed by hand, so here it is done entirely by machines, which handle the tobacco and go through the operations of bunch-making and wrapping with more than human dexterity and accuracy. The total annual output of this one factory reaches the figure of 250,000,000 cigars and cheroots.

As the tobacco reaches the factory in a comparatively dry condition, it is taken from the cases, dipped in water, and set upon a casing board to drain. It is left in this condition over night to insure distribution of the moisture, and is then shaken out and taken to the stemming department, where nearly 200 stemming machines are employed. In these machines the stems are stripped from the leaf. They consist of a pair of rotating cylinders, of the same diameter and carried on the same shaft, which are so placed that their abutting inner ends leave just sufficient space for the stem of the tobacco leaf to pass through. Engaging and projecting through the abutting edges is a circular rotary knife, which, as the tobacco leaf is drawn over the cylinders, neatly cuts out the stem, the two halves of the leaf or "strips" being wound on the cylinder. The process is repeated until fifty leaves have been passed through the machine and neatly laid one above the other in two piles or "books," as they are called, of fifty leaves each. The stems drop into a box below, and are ultimately sold as fertilizer. Both the binders and wrappers are stripped by this method. The books of fifty binders are now cut up into suitable lengths for the particular size of cigar that is to be made.

Automatic Bunch Machine.—In making the "bunch" (the rough cigar, before the wrapper is rolled on) in the ingenious machine for that purpose, the binders are carried in a box in front of the operator, and the filler is loaded into a large circular hopper at the back of the machine. The girl operator spreads two pieces of binder on a horizontal rubber rolling belt, and the requisite amount of filler falls from the hopper and is pushed down into the binder by means of a rectangular plunger. Then the belt, by a swift movement, rolls the bunch, which is picked up by the girl and placed in a wooden mold, which is provided with pockets for twenty bunches.

The bunches are then loaded in their molds onto trucks, each of which carries 250 molds, or 5,000 bunches. The trucks are wheeled to a hydraulic press and subjected to a pressure of 1,500 pounds to the square inch, the whole time occupied in pressing this number being half a minute. The capacity of the bunching machine may be understood from the fact that these 5,000 cigars represent about one day's output of a single bunch-maker. The molds are now taken to a machine, which cuts off the long ends of the bunches, after which they are carried, still in the mold, to the automatic rolling floor.

Automatic Rolling Floor.—The most ingenious invention in this establishment is the machine for rolling the wrappers on the cigars. The wrapper is spread over a die and held down upon it by suction, acting through a large number of holes with which the die is perforated. A knife, formed in the peculiar cucumber-like shape of the wrapper, rises through the die, and a roller passes over the wrapper, pressing it on the knife and cutting out the desired piece. Then another arm or carrier, which is connected by a flexible air hose with the curved suction pipe, picks up the wrapper by air suction. As it does so, a loop of wire rises from a little pot of paste, and pastes the end of the wrapper. Meanwhile another arm has brought over a bunch and placed it within a nest of three rotating rollers, which open to receive it. Next a needle comes forward, disengages one end of the wrapper from the carrier, and holds it against the large end of the bunch until the latter has made a turn and a half. Then, as the traveling carrier sweeps across the roller nest with its contained bunch, the wrapper is transferred and rolled on the bunch. Next the arm which brought over the bunch picks up the finished cigar, and places it between two rotary knives which cut it to length. As each cigar is rolled, the bunches, which have been placed on a feeding chain, are moved forward by the space of one bunch; and each bunch is picked up by mechanical fingers, taken over to be wrapped, and returned to the chain, without any human handling whatever. Here again machinery performs even more perfect work than is possible by human hands, and absolute cleanliness of the finished product is insured.

Humidors.—A marked feature in the manufacture of the product of this factory is the care that is taken to keep the cigars in the proper moist condition, which is done by storing them for a certain length of time in humidors. The humidor is a room of special construction, with brick floor and walls, in which the temperature and humidity are maintained at a desired degree. Cigars are liable to become too dry in the process of manufacture, hence, as soon as the wrapping has been done they are taken to the humidor, where they are drawn back to perfect packing conditions. From the humidor they are taken to the cigar packers, where they are carefully sorted according to color and packed in boxes of twenty-five, fifty, and one hundred. The packed boxes are placed in large presses, and left there over night. The next morning they are returned to the humidor, where they remain for a period of from three to six weeks, at the end of which time they are ready for shipment to the dealers.

TAKE YOUR DISCOUNTS.

Discounts are certain profits. Also, dealers who take their discounts are favored in many ways. This source of economy, which also insures prompter shipment of goods, is the beginning of success. In addition to making a good reputation, it enlarges your fortune and brings greater business opportunities. This custom is an index of business ability. Every business man desires prompt attention. Dealers who wish to get better service should form the discount habit and they will have their goods when requested, can have additional goods on short notice, and many other courtesies which are not valued in currency.

Every Business a Good Business

USE THIS CORNER STONE WHEN BUILDING UP YOUR BUSINESS

¶ Every business is a good business — how good depends upon how ingeniously effective and economic are the general business and office methods employed. "Office methods" is a broad term which includes accounting in a retail store.

¶ It all means that you must not blame your business for your troubles if you refuse to adopt modern methods—if you refuse to instal the Copeland-Chatterson Systems for Business.

¶ The Copeland-Chatterson System of accounting in a retail store consists of one active book, which does the work of a number of books intelligently, and without any undue effort on the part of the accountant.

¶ This one book is labelled "Monthly Account System," and stands in practice for just exactly what the label says. It is the only active book the merchant requires. He knows through it, at the first of each month, just where he stands, and his customers know just what they owe him.

¶ It 's labor-saving condensed and refined too, for one writing charges the goods and makes out the invoice. On any day selected, therefore, the statements can be promptly sent out to customers. Then you have recapitulation Sheets, Ledger Sheets and Purchase Sheets all indexed.

GOOD TRAVELLING

There may be no royal road to success, but a road can be built that may be travelled with royal ease. For many years such a highway has been in process of construction for the grocer, illustrated in the development and perfection of

WOOD'S COFFEES

The grocer of to-day profits by the high reputation and great popularity they have achieved. Do not forget that there is more money in pure, honest, high quality, uniform Coffees than in haphazard mixtures, however cheaply bought, however dearly sold.

OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND CANNED GOODS

Every one of them who has given this popular brand a trial in his store will tell you it was the best seller he ever had in stock.

The strong point about the Old Homestead Canned Fruits and Vegetables is their fine flavor. No other canned goods on the market begin to equal the delightful flavor of Old Homestead goods.

Partly the soil on which they are grown, partly the proximity of the fields to our factory, partly the light and cleanliness everywhere manifest about our premises, partly the experience and care of our processor—contribute to make Old Homestead Brand what it is, the Standard of Canned Goods Excellence in Canada.

If you have never sold Old Homestead Brand you are missing a good thing. Make a trial. Make it now. Ask your jobber or write us direct.

From "The Times," Niagara-on-the-Lake, July 27th, 1906.

An Industry of Which Niagara is Proud

The Delhi Canning Company an Example of Modern Cleanliness

Upon invitation of the management of the Delhi Canning Co., (Branch No. 13, of the Canadian Canners, Limited) THE MAYOR, COUNCIL AND OTHER LEADING CITIZENS INCLUDING THE REPORTER OF THIS PAPER PAID THEM A VISIT ON Wednesday, and although they were not expecting us until later in the week we found everything in spick and span condition. PLEASED COMMENTS BEING HEARD ON EVERY SIDE AT THE CLEAN CONDITIONS PREVAILING EVERYWHERE THE MANAGEMENT STATING THAT THEY INTEND TO LIVE UP TO THEIR MOTTO OF QUALITY AND CLEANLINESS, NO MATTER, WHAT THE COST.

We found about 50 women working on beans and raspberries AND A CLEANER LOOKING LOT ONE WOULD NOT WISH TO SEE, the forewomen stating that she was enforcing the Rules laid down to her by the management which were that every woman must be clean and tidy about her person, this they were greatly aided in doing by being provided with small towels which they had attached to their belts, they were stringing the beans and taking out any little particles that were left among the raspberries by the pickers, after this they were never touched by human hands, the rest being done by modern machinery, even being filled into the cans by what the Canners term a "Rocker," nothing but fresh clean water being used. HAVING A HEALTH INSPECTOR ALONG WITH US THE NEXT THING WE EXAMINED WAS THE SANITARY CONDITIONS AND FOUND EVERYTHING IN THIS CONNECTION ALL RIGHT THE SEWERAGE AND DRAINAGE BEING FIRST CLASS, HAVING A GOOD WATER PRESSURE.

The foreman stated that they washed their floors, etc., down twice a day, and as the floors slant to the centre and are connected with the sewer they were able to keep the factory clean with very little trouble. The toilet arrangement for both men and women were found to be also first-class, in fact, as good as you would find in a modern house. We next went back to watch the machinery AND COULD NOT HELP BUT NOTICE HOW THE MODERN MACHINERY AIDS IN PUTTING UP GOODS CLEAN. The beans after being strung by the women were put in perforated pails and blanched by boiling water then taken out and dipped into clean cold water, they are next Rocked into the Cans by MACHINERY. ALSO TINNED, CAPPED, COOKED AND COOLED BY MACHINERY, IN FACT THE MANAGEMENT STATED THAT MOST ALL THEIR GOODS WERE NOW PUT UP BY MACHINERY THOSE THAT WERE HANDLED BY HANDS, BEING THOROUGHLY CLEANSED BY STEAM BEFORE GOING INTO THE CANS. Just as we were leaving our ATTENTION WAS CALLED TO A LOAD OF BEANS AND RASPBERRIES WHICH HAD JUST BEEN BROUGHT IN AND IT WAS EASILY SEEN THAT THE QUALITY WAS FIRST CLASS, EVEN BETTER THAN WE WERE ABLE TO PROCURE FOR OUR OWN TABLE. WE WERE THEN CALLED INTO THE OFFICE WHERE SAMPLES WERE OPENED AND THE REMARK WAS MADE BY SEVERAL THAT THEY WERE AS NICE AS THEIR OWN WIVES PUT UP. After leaving the factory THE TOPIC OF CONVERSATION WAS THAT IF ALL THE CANNING PLANTS WERE LIKE THIS AND THE PUBLIC WOULD PAY THEM A VISIT THERE WOULD BE VERY LITTLE PREJUDICE AGAINST CANNED GOODS.

The remarks as above are equally applicable to each of our THIRTY FACTORIES. In ordering Canned Goods it will pay you to stick to brands as follows, viz : "CANADA FIRST," "AUTO," "LITTLE CHIEF," "LOG CABIN," "HORSESHOE," "KENT," "LYNN-VALLEY," "MAPLE LEAF," "LION," "GRAND RIVER," "WHITE ROSE," etc.

"QUALITY and CLEANLINESS," our Motto.

Yours respectfully,

CANADA'S PRIDE

SEASON 1906

We have now fully equipped our factory with all latest machinery, making it modern and up-to-date and will pack a full line of FRUITS and VEGETABLES. We are situated in one of the best districts for producing a fine flavor, which was fully demonstrated by our pack of last year.

We would specially call your attention to our system of naming the different grades of peas, as on the label of each can is shown the exact size of the contents; the different grades being known as Nos. 1, 2, 3, which assures the consumers of getting exactly, what they are buying, instead of the great variety of names now employed, which no one understands. We respectfully ask that you give our goods a trial and allow the consumer to be the judge, ASSURING you we will pack, only, a HIGH-GRADE QUALITY, which will create a demand. Remember the brand "Canada's Pride," the best yet.

STILL MORE HARD-PAN EVIDENCE

The total exportation of Japan Teas to Canada during the past season (according to shippers' statistics) amounted to only 3,700,000 pounds. The Government returns are not out yet, so we cannot vouch for these figures.

A short time ago the importation of Japan Teas into Canada was considerably over 10,000,000 pounds. In the meantime, the consumption of Tea has greatly increased. But, since the introduction of "SALADA" Ceylon Green Teas, Japans are rapidly disappearing, which is as we prophesied when we introduced them five years ago.

"SALADA" Ceylon Green Teas are sold in Sealed packets only.
Same form, style and prices, as the Famous Black Teas of "SALADA" Brand.

Quaker Canned Goods

There has been considerable discussion lately over canned goods, almost entirely over meats, but intentionally or unintentionally, canned fruits and vegetables have to a slight extent crept into the discussion. The highest authority in the United States on pure food, Professor Wiley, places canned vegetables as more healthy than the fresh vegetables usually sold on the market ; and it is easy to understand why such should be the case. Now, we have just finished packing peas, and the process is perfection itself as far as purity and a fresh article is concerned, and the same system and results apply to about all canned vegetables and fruits, but we will take peas as an illustration—and remember, it is Quaker peas, we are talking about. Whether it is one, two or a five-acre field doesn't matter, the results are the same. This year we had 550 acres under contract with the farmers, and all within a radius of three miles of the factory. Now, we had three men on the road constantly, almost night and day, watching daily every acre of these peas, and when they were just at the right age for canning ordering the farmers to cut and draw. As soon as the farmers are instructed they enter the fields, with mowing machines rapidly cut the peas down, vines, pods and all, when they are loaded on to wagons and conveyed to the factory where they are immediately, vines, pods, and all, threshed by what are known as "viners," but which are simply threshing machines built purposely for threshing green peas. After being threshed they are carried forward automatically by conveyors through various machines, blanchers, washers, filling machines, cappers, right into process or cooking kettles, where they remain for nearly an hour under a pressure of 240 degrees of heat, or over 30 degrees higher than boiling water. This intense heat kills every germ and prevents any possibility of any particle of life being retained in the cans.

It frequently happens that in two hours after the peas are growing green in the fields they are in cans, and our aim in any event is to have them in cans the same day they are cut in the fields. Now compare this with the fresh or more generally stale peas you buy on the market. Every housewife knows that the podded peas you buy on the market are frequently of the stale variety, often forty-eight hours old before they are cooked and the flavor largely evaported, and with the slight cooking they receive there is always the danger of germs or other imperfections that is not possible in canned goods after the scientific processing and cooking they receive.

OTTAWA GROCERS' OUTING

A Record Attendance and a Very Enjoy able Time at Arnprior on Monday—Interesting Programme of Sports—Music by the Guards' Band.

Monday was Civic Holiday at the capital and the Ottawa Retail Grocers' Association celebrated by holding their annual excursion and picnic to Arnprior.

They were all out — the Ottawa retail grocers, their families, and their friends. The "all" covers a lot, as it means a united and well organized and active body of busimen, men who leaving the cares and worries of business behind them, recked not whether sugar went up or down 10c., or worried about the short pack of tomatoes and other goods. They were out to enjoy themselves and it goes on record that they did. Despite the heavy drawback of the heavy Barnum & Bailey's circus counter attraction,—and what will worry the heads of families more than the importunities of the children around circus time—despite the baseball and other local sports scheduled for the city amusements— despite all these handicaps, the grocers turned out some 1,000 strong, and entraining at the G.T.R. depot, hied themselves to Arnprior.

F. W. FORDE, President.

There in McLaughlin's Grove—without a doubt the most ideal picnic ground and grove in the land—they disported themselves in the happiest manner. There were three trains from Ottawa and these were loaded to the trucks with happy passengers. The citizens of the lumber town on the Madawaska swelled the crowd in the afternoon by several thousand more, and altogether when The Grocer sized up the crowd, no less than three thousand people were on the grounds. There was nothing to mar the day. The weather, which had looked threatening in the morning, cleared up and though it was warm it was an ideal picnic day. The participants entered into the various sports and games with the greatest interest and enjoyment. It is a credit to the committees and management that every event on the programme was run off on schedule time—a feature often missing from similar sports. In this respect the Ottawa retail grocers can lay claim to uniqueness. Every event on the long programme was set down for a certain time and finished without delay. With one exception this was the case this year, the baseball match between Arnprior and the Ottawa Columbia team, which was scheduled for 10.30 did not come off on account of the non-appearance on the grounds of the Arnprior team. The silver cup naturally was awarded to the Ottawa team, which played an exhibition game with a pick-up team in order to satisfy the visitors.

All of the features were interesting, among the most being the great Comfort Soap race, in which thirty-six married and marriageable young ladies participated. The winner of the race was proud of her gold watch and the winner of this event will win a prize worth striving for. The dancing booth was well patronized and demonstrated that the young ladies of Ottawa are in the first rank in stepping the light fantastic.

The band of the Governor-General's Foot Guards furnished a splendid programme of music under one of the grand old pine trees that adorn the grove.

The refreshment booths, of which there were three, supplied the hungry and thirsty visitors with the necessaries. A number of the larger hotels down town, such as the Campbell House and the McPhee House, also catered to the hungry ones.

The committee of sports and attractions, of which A. G Johnson was chairman, consisted of E. Lamoreaux, T. W. Collins, C. McLean and E. Scannell, and all these gentlemen worked like the proverbial beaver to have things run off quickly and in order. D. Halliday and his megaphone were a great force in getting the crowds into line for the races and H. Moffatt and his lonely little pistol sent 'em off on the crack. Fred W. Forde, president; Herb. Booth, vice-president, and Veteran H. C. Ellis, secretary of the Grocers' Association were here, there and everywhere with help, advice and hard work. It is no wonder with an executive of this calibre that everything went off in a manner that would put many a professional event to shame.

The city travelers as well as country salesmen were on hand helping to make things pleasant. Among those noticed were Gerald Fitzgerald and John Hawkin, of the F. J. Castle Co.; Robt. Kennedy, of Forbes Bros., Montreal; J. Walker and H. Gamble, of the Weston Co, Toronto; John J Casey, of the Empire Tobacco Co., Montreal; W. J. Corby, of Corby & Foulkes, Ottawa; M. McCann, of E. E. Plain & Co., Ottawa; R. B. White, of J. G. White & Co., Ottawa; F. D. Cockburn, manager Montreal branch Comfort Soap Co., and Thos. Scott, the pleasant-faced Comfort Soap salesman in the Ottawa Valley.

Treasurer C. J. Provost was a busy man at the gate, and Mr. Davidson and Hunter Scott were able and willing lieutenants. Among the other active workers were noticed Mr. Warnock, George Shouldis, president of the Bakers' Association, who is always hand and glove with the grocers and a prime favorite and worker. "Say Corby," of Corby & Foulkes, was a striking figure and seemingly popular, judged by the frequent greetings he received.

The games were finished promptly on schedule time and the return journey to Ottawa made at 6.35 and 7.15, the latter being the special. "A perfect day, a happy time and a contented return" sums up the Ottawa retail grocers' annual picnic. The Grocer is indebted to the committee for the invitation to join them and their friends in the pleasant event, and wishes them as good and, if possible, a better time in 1907.

FIXING FREIGHT RATES.

Some time ago the Wm. Davies Co., Toronto, applied to the Railway Commission to have the freight rate on pork products from Toronto to Montreal reduced from 19c. per cwt. to the old rate, 16½c. The board have ordered a maximum rate of 18c. including terminal charges. The order provides that it shall not be compulsory on the railway companies to reduce the rate below 18 cents per cwt. as a consequence of any reduction because of competition below the normal rate of 30 cents per cwt. on similar products from Chicago to New York.

This is to be the basis for rates from other Ontario points to Montreal as follows: Peterboro, 17 cents; Hamilton and Brantford, 18 cents; Aylmer, Ingersoll, London and Stratford, 19 cents; Petrolia, Palmerston, Harriston and Collingwood, 20½ cents.

Commissioner Dr. Mills dissented from the order in the matter of restriction.

ONTARIO APPLE CROP.

Mr. Carey, Government fruit inspector, stated yesterday that the apple crop east of Toronto will be a very light one this season and that it will be light also in the Georgian Bay district where, he says, apple cultivation is going back on account of the scab that is affecting the apples in that neighborhood. He stated that east of Toronto the farmers are putting in 100 trees to one that is going in west of Toronto. He instanced one place, a mile and a half from Newcastle, where the farmers have planted continuous fields of apple trees.

John B. Campbell, of Campbell & Pinkerton, Pinkerton, Ont., is now dividing his time between business and Southampton, with its fishing, boating, bathing and good company.

W. B. Smith, of Davidson & Hay, is in the garden of Eden. That is what he calls the Niagara fruit district and he thinks it is the original or a good copy of it, at any rate will be when they grow figs there.

W. L. MacKenzie, of the grocery brokerage firm of W. L. MacKenzie & Co., Winnipeg, went east late in July on a month's vacation. Mr. MacKenzie will visit in Toronto, Montreal and Halifax before his return.

Some of the travelers between Toronto and Owen Sound struck hard luck last week with civic holidays. They found nothing doing in Orangeville Monday, Owen Sound Wednesday and Dundalk, Flesherton and Markdale on Friday.

B. Trudel, manager of the tea department of L. Chaput, Fils & Cie., Montreal, is enjoying a few weeks vacation at St. Tite, P.Q., where Mr. Trudel and friends own a lovely lake and outing grounds.

The citizens of Ayr, Ont., are arranging a grand picnic for August 15 to celebrate the opening of a new village park recently purchased by the municipal council. Prominently associated with the celebration are C. K. Morton, J. G. Watson, D. McCool and oth?r merchants.

J. B. Poirier, of Montreal, was in Winnipeg last week in the interests of the Beach Calculating Machine Co. Mr. Poirier was a prominent Retail Grocers' Clerks' Association man in Montreal and although now in another line of business still takes a keen interest in association work and in The Canadian Grocer.

Geo. H. Campbell, Toronto manager for Red Rose tea, is spending a few weeks with his family at Long Branch, Ont. Despite the fact that every day finds him at business during the usual hours, he is taking on a fine copy of a Muskoka tan. Geo. E. Taylor, of the same company, is also at Long Branch.

Dr. Pearson, medical health officer, of Brantford, Ont., has reported to the board of health that preservatives are being used in fresh meat in that city. For some time he has been secretly conducting tests and has found that sulphur, sulphurous nitrate and borax have been used, as well as starchy matter, presumably an adulterant.

John Haydon, of John Sloan & Co., spent the week end at Chautauqua Park, Niagara-on-the-Lake, where his friend, C. Kloepfer, Berlin, has a cottage this Summer. Mr. Haydon attended the Mount Forest Old Boys' home-coming celebration and will spend a few days at Kingston and Belleville and down the St. Lawrence.

Fred Rose has joined the Toronto traveling staff of Red Rose tea. He is well known to the grocery trade and the similarity of his name and that of his tea strikes them at once as something in the manner of a pun. When they hand it to him, as most of them do, without any diffidence or needless delay his answer is ready, "I'm thinking of dropping the F." He'll soon be known to the trade as Red Rose. He has taken the place of Geo. E. Taylor, who has undertaken some special advertising work.

W. Collins, one of Perkins, Ince & Co.'s Toronto travelers, has returned from two weeks holidays in Algonquin Park. He says that's the paradise of all kinds of outdoor holidaying, God's own country, the last resort of nature and nature lovers. Wood, lake and stream are as the ages have left them. Of his piscatorial feats Mr. Collins would not talk, not because there were none to talk about, but, as he said, "Fishing! Why, if I told you about it you wouldn't believe it, so what's the use?" So delighted was Mr. Collins with his sojourn in the wilds that he talks of organizing a large company of travelers to go camping in the Algonquin next Summer.

PACKING OF PEACHES.

If the grocer who usually supplies a prominent Toronto financier with peaches could have seen him Saturday on the Niagara Wharf buying half a dozen baskets of 50-cent early clingstones at a dollar a basket because the top layers were large and he thought they were Crawfords, he would have regarded it as a huge joke. It illustrates the unsatisfactory basis of the fruit trade in Ontario. The millionaire had a perfect right to buy them and to cart them home. The probability is he blames the grower and will buy his next peaches at the grocer's.

That is but one instance. A workingman with his wife and family was standing at a fruit stall in Toronto. They were on their way to Island Park for an afternoon out and husband and wife were debating whether or not to buy a basket of early peaches. They were 35 cents.

"We can't afford it," said the little woman.

"Oh, its only 35 cents and we don't go often. You can can what are left to-night. I'll help you," replied the good-natured man.

They got the peaches and got on the boat and the children danced around anticipating a treat. It was agreed they might have two each. The wife took out one, it was green; another and it was green and in a minute or two they knew they had been gulled.

That kind of thing hurts trade and until a more systematic basis is established for the fruit trade of Ontario there will continue a good deal of dissatisfaction and ill will. There is no reason why dealers should not buy Ontario peaches with the same sense of security they buy oranges or any other kind of California fruit. They ask for a certain size at a certain price and get it. One Niagara Grower has installed a grader and is sending to market under his own name two sizes of peaches and guarantees the fruit uniform in size. The grocers want his fruit. His neighbors want to borrow his machine. He is a pioneer in introducing business and system into the fruit trade. What a boon it would be to the grocery trade if peaches were packed of a uniform size throughout the package and they could be ordered according to size. The consumer would gain, too, and first-class peaches would be less expensive because they would not then as now have to make up the losses caused by poor and unsystematic methods. Of course, the remedy is in the grocer's hands, but if the grocers had a strong provincial organization they could do much to accelerate the movement.

NEWFOUNDLAND'S TRADE LOOMING.

The Governor-General's visit to Newfoundland with the rumored intention of preparing the way for the admission of the Ancient Colony into the Canadian Confederation is encouraging to the hopes of that increasing member of Canadians who actively desire to see the island, politically as well as geographically, a part of the Dominion. Commercially, the ties of common interest are being strengthened. The American consul at St. John's has submitted a report designed to bestir American manufacturers to take a greater interest in Newfoundland. He says:

"During the past decade Newfoundland's imports have grown from $5,986,861 to $10,279,293, while its exports have risen from $6,638,187 to $10,669,342, an expansion of the total trade from $12,625,044 to $21,148,635. During these ten years the imports from Britain have increased from $1,975,754 to $2,654,908, those from Canada from $2,231,641 to $4,105,569, and those from the United States from $1,973,721 to $2,750,114. In the year before last imports from the United States had reached their high-water mark of $2,991,022, and those from Canada $3,423,225; but it will be observed that the former have declined nearly $250,000, while the latter have increased almost $700,000.

"An analysis of the trade returns of the colony show that in the great majority of instances the import of commodities from Canada had increased at the expense of the United States, a fact attributable in part to the friction arising out of the fishery dispute between Newfoundland and the United States.

"There is need for vigorous action by American manufacturers if they would hold this growing and profitable market. The prosperity of the island is so staple and its trade conducted on such conservative lines that insolvencies are rare and its chief commercial concerns enjoy a high rating with credit agencies. The financial standing of the colony is such that its treasury reports a surplus of $134,000 for the last fiscal year, making the sixth successive surplus in as many years, out of which the Government has set aside a cash reserve of $450,000 and employed the remainder in adding to the appropriation for public services. The revenues, which are almost altogether obtained from customs duties on imports, have grown in amount in each succeeding year, despite the removal of taxation from fishing, farming, and mining requisites and from flour, molasses, and kerosene oil, staple necessaries of the masses of the people."

BACK TO INDOLENCE.

A good story is told of one of Toronto's wealthy young men. Some years ago, through the death of his father-in-law, he came into a position of affluence. He immediately threw up the position he occupied as clerk and spent his days in indolence except when participating in military functions or performing military duties.

A year or two ago he got tired of his life of indolence and decided to go to work again as of old. He went into a general store in Lindsay and worked as a clerk, even at times sweeping out the store.

This went on for six months without his having drawn a cent of pay. At the end of the six months his desire for the old indolent life mastered him and he decided to return to it. He announced the fact to his employer and suggested that he and the latter toss up as to whether he should be paid double the amount that was owing him or nothing. His employer accepted and won, so that he worked six months without a cent of pay.

EDUCATION FOR GROCERS.

Thirty years ago or a little more a gentleman now prominent in the wholesale grocery trade came to Canada from Great Britain, a young man and a thoroughly trained grocer. When he tried to get a position as a grocery clerk he was laughed to scorn. For two years he turned his hand to any kind of labor he could get, then by the good offices of a friend he was given a chance in a retail grocery at a mere apology for a salary. He knew a chance was all he needed. He quickly made good and in a few years was so indispensable that his employer not feeling able to further increase his wages made him a partner rather than lose him. That was 30 years ago; to-day Canadian grocers and provision dealers are sending to the Old Country for clerks.

The Grocery World, an American journal, under the caption "The Quality of Grocery Clerks," says:

"When one notes the calibre of some of the grocery clerks that offer themselves as competent help, the old-fashioned apprentice system acquires a value which makes one wonder that it was ever abandoned. Under the apprentice system a boy was bound to his employer for a term of years and became actually a part of his household. He was there not for the wages he received—for as an apprentice he received little or none—but to learn the business.

"And he did learn it in a way that not one modern clerk out of one hundred does. In England the apprentice system was used with retail clerks to a much greater extent than it has ever been used here, and the result is that English grocery clerks know much more about the technique of the grocery business than American clerks do. This is not altogether the fault of our clerks, but of the system under which they pretend to learn their business."

The system in Canada is as inefficient as across the line and it is high time some other mode of training was adopted. The Toronto Technical School is about to inaugurate another method if the grocery trade will evince sufficient interest to make the attempt appear worth while. Before arranging a course of lectures by experts, Principal Dr. Packenham wants to be assured of an attendance of thirty or forty.

The need for technical education in the grocery trade is past question. Everyone who will attend the course of lectures should drop a post card to Dr. Packenham, principal of the technical school, Toronto, and tell him so.

SHOO FLY!

This is fly time.

How many grocers can say, "There are no flies on my business?"

There's nothing much more discouraging to the eye and the appetite than a numerous company of flies in familiar association with food stuffs.

You can find houses with scarcely a fly in them; but they're clean and nothing is left lying about for the flies to feed upon.

There are stores without flies, too. The writer was in one this very day. It was a big store where an enormous business is done. But it was clean. Spilled sugar, molasses, tea, dried fruits and meal were not left to be tramped into the floor. Boxes were not stacked about in a way to make cleaning tedious and annoying.

The trick is to prevent flies, not catch them. If the flies are bad take the fly pad cure, but first clean up and make the place as uninviting for the flies as possible. No time spent keeping a grocery clean is wasted. If a grocer intends staying in the business a clean shop is his most valuable asset and will return usurer's interest on the value of the time spent on it.

CANADA'S COFFEE.

The prospect of higher prices for coffee, due to the paternal care of the Brazil planters by the Government expressed in the Valorization Act, will not cause Canadians much anxiety because they are not a coffee-drinking people. Yet it is interesting to note that during the decade from 1895 to 1905 Canada's consumption of coffee as measured by the imports more than doubled, increasing from 3,256,000 lbs. to 6,652,000 lbs. of green and from $27,000 worth to $93,000 worth of roasted beans, substitutes and chicory. While the quantity of the green coffee imported doubled, the value increased only from $594,000 to $641,000. There are two obvious factors to account for the increase in coffee consumption, the increase in population and influx of American farmers into the Northwest, and the increase in the number of American tourists and Summer boarders. Then it is likely also that Canadians are consuming more coffee per capita than formerly.

The valorization scheme is a plan to obviate the necessity for the planters, large and small, rushing the crop upon the market so precipitately as to cause a decline, and to fix the rate of exchange. In Brazil the currency is in such bad shape that the rate of exchange fluctuates violently.

A few years ago the Greek Government came to the aid of the vine growers when the country was on the verge of ruin through the over-production of currants. A company was chartered with certain privileges in regard to spirituous liquors on condition that it took all the currants offering at a certain fixed price. Thus far the plan has worked well. The Brazil experiment will be watched with interest.

Considerably more than half the coffee we use comes from Brazil; $304,000 worth came direct in 1905, $124,000 from the States, $120,000 from Great Britain, $135,000 from Arabia, $71,000 from Central American states, $18,000 from Hawaii, $22,000 from Mexico, $40,000 from Venezuela and small quantities from a dozen other sections of the globe.

EDITORIAL NOTE

D. H. Ross, Canadian commercial agent at Melbourne, Australia, states in a recent report to the Department of Trade and Commerce: "All Australian fruit landed at British Columbia ports should be subjected to most careful scrutiny by the authorities so that the Queensland fruit fly will not be introduced to Canada." British Columbia growers are pretty much alive to the necessity for keeping out foreign bugs in order to keep their orchards clean. But the suggestion is probably timely. Last year a beginning was made importing fruit from Australia. The total received aggregated in value over $6,000.

THE BEAN CROP.

The impression prevails at present that the bean crop of Essex and Kent counties, Ontario, will be a good average. But as about 50 per cent of the Canadian crop is usually exported the market is determined abroad. Reports of foreign crops and requirement are as yet very meagre.

THE REPORTER HAD IT FIRST.

In a recent issue of a Hamilton paper it was stated that R. T. Steele and R. A. Lucas would retire from the firm of Lucas, Steele & Bristol at the end of the year and start a new wholesale grocery business. Mr. Steele was asked by The Grocer yesterday if the statement knew about it was when we saw it in the paper. Have made no plans at all."

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

QUEBEC MARKETS.

FLUCTUATIONS—

Fish—Revised.

Canned goods—New prices in some lines.

Montreal, August 9, 1906.

Trade in grocery lines continues very good. Jobbers report a goodly number of fair sized orders arriving. These are easily filled and shipped on good time as stocks are quite adequate in all lines now in request. Some new prices have been issued on canned goods and these have been of interest to the trade. Peas are quoted considerably higher, which is not surprising when it is considered the low prices asked lately. Salmon lists are also out. An advance in sugar is expected any day. A very strong market rules. Japan teas are strong. Advices from Yokohama state that there will be some third crop teas, but that high prices will be demanded. This fact will not keep down trade, since it is very hard to obtain anything in Japans. Indians and Ceylons are held firmly. Spot stocks of currants are light. The new crop is subject to more or less discussion in the trade at the moment. It is thought that prices will be on the same basis as last year, or nearly so. Molasses is quiet, as is also syrups. Coffee does not present any new feature this week, while the spice situation remains unchanged. Evaporated apples are almost out of the market. Reports received from the bean growing district are favorable, and it is thought the crop will be a satisfactory one.

Collections are fair to good.

CANNED GOODS — For the season very good business is passing in canned goods. Interest at present is centred upon the new prices which have been given out. Salmon prices were the first to be issued, while later prices on peas, beans, and several lines of fruits were given out. Peas are considerably higher this year than they were last. In some instances 15c. to 20c. advance has occurred. This is not surprising to a great degree, because prices last year were low. Raspberries are quoted at a higher figure, as are also cherries. Gooseberries are on the same basis as last year.

SUGAR—A very strong market rules at present. The trade anticipates an advance at any moment. Demand has kept up wonderfully well, and much satisfaction exists in the trade over the amount of business being turned over.

TEA—Japan teas are strong. Reports from Japan state that there will be some third crop teas after all, but prices will be high. This news does not surprise the trade, as they have been experiencing high prices for all Japans. Very few lots of the medium and lower grades are coming forward, all shipments being bought up before arrival, full market prices being paid in every instance. Medium grade Indians and Ceylons are firmly held. Common and low grade Indian and Ceylon blacks are being offered at very good figures at present. The values offering are worthy of thought, considering the general upward tendency of the market.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS—Currants are light on spot at present, and are likely to be for some little time as it is still too early for new crop. As is known, the Privileged Currant Company have obtained further concessions from the Greek Government. It is thought in consequence that the market will be pretty firmly held throughout the year. At present it does not look as though there would be anything like a big advance, probabilities pointing more to an opening on about the same basis as last year. Tarragona almonds have again advanced, and dealers are now asking 14½c. to 15c. Short stocks held, and the reports abroad to the effect that the crops will be smaller than last year must be held accountable for the continued advances in this line. Higher prices for Fall are likely to materialize. Walnuts have again advanced and 13½c. to 14c. now rules. Shelled almonds are quoted at 26½c. Filberts are unchanged, while Brazils are again higher. Valencia raisins are practically unchanged.

houses report a gratifying number of mail orders. A new list of canned goods prices have come out this week and are about as expected. The salmon is about 75c. a case higher than a year ago, but above the already advanced prices on Fraser River sockeye, the new schedule makes an advance of only 5c. Peas are dearer than last year. The fine sugar market continues but the talked-of advance has not appeared. Otherwise, there have been no price changes to note this week

CANNED GOODS—Prices have come out on cherries, currants, gooseberries, lawtonberries, raspberries and beans. and are corrected in the subjoined schedule. Salmon prices also have been made known. One pound talls of Fraser River sockeye are quoted at $1.80; flats at $1.95 and 1-2 pound flats at $1.20. Northern River fish are 5c. a dozen less. Prices have not yet been made on cohoes, humpbacks and pinks, but they will be about half a dollar a case higher than last year. The price on Spring fish is not yet issued.

SUGAR—The expected advance in sugars in Canada cannot be much longer delayed unless the market abroad is to be entirely disregarded. New York prices have advanced again and are now 50c. above Canadian quotations. Dealers here are wondering why the price does not advance. At the end of last week Willett & Gray, New York, reviewing the situation in raws, stated:

"A marked improvement has taken place both in sugar conditions and in prices during the week under review, just at the time when it was to be supposed by many that the improvement in the raw sugar market, which has been going on for so long a time, would be nearing its completion, the market has taken on a new lease of life showing its vigor and strength in the phenomenal rising tone and tendency. The prevailing conditions now point directly to a further and sharper rise than any we have yet had in both raw and refined sugars. The prevailing facts now influencing the market are that the United States has drawn more largely than usual upon the Cuban supplies ignoring those of Java which have gone to other markets. Our Java cable of shipments is not yet in, but from what is known of the movement of the Java crop, through other cables, it is quite possible that up to the present time, some 200,000 tons less sugar has been shipped to the United States than last year. This leaves a minus in supplies of 200,000 tons from that source for arrival here.

"The drawing upon the Cuba crop leaves that market something like 100,000 tons minus supplies for the immediate future. When it is considered also, that there is nothing approximating these minuses, to be had in Europe, but beet sugar, under No. 16 D.S., suitable for the American market, and that European holders are advancing their general supply of beets, quite as rapidly as we advance, it will be readily seen that a more or less important crisis is coming in the matter of continued supplies of raw sugars in the United States to meet the largely increased consumption demand now going on in the country.

COFFEE—"The new Brazil Valorization Law," says Willett & Gray, of New York. "will now be applied, and enough is known of its provisions to justify the belief that it is easy of application and may have a great influence on coffee values. As its name implies, the law is intended to valorize coffee in Brazil, the object being to ameliorate conditions for the planter by practically financing coffee which might be forced for sale at a loss to the producer. The money needed to operate the law is virtually secured, and close attention will be given to next developments. Confidence in the effect of the law is shown by the higher level of values already established in Rio and Santos, where prices are far above the parity of New York. This, so far, is only a partial anticipation of the extra export tax that will be imposed to compensate for the expenses of operating the new law.

"It is in order to consider coffee on its own merits, apart from valorization. Consuming markets are obliged to buy in Brazil on a large scale, and Brazil now is in a position to dictate values. There is a good inquiry, and if some hesitation is shown to act freely at the higher level at the moment, it is quite evident the new situation will be accepted, and already the force of necessity has resulted in a good trade at the advance. The July movement in Santos was finally up to expectations, and, moreover, it indicates that strong interterests are making efforts to get as much coffee as possible within their own control for the advantages of valorization.

"The strong elements of the present position can be fully relied upon to sustain the coffee markets at a higher level during the ensuing active trading period, but the greatest interest attaches to the development of crop prospects for next season as every possible accident would appear to be favorable to the coffee markets and especially Brazil. It is this contingency of itself that should encourage every coffee merchant to keep his stock up.

"Prices are pretty firm at 8 7-8c. for Rio 7s; 9 5-8c. for Santos 3s. Firm offers from Brazil are above the parity here to quite some extent, but the trade is evidently ready to go on at the advance.

"The two leading brands of package coffee have both advanced 1 cent per pound since our last report."

TEA—A very good local trade is moving and Ceylon greens are slightly higher. The latest mail advices from London state: "The new crop is arriving in fair quantities, though buyers are gradually becoming more numerous, and with a fairly general demand the tone continues to show improvement. Bidding has again been active for good and fine kinds, and as a result, quotations are taking a still wider range—more in accordance with intrinsic values." Commoner grades of Ceylon were rather lower.

DRIED FRUITS—Until the new crops come on this market will remain very bare. A few sorting up lines of prunes were recently brought on from Chicago, 40-50's and 90-100's. A mail advice from London states that very high prices have been asked for new crop Valencias, but no business was reported.

N. B. MARKETS

St. John, N.B., Aug. 6, 1906.

Some report rather quiet business, but in the great majority of cases dealers are well satisfied. The feature of the week has been the advance in canned corn and tomatoes. In sugar, dealers still live in expectation. Exhibition continues a matter of interest. Work on the Winter port improvements and extensions is being rapidly pushed forward. Tourist business is at its height and the travelers are finding splendid weather. We have many beautiful side trips, particularly by water.

In rice, prices are rather higher. Spice in general very firm. Ginger and cloves high. Nutmegs are still low. Cream of tartar firmer.

OIL—In burning oil, Fall business largely booked. Spot sales begin to show improvement. Prices are firmer. Paint oils rather quiet. Turpentine is still high. Lubricating oils good steady business requiring active attention. Cod oil in fair receipt. Prices unchanged.

SALT—Sales of Liverpool coarse salt have been large. Trade now begins somewhat to fall off. There are good stocks. Prices are well maintained. In fine salt, Canadian has the chief dairy demand.

CANNED GOODS—Corn has become a factor in the market. The canners are short and local stocks, except in one or two cases, light. Prices have been advanced 7 1-2c. Tomatoes have been again advanced 10c. Canners, much to the dissatisfaction of the trade, have not yet made a price on peas. Gallon apples very scarce and higher. Salmon firm at the higher prices. Meats unchanged. New oysters are quoted. In domestic fish, sardines are likely to be a light pack. There has been a good pack of haddies. Kippered herring are now being packed.

GREEN FRUIT— In apples, prices lower and improved stock received. Oranges keep high; some Jamaicas offered. Lemons are high. Bananas a very large business. In peaches fine Georgia stock being received. These and Californias both high. Pears about as usual. Plums unchanged. Melons and Delaware grapes in good supply. Berries about done.

DRIED FRUIT—Spot seeded raisins rather higher. Bulk fruit in light demand. Prunes are scarce. In future seeded, prices unchanged. New Valencias not generally quoted, prices will rule quite high. Currants are quoted rather higher this year. Future prunes are low. It is expected package prunes will sell largely this Fall. Apricots and peaches out of sight. Dates, figs and peels are all firmly held. There are no evaporated apples. Some Valencia raisins now here; prices rather low.

SUGAR—While market is very firm there is no change, but it is daily expected. Full stocks are held and steady sales.

MOLASSES—Just at present sales are quiet. Some Barbadoes continue to arrive. Quite full stocks held. In Porto Rico molasses stocks are light.

FISH—Salmon season is past. It has been a good one, fair prices and large catch. A few Fall shad are now seen; nice fish. In dry cod market seems at the moment rather firmer. It looks like another season of high prices. Pollock unchanged. Little business in boneless fish at this season. Pickled herring continue high: smoked, dull.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—Flour continues rather weak, particularly Ontarios, which are quoted well below Manitobas. The question is can Manitobas hold at present price. Feed is scarce. Oats, while fairly high have shown a marked decline. Oatmeal unchanged. Beans are dull. Barley very little sale.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS

Halifax, N.S., August 7, 1906.

The local markets are now well supplied with small fruits, such as raspberries, gooseberries, blueberries, red and white currants, cherries, etc. Local grown small vegetables are also plentiful, and new potatoes are coming in quite freely. The weather during the past week has been very backward throughout the province, rain and fog being almost continuous, and the farmer has been greatly hampered in his operations, particularly the hay-makers. There is a very heavy demand for sugar, the price of which remains the same. The advance looked for by the trade has not yet gone into effect. Pork is a very scarce article on this market. It is hard to obtain good pork at any price. Dealers also find much difficulty in securing choice hams for their customers. Beef is easier, a drop of from 50 cents to one dollar being recorded.

Jobbers are now looking forward to the arrival of the first of the new pack of canned goods. Peas and strawberries should be along very shortly. Prices on the season's pack have not yet been made, the jobbers anxiously awaiting the quotation on peas. Currants are very firm and the stocks low. The new crop quotations will be announced shortly. Valencia raisins are about cleaned up on this market.

BUTTER—There is a slight falling off in the receipts of butter, due principally to the farmers being busy hay-making. The trade in butter, generally speaking, is a little on the dull side. Jobbers have good stocks on hand. Good fresh small tubs can be bought for 19 and 20 cents. Creamery solids are quoted at 22c. to 23c., and creamery prints at 23c.

EGGS—There is a fair demand for eggs, and good fresh stock is scarce, Nova Scotia particularly so. P. E. Island eggs are in good supply. There is a general complaint regarding the quality of some of the eggs marketed, some of them being far from fresh. It is thought that condition is brought about by the excessive warm weather.

POULTRY AND LAMB—Poultry is scarce and the quality poor at present. Chickens are in good demand, but they are small and the price is high, from 75c. to $1 per pair being asked. There is said to be lots of chickens in the country but the farmers are not marketing them. Lamb promises to remain high throughout the season. The local demand is good, but the supply is limited. Lamb is quoted at 12c. wholesale and 15c. retail, which price is almost prohibitive to the ordinary consumer.

FISH—The fish markets are now attracting considerable attention and the fishermen at the present time are reaping a harvest. Mackerel have jumped in price, and the fishermen are now receiving 8½c. for the large fish as soon as they are taken from the nets. There is keen competition among the buyers, though there are still thousands of fish in cold storage. Salt mackerel are also in very heavy demand, and large shipments are being made to the American markets. A Halifax merchant recently made a shipment of 500 barrels of salt mackerel to a grocery firm in Detroit. Fresh cod is very scarce at present. Some recent catches by local bankers sold at two cents per pound. Pollock are in abundance, and are fetching 90c. per 100 pounds. The demand for pollock is light. Haddock are also very scarce.

SUGAR IMPORTATIONS — The steamer Volage from the West Indes has just landed 5,987 bags of sugar here, and the steamer Meninon, also from the West Indies, is now landing 23,179 packages of sugar and 827 packages of molasses.

A number of important price changes will be noted in the market notes above and in the detailed reports which appear below under the various headings. Reports continue to be favorable and another prosperous year is confidently expected.

CANNED GOODS—New prices have been announced this week for October-November shipment of British Columbia salmon. As the catch is light quotations are considerably in advance of those of last year. "Clover Leaf" quotations have not yet been announced. We quote :

A MOVE IN EGGS.

(The Witness, Montreal, Aug. 2.)

The unsatisfactory condition of the egg trade, from the buyers' and dealers' point of view, has at last induced the interested parties to take some action in the matter. Reports were almost unanimous in condemning the quality of the offerings during the month of July, and hardly a district escaped criticism, though some consignments were much better than others. The natural course in such a contingency would be to reduce the price to the producer, and in this way enable the dealers to cover their loss; but competition has been so keen that buyers wanting eggs had to pay the price and meet the loss. It has been the complaint in wholesale circles for some time that there was no money in eggs under the existing conditions, and the farmer has been credited with scooping in all the profits this year.

The latest movement is a meeting of buyers in the west and it is expected that prices will be reduced 1-2c. to 1c. per dozen, and that it will still be possible for dealers to get the supplies they require.

From 15 1-2c. to 16c. per dozen has been the ruling price in the country for some time, but local dealers are hoping for a 15c. rate, which is nearer to the price generally ruling at this season of the year for straight gathered stock.

The "harvest eggs" will be coming in about the middle of this month, and better feed and more moderate weather will have their effect on the production, which is sure to show a marked improvement in quality for the balance of the season. Prices will probably advance when the quality of the stock warrants such a move, but at present values are holding steady.

A POSTAL DISADVANTAGE.

M. Moyer, grocer, 408 Spadina avenue, Toronto, has just returned from a two weeks trip through the State of Michigan. Speaking to a Canadian Grocer representative Mr. Moyer said that as far as he could see trade conditions throughout Canada were in better shape at the present time than in Michigan. The merchants throughout the state complained that since the new postal regulations had come into force whereby farmers and people living in the remotest districts had their mail delivered to them, retail trade had fallen off, owing to the fact that there was no need now for these people to come to town for their mail, and consequently the trade secured in this way was lost. Of course the mail order houses in the large cities derived benefit, because they sent their catalogues and price lists to these people, and in turn got their trade, as they could order direct from their homes and have the same delivered in a comparatively short time.

"MEAT OF WHEAT" HANGER.

The Western Cereal Co., 310 Ross street, Winnipeg, manufacturers of the new breakfast food, Meat of Wheat, are sending out to the trade a very handsome hanger. It shows a western harvest field where the farmer is "harvesting No. 1 hard wheat for Meat of Wheat." This hanger is free to readers of The Canadian Grocer and will be supplied on receipt of a post card asking for it.

BIG LOBSTER CATCH.

A most remarkable catch of lobsters, the largest for 25 years, is reported along the northern coast of Westmorland County, P.E.I. Men are making in some cases $100 a day, and one man in five days caught five tons, worth $360. Much more help is wanted, but the men cannot be got. The factories are not able to use the enormous number of lobsters caught and the rest are being put back in the traps again, and on scows. These have spoiled and are being thrown in heaps on the land as fertilizer. The catch is pretty general all along the northern coast.

W. P. Downey and family, Montreal, are at Old Orchard Beach, Me., enjoying the ocean breezes and the surf.

PRODUCE AND PROVISIONS

ONTARIO'S HOGS INCREASING

Results of an Inquiry Prosecuted by the Provincial Department of Agriculture —Breeds in Order of Their Numerical Strength—Bacon Hog Gains Ground.

The Ontario Department of Agriculture, "to place everyone interested in a position to obtain a more intimate knowledge regarding the hog production of the province," sent a series of questions to its correspondents throughout Ontario. The results are published in a bulletin (No. 149). The information is classified as to counties and a summary is furnished.

The Yorkshire is the most popular breed with Ontario farmers, then Berkshires, Tamworths, and Chester Whites in the order named. In the summary the newer districts of the province are not included because there all the few hogs raised are for local consumption. Out of the 42 counties remaining, the Yorkshire is reported the principal breed in 33 and in 14 of these very far in the lead. In 7 counties it is a tie with some other breed.

The Berkshire is first in one county, is a tie for first in 7, is second in 23 counties, ties for second in 8 counties and in 3 counties is third.

Tamworths tie for first in two counties, are second in two counties, in 8 others tie for second choice and in 23 counties come third.

Chester Whites tie for first place in one county, are second in one county, tie for second in two others, in 5 are third and in two others tie for third.

East and West.

Yorkshires are most numerous west of the County of Ontario and most of the Chester whites east of that. The Berkshire is scattered prettily evenly over the whole province. The Tamworths are mostly in the middle north of the province, Bruce, Grey, Simcoe, Dufferin, Peterboro, Victoria and Northumberland, and in Dundas County.

Taking the province as a whole the evident tendency is to produce more hogs of the approved bacon type. While the Yorkshires are increasing fastest numerically, the Berkshires show the largest percentage gain.

Pure bred sires are used almost exclusively in 25 per cent. of the counties. In 20 per cent. of the counties a few grade sires are used, in 20 per cent. practically all sires used are grade, and in the other 35 per cent. the graded and bred sires are used.

Increase in Production

In regard to production the bulletin says :

"The general tendency throughout the province is slightly to increase production. In the eastern part of the province it has been customary for many farmers to depend upon breeders in their locality for their supply of young pigs for feeding ; it has been noted that the demand this Spring considerably exceeds the supply, the breeders who usually sell their pigs retaining them this year on account of the good prices for hogs. It is quite probable that the feeders who are short this year may be inclined to breed pigs for themselves another year. Considerable caution is observed among many individual breeders and feeders not to go into the business too extensively, for fear that over-production might bring prices down to an unprofitable point.

"The number of breeding sows was decreased considerably during 1905, while 1906 shows an increase not only over 1905 but also over 1904. The reports indicate that in 21 counties the sows were decreased in 1905, while 13 counties report slight increases and eight counties report no change. Comparing 1906 with 1905, 35 counties report increases while only two report decreases, and five counties no change. Comparing 1906 with 1904, in 26 counties correspondents report increases, while in 9 counties decreases are reported, and in seven counties no change."

The increase is largest in the eastern part of the province. Reports indicate, generally, a lighter delivery of hogs this year than last up to September 1, so that hogs will probably be marketed heavily later in the Fall.

The cost of feeding is dealt with and the average given as $4.51 per cwt. in Summer and $5.38 in Winter. Most of the reports were estimates and where actual experiments were made the figures were much lower.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN.

The cheese market has developed further strength since our last report and all previous "bearish" arguments have failed completely. The facts are simply that there is a continued strong consumptive demand in the United Kingdom and that our make is decreasing considerably on account of existing weather conditions.

As previously remarked in these articles, cheese is the better paying product of the milk as compared with butter, and our farmers are quite aware of this fact. The result is that factories which are equipped to make either product have generally turned to making cheese, but the production of milk is far short of last year's production and the make of cheese has not increased sufficiently to create a surplus, especially as the consumption has undoubtedly increased very considerably.

There is so far no serious accumulation of stocks on either side of the Atlantic. Prices are so high that nobody considers it safe to hold any goods for a further advance, yet within the last week some orders were received here from Great Britain to buy and store cheese here, which indicates a certain amount of confidence among some operators on the other side of the Atlantic, that cheese will be wanted later on at advanced prices; but the question is, how much can we advance on our present prices, which are already abnormally high?

Statistics in the cheese and butter business are proverbially misleading, but we must pay attention to actual figures after all, as everybody calculates on the receipts, shipments and available stocks, the goods are made to be consumed within a given time, and the supplies in sight have a material effect on the shaping of the future market.

Our receipts in Montreal last week were 100,437 boxes of cheese and 29,933 packages of butter, against 103,523 boxes of cheese and 37,678 packages of butter for the same week of last year, or a total since since May 1 of 1,093,693 boxes of cheese and 335,842 packages of butter, as compared with 1,058,004 boxes of cheese and 399,924 packages of butter for the same period of last year.

Our exports from Montreal were last week 68,434 boxes of cheese and 15,743 packages of butter, against 78,112 boxes of cheese and 24,806 packages of butter for the same week of last year, or a total since May 1 of 1,034,655 boxes of cheese and 173,537 packages of butter, as compared with 953,948 boxes of cheese and 260,563 packages of butter for the same period of last year.

According to these figures our stocks of cheese in Montreal accumulated about 6,600 boxes and our stocks of butter about 1,300 packages above the accumulation of the same week of last year, or since May 1 we may figure on having 45,018 boxes of cheese less in store in Montreal and 22,944 packages of butter more than a year ago.

This still shows a very light stock of cheese on this side of the Atlantic and with the make falling off, it may mean very high prices for the balance of the season, if the present consumptive demand keeps up.

Butter, on the other hand, although relatively cheaper than cheese, shows an accumulation of 22,944 packages over the stocks of a year ago and the future is more doubtful than the future of cheese, as Great Britain regulates our butter market, while we regulate the cheese market there.

Recent reports from British markets speak of a good consumption of cheese and much lower prices of Canadian butter than our present quotations, which again bears out our previous argument that we make the market price for cheese in Canada and the United Kingdom makes the market price for butter, in other words, our cheese are needed for consumption in Great Britain and our spare supply of butter is only a very small portion of the butter consumption in the United Kingdom.

THE PROVISION SITUATION.

Hogs are lower and will keep going, the packers say. "They are still a dollar a hundred more than they ought to be according to the English market," declared a packer yesterday. Another packer said they would be 25c. lower next week. The prices this week are $7.40 f.o.b. country points, which is $7.90 off cars at the factory. The highest price reached for any one week was $7.70, though $8 was touched at some points where buying competition was particularly active.

The British market on pork products is very weak and does not show any immediate sign of improving. Large stocks of Danish bacon are being held and they are said to have broken the market. This is usually the month for an advance in Great Britain and the Canadian packers hope to see it yet.

In Canada the consumption of pork products is not so heavy owing to the high prices. On the basis of quantity consumption is equal to last year, but it should be greater in keeping with the increasing population and good times.

The packers are still guessing regarding the number of hogs in the market. Receipts at the lower prices are as large as before the decline. They are hoping that deliveries in the Fall will exceed the Government estimate of 15 to 20 per cent. more than last year. Packers in the export trade declare they are losing $2 a hog at current prices and that they are getting all the hogs they want.

NOTES.

J. Ogden Armour is said to be contemplating the erection of a new $5,000,000 meat packing plant at Minneapolis to meet the competition of the Swift plant at South St. Paul. As contemplated, it is to be the third largest in the world.

A very strict adulteration act has now come into force in Australia. Imports must be labeled or branded to show their exact nature and the country of manufacture. Exports also must be accurately described on the label and be free from adulteration and disease.

The Cumberland Pork Packing Co., Amherst, N.S., has held its annual meeting and declared a 6 per cent. dividend. N. A. Rhodes was re-elected president and the directors also were all re-elected. The business increased one-third over the previous year. The company handled about two hundred tons of pork, about two-thirds of which came from Prince Edward Island, the average price paid being about 8¾ cents per pound

PROVISION AND DAIRY MARKETS.

MONTREAL.

PROVISIONS—Locally good business in hams and bacon continues. All lines are in excellent demand at prices quoted. There is practically no export business worth mentioning. Prices here are too high, while quotations on the other side are too low to make export trade profitable. Lard is in fair demand at unchanged prices.

BUTTER — The butter market this week is unchanged but firm. Export demand has been only fair during the past two weeks, resulting in spot stocks accumulating. Holders, however, demand full market price, believing further improvement in the market is possible. The large make of saltless butter which was coming in a few weeks ago has dwindled down to a small percentage of arrivals, demand for it being almost nil. As a result nearly all the factories are making salt butter instead.

CHEESE—There has been a further advance in cheese, making present prices the highest on record in the cheese trade for the month of August. The demand the past few days has been rather light and so far more cheese has been carried over than for weeks past. Present quotations are certainly extremely high, and it is hardly possible that there will be a further advance, but this season has been such a difficult one to judge that the trade are not surprised at anything which happens now. Shipments last week were lighter than for weeks past, there going forward only 68,000 boxes.

EGGS—Since last week there has been little change in the egg situation. Prices are slightly higher, but not very much. Strictly new laid command 20c. to 21c. and for these there is a good market, but very few shipments have been received in Montreal lately which came up to the required standard. Poor eggs are not in good demand. Good No. 1 are quoted from 17c. to 18c. Dealers are doing little candling, preferring to sell at once rather than put away any stock. Within another week, however, dealers will be putting stocks into cold storage, that is if prices then ruling are not too high.

TORONTO MARKETS.

PROVISIONS—The advance of pork products continues, but the abnormally high prices are at last curtailing consumption and the likelihood is the advance will be checked. Short cut is easier, the one exception, and the reason alleged is that the season is about over and stocks are piling up. There has been a considerable decline in the price of fresh meat.

BUTTER—The market cannot be said to be unchanged, because most dealers are getting an advance, yet some large houses' figures are unchanged. The quality of dairy butter has fallen off some, which is usual at this season. The general supply, however, continues normal.

The advance in creamery prints is alleged to be due to increased demand owing to heavier consumption.

In fresh meats business is rather light, particularly in beef, while best Ontario stock holds at fair price. Domestic is lower. Lamb is still high. Veal scarce. Mutton dull. Pork high.

THE FIRST REQUIREMENT.

Are old ideals to be shattered? asks the St. Louis Chronicles.

You remember the Stephen Girard story. The merchant wanted a boy, and before two applicants placed packages and instructed the lads to open them. One whipped out his knife and cut the cord. The other carefully untied the knot, saved the cord and got the job on account of his thrift and care.

Is there anything in that story?

"Success" asked some of the merchant princes of the country and received some surprising replies. Some big merchants asserted that the boy who would untie the knot should be shown the door, because time is worth more than cord.

It is. In every concern that pretends to hold the pace, hurry is the word today. Time is literally money, and in stores and offices and factories the great endeavor is to do things in a less and still less number of minutes.

Could Stephen Girard return to earth it is doubtful if he could hold a job as a floor walker in a modern store, and he would probably be run down by an automobile on his way to lunch.

But one thing hasn't changed. There is still an opening for the boy who untied the knot. Methods are as important as men. Painstaking plays as important a part as ever and economy often means the difference between profit and loss. The boy who unties the cord and saves the strings is methodical. He can learn to move quickly. He is honest, for dishonesty has nothing in common with small economies.

In fact, he will do. He may not mount the ladder as quickly as the cord cutter, because he will not be sure of his footing on every round, but the chances are that he will, and stay up when he gets up.

There is room for both boys in business, but humanity is so constructed it will always place the most confidence and reliance in the boy who takes the pains.

Western Crop Suspense Nearing an End—Grain Prices Follow Chicago Lead—Very Little Business doing in Flour or Cereals.

In a week or ten days the western harvest will be saved and the grain trade of Canada will again be under way. At present every scrap of news from the west is read with interest. The decline of prices following Chicago's lead has brought things close to an export basis and some trans-Atlantic inquiries are being received.

Flour prices are following in the wake of wheat, but very little business is doing and the cereal markets are also quiet.

TORONTO MARKETS.

GRAIN—Business is very dull, except for some demand from millers on the decline. There is some Old Country inquiry for export of the basis of 70c. for wheat, 42c. for barley and 29c. for oats.

GRAIN—Grain is very dull at present. There seems to be no activity in any quarter. Some No. 2 Ontario wheat has been offered at 72c. f.o.b. Toronto and west. One firm has been offered No. 2 Ontario white oats at 32½c. f.o.b. Toronto and west.

The Liverpool market is a little firmer this week at 64 shillings ex quay. London is easier, while Glasgow is a little firmer, with Manchester about unchanged.

OPENING FOR FLOUR.

J. S. Larke, commercial agent in Sydney, Australia, writes: "A Sydney miller, who has visited the east in the interests of his firm, reports that there is a great future for flour in the Malay States and China. At Hong Kong a mill was in the course of erection by a United States firm, which would import wheat to meet its requirements. The boycott was still seriously affecting United States exports to the advantage of Australian products."

CEREAL NOTES.

The King Milling Co., Sarnia, Ont., have commenced to build a new brick addition, 42x35 feet, three storeys and basement. Manager Rennie states that when the new building is completed, the plant will be operated night and day. Business has increased steadily of late, particularly in the export trade with Great Britain. Sarnia flour is now shipped steadily to Glasgow, Liverpool, St. Johns, Nfld., Montreal, Moncton and other points.

The Dowd Milling Co's elevator at Packenham, Ont., was destroyed by fire with a loss of about $80,000.

The Brigden oatmeal mill, which has been undergoing a thorough and systematic overhauling and repairing under the supervision of one of the best millers in Canada, is now running again.

FREIGHTS AND CHARTERS

Schedule of Rates Largely Changed—Shipments of Butter and Cheese Fluctuating—Little Business Passing in Flour and Grain.

Shipping has been more or less active during the past week. For many lines there has been a very good inquiry from the other side, although some products which are usually counted upon as being strong factors in the shipping business between Canada and the Old Country are not in such demand as they might be. Flour is not much better, in an export way, than it was at the time of last report. Inquiries from the other side have not been numerous, and as a consequence trade has not been brisk. There is still some little business passing out through the port of Montreal to foreign countries, but it is not very large.

Dealers report that export grain trade has not been strong. Demand from the other side is such as to preclude the possibility of very large shipments. It is expected, however, that this line will pick up shortly.

Shipments of butter and cheese have been good at one time and poor at another, the size of lots shipped fluctuating. On the whole, however, trade with the other side has been very good. During the week some good round lots of cheese have been exported, while number of packages of butter shipped was quite large.

It has been given out that the dredging of the channel between Montreal and Quebec will have been completed by this autumn. Shippers generally are pleased to hear this news, for once the boats are able to proceed up and down stream without fear of grounding, much valuable time which is now very often lost, will be saved.

After another round trip to Montreal from London and Havre, the Allan liner Carthagian will be taken off the London-Havre service to be placed on the Liverpool-Glasgow-Philadelphia route via St. Johns and Halifax. It is expected that the Carthagian will be replaced, at least for the balance of the season, by the Samartian.

Nearly all of the rate quotations have been changed more or less this week, as is usual about this time of the shipping season.

Several boats cleared Montreal port last Saturday, among them being: The Allan liner Carthaginian for London and Havre, the Dominion liner Manxman for Avonmouth, R. Reford & Co's Devona for London, and the Kensington of the Dominion line for Liverpool. All these vessels carried general cargoes.

SALMON PRICES.

The Corby Commission Co., New York, have issued the following salmon prices: Clover Leaf, talls, $5.75; Clover Leaf, flats, $6.25; Rivers Inlet O-Wee-Kay-No, $5.50; Humpback, $3; Cohoes, $4.25.

Jos. E. Ethier, manager Laporte, Martin & Cie, Montreal, is out of town at present.

These rates are for general information only, and are subject to change at any time without notice; it is therefore important that all contracts must be reported by wire and confirmation obtained before closing with shippers, and unless specifically stated to be prompt shipment, or shipped within ten days after date of contract from the west.

The above rates are exchanged on basis of $4.80 to £1 Stg., excepting that when freight is prepaid, the ocean proportion of the through rate must be collected on basis of $4.86 to the pound sterling.

If freight is offered other than specified above, on which steamship connections are accustomed to quote a weight or measurement rate at their option, prompt replies will be facilitated by giving, when applying for rate, the relative weight and measurement of the merchandise.

It is understood that when reporting Sack Flour engagements, a carload is considered 28,000 lbs.

It is also important that shipper's name be given for every engagement made.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Outlook is for a Good Average Peach Crop—One Grocer's Interesting Experience in Grading Peaches—Big Tomato Crop—Lower Prices.

The fruit trade is now lying back a little in anticipation of the Crawford peach crop, which will not begin to move till about September 1. No one is idle, however, and throughout the Dominion a heavy business in fruit is passing. A few yellow fellstone peaches, the Yellow St. John, are expected on the market by the 25th, but the genuine Crawford will not be ready till about the 1st. The peach crop in Ontario is now declared to be a good average crop and somewhat less than last year.

The early peaches now coming forward are not very satisfactory. "You can stand and watch them spoil," declared one large Toronto dealer. A grower stood on the dock at Niagara on Saturday and saw a prominent Toronto financier buy half a dozen baskets in the belief that they were Crawfords and pay a dollar a basket for them. The market price was about 50c. They were fit only for eating and that with little delay; but the financier told his wife how nicely they would do for canning. They were transported to the vessel with great care, the seller carrying three baskets, the financier two and his wife one. The grower took a look at them later and saw they were nice on top and small and green underneath. The great man's grocer would enjoy this story if he knew.

The early tomatoes are a large crop and prices took a tumble this week. The later variety are a good average crop, but they are not selling any too well.

Pears are an average crop; the quality is good and they are nice and clean. Grapes also will be a good crop and without much fungus.

MONTREAL MARKETS.

GREEN FRUITS — Warm weather such as we have been having helps the fruit trade in one way and does not in another. During the week there has been a good healthy trade in all lines. If the weather was more moderately warm no doubt trade would have been much better. Black and Lawton berries and black currants are among the new lines quoted this week. Cherries are now out of the market, while raspberries have been advanced one cent. New apples are arriving very freely, while shipments of plums have been numerous enough to enable dealers to lower the price somewhat.

VEGETABLES—There have been few changes in quotations this week. Tomatoes are now arriving much more freely and are selling from 75c. to 90c. a box. Some baskets are obtainable at 60c. Old turnips and old carrots are now entirely out of the market, and new stock is now coming in freely enough to supply all wants. Corn has declined considerably since last week, dealers now quoting 10c. a dozen. Cucumbers are very plentiful and find ready sale from 10c. to 15c. per dozen. Business is very good.

FISH—For the season of the year very good trade is passing in fish. Recent very warm weather has had the effect of keeping the demand lower than it would otherwise have been. Quotations this week have not been greatly changed. Dore, which is becoming scarce, has been advanced to 9c. Pike, trout, whitefish, and other lake fish are not plentiful now and will not be so until September 1. Arrivals of codfish and haddock have been numerous and prices are low. Skinless cod is quoted $5.75.

GRADING PEACHES.

W. O. Burgess Makes a Beginning—Good for all Concerned

W. O. Burgess, a fruit grower of the Niagara peninsula, and some dealers would say "the" fruit grower, told a Canadian Grocer representative yesterday of a departure in marketing his fruit which had both paid him and created a demand for his output among grocers catering to the best trade. He purchased a grader for peaches and fitted up padded bins. He now markets under his own name two sizes, the "good family," between 2¼ and 2½ inches in diameter, and the "extra," over 2½ inches. On every basket he places a label stating the size and guaranteeing the fruit uniform throughout. Then the fruit is rowed and properly packed. The small fruit that is left is put on the market to bring what it will.

On more than one occasion Mr. Burgess has tested the economic value of the plan. Take one instance. He had on one occasion 900 baskets of peaches. Of these he graded 700 baskets and shipped them, two sizes under his name and one unidentified. The other 200 he shipped ungraded to another commission house. The 700 baskets averaged him between 40c and 45c a basket, the 200 only 22½c. a basket.

Once Mr. Burgess had a difference with the firm he was shipping to and sent the next shipment to another house. His old house kicked up a row because they had sold a hundred baskets of his stuff ahead to grocers who had ordered them by size.

Mr. Burgess thinks the time is coming when fruit will be graded and packed in Ontario as it is in California, and his opinion is that grower, dealer and consumer will all benefit.

WILL BUY FRUIT AND POTATOES.

J. S. Larke, Canadian commercial agent at Sydney, Australia, reports that the potato crop in New Zealand is a failure owing to disease. On that account there will not be any export of oats and that therefore there will be a market in Australia for Canadian oats in October, November and December. There will be an opening, too, for all British Columbia's surplus potatoes. There are likely to be inquiries in October, he says, also for good Canadian apples the failure of some shipments last year. The three steamers of the line between Canada and Australia will all be filled with cold storage for fruit. He adds, "The prosperous condition of Australia has increased the number of purchasers of high class fruit, hence there will be a demand for an increased quantity, for which good prices will be paid. The best dessert fruit is now commanding 15s. per bushel here wholesale, and the prices will be higher in October."

Sardines have now reached the Nova Scotia coast. The fish are somewhat late and fishermen feared the catch would be very small. Sixty hogsheads were brought to one port in a single day and the outlook now is for a good season.

REPUTATION—THE GREAT THING NECESSARY.

The great thing necessary to success in business, and in life for that matter, is to secure a reputation.

Once your reputation is made the rest is easy. Emerson said, "If a man writes a better book, preaches a better sermon or makes a better mouse trap than his neighbor, though he build his house in the woods the world will make a beaten path to his door."

Such is reputation. It's worth a mighty effort. It's no easy matter, however, making it. It's a hard, slow process. It requires much skill, great patience, and infinite persistence.

Reputation is the world's estimate of the man or the concern; and the world is suspicious, and slow to appreciate or applaud but quick to condemn. It's a long hard pull up to a good reputation, and an easy rapid fall down to a poor one.

There's no escaping judgment—and we're all found out sooner or later for exactly what we are; a faker may pass for a while, but he won't last.

In business it's the goods you sell and the methods you employ in selling them that establish your reputation. The highest reputation can only be gained by selling good goods by right methods.

Quality and value are the two things to keep constantly before you—high quality and good value. The best in anything at a fair price is the best value.

A workman can't do good work with poor tools, neither can a merchant gain a good reputation with poor goods. Don't try it. Stick to the best, and the best only. It pays in the long run —in profit and in satisfaction. As soon as the public know that they can depend upon everything that comes from your store your reputation is made and your success assured.

There are not many merchants who have the nerve to handle or sell only the best, neither are there many manufacturers of this order. The temptation to sell something cheap and inferior for immediate profit is too great for the majority—and away goes their reputation. They never amount to much. Their trade is a sort of catch-as-catch-can business—there's neither profit nor glory in it.

It's harder and slower at the start to build a business on quality, but when you get it, it sticks. It's something to be proud of, something you can become enthusiastic over, something you can put your heart into as well as your energy and ability.

How can a man get enthusiastic over cheap stuff, how can he put his heart into a make-shift? It's not possible, and if you can't put your heart into your business get out of it, and get into something you believe in, something you can swear by, something you delight in. It's being in love with your work that counts. There's a touch of the heart in every success—in every reputation. — Walter H. Cottingham, general manager of the Sherwin-Williams Paint Co.

BISCUITS AND CONFECTIONERY

Some Facts About the Making of Lozenges in Canada—Growth of the Confectionery Business in the United States.

If a grocer has a desire to handle the best class of confectionery—and many of the trade do—isn't it a good idea once in a while to make a public announcement of the fact by dressing a window with confectionery? Nothing you can put into a window, except money, if it be high-class and well arranged, will appeal more forcefully to the public eye and stay longer in the memory. Except for children confectionery is a luxury, and when a young man wants a 75c. pound of candies, he doesn't rush in anywhere. He is particular. He wonders where the best are sold. The nicely dressed window will answer that inquiry many a time and oft.

CONFECTIONERY IN THE UNITED STATES.

Writing of the history of the confectionery trade in the United States, A. T. Hayward, president and treasurer of Forbes, Hayward & Co., says:

"The early history of the confectionery business in this country is somewhat obscure, as little was published in relation to it until within the last fifty years. The term "confectionery" embraces a vast number of edibles or compounds that have sugar as a base or principal ingredient.

"The art of manufacturing confections and sweet preparations was at first largely confined to apothecaries and physicians who used sugar and honey to disguise their medicines, but in later years the making of confectionery became a separate and distinct branch of business, although the druggist is still dependent upon the manufacturing confectioner for an important line of his goods, known as medical candies. Few modern industries have experienced more poignant or more radical changes during the last century than the confectionery business. Previous to the year 1851 the manufacture of 'boiled sweets' was largely an English specialty and its extension to other countries had its origin in the unique display of these goods made by the London confectioners at the first international exposition in that city in that year. The interest then attracted to the business gave it a new impulse and caused it to extend to Germany as well as France, which in the manufacture of chocolate bonbons and comfits excelled all other countries.

"In the United States we find that as early as 1816 there were published the names of 20 confectioners in Philadelphia who were manufacturing and selling candy. Previous to the year 1845 the manufacture of confectionery was in a somewhat crude state. As a rule each confectioner made his own goods, his stock in trade being limited to the ordinary stick candies, sugar plums, and molasses candy, while all fancy goods were imported from France or other foreign countries. The introduction of machinery has added much to the development and increase of the business."

The United States census returns show a great increase of the confectionery business between 1850 and 1900, as follows:

	1850	1900
Establishments ...	383	4,297
Hands employed...	1,733	33,583
Capital	$1,035,551	$35,155,361
Paid in wages	458,904	10,867,687
Value of material	1,691,824	45,534,153
Value of product...	3,010,671	81,290,543

The greatest increase was between 1880 and 1890.

CONVERSATION LOZENGE.

In the city it may be different, but in the country what person, of gumption enough to be at large, has reached the estate of the grown-ups and has not indulged in a conversation more or less amatory with lozenges. The same old conversation lozenges are sold to-day and there are few rural stores that has not a jar of them about. But here, as everywhere else, progress has made improvements and to a large extent the old-fashioned lozenge is superseded by a confection called a lozenge but which in truth is not a lozenge at all.

Chambers defines a lozenge as "a small cake of flavored sugar originally lozenger or diamond shaped." Lozenge is an heraldic term and denotes "the shield on which the arms of maids widows and deceased persons are borne." Thus, it was the form that gave the confection its name. This was, in the words of Chambers, an obtuse angled parallelogram. Like this

The old-fashioned conversation lozenges are made of dough and were made in England long before they were produced here. Forty years ago, Robert Watson, then a journeyman, made them by hand in Toronto. Not long after that Thos. Robertson invented a machine for cutting them. One day Robert Watson ran a race with the machine on a day's output and beat. The machine was greatly improved and it would take several good men to beat it now.

But the lozenge itself has been improved upon. Drop lozenges have to a considerable extent taken their place. These are made of a paste, which as their name indicates, is dropped. They are smoother, have oval tops, and permit of a much greater variety of colors. Years ago Robertson Bros. turned out a ton of conversation lozenges a day; now the output is about half a ton, but the output of drop lozenges, of which they have 150 varieties, is about two tons a day.

Some years ago Thos. Robertson hit upon an idea of putting out a line of conversation lozenges for grown people, something a little more advanced than the old-time simple love messages. Here are a few samples:

"Before promising a woman to love only her, one should have seen them all or should see only her."

"He swore to me an eternal love. Eternity has lasted but one morning."

"Love is like the rose; so sweet that one always tries to gather it in spite of the thorns."

"Beauty and ugliness disappear equally under the wrinkles of age. One is lost in them the other hidden."

The machine for printing these oval shaped lozenges was also invented in the Robertson factory. Thus Robertson made a business of gathering epigrams and suitable sayings, and if their whole list were swept away to-day, he could have a new one out to-morrow.

The firm's name for this line of goods is "Wit, Wisdom and Wickedness." Occasionally a preacher will find one which he thinks too sophisticated for unrestricted circulation and will enclose it in a letter of protest to the firm.

THE HONEY OUTLOOK.

At a meeting of the crop committee of the Ontario Beekeepers' Association in Toronto Saturday, Secretary W. Couse stated he had reports from a large majority of the members, and these reports showed that not one beekeeper had to report a good crop, many reported a total failure, several reported small and a few stated crop insignificant. The comb crop is reported as almost a total failure.

The committee was of the opinion that good extracted honey would this year be from ten to eleven cents per pound wholesale, choice comb from $2 to $2.50 per dozen, No. 2 from $1.50 to $2 and dark from $1.25 to $1.50. The continued wet early in the season was given as the chief reason for the failure of the crop.

Mr. Christie, of Woodstock, N.B., has purchased R. A. Hutchison's grocery and crockery business, St. Andrews, N.B., and took possession August 1.

NEATNESS IN THE STORE.

"There is no reason, in these days, why the average grocer cannot keep a clean and neat store and display his stock to good advantage," said J. Riley, a Parkdale grocer the other day. "There might have been some excuse in the olden days for a little untidiness, when most goods were handled in bulk, but now nearly everything is packaged or bottled and all the grocer has to do is to place them on his shelves. Of course there is much room for the exercise of taste in the arrangement of goods, and in the up-to-date stores the stock is very effectively displayed, but the average grocer with a little care and thought can make a very creditable showing."

Advance in Price

For the past 2 years my broker in Havana has been advising me periodically that tobacco was advancing in price. To-day war prices are prevailing. I have first Capaduras in my warehouses to-day that cost me 40c. a pound which I can sell spot cash for 75c. When I was in Havana last December it could be bought for 60c. I did not buy much because I had, and still have, a large stock that I use in Pharaoh.

The second Capaduras that I use in Pebble have also advanced and are worth 55c. to-day.

I bought last December of the grade at the prevailing prices and am just now working it in Pebble. The quality is superfine, but the cost to manufacture Pebble cigars has increased over $3.50 per 1,000. After Sept. 1st I will have to cut off all jobbers' discounts and can allow only 3% cash discount on Pebble in place of 5%.

My 500 assorted order still holds good. Better send in your order this month. With Pharaoh (10c.) and Pebble (5c.) you will suit the most fastidious smoker and retain his custom.

TOBACCO AND CIGARS

Grocers Should Make it a Specialty and Give it a Department—The Cuban Crop —Tobacco in India—Warehouse Burned.

The modern show case—a plate glass structure in a framework of oak—is a very handsome piece of store furnishing and makes an ideal housing for a grocer's up-to-date tobacco and cigar department. Many grocers keep package and plug tobacco and seem satisfied with that. Why not cigars also? If one is going to handle tobaccos why not go the whole figure and make the best out of it? To stand a couple of caddies under the counter or shelving is not making a tobacco department and is not improving the appearance of the store. Whatever is worth doing is worth doing well and if there's profit in stocking two or three caddies and some packages, there would be a good deal more in instituting a tobacco department in a modern show case that will keep the goods free from flies and dust and display them to the best advantage.

CUBAN CROP SHORT.

The United States Tobacco Journal publishes an interview with an expert upon his return from Cuba, who says the 1906 Cuban crop of tobacco now on the market is exceedingly short and is already bringing extraordinarily high prices, which, in the natural course, will go still higher.

"Of the Vuelta Abajo lowland crop," he said, "about 80 per cent. shows damage from must and dry rot. The best Vuelta tobacco which was raised in Remates and the Lomas has, as yet, not shown any damage and was bought early at fabulous prices. The Partido is, as a rule, sound, producing very few wrappers, but among this few some very fine ones. The Remedios crop has turned out an excellent leaf, but the prices are prohibitive. The entire crop of Cuba will amount to about one-half of that of 1905. An example of the remarkable increase in prices and values which has taken place, is furnished by these comparisons: Vuelta Abajo botes, which last year brought from 11½ to 13 cents, are now selling at from 33 to 35 cents per pound; Remedios botes, which used to go for 10 cents, now bring from 22 to 25 cents per pound, and the same proportion prevails in the higher grades. Notwithstanding the poorness of the Vuelta Abajo crop, it is being bought up on account of the great shortage. In my opinion, it will take manufacturers in this country, who have not visited Cuba and do not intend to, some months, before they will understand the true state of affairs, and by that time there will be no serviceable tobacco left."

TOBACCO IN INDIA.

The Anglo-Oriental Commerce, speaking of tobacco in India, says:

"The demand for tobacco of superior quality is by no means insignificant, the imports during the year 1903-4 having been valued at more than $1,500,000. During recent years cigarette smoking has come into great vogue among the many millions of natives who live in towns and travel by railway, and is increasing. The importation of cigarettes during the quinquennial period 1899-1900 to 1903-4 increased in steady progression from 200,000 pounds, valued at $100,000, to 2,250,000 pounds, worth $1,000,000. It is estimated that about 840,000,000 cigarettes were imported during 1904-5, valued at $1,150,000. If progression continues, and it seems probable that it will in a greater or lesser degree, the value of imports may rise to half a million sterling in the course of a few years. The cigarettes most in demand are of a low, cheap grade, so that, even if only moderately good leaf could be grown, this trade, with cheap labor and cheap paper from the Indian mills, might be monopolized by local industry run on sound business lines."

TOBACCO STOREHOUSE DESTROYED.

On the evening of July 30 the storehouse of the St. Lawrence Tobacco Co., St. Laurent, Montreal, was totally destroyed by fire. The building was a wooden one, 70x40 feet, and contained something like $29,000 worth of tobacco. The loss sustained is estimated at $30,000, while insurance on the whole amounts to $21,000. Nobody knows the cause of the fire, but the general belief is that one of the men when obtaining a load of tobacco in the morning, carelessly dropped a butt of a cigarette on the floor. The building was locked during the day, so that nobody could have entered.

ONTARIO CROP GOOD.

It is pleasing to write that the tobacco crop seldom looked more promising any season than it does at this date, says the Leamington, Ont., Post. It is a noticeable thing this season that the growers are giving better cultivation to their fields than usual, indicating that the farmer is trying to produce a better crop under the incentive of fancy prices for good tobacco. Evidently they have come to believe that the best results are obtained only by careful, painstaking methods, and neglect anywhere along the line means reduced profits. The coming few weeks will be the critical ones for the new crop. The season for hail and

TO CUT OR NOT TO CUT.

(With apologies to Shakespeare)

To cut or not to cut, that is the question,
Whether 'tis not better in the end
To let the chap who knows not the worth
Have the sale at cut-throat prices, or
To take up arms against his competition
And, by opposing cut for cut, end it.
To cut—and by cutting put the other cutter
Out of business—'tis a consummation
Devoutly to be wished. To cut—to slash—
Perchance myself to get it in the neck—
Ay, there's the rub; for when one starts
To meet the other fellow's price, 'tis like as not He'll find he's up against it hard.

To cut and slash is not to end confusion
And the many evils the trade is pestered with;
Nay, nay, Pauline; 'tis but the forerunner
Of debt and mortgage such course portends,
'Tis well to get the price the thing is worth
And not be bullied into selling it
For what So-and-So will sell it for.
Price cutting doth appear unseemly;
And fit only for the man who knows not
What his goods are worth, and who, ere long,
By very stress of making vain comparison
'Twixt bank account and liabilities
Will make his exit from the business.

EFFECTIVE ADVERTISING

Some Guiding Principles in Tpye Displ ay—Things the Grocer Ought to Know and Remember When Writing His Ads.

The primary use of type is for the transmission of a writer's thoughts to the mind of the reader. It is the substitute for vocal sounds, the medium of a converse which appeals to the eye instead of the ear. By its employment an advertiser, given sufficient space, can say to a reader, all he could wish to say if he were talking to a customer at the counter. But in a prsonal conversation, there are other factors besides the mere word-formation of articulate speech. There are qualifying inflections of the voice, emphasis gesture, attitude and other auxiliaries which infuse force, impressiveness and realism into verbal utterances. How are these important adjuncts to be represented in printed matter?

Type Character.

For the citation of facts and the statement of news, a small uniform type is sufficient as used in the editorial columns; but for the advertiser's purpose, the arrangement of types must be of a character that will correspond to the factors which make uttered speech, a thing instinct with living power. Typography is an art, and its principles must be thoroughly understood before an advertisement can possess the forcefulness of a verbal communication.

Receiving the Message.

An important point to be remembered is that whereas the brain of a hearer receives a message without any conscious effort, in the case of a reader there is considerable effort, the strain of which falls entirely upon the mechanism of the eye. One can listen continually without effort or fatigue, but the eye quickly becomes wearied by monotony or strain, especially if there is no preconceived interest to stimulate and sustain the attention. It follows, therefore, that a first principle in type display is to avoid what will weary the eye, and to afford such contrasts as will offer relief, rest and change to the optic nerves.

"Skimming."

The reader who may not have studied the subject closely can easily demonstrate this by taking up a newspaper and glancing through its columns. Close set letter press being uniform in appearance, you will be conscious of a tendency to skim over parts of it in order to get to the bottom of the column quickly (unless an aroused interest is strong enough to conquer the tendency). So in a book when the pages are much the same in appearance, unless the subject itself furnishes an incentive to read carefully, the eye will flit from paragraph to paragraph and page to page, eager to get to the end and have done with it. If there be any heavy type, black rule or white space in close proximity to the side of a column or lone paragraph of close text, the eye will be deflected to it—not by design or accident, but by an unconscious mental effort to find relief. Because strong contrasts offer relief as well as attractiveness to the eye, the power of contrast becomes an important agent in art of typography. The degree of contrast must be decided by the judgment and skill of the one who prepares the draft advertisement or the compositor who sets up the type.

Eye Manoeuvres.

From force of habit, the eye, in reading, instinctively works from right to left and downward all the time. In choosing the types for a displayed announcement, this instinct or habit must be taken into consideration. If you observe carefully the separate operations and their sequence, when the eye is engaged in reading, you will see at once certain opportunities which can be manipulated to your own advantage, if you are an advertiser. with, the gaze when it leaves a column flits upward and alights at the head of the next column. For an instant, at least, the gaze is concentrated on the spot where it settles, and there is, therefore, a direct means of communication established, for the time being, between that spot and the reader's mind.

Mental Motions.

If what the eye sees in that moment appeals, strikes, startles, attracts, or interests the reader, a mental impression is created. If the gaze is not arrested during that momentary halt, it begins its mechanical motion of working from left to right. When it has traveled to the end of a line it flits back (discerning nothing during the flight) to the beginning of the next line. There is, therefore, a slight pause occurring twice; once while the gaze is being lifted from the last word of a line, and again when it alights on the first word of the next line. Anything that we want to drive home to the reader's mind, if placed in position at the beginning or end of a line (or lines) obviously has a better chance than if placed where it could only come into contact with the gaze during transit.

The Contrasts.

To the lay mind such an advantage may seem infinitesimal; to a mind versed in the subtleties of advertising craft, its possibilities are almost immeasurable. In many publications you will have noticed articles punctuated with insetted sentences in larger type—sometimes right, sometimes left—and you may be able to recall that these words have been remembered when the rest of the article had quite faded from memory. Why? Simply because in the stationary moments the gaze carried a stronger impression to the mind than when it was traveling between the halts. Thus, in the case of headings and side insets, the eye stops for the instant, automatically, so to speak; but to attract and impress the mind at other stages of the zig-zag run from top to bottom, the gaze has to be arrested while in motion—a more intricate and difficult problem. Pure whites and deep blacks offer harsh but striking contrasts; hence we must adopt tactics which involve considerable white spaces, large, plain-faced types, heavy rules, ornaments and illustrations. To use the contrasts indiscriminately, however, is to court certain failure.

"Proportion and Fitness."

A contrast may be soft or harsh at discretion, but it must be an agreeable one—if possible a pleasing one—to the mind. In all natures, however cultured or however base, there is a latent sense of proportion, harmony and fitness. Symmetry, daintiness, beauty, grace and other artistic virtues in an advertisement are embellishments, but proportion and fitness are essentials. A crudely-organized announcement, even if it possess convincing qualities will be shorn of its power, if disproportioned and discordant. The mind will be pained by the impression, and will resent the affront. On the other hand, a well-balanced advertisement, however strong its contrasts, will please the mind and draw out its sympathies. On the one hand you inspire prejudice—on the other, confidence—and it makes all the difference which.

Emphasis.

To carry this investigation a step further:

In advertisement construction, the use of types must answer to the degrees of emphasis employed in speech. There are points in conversation which are enforced by tone, attitude and gesture. A public speaker who addresses his audience in a monotone—whose gaze is fixed—whose body is immobile, palls upon his hearers, tires and wearies them out. But the orator with his impassioned outbursts thrills his audience; his eloquence stirs them into animation, fills them with enthusiasm, appeals to the fuller sympathies and wins their confidence. The cadences and inflections of human tones are denied the advertiser, and he must perforce make up the deficiency as well as he can, with his variations of type.

Verbal Appeal.

Short, crisp sentences in bold, clear-faced type, thrown up in strong relief by small letter press or clear white space, are like the interjections—the short, snappy effective passages of a powerful speaker. The judicious use of pointers, notes of exclamation and interrogation, italics, dashes, interpolations, etc., help to impart the right degree of dramatic and sensational element to the whole, until (provided the mind can be attracted and held) the general effect of the advertisement may approximate in forcefulness (if it cannot in actual realism) to a verbal appeal.

General Survey.

The finesse of this important subject has too many ramifications for us to discuss more than those common aspects which every advertiser is aware of and appreciates, for the possibilities of type expression are unlimited. Those who have studied the subject deeply recognize that the letter—the form, size and arrangement of types—is not all, but that a pervading spirit or more subtle quality can be infused by the trained mind, which breathes into the advertisement more than the words themselves express. Readers are sometimes influenced in a measure far exceeding what one might have expected from an advertisement. Why? It was not the phrasing or type that inspired confidence and faith. What was it? Some hidden influence in the advertisement that touched some equally hidden chord in the reader? Some subtle touch of nature? Some occult and invisible agent speaking from mind to mind out of the cold but visible type?

The Difference.

Only the specialist can tell—he alone may understand the intricacies of his craft. And perhaps the power and scope of his own mentality may be inscrutable—even to himself! Yet the fact is obvious enough, that some advertisements are "alive" and some are not alive, though each may have the semblance of life, and possess general features and qualities in common.—Advertising (London).

A TIGHT PLACE.

They were newly married and on a honeymoon trip. They put up at a skyscraper hotel. The bridegroom felt indisposed and the bride said she would slip out and do a little shopping. In due time she returned and tripped blithely up to her room, a little awed by the number of doors that looked all alike. But she was sure of her own and tapped gently on the panel.

"I'm back honey; let me in," she whispered.

No answer.

"Honey, honey, let me in," she called again, rapping louder.

Still no answer.

"Honey, honey, it's Mabel. Let me in!"

There was a silence for several seconds; then a man's voice, cold and full of dignity, came from the other side of the door:

"Madam, this is not a bee hive; it's a bath room."

But to assure success, respect, confidence, and a hearty, healthy growth in your business, try the other, with the splendid material found in

We are by appointment the direct agents for Messrs. Wood & Son, of Burslem, England, one of the few great manufacturers in the Staffordshire Potteries. We establish at the works the credit of all good Canadian firms, so that shipments and payments can be made direct if desired.

Besides our other outside storage warehouses in Toronto, our new warehouse, No. 70 King Street West, comprises 45,000 square feet of storage space. It is filled from top to bottom with everything usually found in first-class wholesale crockery stock.

We make a specialty—at the right prices—of Dinner Sets, Tea Sets, Toilet Sets, in profuse variety. English, French and German Pottery, China and Glassware. Artistic, up-to-date American Glassware and Lamp Goods.

Special assorted Packages of all lines carried in stock as well as sold for direct importation.

We have now fully equipped our factory with all latest machinery, making it modern and up-to-date and will pack a full line of FRUITS and VEGETABLES. We are situated in one of the best districts for producing a fine flavor, which was fully demonstrated by our pack of last year.

We would specially call your attention to our system of naming the different grades of peas, as on the label of each can is shown the exact size of the contents; the different grades being known as Nos. 1, 2, 3, which assures the consumers of getting exactly, what they are buying, instead of the great variety of names now employed, which no one understands. We respectfully ask that you give our goods a trial and allow the consumer to be the judge, ASSURING you we will pack, only, a HIGH-GRADE QUALITY, which will create a demand. An Industry of Which Niagara is Proud

Upon invitation of the management of the Delhi Canning Co., (Branch No. 13, of the Canadian Canners, Limited) THE MAYOR, COUNCIL AND OTHER LEADING CITIZENS INCLUDING THE REPORTER OF THIS PAPER PAID THEM A VISIT ON Wednesday, and although they were not expecting us until later in the week we found everything in spick and span condition. PLEASED COMMENTS BEING HEARD ON EVERY SIDE AT THE CLEAN CONDITIONS PREVAILING EVERYWHERE THE MANAGEMENT STATING THAT THEY INTEND TO LIVE UP TO THEIR MOTTO OF QUALITY AND CLEANLINESS, NO MATTER, WHAT THE COST.

We found about 150 women working on beans and raspberries AND A CLEANER LOOKING LOT ONE WOULD NOT WISH TO SEE, the forewomen stating that she was enforcing the Rules laid down to her by the management which were that every woman must be clean and tidy about her person, this they were greatly aided in doing by being provided with small towels which they had attached to their belts, they were stringing the beans and taking out any little particles that were left among the raspberries by the pickers, after this they were never touched by human hands, the rest being done by modern machinery, even being filled into the cans by what the Canners term a "Rocker," nothing but fresh clean water being used. HAVING A HEALTH INSPECTOR ALONG WITH US THE NEXT THING WE EXAMINED WAS THE SANITARY CONDITIONS AND FOUND EVERYTHING IN THIS CONNECTION ALL RIGHT THE SEWERAGE AND DRAINAGE BEING FIRST CLASS, HAVING A GOOD WATER PRESSURE.

The foreman stated that they washed their floors, etc., down twice a day, and as the floors slant to the centre and are connected with the sewer they were able to keep the factory clean with very little trouble. The toilet arrangement for both men and women were found to be also first-class, in fact, as good as you would find in a modern house. We next went back to watch the machinery AND COULD NOT HELP BUT NOTICE HOW THE MODERN MACHINERY AIDS IN PUTTING UP GOODS CLEAN. The beans after being strung by the women were put in perforated pails and blanched by boiling water then taken out and dipped into clean cold water, they are next Rocked into the Cans by MACHINERY. ALSO TINNED, CAPPED, COOKED AND COOLED BY MACHINERY, IN FACT THE MANAGEMENT STATED THAT MOST ALL THEIR GOODS WERE NOW PUT UP BY MACHINERY THOSE THAT WERE HANDLED BY HANDS, BEING THOROUGHLY CLEANSED BY STEAM BEFORE GOING INTO THE CANS. Just as we were leaving our ATTENTION WAS CALLED TO A LOAD OF BEANS AND RASPBERRIES WHICH HAD JUST BEEN BROUGHT IN AND IT WAS EASILY SEEN THAT THE QUALITY WAS FIRST CLASS, EVEN BETTER THAN WE WERE ABLE TO PROCURE FOR OUR OWN TABLE. WE WERE THEN CALLED INTO THE OFFICE WHERE SAMPLES WERE OPENED AND THE REMARK WAS MADE BY SEVERAL THAT THEY WERE AS NICE AS THEIR OWN WIVES PUT UP. After leaving the factory THE TOPIC OF CONVERSATION WAS THAT IF ALL THE CANNING PLANTS WERE LIKE THIS AND THE PUBLIC WOULD PAY THEM A VISIT THERE WOULD BE VERY LITTLE PREJUDICE AGAINST CANNED GOODS.

The remarks as above are equally applicable to each of our THIRTY FACTORIES. In ordering Canned Goods it will pay you to stick to brands as follows, viz : "CANADA FIRST," "AUTO," "LITTLE CHIEF," "LOG CABIN," "HORSESHOE," "KENT," "LYNN-VALLEY," "MAPLE LEAF," "LION," "GRAND RIVER," "WHITE ROSE," etc.

"QUALITY and CLEANLINESS," our Motto.

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT

RED ROSE TEA

THE tea bush is indigenous to Assam in Northern India, and botanists are of the opinion that it is the parent species of all the cultivated varieties in India, Ceylon, China and elsewhere. In a wild state it grows to a height of fifteen to twenty feet, but the cultivated shrub is only three to four feet high.

Assam being the natural home of the tea bush it is not surprising that this and other districts in Northern India produce the richest, most pungent teas grown in the world, teas that command higher prices than even the finest Ceylon ; but Ceylon teas are very flavory and fragrant, and seem to be especially made to blend with the richer, more syruppy tea of India. When combined, the Ceylons giving point and piquancy to the liquor, the Indians richness and strength.

The distinctive characteristic of RED ROSE TEA, that rich fruity flavor, is obtained by blending these fine Indians and Ceylons, and another very important feature of RED ROSE TEA, viz., its uniformity of flavor all the year round, is secured the same way—something not possible to obtain where Ceylon or Indian teas are used alone.

Some people will tell you that they pack bulk Pickles which will keep. We go considerably further than telling.

We absolutely guarantee our product, and if you receive any of our pickles that are not in the very best condition we always stand ready to make them right, providing that they are not more than six months old, that the barrel, pail or other container is kept covered, that you do not use tin or any metal vessel to dip them out with (use a crockery bowl), that the vinegar is always taken in proportion to the pickles so that they are always kept slightly covered with vinegar, that no sweepings, particularly nails, are allowed to get into the container, and that the pickles are kept from any extreme of heat or cold. You can't help making money on our goods if you keep them right, for they will sell better and at a better price, because they are better than any other bulk pickles on the market. We can afford to stand back of our goods because nothing but the best goes into them, the natural result is that we are sure of them. Insist on Lion Brand when ordering this Fall.

Don't Take Any Chances

Neither RISING SUN Stove Polish in cakes nor SUN PASTE Stove Polish in tins contain anything inflamable or explosive. They are absolutely safe in the hands of the user. The sale and use of inferior stove polishes often results in fires, explosions, burns and disfigurement, sometimes horrible sufferings and death. You run a considerable risk in selling these dangerous stove polishes, put up by inexperienced or unscrupulous manufacturers, as the injured have repeatedly brought suits at law against the dealers who sold the dangerous stuff. STATE INSPECTION ONLY HOPE British Grocers' Federation and the Meat Scare—President Roosevelt's Assurance Satisfactory—The Press Comes in for Criticism—Grocers' Association Stands for Honesty of Dealing.

(Scottish Trader, Glasgow)

In his inaugural address at the annual conference of the Federation of Grocers' Associations, at Sheffield, Mr. W. Nuttall, this year's president, defined with force and accuracy the position of the organized grocers of the whole country with respect to adulteration. He said, "We want the Government to help us to put down the rascality of adulteration and to punish with vigor the packer of impure food. Our federation stands for honesty of dealing and purity of food, and to all those who contravene those ideals it offers warfare of a most relentless character." Quite recently the federation gave ample evidence of its determination to carry out this policy in a most resolute fashion. A cablegram was sent to President Roosevelt asking a declaration to assure the British public that in future there would be some guarantee of the purity of the goods sent to this country from America. This was followed by a letter in which the situation was discussed with remarkable candor. It was clearly stated that the executive of the federation representing 14,000 grocers was prepared to recommend at the annual conference that the trade should cease to stock American preserved provisions until assurances were received that such provisions would be issued with a proper government certificate as to the soundness of their condition for human food. Happily the required assurances were promptly given by the President of the United States, who authorized the American ambassador in London to inform the Grocers' Federation that under the new law the United States Government would guarantee the fitness in all respects of canned meat bearing the Government stamp. The result is eminently satisfactory. If at any future time there should be good cause for complaint the American Government will in virtue of their official guarantee be morally bound to take the matter up and put it on a satisfactory footing.

During the course of the discussion of this subject at the meeting of the Grocers' Federation, Alderman Hinton, Middlesbrough, maintained that extravagant and untruthful statements had been circulated by a certain section of the press with reference to tinned meats. We hold no brief for the whole press of the country. Many of the most widely circulated of the London journals are edited without a due sense of responsibility; but we manage things better in Scotland. There is plenty of irresponsible writing, but no British paper would stoop to deliberate untruthfulness. A large section of the public prefer to have their news highly flavored, and journalists like other traders dress their goods to fit the market. Actors and artists of all kinds do precisely the same. That some of the accounts of the Chicago meat scandals were rather highly spiced is extremely probable. But it is not so much what was said as the inferences that were drawn from the statements made that were misleading. The disgusting details that were so loudly proclaimed through the two hemispheres did not apply to the most reputable packers; but they had to suffer for a time from the panic. This world is so ordered that the innocent often suffer for a time with the guilty. The ultimate result of the exposures will, however, be an unmixed good. In this country as well as in America public opinion has been forcibly directed to the need for greater cleanliness in connection with meat canning and kindred industries, and even apart from legislation there has been a great improvement all round. In the United States a satisfactory system of state inspection has been instituted. As we perceived at the beginning this was inevitable. The Americans must market a considerable proportion of their food products in Europe; and to do this they must retain the confidence of the European public.

When once the question was raised the only hope for the meat packers was through a system of state inspection that would command universal confidence. Instead of being the enemy of the meat packers President Roosevelt was really their truest friend. The prompt and vigorous action of the Grocers' Federation has also had a most beneficial effect. The official assurance obtained from the President of the United States will do much to restore the reputation of American tinned goods in this country. The readiness of the grocers of Great Britain to take effective measures to protect the public against adulterated food is a good augury, showing that the best traditions of the trade are being strenuously maintained. It is only along such lines that a business reputation can be maintained and extended. Public opinion is thoroughly aroused in favor of maintaining the purity of the food supplies; and no small share for the credit of bringing about this position of affairs belongs to the grocers of Great Britain, who through their various organizations have powerfully influenced public opinion.

JAMES TURNER & CO.

Old Established Business Bought Back From Canada Grocers.

James Turner & Co., Hamilton, have bought back their business from the Canada Grocers, Limited. During the three years it was merged in the amalgamation the personnel remained unchanged and is still intact. Alexander Turner continues as president of the company.

The firm has an interesting history running back over 60 years to 1844. It was founded then by the late Hon. James Turner, and his brother, who were associated in the business till 1864. Then it became James Turner & Co., which it continued till merged in the Canada Grocers' Limited, becoming a branch. It now assumes the old name.

In purchasing the business the company have bought all the brands, trade marks, labels, formulas, etc., which were formerly theirs. Their buying power will be as great as ever and their friends can feel that their old-time connection has not in any way been broken, that they are in every way as well able to handle business entrusted to them as in the past.

All business will be conducted from the Hamilton office and while, for their customers' convenience, they will continue to carry some stocks at outside points, they will have no branches.

CRUISING EXHIBITION.

Canadian manufacturers and those interested in Canadian commerce will be interested in the arrival of the SS. Cambroman, of the Dominion line, expected early in October. The vessel has been chartered for a year by a number of British manufacturers to carry an exhibition of their goods throughout the world. The goods will be arranged as in the ordinary sample room, but on a much larger scale. Montreal will be the first port of call.

The fore part of the upper deck will be reserved for wines, liquors and such lines, the after part for silverware, cutlery, etc. The main hall, containing various exhibits, will be on the middle deck. The lower deck will be devoted to machinery of all kinds. The boat will leave the Old Country late in September.

ONE-MANISM.

"One-Manism" is not good for a business, neither is it good for an association. The thought that there is but one man in an association is apt to lend arrogance to the manners of the one man and to breed discontent and disgust in the minds of the others who know that they are fully as capable and as intelligent and alive as the one man. One-manism is akin to Czarism and Czarism is not for Americans. — Eli Grocer.

HUNDRED BUSHELS TO ACRE

Some Oat Growing in British Columbia—Other Fish than Salmon—Fruit and Fruit-growing in the Okanagan Valley.

By Our Own Correspondent.

Vancouver, August 13, 1906.

While grand crop reports from the prairie provinces are receiving prominence in the news columns of the Dominion, it is worth while to note that British Columbia perhaps leads the world in its own line of grain growing. There will not be a hundred million bushels of grain grown in the Pacific province, but there are crops of oats in the Fraser River Valley yielding a hundred bushels per acre this year. Near the Fraser are considerable areas of arable land which are largely devoted to raising oats and hay and to dairying. The oat crop has long been a specialty on the lower mainland of British Columbia. The splendid extra white oatmeal and rolled oats manufactured in the province is much superior to any produced anywhere else. The quality and excellent sample of white oats grown in the Fraser Valley is responsible for this success. So the ranchers on the delta lands of Father Fraser devote a large part of their acreage and a great deal of special attention to this cereal, for producing the original of breakfast foods.

As the salmon fishing season, that is the sockeye season, is on in full swing, the average observer is apt to overlook the rapid development of other fisheries of the province. The halibut industry, which has been exploited for some years in a fairly large way, is now being expanded in marvellous manner. Where once there was but one large sea-going fishing steamer the fleet is now some seven or eight regularly engaged, with others occasionally in the trade. The last addition is the steamer Flamingo, brought from England. A few months ago the steam trawler Celestial Empire was also brought from the Old Country, being the first with this class of equipment for the halibut on this coast. The New England Fish Co., the pioneer concern in the halibut trade, has now three vessels directly in her service, the steamer Manhattan, of similar type to the Kingfisher and the New England, having just been brought from Boston, where she was built. She came round the Horn and is now ready, after a little overhauling, to go into commission.

The entire halibut fleet fishes off the banks of Dixon Entrance, to the north of Queen Charlotte Sound. The catch is of course best in Winter, but at all seasons a fairly good quantity is taken. The average cargo brought in is some 50 tons, or 100,000 lbs. This is the result of a cruise lasting all the way from a few days till almost a fortnight, though the latter is an unusually long trip. The round trip has been made in considerably less than a week, but then luck was better than usual. The halibut fishermen have a hazardous occupation, being set down in cockle-shell dories at intervals of half a mile or more apart, on the open sea, and a sea, at that, peculiarly apt to very sudden storms. The steamer after locating all the dories with two fishermen in each, cruises back and forth, ready to take up the catch of each as they pull in the long skates of gear, which are nothing but great lines several hundred fathoms in length, with hooks at intervals of about two feet long. On these the bait used is salted herring, many tons of which are caught in the season of the herring run, and stored for halibut bait. The halibut fishermen are reputed to earn the highest wages on the Pacific coast, many times having as much as $100 coming to them for one trip, their pay being regulated by the catch each makes.

The market for the halibut is largely in Eastern United States and Canada, the latter having but begun to grow, the quality of the magnificent halibut secured on the Pacific coast being now just beginning to be known. The Boston market has long ago ceased to depend on the poorer and more precarious halibut catch off Newfoundland.

The peach crop of the Okanagan, especially from Peachland and Kelowna, has been more in evidence in the coast cities than ever before. Of course the quantity produced is but now beginning to assume large proportions, and the facilities in the Northwest market to take care of a large stock are not of the best. Last year and the other years since the plantations of Peachland and other points along Okanagan Lake have begun to enter the shipping list, there was no surplus to send to Vancouver and Victoria. This year, however, the crop is bountiful, and the number of trees in bearing very much increased, so that the choice stock of home growth has been put on the coast market in competition with the California article. Without prejudice, there is no comparison. The only comparison with the Okanagan-grown peach of any variety is the best produced in the Niagara peninsula.

The extreme juiciness and luscious fullness of fruitage seems to be embodied in the fruit from Okanagan. It has always been of remark that the larger California peaches were even more flavorless and dry in texture than the small or medium sizes. But it is equally as notable that the very largest peaches grown at Peachland — and there are some monstrous samples—are to the full as juicy and luscious as any other. It looks very much as if the Okanagan would soon produce peaches in such abundance as to drug the market, for the trees come into bearing in four or five years from being set out, and but a trifling percentage of thousands set out have yet matured. Prices even this year have gone down, for the grower, from an average of $1.50 per case in the orchard to less than $1 per case. Transportation charges are responsible in large measure for the difficulty in getting them on the market.

H. A. Sloan, of John Sloan & Co., Toronto, is back in the sample room after a couple of weeks at Windemere, Muskoka. Sun, wind and tide painted him several degrees darker, a sort of aboriginal hue, that bespeaks day-long association with all outdoor.

William Farley, formerly of the firm of Lamb & Co., provision merchants, Toronto, passed away on Thursday morning of last week, aged 64 years. For nearly thirty years he was a resident of Toronto, retiring from business about three years ago.

The Imperial Blend Tea Co. have been incorporated under Ontario charter with J. S. A. Whealy and J. H. Spance, Toronto, and C. T. Harrison and J. W. Elliott, Hamilton, as provisional directors. The capital stock is $40,000 and the head office in Hamilton.

Fire started in the rear of Shaver Bros.' grocery store, Port Arthur, Ont., last week and destroyed the Wheeler Block. The Twin City grocery, owned by L. L. Peltier, jr., was also burned. Shaver Bros.' loss was $2,000 covered by insurance, and L. L. Peltier $2,500 with $1,500 insurance.

L. A. Moreash, formerly with H. W. Wentzell & Co., has bought the grocery business of W. A. Davies, Halifax, N.S. Mr. Moreash is enterprising and having served a good apprenticeship will no doubt make a success of his business. Mr. Davies has retired, having purchased a farm at Sackville, N.S.

In Toronto recently: P. Colborne, Tilsonburg; C. Minchall, Maple; Geo. Bradley, of Bradley & Son, St. Catharines; Mr. Bradley, manager of the Niagara Falls branch of Bradley & Son, St. Catharines; Miss Bell, daughter of W. L. Bell, Niagara Falls; Mr. Younge, of J. A. Younge & Sons, Glencoe.

A meeting of the Beamsville Preserving Co. was held at the village Thursday of last week, and the following officers were elected: President, E. D. Smith; vice-president, H. Pearce, Montreal; secretary-treasurer, E. L. Armstrong; directors, J. F. Beringer, T. E. Owens, H. Pearce, Frank Owens, L. Kimmons.

The Montreal offices of The Grocer have been honored by the presentation of a handsome Japanese watercolor. The donor was Chas. Smyth, representing Hellyer & Co., Yokohama, the large tea exporters. The picture represents a Japanese landscape, showing the sacred mountain of Fujiyomo, and is a fine specimen of Japanese art.

W. T. Stirling, secretary-treasurer of the Harry Webb Co., Toronto, spent a few days in Montreal last week. The Grocer had the pleasure of felicitating him on his joining the ranks of the benedicts. Mr. and Mrs. Stirling were on their way home from Tadousac and Cocouna, having made the journey by the R. & O. line and returned to Toronto via the same line.

One of the finest grocery stores in the north end of Halifax is that of C. E. Choat. The place is scrupulously clean, the goods are attractively displayed and customers receive every attention at the hands of Mr. Choat and his salesmen. We are informed that his volume of sales has materially increased since moving into the new store.—Maritime Merchant.

LONDON TRADE DOINGS

Picnic Time—Grocery Changes Hands— Sarnia Trade Going to Have a Big Time at Port Stanley—S. D. Perrin & Co's An nual Outing.

The well-known grocery business of Mr. John Lawson has changed hands this week. Mr. Lawson has decided to retire from the retail business, continuing only along wholesale lines. The purchaser of the retail is Mr. Edward Lees, of Hamilton.

The retail grocery business continues to be brisk. While there are many citizens away for the Summer, the falling off is made up for by the number of people visiting here. There is an extraordinary run on picnic supplies. The difficulty, however, with the picnic season is that it interferes with the regularity of supply.

A picnic of interest to grocers was that held on Saturday, Aug. 4, by the employes of D. S. Perrin & Co. Unfortunately it was not a thoroughly pleasant day for everybody, for not until the afternoon were the excursionists able to get out of the city. Hundreds were ready at the depot in the morning, but the line was tied up by a wreck on the Pere Marquette at St. Thomas, and the result was that when the crowd did get to Port Stanley they were not only late but more or less tired. However, they made the best of it and good-naturedly entered into the sports. Had it not been for the wreck the Perrin picnic would have been one of the best of the season.

The sports were entered into with the same high spirits that has always marked any outing or any celebration ot any kind that the employes of Perrin's have had. They never do things by halves, and when the firm in this instance were particularly generous to them it was but natural that they should take the great interest they did. There was fun in everything as well as rivalry, and the rivalry was sufficient to make every race and game well contested, the results of which were as follows :

100 yards race—J. M. McCormick, Jno. May, Alf. Henderson.

25 yards, wheelbarrow race—J. Saunders and J. M. Middleton, A. Gregory and H. Bailey.

100 yards, boys' race, 17 and under—Stewart, Evans, Fitzgerald.

50 yards, girls' race, 16 and under — Mabel Summer, Eva Evans, Ada Brazier.

Young ladies' race, 75 yards—Kate Meyers, Mary Kirkpatrick, Alma Webber.

50 yards, cigar race—T. Stewart, J. Middleton.

50 yards, boys under 10—R. Evans, Fred Cook, T. Welford.

75 yards, 4-legged race—Bailey, May and Henderson, Fonger, Campbell and Orr.

Needle and thread race—J. Saunders and Miss Kirkpatrick, Henderson and Miss Norton, J. Middleton and Miss Webber.

50 yards, jockey races—Stewart and Evans, J. Middleton and J. Saunders.

Girls' and boys' 3-legged race — J. Saunders and Miss Kirkpatrick, E. Evans and Miss Norton.

100 yards, pipe smoking race — J. Saunders, H. Bailey, J. Middleton.

Pig-in-poke race—T. Stewart and Miss Angus, J. Middleton and Miss Webber.

Chum race—J. Fox and Miss Meyers, J. Saunders and Miss Angus, J. Middleton and Miss Clark, E. Evans and Miss Kirkpatrick.

Girls' ball throwing race — Maggie Bradshaw, Ethel Bisset, Katie Meyers.

Another biscuit manufacturing concern was brought into the public eye during last week, the McCormick Mfg. Co. having to shut down for a day recently owing to a lack of water pressure from the city water works. This scarcity was also the cause of an accident whereby pipes which should have been cooled by the water had the effect of scalding one of the employes, though not seriously.

One of London's grocery clerks met with an untimely end at Port Stanley Monday of last week, when Robert Peters, an employe of C. H. Lee's New York Store, was drowned while swimming in the lake. Peters was but 21 years of age and well liked. He and a chum, Sydney Husband, were swimming when the deceased was taken with cramps. Peters' companion made strenuous efforts to save him, but finally lost him. The search for the body was not rewarded until Wednesday morning, when the life boat crew recovered the body.

SARNIA GROCERS' PICNIC.

The grocers of Sarnia are making great preparation for their third annual picnic, to be held at Lake Huron Park, August 22. Grocery travelers from all over the country will be there that day, and the attendance is expected to eclipse that of last year, when 3,000 people were at the park.

A number of special features will be presented. Ten dollars is to be given to the couple who will be married on the grandstand during the afternoon, marriage license free.

Other specials are : Gold watch race, catching greasy pig, pie-eating contest, climbing greasy pole, baby show, oldest couple on the grounds, largest family on grounds.

A base ball match will be played between the grocery employers and employes.

The 27th Regiment band will be in attendance afternoon and evening.

BAKERS' OFFICERS.

The Canadian Association of Master Bakers in session at London, Ont., Wednesday elected these officers : M. Bredin, president ; E. K. Barnesdale, F. J. Harris, Wm. West, A. H. Shouldis, vice-presidents ; H. E. Trent, secretary ; A. H. Carrick, treasurer.

"FOR YOUR CONVENIENCE."

The Canada Brokerage have issued to their customers a very neat morocco bound catalogue, price list and note book, combined "For your convenience," runs the little address (to the trade), "we give you herein particulars of some of the lines we handle, which we trust will of some help when ordering." Hundreds of lines and sorts are given with prices or space to fill in. The book cannot but be a handy attachment for a grocers' vest pocket.

EXHIBITION IN FRANCE.

Official notification has been received by the Chambre de Commerce, Montreal, of the International Maritime Exhibition which is to be held in Bordeaux, France, from May to November, 1907. Organized by the League Maritime Francais, the exhibition is under the official patronage of the French Government. The exposition will be open to all countries, and everything agricultural, industrial and artistic pertaining to maritime affairs will be on exhibition. An exhibition by Canadian shipping interests and industrial enterprises is invited.

THE BEAN CROP LARGER.

A Canadian Grocer correspondent, writing this week of the bean crop in the Dutton, West Lorn and Rodney districts of Southwestern Ontario, says :

"We never before had such a good prospect for the bean crop. The acreage is larger than usual and the prospect is better than ever before, although there may be wet weather for harvesting or something else to interfere. If not there will be more for market than ever before. I am not posted as to conditions further west, but I believe the prospect is good. I understand there are quite a few old beans held by some dealers.

DISCOVERY OF COFFEE.

Coffee was discovered in 1285 by a dervish named Hadji Omar, a native of the Town of Mocha—hence the familiar name.

Hadji Omar, lost in an Arabian desert, was dying of hunger, when he discovered some small, round berries. On trying to eat them he found, to his disgust, that they were extremely bitter.

Then he tried roasting them, and finally steeped a few thus roasted in water. Naturally this was coffee, and, though of the worst description, so agreeable did Hadji Omar find it, that as soon as he could make his way back to his native town he introduced his new drink to the wise men of the city, says Home Chat. So well pleased were they with it that the dervish was made a saint.

Jack Stewart, who though one of the youngsters is making a fine reputation for himself as a salesman, has left Warren Bros. & Co. to become the traveling salesman for Maconochie's goods throughout Ontario. Mr. Stewart learned the business with H. P. Eckardt & Co. and Warren Bros. & Co. His headquarters are now the MacLaren Imperial Cheese Co., Toronto, who have charge of Maconochie's business in America.

S. L. Marshall, of the MacLaren Imperial Cheese Co., spent a pleasant holiday at Burly Falls, near Stoney Lake, Ont. He acquired a fine coat of tan and has been trying with an apothecary's scales to ascertain if it has increased his weight. He thinks if he could have got more Maconochie's pickles he could have done better for his Cassius-like visage, but they were eaten up so fast that the hotel proprietor couldn't keep up his stock.

There are not many more experienced grocery travelers in Canada than James Owen, of the Warren Bros. & Co. staff. But his tea sales this month have surprised even himself. With the month only half gone he has four thousand pounds on his order book. He travels in Toronto, too. Now let all the unsophisticated young gentlemen who have learned the art of salesmanship stand back and wonder. And don't make any mistake; it wasn't Jim Owen who gave away the information. It was Jack Stewart, who hustles all over Ontario for Maconochie's goods and likes it, and likes them. Skidoo, youngsters.

THE MUSCULAR METHOD.

Business men who are discourteous to travelers are, I believe, comparatively few, notwithstanding the number of complaints which occasionally one hears from "Knights of the Grip." The merchant who is discourteous, in the long run, pays for it. Sometimes in one way, sometimes in another. He may not be conscious of it, but he has to "pay the piper" nevertheless. As a rule, it is by being ignored when what are commonly called snaps are to be offered by the travelers who have been the victims of the discourteous treatment. But occasionally physical force is resorted to by offended travelers. I heard of one recently. A traveler, whom I have known for a number of years, had occasion to call on a merchant with whom he had hitherto not had occasion to do business He entered his store, presented his card. Without even reading the latter the merchant threw it contemptously upon the floor. It was not that he had any grievance against the traveler, or the house he represented. He had never had any dealings with either. It was merely his way, the traveler afterwards learned, of treating travelers. My friend was naturally very much annoyed at the contemptous treatment which he had received. He is a man in the neighborhood of 70 years of age, but is still vigorous, and when insulted is not slow to resent it. The offending storekeeper was tall and much younger than my friend, but that did not make any difference to the latter. "I want you," he said, "to pick up my card." This enraged the merchant and he began jumping around, wildly gesticulating and saying he would kick my friend out unless he quickly got out. Undaunted the latter suddenly reached out and grabbed the merchant by the shirt collar, pressed his knuckles against his wind pipe, shoved his nose to the ground, holding it there until he had picked up the card and given it back to him. The traveler, of course, told his experience to his fellow travelers. That merchant for many a day had to bear a great deal of banter, and what was still more humiliating, he found it necessary to take into stock the line of goods which my friend's firm manufactured.

NICE FOR THE TRAVELERS.

The drummer is finding the automobile economical and effective in covering small towns in populous regions. Along the Jersey coast, this Spring, this sort of thing has been worked all to the good. Not only samples, but considerable stock may be conveyed to the saving of both fares and freight. And then think of the fun a fellow can get out of it. Put it straight to the old man and let us know when you start.—Confectioners' Journal.

MEAT INSPECTION.

The article from the Scottish Trader, of Glasgow, on another page of this issue dealing with the canned meat situation in Great Britain will repay thoughtful consideration by the grocers of Canada, the meat packers and the Government. To the grocer it suggests the possibility of effective action in the public interest of a wisely directed public-spirited, strong grocers' association and the high responsibility resting upon the retailer of foodstuffs To the packers and to the Government the deduction is glaringly obvious that to insure the ultimate success of the Canadian meat industry an effective system of Government inspection and guarantee is absolutely necessary.

In one of the largest retail grocery stores in Toronto, a store catering to the highest class of trade, the writer saw last night a single order including an assortment of three dozen cans of packed meat and mostly by American packers. The inference is clear that the scare of the meat scandal is fading away. In the same store another customer and a lady remarked in buying a case of Chicago meat, "We've eaten a good deal of it and liked it, and I guess some more won't kill us."

The campaign for effective Government supervision of canned and preserved meats in the United States, engineered by the president, has cost the packers a tidy sum in temporary decrease of business, will they not use the fact of that inspection in every way the keenest business minds of America can suggest to recoupe the temporary losses and increase business? Our Australian sister colonies have adopted strict Government supervision of foodstuffs; they are industriously advertising the fact in Great Britain. Danish meats are officially vouched for.

Then there is the danger that lurks at home. Recent history in the United States shows that the industry needs protection on the inside. A few unscrupulous men, greedy of immediate gains, could wreck the industry and inflict very severe losses upon manufacturers, dealers, farmers and a great army of wage earners. The Government owes it to the consuming public, to the meat industry, to the farmer and to the wage earners to deal effectively and speedily with the question of meat inspection.

COFFEE AND CURRENCY.

Brazil's valorization plan and fixing of exchange to assist the coffee industry are somewhat difficult of comprehension at this distance. At the root of the evil sought to be rectified appears to be the condition of the currency in the big South American republic. In an article on that subject the New York Journal of Commerce says :

A more serious drawback to the industry and trade of Brazil than the overproduction of coffee in certain states, and one of the causes of the difficulty of maintaining the coffee interest on a profitable basis, is the instability of the paper currency of the republic. Consul-General Anderson, in his report on the cost of coffee production and the lack of profit in exporting it, says : "So long as coffee is sold on a gold basis and is produced upon the basis of Brazil's paper money, the matter of exchange is the vital element in the situation. The fixing of this exchange, however, is the real gist of the present political and economic situation in Brazil. It is reasonably certain that the difference between profit and loss for the coffee producers at the present time is merely the difference between high and low exchange."

Associated with the scheme, of which we have been seeing so much lately in reports from Brazil, for the "valorization" of coffee, that is, for fixing a minimum price for export by having the Government buy out of the market whatever may be necessary for the purpose with money borrowed in Europe, is a plan for the "fixation of exchange." This has been postponed while the valorization scheme has been officially approved, because the present president was in favor of one and opposed to the other ; but it is expected that the new administration next Winter will take up the exchange question as a separate matter. The plan for accomplishing the "fixation" has not been made clear, but it appears to be analogous to that adopted for certain silver standard countries to guard against the effect of fluctuation in the price of that metal upon exchange with gold standard countries. But the problem is quite different and far more uncertain in its results, inasmuch as Brazil is nominally a gold standard country, but is using a paper currency under a suspension of specie payment, which makes it irredeemable. The fluctuation of such a currency is a much more serious matter than variations in the market price of silver, and it affects domestic calculations as well as foreign exchange. In business there has to be figured in profits a certain insurance against depreciation, and this makes prices higher than they would otherwise be. Interest rates are also made locally high, while foreign capital is deterred from investment in a country afflicted with that kind of a currency.

RUSSELL SAGE.

Russell Sage was a grocer. Fortunately all grocers are not Russell Sages or the rest of the world would have a poor chance. Now the earth wrapping of the great financier, cast aside at death's behest, is locked away in a $22,000 burglar-proof steel vault with electrical attachments to give an alarm should ghouls attempt the impossible.

Despite the deceitfulness of riches and the root of all evil, it is not hard to believe that the great money-lender had some assets where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt and where burglar-proofing is not thought of. Look at this motto of his :

. "The tender care of a good wife is the finest thing in the world."

The man who lived up to that and was a decent citizen brought no discredit to the trade from which he took his rise in life. There is an incalculable sum of misery in the world to-day because of the disregard of that teaching.

Another gift he bestowed was the example of a genius of thrift. Thrift is the sanest of all the virtues and the least attractive. So the precepts to its acquirement are upon every hand and are almost universally disregarded. Here was a man who practiced thrift with enthusiasm for ninety years and taught it epigramatically. Read these :

"When you have made your fortune it is time enough to think about spending it."

"A boy who knows bargains in socks makes a man who knows bargains in stocks."

"There is no such thing as a money curse. A good man cannot have too much money."

"The longer a man lives the more mistakes he may be counted upon to make."

"Clubs are only a place for idle men and wasteful young men."

"An active man builds success upon a foundation of failure ; passive man does not."

In a day debauched by loose and irregular living, his was a life systematic as a monk at prayers and rational as a definition of Euclid. This was how he stated his case :

"I take every day as it comes. My theory for long life is that temperance lengthens the days of all. Plenty of sleep and escape worry as much as possible. Worry and lack of rest break down the strongest of men."

He began his business career as errand boy in a retail grocery store in Albany, N.Y. Of course he soon owned the business. He and a partner entered the wholesale field and in a few years the partner retired with a handsome fortune and Sage went to Wall street. He is said to have lost in one dark day six millions, but at the call of the disrespecting reaper he abandoned a hundred millions to the keeping of the good woman the tender care of whom was his finest conception of living.

CANADA'S SPLENDID EXHIBIT.

A Grocers' Exhibition is to be held next month in the Agricultural Hall, London, Eng., under the auspices of the Grocers' Association of Great Britain. Special excursions of grocers to attend it are being arranged from all parts of England and Scotland.

Because of representations made by the agent-general of Victoria, Australia, in London, the Premier of that state is taking steps to have the food products of that state well represented at the exhibition. Extensive shipments of all kinds of agricultural products have been made.

Here is an interesting paragraph from an influential English grocery journal :

"We are pleased to learn, and we feel sure that our readers will also be interested to know, that the New Zealand Government have secured a large and important position in the forthcoming Grocery Exhibition at the Agricultural Hall for the purpose of displaying the various products which are imported by that country in the way of food. We understand that they will specially make a show of their tinned meats, etc.; and after the questions which have been asked in the House of Commons lately, and the satisfactory replies that the Colonial Secretary has been able to give to the same, in connection with tinned meats from New Zealand, we think grocers throughout the Kingdom would do well to make a thorough inspection and give a fair trial to tinned goods which are imported direct from a colony forming part of the British Empire."

What will the grocers of Great Britain see from Canada at their exhibition ? Has the Dominion Government, or any of the Canadian commercial agents in England, heard of it ?

CAUGHT IN THEIR OWN CORNER.

In the Spring of last year some Maryland canners conceived the idea of getting control of the canned tomatoes in the American market, boosting the price to their satisfaction and reaping the reward of shrewdness. A firm of brokers directed the buying campaign. By last February, when the situation was at its strongest, the syndicate got together more than 1,700,000 cases, or 3,400,000 dozen tins. The price when they started was 65c. Last June it was $1.20. In February a Baltimore broker offered the syndicate $1.10 for their entire holding, as it probably cost them about 90c. That would have netted the syndicate between $700,000 and $800,000. The offer was refused. They imagined tomatoes selling at $1.50. The jobbers not having been let into the game started to break the syndicate.

The big block of tomatoes was held together to within a week or two of the new pack in July. Then the market broke in one day from $1.10 to 85c. It subsequently recovered to 95c., then went back to 72½c.

To save themselves the bankers who had backed the members of the syndicate—the tomatoes as bought having been hypothecated for funds to buy more—formed a committee to handle the tomatoes and arrange for the selling of them in a way to guard themselves against loss. Later those in the syndicate formed a second committee to hold their creditors in check in order that the collapse of the corner might eat as little as possible into the cornerers' original capital. The bankers are hoping for bad tomatoe weather and early frosts to curtail the present pack and strengthen the market.

This deal was twice as large as any ever before attempted in Tomatoes. Success was proffered and rejected. They overstayed the market.

MONTREAL SHIPPING.

Montreal's export shipping business to August 1 this year has greatly exceeded that of the same period a year ago. Here are the figures :

	1906.	1905.
Wheat	5,796,000 bu.	2,609,000
Corn	1,615,000 bu.	2,887,000
Oats	997,000 bu.	1,223,000
Barley	368,000 bu.	599,000
Rye	25,000 bu.
Buckwheat	42,000 bu.	42,000
Flax	814,000 bu.
Flour	344,000 bbls.	127,000
Eggs	1,670 crates	1,230
Butter	127,000 boxes	178,000
Cheese	826,000 boxes	687,000
Lard	122,000 pkgs.	145,000
Meats	88,000 pkgs.	98,000
Hay	216,000 bales	124,000
Cattle	47,760 head	37,149

The notable increases are in wheat, flour, flax, cheese, hay and cattle. The falling off in meats and lard has been attributed to the Chicago packing house scandals, but it is due more probably to the decreased output of the packers, owing to high prices and short supplies of the raw product.

COTTON SEED AND SALAD OIL.

The Attorney-General of the State of New York has reversed his former decision and declared that cotton seed oil under the name "salad oil" is permitted by the food statute of that state. After his first decision that cotton seed oil was not salad oil, the cotton seed oil interests laid before him additional information and evidence and he admitted that "no particular oil, to the exclusion of all others, can claim the designation or distinctive name of 'salad oil.' "

Commenting on the cotton seed oil victory the National Provisioner says :

"Cotton seed oil was long ago proven, under modern refining methods, to be as wholesome, healthful and palatable a vegetable oil as any in existence, and there is no reason why olive oil—so-called—should any longer monopolize the right to the salad oil title. Food officials of other states should seek a little of the light that fell across the pathway of New York's Attorney-General."

SALMON PRICES.

On quoting prices on new pack salmon in last week's Grocer it was stated in error that these prices were issued by the Corby Commission Co., of New York. The prices were received from another quarter. Only the first brand quoted is put up by that firm.

Legislation on the problem of butter trade reform is overdue. The report (of the select Parliamentary committee) as was expected, recommends that nothing shall be sold under the name of butter that contains more than 16 per cent. of mixture. This is the Canadian legislation limit and it is eminently fair all round.—Scottish Trader.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Fluctuations.

Fish—Revised.

Montreal, Aug. 15, 1906.

This week the market for groceries generally is almost without feature. Very little that is new has to be recorded. Canned goods are not particularly interesting. Bookings at new prices are being made, but otherwise the market is quiet. Sugar is about the same as it was last week There has been no advance nor is one expected at present. Japan teas are interesting, this being perhaps the only line worthy of more than passing notice. Excellent values in Indian and Ceylon blacks are now offering while Ceylon and Indian greens continue high. In foreign dried fruits there is nothing new to report, except perhaps, that buyers are beginning to purchase different lines of nuts, etc. Coffees and spices are unchanged. New crop evaporated apples are being quoted, but no definite price can be given before the size of the crop is made known.

Conditions are reported as being very good, showing considerable improvement over last week.

CANNED GOODS—Activity in canned goods at present is not very great. As is usual during the warm Summer months, the public take to green vegetables and fruit in place of canned goods with a consequent falling off in the demand for this line. Staple lines are moving out as well as can be expected, while Fall future bookings in those lines for which new prices have been issued are going forward in a satisfactory manner. No prices have been given out on strawberries yet. There is a feeling in the trade that prices will be higher this year owing to the crops not being as satisfactory as it might have been.

SUGAR—Trade in sugar continues very good. The preserving season as far as berries are concerned, is pretty well over, but apples and plums, as well as peaches and such lines are still being put away by housekeepers. Consequently demand is by no means slack. Prices are very steadily maintained. At the present moment, despite what has been said around the trade, it does not look as if there would be any advance in the prices quoted.

TEA—Japan teas continue of special interest to those growers, but particularly so to those engaged in the tea business. Since last week prices have been very well maintained. Demand has been very fair, but offerings slight because tea houses possessing no stocks had none to offer. Under date of July 24, the Japan Tea Exporting Company say in their report: "Tea dust is briskly demanded in the interior. Its price has risen by leaps and bounds, and the stock of every sort of this class being nearly exhausted. Its market price in Japan is far higher than the selling figure in America." While Japan dust is not of paramount interest to Canadians, yet there is more or less inquiry for it, and the above extract may be taken as illustrating existing conditions in Japan. Increased arrivals of second crop leaves have not influenced the market as it was thought they would. A cable advice received early this week stated that no fannings were obtainable. Demand from Manchuria may be held largely responsible for this. Settlements at both Yokohama and Kobe are something like 23,000 piculs behind those of last year at this time. This shortage cannot be made up and as a consequence less tea will be exported this year Third crop teas, according to the circular above mentioned, judging by present trade in Japan will change hands at good prices, both at home and in an export way. Values in Indian and Ceylon blacks at present are particularly good Ceylon and Indian greens continue high.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS — The situation in foreign dried fruits remains almost unchanged since last week. Seeded raisins are in very good demand. Valencia raisins are rather quiet, stocks being pretty well cleaned up. Inquiry for currants is good, particularly cleaned, for which there seems to be a special demand on the part of the trade at the moment. The market in Greece, while fluctuating more or less, has not changed since last report. Nuts are moving out more freely. Buyers who have been holding off more or less on account of high and advancing prices are now coming to the front. Conditions are about the same as prevailed last week.

RICE AND TAPIOCA—Rice continues rather quiet. Some wholesale houses have booked for small lots to arrive next month. One jobber reported having placed an order for delivery September 5. This, he states, will be sold at 7½c. to 8c.

EVAPORATED APPLES — Evaporated apples, new crop, are now being quoted to jobbers. Orders are being booked for October and November delivery and some dealers are contracting with Old Country houses on speculation. Just what prices will rule eventually will be determined by the size of the crop. Meanwhile, since stocks are practically nil, quotations asked—15 1-2c. to 16c.—are purely nominal.

BEANS—Reports received by interested parties at present are more or less contradictory regarding the new crop. Some state that the continued dry weather is beginning to be felt, but prospects generally point to a very good crop. This week the market is a little stronger.

FLUCTUATIONS—
New prices on peas

Toronto, August 16, 1906.

The grocery trade is not suffering at all for lack of business in Ontario. The holidaying of travelers of course makes things a little quiet, but most houses report a good mail order trade in the interim. The new prices are out on peas and sago is firmer and the price has advanced to 7½c. A good business doing in rice and sago, but stocks of the latter are practically cleaned up. Otherwise prices are practically unchanged. Sugar is firm but the expectation of an advance has passed. There is not as much business doing as some jobbing houses expected. New prices on evaporated apples have been received and the new fruit when it arrives will go to the retailer at 8½c. to 9c.

CANNED GOODS—The new prices on peas have come out and now rule in the trade. What last year's stock is on hand is quoted at the new prices. There is not much of it and it is in no way inferior to the new pack, it is said. The new prices are a considerable advance on former quotations. This is due to the small crop.

SUGAR—Some wholesalers are a little disappointed at the comparatively small movement of sugar. The anticipated rise is no longer expected, but a decline is not looked for. The Scotch sugar on the market still seems to be a factor, and though prices in New York have made two advances of 10c. each since a step up was made here Canadian prices have remained unchanged. The refiners are said to be holding firm at present quotations.

The market for raws in New York is quiet and beet is a little off in Europe. Early in the week American refiners appeared to observe the attitude popularly known as "sitting on the market." In other words, the large buyers were not in the market for supplies at present values. They were encouraged to this position, to a certain extent, by the slightly easier markets for beets in Europe, and also by the fact that, as a rule, their immediate requirements are reasonably well supplied. There was, however, no indication of real weakness in the attitude of sellers. It is believed that New York secured 100,000 tons of European beet within the last four or five weeks. The world's visible supply, say Willett & Gray, is being constantly reduced to an important extent, the figures to-day showing only 469,422 tons increase over those of a year ago.

TEA—Trade locally is moderate and there is little new to report. Thompson's tea circular, London (Eng.), Aug. 2, says: "Although as far as British growths are concerned, the week has been without special feature, the comparative activity on the China market is noteworthy; here the new season's teas, admittedly superior in quality to the crops of the past two or three years, have been changing hands at a sharp advance in prices, many parcels bought to arrive being resold at satisfactory profits to their owners. The movement has been confined to the finer grades and appears to be the result of the cultivation of the taste for fine China growths amongst a certain section of the public. The improved quotations for Darjeeling teas this season may also possibly be taken in this connection." Offerings of Indian teas in London (Eng.) were nearly a third more for July than for July, 1905. For the lowest grades there is little market. Ceylon prices were also depressed on the strength of large deliveries.

COFFEE—Interest in the coffee world still centres about the valorization plan of the Government of Brazil and there is a vast range of opinion as to the probable results. Willett & Gray, New York, say:

"The valorization law is intended as a form of Government financial assistance to the planters all through the interior, in moving a portion of their crops when they have the greatest need to realize, a perfectly sound proposition and a commendable system of reform compared with the ruinous methods that have forced so many of the planters to sacrifice their product hitherto. The early operation of the Government plans will soon bring convincing results of the practicability of the same, and valorization may yet make and sustain prices for the crop. It is difficult to conceive that any valid objection can be raised to Government action in Brazil to protect its principal industry when all other countries have found the necessity for similar policy in one form or another.

"The coffee markets have been most unduly depressed for many months. Valorization has occasioned some new animation and in due time can be relied upon to have its own influence. Meanwhile it is advisable to consider coffee on its own intrinsic merits, justly entitled to a much better level of values—production is not equal to consumption, necessities of the trade are very acute and prospects for future crops a feature of great importance. It is undeniable that on the present scale of consumption of coffee the world requires every bag of the current crops. European port stocks are the smallest in several years, and the interior of Europe has never been so bare of supplies. Outside of New York itself (New York stocks have decreased one million bags in seven months), stocks in this country are meagre. A large buying and consuming capacity exists. The world must go to Brazil for supplies, and Brazil can be safely said to be in a position to dictate prices for her crops. On these facts alone the future for the article is exceedingly good and sufficient to stifle pessimism as to the paternal action of Brazil in trying to safeguard the interests of her planters."

DRIED FRUITS—There is fair business doing in currants and raisins and the market is practically bare of other lines save for a few prunes. A recent advice from the coast says seed raisins have advanced ¼c. owing to conditions in the San Joaquin Valley. Prices have been received by the wholesalers on new evaporated apples and when the fruit is available three or four weeks hence the price to retailers will be in the neighborhood of 8½c. to 9c.

W. G. A. Lambe & Co., importing brokers, report a little more business being done in prunes, wholesalers beginning to feel that prices have touched bottom. The new prunes will begin to arrive early in October. The California crop is large and prices are on a slightly lower level than last year.

N. B. MARKETS

St. John, N.B., Aug. 13, 1906.

There continues to be good business reported and payments are satisfactory. In general markets are firm. This is particularly true in canned goods. In pork products, and in fish, values are still high. Tourist travel is very heavy, the weather has been beautiful. A very great crowd went west on the harvester's excursion; four thousand in one day. While many return some stay. It seems there is some magic call, westward. It is difficult to understand, as chances were never better in the east for young men of the right kind. Even our farmers find it almost impossible to get help and in every line of work men are scarce. The man who stays east and determines to apply himself, has a great advantage over more than half of those going west.

OIL—Fall business has been largely booked as far as burning oil is concerned. Prices, particularly outside the city, tend higher. In order to protect the buyers from the tank wagon, prices in the city have not been changed. There is good steady business reported in lubricating oils. Paint oils hold firm, but there is small business. Cod oil comes to hand slowly. Price quite low, there being but a fair demand.

CANNED GOODS—Prices are very firm. Corn holds firm at the higher price, stock light. Tomatoes are high. Peas have been advanced, new being quoted. In fruits, gallon apples about out of the market. Strawberries and peaches held firm at full figures. Salmon firm at the high price. In domestic fish, sardines tend higher. There has been a good pack of haddies. Kippers are now being packed.

SALT—In Liverpool coarse salt there continues to be free arrivals and a steady sale, so that stocks are not large. Prices well maintained. In fine, a fair, steady sale.

GREEN FRUIT—Dealers are very busy. Bananas sell freely. Apples received are but fair; prices rather easier. Oranges are high. Lemons hold at full figures; good steady sale. Pears unchanged; stock received is not always the best. Peaches hold at fair figures. Some splendid plums (Californias) seen. In berries, large quantities of raspberries and blueberries are being shipped to the United States, wild berries chiefly for manufacturing.

SUGAR— Dealers continue to carry full stocks. The advanced still delayed but daily expected.

FISH—Salmon about done. A few mackerel seen. There are no shad. In dry fish, particularly codfish, prices firmer and likely to rule high. Pickled herring continue high. Smoked continue the one cheap line of fish. Business in boneless fish quiet at this season.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—In flour, Ontarios again lower; there is now about one dollar between them and Manitobas. It is thought this grade will have to drop off. In feed, very light offerings. Oatmeal and cornmeal unchanged. Oatmeal is still quite high. Beans unchanged, being rather dull. Yellow eyes, while unchanged are being reduced in stock.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS

Halifax, N.S., Aug. 4, 1906.

Prices in the Maritime grocery markets are steady throughout the list. Business is good all around and orders are coming in satisfactorily to the trade. Sales of sugar are good and they are expected to continue so while the preserving season lasts. The markets are well supplied with fruits and vegetables, but the price of the former is very high, $4 a box being quoted for California Bartletts. Plums are worth from $2.50 to $3, and peaches $2.50. American apples range from $4 to $4.50 and pears are $7 per barrel.

EGGS—Are advancing in price and the receipts are decreasing. There has been a very noticeable falling off in the receipts of Nova Scotia eggs, and the jobbers are at a loss to understand the situation. There are scarcely enough eggs coming on the market now to supply the local demand. Advices from points in the province are to the effect that eggs are very scarce and that the price quoted is unprecedented for the season of the year. Fresh eggs are now quoted here at 20c. and 22c., the latter figures being for the choicest quality.

BUTTER—The receipts of butter are also falling off, but this is accounted for by the farmers being busily engaged with hay making. There is plenty of butter in storage here and consequently the price is unchanged.

CHEESE—Cheese sold at a record price at a meeting of the Prince Edward Island Cheese Board, held at Charlottetown on Saturday. All the cheese herewith enumerated was listed and sold at 11¾c.: St. Peters, 87; Orwell, 90; Dundas, 120; Stanley Bridge, 200; Cornwall, 100; Lakeville, 120; Red Point, 80; Gowan Brae, 70; New Glasgow, 220; Union, 135; Kensington, 390; Hazelbrook, 80; Redhouse, 80; Hillsboro, 85; Hampton, 70. A cable was read, saying: "Montreal firm. English market firm and advancing. Montreal eastern, 11¾ to 12. Western 12 to 12½. Kingston sold 11⅞." The committee appointed at the last meeting to get reduced rates from the railway reported that nearly one-third reduction had been granted on the advanced rates.

WESTERN ASSOCIATION NEWS

"The Canadian Grocer" the Official Organ.
Address all communications for this department to THE CANADIAN GROCER, 511 Union Bank Building, Winnipeg, Man.

With the semi-annual convention an event of the past and the harvest at hand, it behooves association members and dealers who are in sympathy with the work of the organization to make active preparations for the proper handling of the Fall and Winter business.

It is too early yet to speak with positive assurance, but apparently the wheat crop this year is to be much the largest on record and the continued prosperity of the west is assured. That is the prosperity of the farmer, of the implement man, the builder and the grain man may be taken for granted. The prosperity of the country dealer can not be taken for granted; he must work out his own salvation in company with his fellow dealers.

Not Had Their Share.

In other years of big crops, the country dealers have not always had their share of the prevailing prosperity for the simple reason that they did not take advantage of their opportunity. When crops were large and money was plentiful they allowed their farmer debtors to play one dealer against the other and leave their store bills unpaid while buying more land.

Two Plans.

To meet this evil, the association have devised two plans, the debt collection forms with which members are familiar, and the association agreement to shut off all credit from November to April in localities in which this policy is agreed upon.

In order that either plan may be effective, it is necessary that the organization should be kept alive in local sections and that the trade should meet and form their own local sections in districts where there is now no organization. Now the secretary can not be expected to visit every section of the west for the purpose of effecting this local organization. Doubtless he will visit many parts of the west during the next two or three months, but dealers should not wait for his arrival. Local sections can easily be organized without his assistance.

When the local dealers have met together in a friendly way and have formed their own local section they can then discuss the adoption of either or both of the association plans for dealing with the credit evil.

Of Great Service.

Winnipeg dealers are finding the "delinquent list" of great service. Each member furnishes a list of his "bad pay" customers and the secretary sends out twice a month a revised list of "delinquents." Country dealers will not require the same elaborate machinery that is necessary in Winnipeg, but they can adapt the Winnipeg plan to their own district and at their meeting compile a list of delinquents. There is, of course, no agreement in Winnipeg or elsewhere not to extend credit to delinquents, but when a customer is known to be on the books of several stores for large amounts the dealer knows whether it is safe to extend him any credit.

Advantage of Forms.

In Winnipeg the collection forms are being used to great advantage, and they can be used equally well in the country. Dealers should write Mr. Coulson for them as they are supplied free of charge to paid-up members. It very seldom happens that a debtor who gets one of the association collection letters fails to make some arrangement for the settlement of his account.

A year ago a determined effort was made in a number of sections to shut off credit from November 1 to April 1. The plan met with considerable success in a number of sections and it is worth trying again. Preparations should be made well in advance. The Fall and Winter trade will be here in a few weeks and this is the time for association members to get busy.

MANITOBA MARKETS

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday, August 16, 1906.)

Interest centres at present in the new quotations in canned vegetables and fruits, which are being announced daily. Quotations are revised this week in several important items under the "canned goods" heading. With the beginning of harvest there is an increased demand for general grocery supplies and business continues very active.

CANNED GOODS—Quotations are revised this week in many items in the "canned goods" list. Tomatoes have been reduced to $2.80 per case in order to clear old stocks (held in Ontario) before the new is on the market. Peas have been advanced to $1.93 and $1.98 per case. Revised quotations will also be noted in raspberries, currants, cherries and beans. We quote:

B. C. MARKETS.

Local apples are just beginning to come in in good quality. The California Gravenstein still holds the market for a tempting table fruit. Bartlett pears of particularly fine quality are in plentiful supply. California peaches are also plentiful despite Okanagan competition. The plum supply from California is being supplanted by Oregon products, and some early local varieties are also coming in. The small fruits are practically out for the season, with the exception, of course, of the great blackberry, which is now on in good supply and excellent quality. Its poor shipping quality for long distances is very much against this splendid berry.

Butter and eggs of local production are somewhat higher this week. Continued dry, warm weather has told on the luscious pastureland of the Fraser Valley and butter production has fallen off so that price is up to 30c. per lb. Eggs, local, are 30c. per dozen for strictly fresh, wholesale; eastern eggs, 24c. for choice stock. Cheese is also up in sympathy with higher prices in Ontario. The quotation is now 15c.

CHINA AND GLASSWARE

Some Prevailing Fancies—Cut Glass and Why it is so Reasonable in Price—Some American Inventions—New Expensive China From Europe.

Time was when only the well-to-do could afford cut glass, but to-day, althought it is not common property by any means, it is more within the reach of the masses than ever before. "Look at this piece," said a dealer to a Canadian Grocer representative. "Ten years ago it would have cost you from five to six dollars to get a piece this size, but now you can buy it for two dollars and a half." Improved cutting machinery and greater proficiency on the part of the workmen are the reasons for the reduction in price in such a comparatively short time.

Little Imported Cut Glass.

Nearly all cut glass used in Canada to-day is made in this country, about the only articles imported being stem and tumbler goods for wine glasses and similar ware. Until comparatively few years back Canada imported most of her cut glass. What little was manufactured at home was largely imitative of imported goods, as is always the way at the beginning of things. To-day, however, some large establishments are engaged in the manufacture of cut glass, and turning out a class equal to the best that is made in other countries.

More Decoration Popular.

German and Austrian china is being largely imported into Canada at the expense of French ware. These lines are made in both dinner and tea sets, the feature about them being that more color is shown and the figures and floral designs are bolder and more striking. This tendency for more color and heavier designs is becoming more prevalent now in all lines of chinaware decorations.

While Canadian manufacturers have had excellent results in their cut glass manufacture, strange to say they have not met with even ordinary success so far in the manufacture of china. The principal trouble they experienced was the "crazing" of the surface. "Crazing" is the term used to designate the small cracks that spread in all directions over the surface of the ware. It was impossible to compete successfully with imported goods and make things go on account of the cheapness of European labor, and not knowing fully how to satisfactorily remedy the defects that the domestic ware was heir to. Thus the Canadian factories were compelled to turn their attention to the baser grades of pottery, such as brownware for coffee and tea pots and the cheaper household goods used in the kitchen.

The Satin Finish.

A new thing in pressed glassware this season is the satin finish. This is done by placing clay over the parts of the dish to be left clear and treating the other parts to certain acids. The result is a dull, soft finish of the stamped designs which, when seen through the clear glass, has a pretty effect.

Rubies and Gold.

The ruby and gold goods are also new on the market. They are unique, and for water sets and odd pieces are becoming very popular. The color and gold are burnt in the glass, and being smoothly finished over will withstand any treatment short of breaking without showing any difference in appearance.

The One Piece Lamp.

Both these latter lines are made in the States, and find a good market abroad as well as in Canada. The one-piece lamp is also an American innovation. Until a short time ago glass lamps had to be made in two pieces—the bowl separate from the stand. For years workmen have been trying to make this cast and have succeeded only recently. It means a stronger lamp, easier made and more sightly to look upon. In every line where hand work is required the Europeans have them beaten, but where ingenuity and the application of machinery can be brought to bear the Americans easily take the palm from their foreign competitors.

Popular Wedgewood.

Wedgewood, like the poor, we have always with us. This good old ware is still as fashionable as ever, and this year new designs are added and new creations found in which to manufacture it. Odd pieces will be much in evidence again this Winter for presentation goods.

Some Costly Bric-a-Brac.

In the more costly lines being brought out this year, Pilkington's Lancastrian pottery, Royal Doulton, Royal Crown Derby and the Amsterdam assortment are among the winners. The Lancastrian pottery runs chiefly to urns and vases, each hand-carved and decorated, with the name of the artist on every piece. The men employed at this work are masters of their craft, as can be readily seen by the quality of the work. The Royal Crown Derby is a line of smaller vases, boxes, caskets, etc., and is the most expensive of the new lines that have come in. They are hand-painted and gilded, each piece of an assortment showing a special design. The writer was shown one small piece about three and a half inches high, the price of which was $5.75. The Amsterdam assortment are of the opal class, decorated with quaint little Dutch figures. They come mostly in trays and boxes and are admired as soon as seen.

FRUIT GROWERS GET TOGETHER.

The Ontario Fruit Growers' Association was formed in Toronto this week with the following officers: President A. E. Sherrington, Walkerton; vice-presidents, B. Johnson, Forest; R. Thompson, St. Catharines, and W. H. Dempsey, Trenton; secretary-treasurer, A. B. Cutting, Toronto. It is made up of representatives of local co-operative growers' associations, and its object is to gather reliable crop and market news, and assist in marketing the crop of the members.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN.

The strength of the cheese situation, noted in our last report, has since developed further, and prices paid at country markets recently may truly be called "record breakers."

Sometimes history repeats itself, this year the conditions may be such, that the present high prices may rule right along and they may be advanced even further, but, in the history of the cheese trade, we find only one year or season nearly equal to our present condition, this was the year 1887, when July cheese sold above 12c. in the middle of August. Up to the middle of August of that year, the demand was so keen that the goods sold in Great Britain as quickly as they were landed, when all at once the demand dropped off. August cheese then sold at less than July's, and when no improvement in the demand came on, September cheese sold at lower prices even than August and in the Spring of 1888 many thousands of boxes of cheese were sold at ruinous prices.

We do not wish to predict a similar result for this year; perhaps the conditions are different now to what they were in 1887, but, with the exception of the year 1887, our present prices have never been equalled at this time of the year, and even in 1887 the prices ruling previously were very much lower than what they were this season.

So far we have nothing but "bull" arguments; we have had the canned meats scare, which has undoubtedly increased consumption of cheese, and we have had a long spell of drought, which has seriously affected the production of milk, against all this we have only one "bear" argument, which is the high prices ruling, and high prices are always a "danger signal" even in cases of famine. So far we cannot say that there are any positive signs of a famine, but as long as the British markets will take our goods at current prices, we cannot expect a decline, no matter how strongly the "danger signal" may be waved.

Last week's receipts in Montreal were 95,609 boxes of cheese and 22,747 packages of butter, against 100,055 boxes of cheese and 38,201 packages of butter for the corresponding week of last year, or a total since May 1 of 1,189,302 boxes of cheese and 368,589 packages of butter, as compared with 1,158,059 boxes of cheese and 438,125 packages of butter for the same period of last year.

The exports from Montreal were last week 83,987 boxes of cheese and 19,845 packages of butter, against 61,536 boxes of cheese and 34,487 packages of butter for the same week of last year, or a total since May 1 of 1,118,642 boxes of cheese and 193,382 packages of butter, as compared with 1,015,484 boxes of cheese and 295,050 packages of butter for the corresponding period of last year.

These figures show an increase in the receipts of cheese of 31,243 boxes and an increase in the shipments of 103,158 boxes, which means 71,915 boxes of cheese less in stock in Montreal than at this time last wear, the receipts of butter show a decrease of 69,536 packages and the exports show a decrease of 101,668 packages, or a natural increase in stocks in Montreal of 32,132 packages.

Taking the increase in receipts of cheese of 31,243 boxes against the decrease in receipts of butter of 69,536 packages, it means a very heavy decrease in the production of milk. Of course, present high prices will stimulate farmers to extra feeding of their stock, so that possibly the present shrinkage in the flow of milk may not be augmented, but after all the best the farmers can do is to keep the production of milk from further shrinkage as is is impossible to produce an increase.

As the weather gets cooler the milk becomes richer and it takes less milk to produce a pound of cheese than it does during hot weather and we may look for a fairly full make of Fall cheese, say August, September and October Then, if prices are kept high, farmers may insist on making cheese during the Winter months, which would naturally be of inferior quality, selling at lower prices and affecting the value of full grass goods, meaning possibly a lower level of prices next Spring.

After all, as long as the demand from the U. K. keeps up we cannot look for lower prices, if the demand falls off we must look for steadily declining markets. At present we are completely at sea about prognosticating the future. Prices, however, are high and dangerous for storing purposes.

PROVISION SITUATION.

Lower prices for live hogs and lower again next week is about the only change in the situation. This week the farmers are getting $7. That means the packers are paying $7.15 f.o.b. country points. That's what The Grocer predicted last week when the price was $7.40. Next week the price will be 15c. lower again.

The market on pork products is steady both at home and abroad and quotations are unchanged. In England, the advices say, Danish hogs are coming out more freely, which will have a tendency to weaken the market.

The American farmer is now getting 6c. for his hogs.

DANISH DAIRYING.

Dr. G. Van Ellbrecht, the Danish dairy expert in America studying dairy conditions and products for his Government, in a recent interview said :

"Canada, Australia and Ireland are our greatest competitors in the world's dairy markets. Regarding butter, I think we supply about 45 per cent. of the English market. You see, we are always in touch with that market. We have men there who study English tastes, and just as soon as the Englishman's taste changes the dairymen in Denmark know all about it. Then, again, we brand all our butter. Danish butter is put in a certain kind of tub. No country can imitate Danish butter. Two hundred million eggs were shipped to England last year from our country. You sell eggs by the twelves here, but we sell them by the 'sneg,' or by the

BUTTER MUST BE BUTTER.

English Laws Will Aim to Prevent Fraud—Imitation to be Open.

The British Government has recently issued as a Parliamentary paper a report of the select committee appointed to consider the conduct and control of the trade in butter and butter substitutes. The report was agreed upon unanimously, and makes suggestions to be embodied in legislation.

The London Times asserts that genuine dairy butter is a thing past praying for. Four-fifths of the population of London, the Times asserts, have never seen it in their lives. Those who know what it is have great difficulty in procuring it, and can not obtain it in many cases at any price. What is called genuine butter in London, the Times says, is blended and reworked butter. Its tough, tenacious texture is as different as possible from that of real dairy butter, and it is destitute of the subtle aroma of the genuine unworked butter. The Times says that both the imported butter and that made at home is generally blended butter. The Parliamentary committee propose that butter factories shall be registered, the registration to be renewable annually, and that inspectors shall be empowered to enter all such premises when they suspect that butter is reworked, blended, or adulterated. Adulterated butter must not be stored on such premises. With adequate penalties proportioned, as the committee proposes, to the magnitude of the output, some real check would be placed upon adulteration. Imported butter is to be met with not less stringent conditions.

It was shown before the committee by a firm that was prosecuted for the sale of adulterated Danish butter that they got off with a nominal penalty upon showing that they had ordered what is known as "control butter." This butter is guaranteed by the Danish Government. The committee propose that the importer shall be held responsible for the genuineness of the butter he sells without any regard for anybody else's warranty. No difficulty is put in the way of those who manufacture and sell imitations of butter openly and honestly. Those who want margarine will be free to buy it as such. But people who want butter and pay for butter are expected to get butter, and not mysterious mixtures. It is thought probable that the British Government will take favorable action on the report.—Consular Trade Reports.

COW TESTING.

More Interesting Comparisons—$3.50 per Month per Cow.

The reports of the cow testing associations continue to show interesting variations in yield.

Bagotville, Que., 15 herds, 250 cows, 30 days to July 16, average yield of milk 767 lbs., average yield of fat 27.6 lbs., average test 3.6 per cent. fat. The two largest herds, 34 and 37 cows, were above the average, showing careful selection. A herd of 18 cows had the highest average yield of milk, 920 lbs., but its average of butter fat, 31.1 lbs., was excelled by several others.

Princeton, Ont., 14 herds, 107 cows, 30 days ending July 14, average yield of milk, 722 lbs., average yield of fat 24.7 lbs., average test 3.4 per cent. The average of butter fat was 4 lbs. less than in June. One herd of 7 cows averaged 1,234 lbs. of milk and 41.4 lbs. fat. Another herd of 8 averaged 549 lbs. of milk and 18.3 lbs. of butter fat.

St. Edwidge, Que., 30 days to July 9, 29 herds, 307 cows, average yield of milk 725 lbs., average yield of fat 27.2 lbs., average test 3.7 per cent. This is the fourth test for this association and shows a steady improvement since April amounting on the average to 6.3 lbs. of fat per cow. One cow shows a yield of 50.8 lbs. of fat from 1,060 lbs. of milk. In one herd of 12 cows the lowest individual yield was 29.3 lbs. of fat and 770 lbs. of milk; in another herd of 5 cows the highest yield was 25.2 lbs. of fat from 700 lbs. of milk.

Lotbiniere, Que., 30 days ending July 16, 18 herds, 156 cows, average yield of milk 658 lbs., average yield of fat 24.9 lbs., average test 3.8 per cent. One herd of 10 cows averaged 13.4 lbs. of fat per cow more than another herd of 19. That means about $3.50 per cow per month.

Laterriere, Que., 30 days to July 9, 5 herds, 28 cows, average yield of milk 713 lbs., of fat 26.9 lbs., over per centage of fat 3.7.

Normandin, Que., 30 days ending July 9, 8 herds, 45 cows, average yield of milk 743 lbs., of fat 21.1 lbs., average test, 3.9 per cent.

These last two associations are in the Lake St. John district. The range is from 500 lbs. milk testing 3.8 to 1,140 lbs. testing 4.0 per cow. The average yield of butter fat taken by herds is from 23.3 lbs. to 34.7 lbs. This indicates that while there are good individual cows in this district, there is still room for judicious selection and "weeding out."

OPENING FOR CHICKENS.

Lausdale & Hall, produce brokers, Liverpool, Eng., in a letter to The Canadian Grocer say: "We are aware, as you say, that there are not very many poultry exporters in your country, but we believe that with the way your country is going on in trade, it will soon be a large business. We hope so, at any rate, as we dearly like here to have a shot at the American beef companies. They at present control the poultry business, and buyers are only too glad of a chance to buy outside them. Buyers inform us, however, that Canadian chickens are not quite so good as American, but no doubt in a year or two this will be rectified, as you good people, we notice, never let anyone get ahead of you if it is at all possible to prevent it."

D. H. Ross, Canadian commercial agent in Australia, reports that exports of butter from that colony to Great Britain are increasing in keeping with decreased freight rates, which have been halved. In 1905-6, 26,450 tons have been sent, the freight being £3 10s. a ton, as against £7 a ton in 1904-5. In the previous year the export was 24,000 tons.

The latest novelty from Japan is a new horse-radish which is of a delicate shade of green and mild flavor, as compared with the ordinary kind grown in this country. In Japan the vegetable is a favorite condiment with fish. The two-year-old roots are used, and the fresh leaves are also made into a kind of sauce.

Shipping Not Very Active—Changes in Flour and Some Other Rates—Little Larger Movement of Provisions—Seven Hundred Sacks of Rolled Oats to London.

Shipping has been rather quiet lately, not much activity prevailing in any quarter. Exports have not been large in various lines considered in the light of staples.

The price of cheese recently has been so abnormally high as to make export trade in this article anything but good. Shipments have been very much lower than usual. Canadian cheese is growing in favor on the other side and consequently importers are willing to pay a little more than they otherwise would.

In butter conditions are about unchanged since last report. Shipments have been fairly good, but not large. Outgoing boats destined for the Old Country have in most cases carried more or less of this article.

Rolled oats is a line which has been rather quiet lately. A shipment of over seven hundred sacks was made to London recently.

Provisions are looking up slightly, several lots of bacon, lard and other lines having been shipped.

Flour is still rather slow.

Grain shipments have been very good, Old Country markets taking considerable quantities. There is an improvement in the export hay market since last report, some very good lots having been shipped.

Manchester Commerce, Furness, Withy & Co., cleared for Manchester with a cargo August 10.

The Dominion liner Ottawa, for Liverpool, and the Latona, R. Reford & Co., for London, both with general cargoes, left the same day.

Flour rates are higher this week.

The above rates are exchanged on basis of $4.80 to £1 Stg., excepting that when freight is prepaid, the ocean proportion of the through rate must be collected on basis of $4.86 to the pound sterling.

If freight is offered other than specified above, on which steamship connections are accustomed to quote a weight or measurement rate at their option, prompt replies will be facilitated by giving, when applying for rate, the relative weight and measurement of the merchandise.

It is understood that when reporting Sack Flour engagements, a carload is considered 28,000 lbs.

It is also important that shipper's name be given for every engagement made.

NORTHERN CANNERIES ALL RIGHT.

Recently a section of the Fisheries Commission, now in British Columbia, inspected the Fraser River salmon canneries at the behest of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries and reported them sanitarily very satisfactory both as to condition and methods. Prof. Ed. E. Prince, Dominion Commissioner of Fisheries, and chairman of the commission, has returned from a trip up the north coast, and of the canneries up there he says:

"The canneries of Northern British Columbia, all of which with one exception I visited, are absolutely cleanly, and everywhere I found the greatest care exercised in the packing of salmon. The canneries, being right on the water, are always in a sanitary condition, and at all times and in all places I found that packing conditions could not be improved upon so far as cleanliness is concerned, or in any other way for that matter. I am glad to be able to state that the fish are packed under most healthful conditions. No person can ever say that having seen salmon canned one would not wish to eat it."

MARITIME GUILD OFFICERS.

The Maritime Grocers' Guild at a recent meeting in St. John, N.B., elected these officers: President, W. C. Cross, St. John; 1st vice-president, M. Dwyer, Halifax; 2nd vice-president, W. H. Dakin, Charlottetown. Mr. Cross is managing partner of Hall & Fairweather.

JAMS AND THEIR PURITY.

Results of Investigation by Analyst McGill, Ottawa.

Reporting the result of his examination of 182 samples of jams, jellies and marmalades, collected from Halifax to Vancouver, A. McGill, assistant to the chief analyst of the Inland Revenue Department, Ontario, states that 97 of them were "marked 'compound' with more or less distinctness," and that of the remaining 85, claiming to be genuine or sold without any statement to the contrary, 53 were found to be genuine, "leaving a balance of 32 samples regarding which the question of adulteration might be raised." Of the 85 samples, 44 contained preservatives, 29 dyes and 19 both preservatives and dyes.

Mr. McGill says:

"As regards preservatives and dyes I have contented myself with ascertaining the presence or absence of these without comment. We have no regulations which forbid their use, and it is quite probable that, so far as dyes are concerned, the minute quanities present are not more harmful to health than they would be in candy coloring. The chief objection that I find to the use of dyes in jams and jellies, is the fact that they serve to cover up defects in fruit, and thus permit the employment of inferior fruit in manufacture. It is also evident that the making of a so-called strawberry or raspberry jam from apple pulp, is only possible when the color is given by a dye.

"With regard to the quantity of fruit present in a jam, we have no standards which enable interpretation to be made from the amount of insoluble residue, nor is any ratio between fruit and sugar established by law.

"I would respectfully recommend that this very important subject be made a matter of investigation during the coming fruit season.

The Department of Agriculture at Washington has recently (March, 1906) adopted a ratio of not less than 45 lbs. of fruit for 55 pounds of sugar."

GET TOGETHER.

"Do many of the retail grocers you meet complain of wholesalers selling direct to consumers, especially boarding houses and restaurants?" was asked a Canadian Grocer representative the other day by a prominent Toronto merchant.

Some do, and the reply was to that effect.

"Well, do you know," he went on, "I used to be one of the kickers, but since having a good square talk with several wholesale men about it I have come to the conclusion that we're as much to blame as they are. For instance, if a retailer, who is dealing with a certain wholesale house, hears that he can get a certain line of goods a couple of cents cheaper by buying direct from the manufacturer, he passes his wholesale friend up and buys from the manufacturer, the wholesaler then loses this customer's trade to that extent. The wholesaler, to make up for this loss, thinks he is doing no more than right in dealing direct with the large consumer; and I think he's right there. Let the retailers get together and confer in a body with the wholesalers."

If grocers would join the Retail Grocers' Association they would get together, meet the wholesalers, and put an end to the heart burning. A widespread organization with proper aims would be a strong incentive to better storekeeping.

Grain Market Quiet—An Average of 19 Bushels to the Acre Predicted for the West—Big New Flour Mill in Manitoba—Notes of News

The impression seems to prevail that the wheat yield of the Canadian west is going to put the pessimists to the flush. Anyway, the grain trade is waiting for results and western wheat is a cent lower than a week ago.

Campbell & McLean, Winnipeg, concluding an estimate of an average crop of 19 bushels to the acre, to replace their 20 bushel estimate of a month ago, say: "We call an average of 20 bushels per acre a bumper, and 18 bushels a good crop. Taking a term of years, there will be a 16-bushel crop oftener than there will be a nineteen-bushel crop of wheat. It is yet too early to make crop estimates. We want to know what the thrashing machines will say."

The flour trade situation is unchanged. Prices are maintained and little trade is passing.

BIG FLOUR MILL OPENED.

Interesting Ceremony at St. Boniface, Man.—Capacity 6,000,000 Bushels a Year.

On the afternoon of August 9 the new St. Boniface, Man., mill of the Western Canada Flour Mills Co. was opened with impressive ceremonies. A special train from Winnipeg brought a large number of the representative business men of the Manitoba capital and the occasion was honored by the attendance of Premier Roblin and a number of prominent railway men. After the mill had been inspected by the guests, luncheon was served and the speech-making commenced. Andrew Kelly, president of the company, presided, and on his right was Premier Roblin and on his left Capel Tilt, president of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Other guests were Senator Kirchoffer; G. J. Bury, gen. supt. C. P. R.; F. W. Peters, gen. traffic manager of the C.P.R.; D. D. Mann, vice-president C.N.R.; Geo. H. Shaw, general traffic manager C.N.R.; James Pye, of Minneapolis, representing Nordyke & Morman; John S. Maxwell, John Hamburg, Peter Payne, Manager Weatherstone, of Bank of Hamilton; all of Brandon; Alderman Latimer, representing City of Winnipeg; Mayor A. Gauvin, of St. Boniface; W. A. Campbell, assistant local manager Ogilvies, and Will A. Matheson, of Lake of the Woods Milling Co.

The Opening.

After a few words of introduction Mr. Kelly called on Hon. Mr. Roblin to set the mill in motion; and the Premier, after thanking the president for the honor which had been conferred upon him, spoke of the conditions which had warranted the erection of such a plant. The addition of it to the manufacturing and milling industry of Winnipeg (as the speaker considered Winnipeg and St. Boniface practically one), marked an epoch in the history of the west. The time occupied in the construction, which was exactly twelve months, was in keeping with the enterprise of the directors and with the spirit of the west. The speaker was glad to learn from the president that the magnificent plant through which he had just been shown, was one of the finest in the world and certainly one of the largest under the British flag. The capacity was 4,000 barrels for every twenty-four hours, which meant that at least 6,000,000 bushels of wheat would be consumed annually, at a cost of four and a half or five million dollars. When these figures were taken into serious consideration it could easily be seen what the opening of such a plant meant not only to Winnipeg but to the west. Mr. Roblin noted that the flour milling industry of the west was centreing about the confluence of the two rivers. He hoped soon to see a sample grain market in the city which would mean a great advantage to the grain grower. The City of Minneapolis was to-day the chief grain city of the continent and one of the things which conduced to this importance besides the great manufacturing which was carried on was the fact of it having a sample market. There the producer receives a more proper consideration for his grain than he could under any other conditions.

Success Guaranteed.

The success of the mill was guaranteed by the quality of the grain which it would handle, the quality of which was known the world over. In speaking of the power used the speaker paid a compliment to the courage and foresight of the men who brought the power into the city, and he would be glad to hear of men with similar courage who would undertake to bring some of the surplus water from the Winnipeg River to the city. In speaking of the crop in the west the Premier said he would go better than his former statements and say that he believed that there was to-day in the west more than 100,000,000 bushels of Spring wheat. He referred to the custom at exhibitions of decorating articles with the motto, "Made in Canada," and said he would like to see them go further and use the motto "Produced in Winnipeg," so that wherever citizens should go they might be proud of the product of their city.

At the conclusion of his speech Mr. Roblin touched an electric button behind him and the wheels throughout the mill revolved and the Western Canada flour mill was in operation.

Speeches were also made by Capel

TRISCUIT is shredded whole wheat, made the same as Shredded Wheat Biscuit--except that it is compressed into a wafer and baked by electricity.

TRISCUIT is not a "breakfast food." It is a substitute for white flour bread and is used as a TOAST with butter, cheese or marmalades.

TRISCUIT is an ideal food for flat-dwellers, light house keepers, campers, for picnics, for excursions on land or on sea. The best of all wafers for chafing dish ookery.

TRISCUIT should always be heated in an oven before serving. It is made by The Canadian Shredded Wheat Company at Niagara Falls, Ont., makers of shredded wheat products. The TRISCUIT booklet is sent free.

A DREAM and a DRUMMER

A short time ago a grocer had a dream in which he saw himself the possessor of considerable cash.

Next morning he related his dream to a "Mrs. Rorer's Saratoga Chip" man whom he found at the store waiting to see him.

The traveller spoke thus:

"I'm sorry your dream isn't true. I'm willing to help you make it true. We'll call the goal a chain and I'll put the first link in it—Profits from the sales of MRS. RORER'S SARATOGA CHIPS in your store."

The grocer consented and lived happy ever after.

CEREAL NOTES.

The Farmers' Milling Elevator Co., Prince Albert, has been incorporated.

A $2,500,000 corporation has been formed in New Jersey to buy up all the macaroni factories in the States. The output is said to be 27,000,000 lbs. a day.

Gordon, Grant & Co., Trinidad, writing of the flour situation, says: "The last P. & B. steamer from Halifax again brought negligible supplies, and we fear that owing to Canadian brands having been so long out of the market some difficulty will be experienced in re-introducing them."

The Farmers' Elevator Co., Midale, Sask., has been incorporated.

The Peavy Elevator Co., of Minneapolis, one of the richest concerns in the Northwestern States is planning, it is said, to enter the Canadian business and erect several large elevators on the Hill lines.

WEST INDIA TRADE.

Interesting Exhibit at Toronto Exhibition—C. S. Pickford in Charge.

C. S. Pickford, of the Pickford & Black Steamship Co., has arrived in Toronto to arrange and take charge of a very interesting exhibit of West Indian products at the Industrial Exhibition. This has come to be one of the features of the great fair and this year's display promises to be more interesting than ever. Mr. Pickford has offices in the Board of Trade building.

A visitor at the Fair will be Sir Daniel Morris, commissioner for the West India Islands of the Imperial Department of Agriculture with headquarters at Barbadoes.

Mr. Pickford, speaking of the relations between Canada and the West Indies, said trade was steadily increasing in all lines. Imports into Canada had increased wonderfully owing to the sugar trade. Canadian soap was largely on the increase as an article of consumption in the islands. Canadian flour was used largely in Demarara and Barbadoes and was sold almost entirely on order.

The P. & B. Co. now have in commission the SS. Olenda, probably the finest vessel in the West Indian trade. She has accommodation for 80 first-class passengers and was formerly in the East India service.

LOOKING FOR CANADIAN BUSINESS.

George Hadrill, secretary of the Montreal Board of Trade, has returned to Montreal from the Old Country on the Dominion, of the Dominion line. Mr. Hadrill made the voyage to England as one of the Canadian delegates to the Sixth Congress of the Chambers of Commerce of the Empire. While not making the trip solely for business, yet he took an active interest in the progress of the congress.

Mr. Hadrill said that the Canadian delegates had taken no small part in the congress and had made a splendid impression.

Everything on the other side, he said, pointed towards prosperity. Trade was active and growing larger year by year. Business connections with Canada were eagerly sought after, the more so as British business men became aware of the splendid future before the Dominion. Everything possible was done by British trade to make the stay of the delegates a most pleasant and satisfactory one.

Quaker Sugar and Cream Corn

This is a line that every progressive grocer should get next to. It is packed from the finest Maine seed, with the ears all selected, with the cans well filled with corn and not with watery juice. We believe there is a future for an article of this class among the trade. There is corn and corn. No line of canned goods varies so much in quality as corn. Our Quaker Sugar and Cream Corn is not only a really high class article, something in which the goods are not only tip-top but a line that can always be depended upon for high and uniform quality. The reputation of the Quaker is behind these assertions. While the contents of a can are of more importance than the outside, it may not be amiss to say that these goods are sent out in very handsome embossed wrappers, far superior to anything we have yet seen from our competitors.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Various Apple Crop Opinions—Lemons and Oranges Advance—Fruit and Greenstuff Trade Active—Vegetable Prices Lower—News and Notes.

The fruit trade's immediate interest is the peach crop and beyond that the apple crop is engaging attention. Reports indicate a pretty average crop of peaches, sufficient to insure moderate prices, but no bargain sales. Apples, too, promise an average crop.

In the Toronto fruit market the other day a leading commission merchant called the attention of a Niagara grower to a lot of battered peach baskets.

"That's what the express companies give us," the commission man remarked. "A whole shipment like that. Day after a holiday and short handed I suppose. But you have a fine lot of agents across the lake."

This careless handling of fruit by unskilled hands is a continual grievance with the fruit men. The grower said he had seen train men shovelling up spilled peaches with coal shovels.

Both the growers, transportation companies, and retailers have yet a lot to learn about the fruit business. Take as an illustration, raspberries. They can't be washed, yet retailers will let them stand out on the sidewalk to gather the dust and filth of the street. A week ago The Grocer told of a progressive growers' experience and how careful, honest grading and guaranteeing his output had paid him handsomely.

All lines of vegetables are moving very freely and prices are lower. The fish trade is still quiet.

MONTREAL MARKETS.

GREEN FRUITS—Perhaps the feature of the fruit market this week is the sharp advance which has occurred in lemons. Last week they were quoted at $5, while to-day $6.25 is the price asked. Lemons are very scarce and higher figures would not surprise the trade. New apples are offered at prices ranging from $1.50 to $2. Bananas are enjoying very good sale at figures quoted. Valencia oranges are up since last report, as are also peaches and plums. Advices to hand say that the crop of Spanish onions is not as large as was expected. Consequently prices have been their lowest. Future shipments have been booked on a higher basis.
